Maryland Offers Benefits For Low-Income Taxpayers

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said more than 94,000 taxpayers have already claimed state earned income credits, totaling $24.5 million on their 1993 state income tax returns. Last year, 155,000 taxpayers claimed credits totahng $35.4 million on 1992 returns. "The EIC is one of the most important state tax breaks available for two-income families," Goldstein said.

The comptroller joined Congressman Benjamin L. Cardin (D-3rd) and Internal Revenue Service District Director Paul M. Harrington at an April 8 news conference to remind low income taxpayers of special tax breaks available to them. The news conference was held at the Maryland Committee for Children's offices in Baltimore.

Goldstein also noted that the state has a special poverty level tax break not available on federal tax returns.

Differences between Maryland and Federal Earned Income Credit

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that there are important differences between the federal earned income credit and its companion on the state tax form.

Like its federal counterpart, Maryland's earned income credit is available to workers whose earned or adjusted gross income was $23,050 or less and who maintained a home for a child or children for at least six months of the year.

Taxpayers are eligible for Maryland's earned income credit only if they are eligible for the earned income credit available on the federal return.

"If you're eligible, you can claim a Maryland credit of 50% of the earned income credit allowed on your federal return. This means you can reduce your Maryland income tax by up to $1,144 - or a refund of all state tax up to the amount withheld," Goldstein said. Unlike the federal earned income credit, the Maryland credit cannot result in a refund greater than the amount of tax withheld.

Some taxpayers mistakenly try to claim 100% of the federal credit on their Maryland return. "Remember - any mistake will only delay the processing of your refund," Goldstein said.

Poverty level benefit: Maryland Only

Another benefit that should not be overlooked by low-income families is the poverty level income deduction that is available only on the Maryland return, according to Goldstein.

Taxpayers whose earned income or federal adjusted gross income are less than the poverty level income for the number of exemptions claimed on their federal return may exclude some or all of their Maryland income from state taxation.

"We've included a worksheet in Instruction 13 of the state tax booklet to help you determine if you qualify for the poverty level tax break. All of our taxpayer service offices also provide free brochures explaining both the earned income credit and the poverty level benefit," Goldstein said.

The comptroller's Annapolis headquarters has received 1.2 million state income tax returns so far, out of the 2.2 million expected by the April 15th filing deadline.

He noted that his office has mailed 650,000 refund checks so far, averaging $404. About 70% of Maryland taxpayers receive refunds.

Last Minute Reminders

Goldstein offered these last-minute reminders for taxpayers still working on their Maryland income tax returns:

- Round all dollar figures.
- Write neatly as possible in blue or black ink.
- Use one staple to attach W-2's and other documents.
- Use the worksheet on Page 7 of the Maryland tax booklet instructions to calculate standard deduction.
- If itemizing deductions, attach a copy of federal Schedule A.
- If claiming the state child care benefit, attach a copy of whichever federal form filed to substantiate the child care expenses.
- Double check all calculations.
- Sign the return. If someone else prepared your return, have them sign also.

All 19 Maryland taxpayer service offices offer free state taxpayer assistance Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

On deadline day, Friday, April 15, all Maryland taxpayer service offices will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland taxpayer service offices are listed on the back of the state tax booklet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for free state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES. The statewide toll-free number for refund inquiries is 1-800-218-8160.

"THE BROTHERS" TO PERFORM - The Brothers gospel group from Front Royal, Va., will present a concert at the Selbysport United Methodist Church on Saturday, April 23, at 7:30 p.m. The church is located on the Friendsville-Addison Road. The group will also perform on Sunday, April 24, at St. John's Lutheran Church in Addison, Pa. This concert will begin at 7 p.m.

Single Parents Clinic Slated

A two and one-half hour seminar designed to address the unique circumstances of single parenthood will be held at the Oakland Church of the Nazarene on Friday, April 22, at 7 p.m.

According to Pastor Bruce Knorpp, the object of the clinic is to "allow single parents to share their struggles, feelings, and insights in an atmosphere of acceptance." It is offered free of charge to the public and will be held at the church, which is located at the corner of Alder and Eighth streets in Oakland.

Frozen Foods

HELP SOLVE THE DINNER DILEMMA

Everyone's familiar with the dinner dilemma: how do you feed a hungry, on-the-go family a balanced, satisfying meal without a lot of fuss? The answer may be closer than you think. In fact, it's as close as your freezer.

Busy families have long relied on the convenience of frozen foods to help get a meal on the table in minutes. The wide variety of entrees, side dishes, appetizers and desserts available also makes it possible to satisfy each person's individual tastes and appetites.

Now, with the new nutrition labels on frozen food packages, it will be easier to make sure you're feeding your family balanced meals. By putting information about calories, fat, saturated fat, cholesterol, sodium, protein, carbohydrates, sugars, dietary fiber, vitamins and minerals right at your fingertips, the new labels can help you make better informed decisions about your purchases.

For more complete information on the new label and labeling regulations, contact the Food and Drug Administration's Consumer Affairs Department in writing at: 5600 Fishers Lane (HFE-88), Rockville, MD 20857. You can also contact your local or regional FDA public affairs specialists or Cooperative Extension Service educators listed in the blue pages of your phone book. In addition, a registered dietitian in your area can help you answer your questions about the new label.

TEN TIME-SAVING TIPS

1. Soups can be very filling. There are a wide variety of soups in the frozen food section of the supermarket. Also, try stretching a soup by stirring in frozen vegetables.
2. Take advantage of different cooking methods. Some frozen food products can be heated in the oven, others on a stove top, and most can be microwaved. If you're serving several frozen dishes together, take advantage of all three cooking methods to get your meal on the table quickly.
3. Let your family pitch in. Even the "culinary challenged," from spouses to teenagers, know how to use the microwave and turn on the oven, so assign them dinner duty with frozen foods.
4. Cut down on clean-up by avoiding pots, pans and serving dishes. Spoon your frozen entrees and side dishes directly onto dinner plates, or eat them right out of the provided heat-and-serve trays.
5. Start your day on the right foot with a hot breakfast. From breakfast sandwiches to waffles, to toaster hash browns, to toasted bagels, the freezer is an ideal place for hot breakfast ideas.
6. Brown bag it. If you have access to a freezer and microwave at your office, frozen foods make ideal lunches.
7. Stretch your menu dollar. Unlike fresh products, frozen foods last a very long time in your freezer. Get your money's worth by stocking up on frozen breads, frozen fruits and frozen vegetables.
8. Get your "5 a Day." The government recommends that we eat 2-4 servings of fruits and 3-5 servings of vegetables each day. So stir frozen vegetables into soups and sauces, and dress up desserts with frozen fruits, like raspberries and strawberries.
9. Make your meal a trip around the world. The wide variety of ethnic frozen foods can be a welcome change of pace. Try Mexican and Indian in addition to Italian and Chinese.
10. Don't forget dessert. From turnovers to cheesecake, rely on your freezer case for delectable dessert choices. Also look to frozen pie shells, puff pastry and dessert shells to help you create your favorite family recipes. No matter what you choose, you're sure to save time.

Start with a Simple Menu

Want more menu ideas? The American Frozen Food Institute has put together a free brochure with menus and additional information on how frozen foods and the new nutrition labels can help you plan balanced meals. Just send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: AFFI menus, c/o Creamer Dickson Basford, 1633 Broadway, 27th Floor, New York, NY 10019.

Whether you're preparing a meal for a constantly hungry teen, an executive on the-go, a waist watcher or all three, a few frozen foods can make meal preparations a snap. Here's a "menu makeover" to show you how.

Start with a simple menu. We've chosen a popular lasagna dinner that's sure to please. For each person, the basic menu looks like this:

DINNER MENU

- 1 serving of a frozen lasagna entree
- 1 cup tossed salad
- 1 whole wheat dinner roll
- 1 cup frozen broccoli spears, steamed
- 1/2 cup frozen raspberries, thawed

Now, you can customize the menu for each person's tastes and appetites.

For those with hearty appetites at your table, make sure there are extra rolls and vegetables on the table, along with a substantial dessert.

HEARTY APPETITE

- 1 serving of a frozen lasagna entree
- 1 cup tossed salad with 1 tablespoon Italian dressing
- 2 cups (2 servings) broccoli, salt and pepper to taste
- 2 whole wheat dinner rolls
- 1 serving coconut custard pie with 1 cup thawed frozen raspberries

For weight conscious diners, serve a low-fat lasagna entree and keep reduced-calorie salad dressing on hand. Serve a low-fat dessert that's satisfying, such as thawed frozen raspberries with frozen yogurt.

WEIGHT CONSCIOUS

- 1 serving of a low-fat frozen lasagna entree
- 1 cup tossed salad with 1 tablespoon reduced-calorie dressing
- 1 cup broccoli, sprinkled with lemon juice and garlic powder
- 1 whole wheat dinner roll
- 1/2 cup vanilla frozen yogurt with 1 cup thawed frozen raspberries

For the executive on-the-go who enjoys new tastes, look for simple ways to make the menu more innovative. Jazz up the broccoli by adding lemon juice, garlic powder and sesame seeds. Add chocolate shavings to frozen raspberries and yogurt.

EXECUTIVE ON-THE-GO

- 1 serving of a frozen lasagna entree
- 1 cup tossed salad with 1 tablespoon creamy buttermilk dressing
- 1 cup broccoli, sprinkled with lemon juice, garlic powder and 1 teaspoon sesame seeds
- 1 whole wheat dinner roll
- 1/2 cup vanilla frozen yogurt with thawed frozen raspberries, topped with 1 teaspoon chocolate shavings

Zion Women Of ELCA Convene

Women of the ELCA of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on April 5, with an attendance of seven.

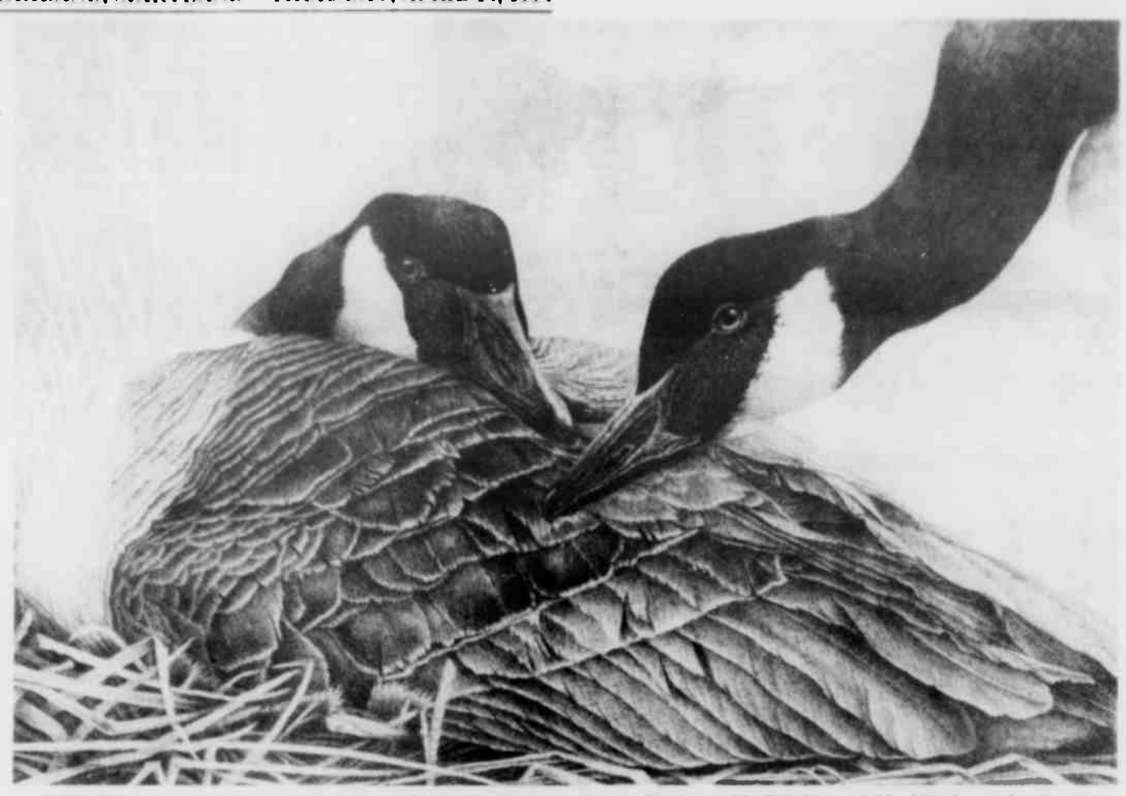
The study theme, "Witnesses to the Kingdom," was led by Leota Baker. The program introduced the group to witness and evangelization, and encouraged them to "explore a balanced approach to living out and sharing the gospel with others." Life situations were examined and devotions included a litany and a Bible study, "Commissioned to Witness."

Ruthella Resh presided over the business meeting.

Announcement was made of the Monongahela Valley-Mountain Cluster meeting which will be held at St. Johanne's Lutheran Church, New Milton, W.Va., on April 30. The theme for the day will be "Mission People in Action." The morning speaker will be Lori Janssen. In the afternoon there will be a presentation by the Mission Action Committee of Grace Lutheran Church in Fairmont, W.Va.

The W.Va.-Md. Synodical convention of Women of the ELCA will convene July 15-16 at John XXII Pastoral Center, in Charleston, W.Va. The theme will be, "Challenge, Choice, Change."

Although meetings were canceled from January through March, service projects were continued. A total of 20 baby quilts were made for distribution on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation; chair pads and bibs were sent to Pendleton Nursing Home in Franklin, W.Va.; and invalid gowns and bibs are being made for the Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa. Canceled postage stamps have been collected for the stamp club of the National Lutheran Home, Rockville.



Beatrice Glotfelty and Julius Gilpin have been memorialized through offerings received from family and members of Zion's unit. These offerings were forwarded to Women of the ELCA church-wide for specific ministries.

The quarterly offering has been sent to the American Bible Society.

The next meeting is scheduled for May 3.

Raffle Winner Noted

The quilt drawing at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church was held on April 1. The winner of the quilt was Betsy Downer Gergoff, Oakland.

FIDELITY is the name of this original piece of artwork featuring Canada geese, created by local artist Ken Bauer, and it is one of five pieces of Bauer's work that will be on display at the Montserrat Gallery in New York City, April 20-May 7. Bauer, owner of Lake Ford Studio along Cranesville Road, was invited to show his work in this group exhibition by Marie Montserrat, owner of the gallery. He will also be a guest at a champaign reception at the gallery, located at 584 Broadway Ave., next Thursday, April 21, from 6 to 8 p.m. Three different mediums by Bauer will be on display, with Fidelity and Sky Window (nighthawk) a mixture of pencil, colored pencil, and watercolor, Simultaneity (red tailed hawks) and Down To It (white breasted nuthatch) entirely in pencil; and Spaceful Day (American kestrel) in water soluble pastels, a new medium for Bauer. "I use them dry and build them up in layers to arrive at the various hues I want in a picture," Bauer said. "They are soft enough to blend with the fingers, yet do not smear at the slightest touch. They are a very workable, permanent medium, and vibrant, too."

Clean Water Act Rewrite Headed For Subcommittee In House

A Clean Water Act reauthorization bill is scheduled to be marked up April 18 in the House Public Works Subcommittee on Water Resources and the Environment.

H.R. 3948, sponsored by Reps. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.) and Sherwood Boehlert (R-N.Y.), will be the markup vehicle. Mineta chairs the Public Works Committee and Boehlert is the ranking Republican on the water resources subcommittee.

The subcommittee is expected to mark up a wetlands reform proposal at the same time. Mineta plans to offer a draft wetlands bill for consideration, and Rep. Jimmy Hayes (D-La.), also a member of the subcommittee, will offer the Farm Bureau-supported wetlands bill (H.R. 1330).

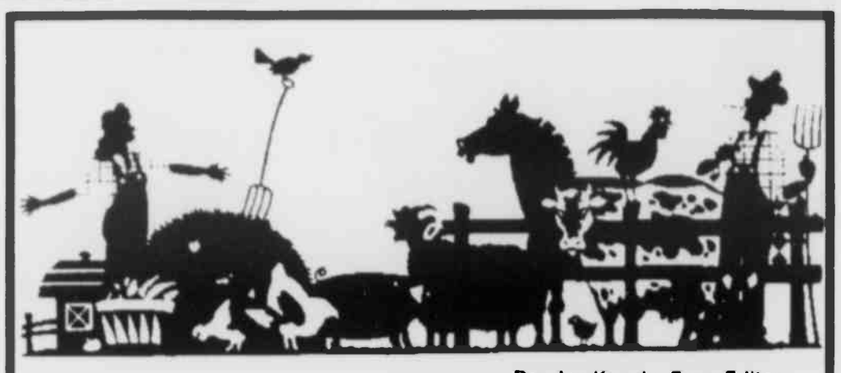
Farm Bureau has a number of concerns about the Mineta-Boehlert bill, according to Mark Maslyn, an American Farm Bureau Federation governmental relations director.

"It's an extremely harsh and punitive piece of legislation for farmers and ranchers," Maslyn said. "It ignores progress made to date and renders moot many of the conservation programs in place today under USDA."

Maslyn said the proposal "supersedes the historical cooperative partnership between farmers and the various USDA agencies. The Environmental Protection Agency, through state water agencies, will set the terms and conditions for farm plans and have primary enforcement authority."

Under the Mineta-Boehlert bill, every farm and ranch-regardless of location and the current condition of water quality-is required to have a comprehensive water quality plan approved by the state. Each plan must conform to a list of soil, water, nutrient and land use best management practices developed by EPA. The proposal raises penalties to $100,000 per day per violation. It authorizes and funds citizen monitoring, strengthens citizen suits and provides a "bounty hunter" reward for citizen-reported violations that are successfully enforced.

It requires all waters to be assessed every five years and a new round of management measures implemented if water quality standards are not met. Future rounds of BMPs are likely since EPA will be developing new water quality criteria for standard setting concurrently with the implementation of the first round BMPs, Maslyn said.



"In short, farm management plans will be chasing a moving and increasingly stringent set of standards," he noted.

The Mineta-Boehlert bill fails to recognize that non-point source runoff does not pose the same acute threat to health and the environment that point source pollution does, Maslyn said.

"It is a manageable problem, not a crisis," he said. "The tremendous investment in conservation made by farmers over the last decade is not credited, nor is it understood that time is required for these efforts to produce water quality improvements."

The bill will impose extensive unfunded mandates with serious economic implications for family farms and ranches, Maslyn added.

Farming In Maryland.....

Clinton Signs Guidelines Law

President Clinton last week signed into law legislation that will delay implementation of new farm worker pesticide protection standards.

The new law will defer activation of the Environmental Protection Agency's farm worker pesticide protection guidelines until Jan. 1, 1995. Farm Bureau supported the nine-month delay from the original implementation date of April 15, 1994, because EPA guidelines for implementation and enforcement o the standards were not up to speed. EPA failed to develop and distribute, in a timely manner, training materials on the steps needed for complete compliance with the new standards.

Farm Bureau contends that farmers who use agriculture chemicals must be told how to comply with the new regulations before they could be subject to penalties. Before the signing of this bill, farmers would have been forced to comply with standards that they were not fully aware of.

"We applaud Congress and the president for their approval of this bill," said American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner. "This delay will give EPA the time needed to determine the full impact of the new standards on farmers and ranchers, their operations and their employees. At this point, farmers have not been told how to implement required measures in order to comply with the standards."

The new regulations will require that strict safety precautions be taken by farm workers when using and applying pesticides, including wearing protective suits, helmets and respirators. Farmers will be required to train employees about the chemicals they are using and restrict access to all chemically treated areas of farms. The guidelines also will require the posting of signs warning of pesticide applications at all entrances to treated farms and fields.

EPA will continue to develop training and implementation materials over the next few months. Enforcement guidelines will be developed and distributed to state environmental field officials to train those personnel on proper standards enforcement.

Sen. Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), a sponsor of the Senate bill to delay the implementation, said he was delighted with the president's decision to sign the bill. Cochran said the delay will benefit farmers and ranchers by giving them the opportunity to fully understand the ramifications of the EPA guidelines.

Producers Reminded Of IFM Option

Producers who wish to adopt resource-conserving crop rotation may want to consider enrolling in the Integrated Farm Management Program option. The IFM option is available during the regular sign-up period which ends April 29.

Grant Buntrock, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said IFM allows producers to protect base acreage, payment yields and program payments while following an integrated, multi-year farm management plan relying on resource-conserving crop rotations.

This year's provisions allow producers to enroll crop-specific bases in the program. Resource-conserving crops are legumes, legume-grass and legume-small grain mixtures, combinations of the three and industrial and other crops. Full details are available at county ASCS offices, Buntrock said.

W.Va. Property Measure Passes

An amendment that calls for the protection of private property rights was included in a bill reorganizing West Virginia's Division of Environmental Protection (DEP). The measure was recently signed into law by West Virginia Governor Gaston Caperton.

The amendment, which requires a written assessment by DEP whenever private property rights are affected, was strongly supported by the West Virginia Farm Bureau.

Although weakened by various compromises made necessary by the legislative process, the amendment has greatly heightened awareness of the private property issue in the state, according to West Virginia Farm Bureau President Fred Butler.

"It should at least cause the state's environmental regulatory agency to exercise caution when developing new rules and regulations," Butler said. During the controversy that arose over the amendment, he added, "many of the state's legislators were made aware for the first time of how important these issues are to the property owners who elect them to office."

The amendment requires DEP to prepare an assessment when new regulations impact property owners. It must include identification of risk, effects on other property owners, how the regulation addresses the risk, how such an action has been interpreted in other cases relative to constitutional protection, alternatives to the action, and the estimated cost to compensate landowners should "takings" occur.

Ag Program Offers Hands-On Teacher Training

The Maryland Ag in the Classroom Program will offer two hands-on training programs for teachers of grades K-12 this summer. The "Maryland Ag Teachers Association Summer Technical Update Workshop," held July 6-8, brings past participants of the Ag in the Classroom Program together with high school agriscience teachers for three days of hands-on learning. In-service credit is given to participants.

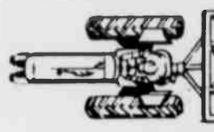
The "Summer Workshop," scheduled for July 18-22, focuses on ways to integrate agricultural concepts into curricula. Participants receive two in-service credits from the Maryland State Department of Education. The application deadline is June 1 for both workshops, however, due to space limitations, interested persons should apply as soon as possible. For more information, contact the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation at (410) 752-0671.

Farm Bureau Produces New Farm Video

The Maryland Farm Bureau and the American Farm Bureau Federation have produced a new video entitled, "Maryland Farmers--Professionals from the Ground Up." The 15-minute presentation highlights what Maryland farmers are doing to protect the Chesapeake Bay. To order, those interested should send $4 to the Maryland Farm Bureau, Inc., 8930 Liberty Road, Randallstown, MD 21133 or call (410) 922-3426.

Maryland Signs Agriculture Partnership With Bulgaria

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced the signing of an Agreement of Friendly Partnership in Agriculture between the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Ministry of Agriculture and Food of Bulgaria. Secretary Walker met with the Bulgarian Minister of Agriculture Georgi Tanev February 22 at his office in Annapolis where the signing took place.



"We are pleased to join hands with our friends in Bulgaria to work toward the growth of our agricultural industries. Bulgaria is committed to the development of a free market economy and democratic institutions and the people of Maryland want to help them make this transition to democracy a success," Walker said.

"The people of Bulgaria and Maryland share common interests in the production of agriculture and the processing of food products. We in Bulgaria look upon this agreement as a way of developing permanent cooperation," said Tanev.

The agreement calls on the two parties to identify technical assistance projects, trade and investment opportunities, and exchange programs of mutual interest.

"I believe this partnership will promote trade and benefit the economies of both Maryland and Bulgaria," Walker said. Maryland is a national leader in developing agreements for agricultural cooperation with the emerging democracies of Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. For example, Maryland has similar agreements in place with several of the republics of the former Soviet Union including Russia, Ukraine and Mairy-El as well as Romania. These partnerships have resulted in exchanges of information and people including students, professors, farmers, aquaculture specialists and food enterprise managers.

Moisture Delays Field Progress

Through the week ending April 10, Maryland farmers were delayed in getting spring field preparation and plantings completed because of excessive moisture in fields.

Cool temperatures and well above normal rain this year have prevented farm operators from fertilizing wheat and from plowing fields for spring plantings. Temperatures have been an average of two degrees below normal and precipitation is over seven inches above normal from the beginning of the year. Some areas are reporting small grain acreage loss because of flooded fields. Frigid temperatures and ice in late January caused fruit tree damage and killed buds on peach and cherry trees.

Topsoil moisture rating was 20 percent adequate and 80 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 27 percent adequate and 73 percent surplus. Conditions allowed an average of only 2.9 days suitable for fieldwork during the week, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Pasture feed averaged in good condition. Small grains were rated in mostly fair to good condition. Sweet pea and sweet potato planting are ahead of last year but behind normal.

Maryland's progress for the week ending April 10 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Planting progress: corn for grain, 0, 2, 1; sweet corn, 0, 1, 2; potato, 0, 11, 31. Fruit bloom, apples, 2, 0, 14; peaches, 9, 3, 47; strawberries, 0, 0, 12.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending April 8 had abnormal temperatures and below normal precipitation. Temperatures averaged 53.9 degrees, 4.1 degrees above the normal of 49.8 degrees for the April 2-8 period. Minimum temperatures ranged from 18 degrees at Oakland to 38 at Royal Oak, but generally in the mid 30's. Maximum temperatures ranged from 68 degrees at Wye Research Center to 76 at Patuxent Naval Air Station and generally in the low 70's. Precipitation averaged 0.57 inch, 0.28 inch below the normal of 0.85. Precipitation ranged from 0.03 inch in Cumberland to 0.90 inch at Salisbury. Regional rainfall averages were: western, 0.29; north central, 0.53; southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.69; and Eastern Shore, 0.68 inch.

Workshop Offered On Rural Income Opportunities

Sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia and the Small Business Development Center, the workshop will be held Saturday, April 16, at the Center for Career and Technical Education in Cresaptown, just five miles south of Cumberland on Rt. 220.

The workshop will help prospective entrepreneurs and producers looking to diversify get started by providing them with information on how to produce, market and finance a variety of non-traditional products and services. Topics discussed will include: Fee Fishing, Bed & Breakfasts, Greenhouse Crops, Mushroom and Ginseng production and much more.

A $12 registration fee includes lunch, morning coffee and donuts, break beverages and informational materials. Pre-registration is required and is being handled by the Alleghany County Cooperative Extension Office. Those interested should call this office (301) 724-3320 to register by phone.

Creep Feeding Beef Calves

You may want to consider providing some supplemental, palatable, high energy grain (creep feed) to nursing calves this spring. Strong calf prices relative to grain prices can provide an opportunity to improve the net return on weaned calves later this year. As a rule, expected weaned calf prices should be 10 times (10X) greater than the cost of the creep feed (per pound) to prove profitable (7-10 pounds creep/lb. calf grain).

Creep feeding calves helps reduce the energy demand on the cow herd and should result in cows that cycle and re-breed sooner. As well, creep feeding can be expected to result in calves that are 25-50 pounds heavier at weaning. Some caution is necessary when creep feeding is used with smaller framed calves and heifer calves that may be selected later for herd replacements as these two groups of calves may gain excess fat and have a lower lifetime productivity. This problem can be overcome in large part by adjusting the makeup of the creep feed to provide a controlled energy level.

Creep rations usually consist of some combination of corn, oats and barley. As oats are increased, the energy level is decreased. A mixture of 50 percent whole oats and 50 percent shelled corn may be a good starting point. Expect the average feed consumption to be about ½ lb./day for calves 1-2 months of age and as high as 4-5 lbs./day for calves 4-6 months of age. One additional method of creep feeding that should be mentioned is "creep grazing." When cows and calves go to spring pasture and grazing is controlled, it is possible to construct small calf gates or adjust the cross-wire heights to let the young calves graze the lush new grass ahead of the cows. This method of creep feeding is inexpensive and highly successful.

Spring Grazing Cautions

Extra care and management will be necessary when the cow herd is turned out to lush, green, rapidly growing spring pasture. The first concern that comes to mind is grass tetany. Grass tetany is a metabolic disorder frequently observed during early spring grazing of cool-season grasses. Affected cows are in an excitable state, may have erect ears, grind their teeth and may appear uncoordinated in the early stages of the disorder. Death is usually the result and is often very sudden. Magnesium deficiency is the cause and pasture high in nitrogen and potassium and low in magnesium offer the greatest danger. Some simple management practices can prevent grass tetany. Begin feeding a mineral with supplemental magnesium (MgO) now and continue through May and mid-June. The mineral supplement should be available in several locations and should be palatable and kept fresh. A mixture containing 20-30 percent MgO should be sufficient. Never turn cattle onto spring pasture with empty stomachs. Feed a legume-grass hay free choice and restrict grazing time for the first week to allow the animals to adapt to the pasture.

BST Poll Shows Public Acceptance

A Gallup Organization poll taken in February showed that awareness of BST and its use of produce milk increased to nearly 63 percent, up from 28 percent in a November survey. The poll of about 1,000 customers showed that consumer acceptance of milk appears to have remained the same. The survey, conducted through the Dairy Coalition that includes the International Dairy Foods Association and the National Milk Producers Federation, showed that about 1-2 percent of the public will stop buying milk because of questions about BST. USDA, however, reported a 0.05 percent increase in milk sales over 1993.

Pianist/Composer Scott Cossu To Perform At FSU

The Frostburg State University Cultural Event Series and WFWM radio station is sponsoring Windham Hill pianist/composer, Scott Cossu, on Saturday, April 30, at 8 p.m. in the Drama Theater of the Performing Arts Center. This program was made possible by a grant from the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the Maryland State Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

After being struck by a car in 1989 and suffering traumatic brain injury, Cossu not only survived, but within 18 months of the accident, he had collaborated on new music and was performing once again in concert. Cossu was left without sight in his right eye and with significant memory loss. He explained, "Music was a language that I didn't understand, it was like learning how to talk again."

At the time of his accident, Cossu was about to embark on a 40-city world tour. Since then he has recorded his eighth album, Stained Glass Memories, with such previous collaborators as guitarist Van Manakas, flutist Dave Valentin, bassist Mark Egan, and drummer Robbie Ameen.

Since the release of his first album, Still Moments, in 1980, and through such subsequent albums as Wind Dance, Islands, Reunion, She Describes Infinity and Switchboard, critics say Cossu has "defined his own musical direction, in which many paths converge into something wholly original." Born in West Virginia in 1951, he grew up in Ohio as a child of both classical music and rock and roll. Cossu studied classical piano, music theory, and composition at the University of Ohio. He describes his major inspirations as Beethoven, Bach and Pink Floyd, with nods to The Beatles, the Doors and B.B. King as well. In 1974, Cossu began studying ethnomusicology at the University of Washington.

Along with his many records and tour appearances, Cossu has emerged himself in dozens of other projects: he composed music for a David Maysles film, Islands; he scored documentaries and industrial films for various companies; he hosted "Wind Dance," a weekly syndicated radio show; and has recently resumed teaching piano and workshops about the music business and cultures of the world.

Cossu says, "When you go to one of my concerts, you should come away feeling inspired, whether that's inspiration about music or about your own life. There should be some gem inside the music that makes you feel good that you got a chance to hear it."

Tickets will be on sale at Main Street Books, Frostburg, the University Lane Center Information desk and The Book Center, Cumberland. For more information on ticket sales, persons may contact the University Lane Center Information desk at (301) 689-4411.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

MCC, Students To Participate In "Trees" Project

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR's) Maryland Conservation Corps (MCC) will be participating in "Trees in Schools Project." During the week of April 18-22, MCC will visit 5,000 school children and distribute 10,000 pine tree seedlings for planting in local communities.

Corps members have been organizing their presentations for sixth grade students in many schools around the state. The MCC crews, one located in Potomac/Garrett State Forest, provides job training, employability skills, community service, and academic enrichment for economically and educationally disadvantaged youth between the ages of 18 and 25.

In Garrett County, MCC members will visit Northern and Southern Middle schools. They will communicate the advantages of tree planting, not only for the environment, but to beautify communities and benefit the Chesapeake Bay. Students will receive a certificate, "I am a Forester," from the DNR for their contribution in planting seedlings to benefit Maryland's future environment.

This project, coordinated with Tree-Mendous Maryland, is a part of the MCC's efforts for Youth Serve America Day, Environment Day, and Arbor Day. The program's activities have been incorporated into the "Treasures of the Chesapeake" program for increasing environmental awareness for the Chesapeake Bay this spring.

The year-round MCC program, sponsored by the DNR State Forest and Park Service, funded under a federal grant from the Corporation for National and Community Service, focuses on community service, stewardship for the environment, and supporting school programs.

Wilt Is Named An Eagle Scout

Shawn P. Wilt, 16, Salisbury, Pa., was named an Eagle Scout by District Justice Robert M. Philson in a ceremony sponsored by the Salisbury Lions Club on April 14.

A member of Boy Scout Troop 140, Wilt is the son of former Garrett County resident Kenneth R. Wilt and Jean Wilt, Spanish teacher at Northern High School. He is the grandson of Mary Belle Wilt, Jennings, and the late Paul Wilt. Wilt's scoutmaster is Fred Haselbarth.

Wilt's Eagle project was to devise a 45-minute walking hunter safety course with 12 animal decoys of steel and fiberglass to help prepare inexperienced hunters. The course is located at the old Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) Camp in Salisbury. The course teaches young hunters to "think before they act." Hunters are given the responsibility of a gun, loaded with blanks, and then directed to follow a path through rough, steep woodlands, over rocky streams, on posted and fenced property and even to confront a landowner. Close to 50 hunters have already been tested on this course.

Wilt also received the Somerset County Sportsmen's League Hunter/Trapper Award for 1994 at a banquet attended by 400 sportsmen and their families.

Shawn's older brother, Ken, received his Eagle Scout in 1992 for constructing a handicapped accessible path and deck at Baughman Rocks on Mount Davis, the highest point in Pennsylvania.

Low-Interest Mortgage Loans Now Available

Governor William Donald Schaefer today announced that $61.2 million in low-interest mortgage loans is available for income-eligible Maryland homebuyers through the state's Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP).

"The Maryland Mortgage Program already has helped more than 33,000 low- and moderate-income families realize their dreams of homeownership," said Governor Schaefer. "This time we have permanently increased the income limits for families and the maximum house purchase price so that even more eligible Marylanders can benefit from the program."

Now, to qualify for an MMP 30-year, fixed rate mortgage loan, individuals may earn up to $40,250 a year and families up to $47,785. Maximum purchase price is $110,000 for newly constructed or existing units including semi-detached houses and townhouses, condominiums acceptable to the mortgage insurer, and modular homes if they meet the state's code requirements. Although MMP has had higher income and purchase price limits in the past, the higher limits were offered on a one-time, special basis as opposed to this offering's permanent increase.

Two interest rates have been established for the program based on household income. The interest rate is 6.25 percent for people earning $30,200 or less a year. Those earning more than $30,200 a year up to the program's maximum income limit will pay 6.75 percent interest.

The MMP is administered by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's Community Development Administration, which recently issued tax-exempt revenue bonds to finance the program. Most MMP eligible people are purchasing their first homes with the loan, but it is not always required that applicants be first-time buyers.

To apply, interested persons must first have a signed sales contract on a qualifying home before contacting a participating lending institution. Borrowers must also make their sales contracts contingent upon receiving financing through the MMP.

This round of MMP funding also is marking a series of related program changes that will make it easier for marginal buyers to apply to DHCD's homeownership programs. If an MMP applicant is having trouble meeting settlement expenses, he or she is encouraged to inquire about the newly re-opened Settlement Expense Loan Program (SELP) which is offered in conjunction with MMP. This program allows participants with income less than $30,200 to borrow up to $5,000 for 10 years at five percent interest to help meet settlement expenses.

Applicants to SELP will benefit from recent changes to DHCD's Maryland Housing Fund (MHF) underwriting guidelines which could permit a more flexible debt ratio for SELP applicants. Approximately two thirds of MMP loans are insured by the Fund. Other changes to MHF guidelines that will encourage access to DHCD homeownership programs include permitting applicant family members to donate all or part of the cash down payment required for a home through the use of a gift letter, and allowing applicants to borrow against retirement accounts.

Both SELP and MMP are administered through participating lenders throughout Maryland. For a program brochure and list of participating lenders, persons may call the Homeownership Programs office toll-free 1-800-638-7781.

GARRETT COUNTY

State Discharge Permit Modification 93-DP-1422A. NPDES Permit Modification MD0055182A. Mettiki Coal Corporation, Route 3, Box 124A, Deer Park, Maryland 21550, operates an underground coal mine three miles south of Table Rock on the Kempton Table Rock Road. The current permit authorizes the discharge of approximately six million gallons per day of wastewater from the underground mine and related surface facilities to Chestnut Ridge Run, an unnamed tributary to Laurel Run, and the North and South forks of Sand Run, which are protected for public water supply and the propagation of trout. A written request for modification was received on January 6, 1994. The permittee proposes to raise trout in the final pond of the plant acid mine drainage treatment system.

TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Modify the permit (at Outfall 002) to authorize the permittee to raise trout in the final polishing pond of the acid mine drainage treatment system. Existing effluent limits (pH range of 6.0 to 9.0 and total suspended solids of 30 mg/1 average and 45 mg/1 daily maximum) address any effects of this operation and are sufficient to protect the quality of the receiving stream.

State Renewing Efforts To Buy Riverfront Land

With its fiscal status once again in check, the State of Maryland is renewing its efforts to purchase land along the Youghiogheny River through Program Open Space monies in the amount of $2.7 million, according to reports.

The state is reportedly looking at a number of parcels which must first be approved by the Board of Public Works, as well as the individual property owners, some of whom have already stated they would not be interested in selling because the state is only interested in purchasing riverfront acreage from them. Without that portion of the property, the value would decrease, say some owners.

The state has not purchased land at the river since 1989. Between May 1988 and October 1989, a total of $1.36 million was spent to buy 10 parcels. The purchases are made by the state as part of the effort to preserve greenways.

State ownership versus private ownership is still a controversial subject in Garrett County, as is the issue of public access. Both topics are being addressed in the over 150-page man-

"AT LONG LAST, WE'RE FINALLY HERE" was probably the sentiment on many minds last Friday as a Buffalo Coal helicopter landed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, bringing an injured Russian woman closer to relief from a 10-month-old hip injury. Anatassia Yakoclevna Nosova, a 73-year-old retired Russian economist, would not have received the surgery she needed in her home country, and through the efforts of numerous people - headed up by Edward Pool, a Kingwood resident, and by Mrs. Nosova's daughter, Anna - she was delivered to the local hospital and on Tuesday underwent successful surgery by Dr. David Tuel and Dr. Dona Alvarez. The road to recovery has been long and painful for the patient, and the determination of her family and friends in bringing her to the U.S. has probably saved her life. See story. Pictured above left to right are Pool, Southern Rescue Squad member Hazel Stewart, Mrs. Nosova being aided by an unidentified hospital employee, and Miss Anna Nosova (carrying crutch).

Barn Destroyed By Fire Labeled As "Suspicious"

A fire determined to be of a suspicious nature Saturday evening destroyed a barn located along Cranesville Road about two miles west of the Youghiogheny Mountain Club.

Some 65 fire fighters and units from Friendsville, Oakland, Terra Alta, Deer Park, Deep Creek, and Accident responded to the 8:38 p.m. incident and, upon arrival, found the 40-by-80' barn fully involved in flames. The structure, which was owned by former Garrett County District Court Judge Jack R. Turney, was filled with large round bales of hay, according to Deputy Fire Marshal Faron Taylor.

Taylor estimated the loss to be $30,000. There was no livestock in the barn at the time of the blaze.

Fire units remained on the scene for several hours and then were called back Sunday afternoon when it rekindled. Also responding to the original alarm was the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Taylor said his investigation into the incident is continuing.

Oakland Woman Is Charged With Child Abuse

An Oakland woman has been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office with two counts of child abuse and two counts of battery. Kathleen Capan Meyers, 32, was arrested last week after she allegedly injured a 15-year-old boy and a 13-year-old girl.

Meyers is accused of striking the boy with her fists and a broomstick, and of hitting the girl several times with her fists. Both teenagers were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated for injuries and released.

Meyers was released on her own recognizance pending a trial, according to the police report.

In other sheriff's office news, two men were arrested on the strength of warrants and numerous DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests were logged by officers.

Roger L. Strawser, 27, Mountain Lake Park, was arrested on numerous counts. He has been charged with malicious destruction of property,

McHenry Man Is Charged With 15 Theft Counts

A McHenry man has been arrested on 15 counts of theft involving embezzlement, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Everett L. Carr Jr., 46, was arrested this week by the sheriff's office and charged with six counts of felony theft and nine counts of misdemeanor theft.

According to the police report, Carr is accused of embezzling $13,000-14,000 from the Lakewood Council of Owners, the governing board for the Lakewood Resort condominiums. The alleged embezzlement took place nearly a year ago, according to a sheriff's office detective, and an investigation has been underway for several months.

The investigation is continuing, the detective said, and other charges are pending against Carr.

CHINESE DELEGATION VISITS METTIKI - Culture to Culture International recently sponsored a visit and underground tour at Mettiki Coal Company mines near Kempton for 18 mining delegates from China. The purpose was to enable the visitors to observe a modern USA coal mining operation with an emphasis on safety practices underground. Visiting the property with the delegates were MSHA District Manager Tim Thompson, MSHA Chief of Engineering Services Pat Brady, and Art Guty and Carroll Ensminger, MSHA inspectors. Conducting the tour were Mettiki officials Tom Wynne, general manager of operations; H.A. Johnson, safety coordinator; Mike Harvey, longwall coordinator, and Jody Theriot, health and safety manager. While underground, the group traveled to the longwall section of Mettiki, where they observed the new $11 million longwall shields in operation, the 10-butt miner section, and the wide tear-down room. One visitor from China said he had mined for 30 years, but had never seen such modern technology. He explained that mining in China is very manual, unsafe, and possesses no modern equipment to assist in production. Mettiki officials said they hoped the visitors would be able to take back information from Mettiki that would benefit mining operations in China.

Ailing Russian Citizen Receives Overdue Relief At Local Hospital

By Mary S. McEwen

After over 10 months of excruciating pain, a 14-hour flight from Russia to the United States, and a unnerving helicopter ride, Russian native Mrs. Anatassia Yakoclevna Nosova has finally received the care she has needed and deserved. That care was provided at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she underwent surgery on Tuesday for a broken hip.

The journey has been long and arduous for Mrs. Nosova, as it has been for her only child, Anna Vlamirovna Nosova, and her husband. Through the commendable efforts of several area people, Mrs. Nosova has been treated for her injury and the prospect of full recovery is good. How she came to be treated in this country, in this state, in this county is a tale of the goodness and perseverance of ordinary people.

The ordeal began in June of last year as Mrs. Nosova, a 73-year-old retired economist, was gardening at her family's summer home in Russia. She felt a sharp pain in her right hip, and fell to the ground. Her daughter, who is the manager of a Russian branch of an American business, contacted the local hospital. As is customary in Russia, a "therapist" came to the home to make a diagnosis. The therapist concluded that Mrs. Nosova had some nerve discomfort and prescribed pain medication. For four months, the Russian woman suffered terrible pain, swallowing great amounts of the medication, which would in turn cause her to endure asthmatic attacks.

In September, when she could not withstand the discomfort any longer, she contacted the local hospital again. Finally the medical officials agreed to x-ray the hip - nearly four months after the original injury. The suspicions of the family were confirmed as the physicians announced that the hip was broken. This was dreaded news, because according to Miss Nosova, unwritten policy in Russia is this: after 70 years of age, very few people are eligible for any kind of surgery. She said the third leading cause of death in Russia, after cancer and heart disease, is untreated broken hip injuries. When one over age 70 has such an injury, which is rather common, he or she will most likely die of it eventually. Even though money would not have been a problem for the family, the unwritten policy applied to Mrs. Nosova as it does for nearly every Russian citizen.

This was completely unacceptable to the family. Mrs. Nosova is a vital, bright, intelligent woman,

Thanos Family Appeal Request Is Denied

A Prince George's County judge ruled last week that the mother and sister of convicted murderer John F. Thanos do not have the "legal standing" to file for a death sentence appeal. The two family members testified that Thanos, 44, is not mentally competent to make decisions about his case, but the judge disagreed and denied the appeal request.

Thanos is to be executed sometime during the week of May 16, having been convicted of killing three teenagers in the summer of 1990. He was convicted in Garrett County Circuit Court of two of those killings last year. He has been sentenced to die by both the local court and one in St. Mary's County, but repeated appeals by the public defense has delayed the execution several times.

Thanos himself has not requested any appeals to the sentences. If he is executed in May, his will be the first execution in Maryland since 1961.

Garrett County Fares Well In State Capital Improvement Appropriations

Amid widespread criticism that the Maryland General Assembly, in large part, accomplished little this year -- failing to pass bills that seemed too controversial to tackle during an election year -- District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has reported that he "feels satisfied" with the session's accomplishments, especially in light of the fact that Garrett County has "done very well" in acquiring money for its operating and capital budgets.

Edwards was especially pleased that he was successful in attracting an allocation of some $5 million, half of which will be utilized at Deep Creek Lake State Park for soil erosion control work and the other half for construction of a nature center and an amphitheatre at the park.

A sum of approximately $1 million was awarded for the nature center, and approximately $500,000 will be utilized for the outdoor amphitheater project. The funds are being obtained through Program Open Space, and a county contribution will not be required.

Edwards stated that he was successful in obtaining an increase for the amphitheatre project, after only about $3[illegible],000 had been approved initially.

Bids from seven companies for the preliminary design work for the two projects are scheduled to be received by early May, according to reports. The nature center has been envisioned as a 6,400 square foot log building and the amphitheatre will include a stage for orchestral or theatrical productions.

Also at Deep Creek Lake State Park, $32,000 will be granted from the state to improve the water system.

The county fared well with other capital improvement projects as well, particularly in being granted funds for the addition of six new classrooms at Northern High School. That addition will include two science labs. In fact, said Edwards, the Maryland Board of Public Works this week approved $127,000 toward that project.

The addition of the classrooms will help accommodate the growing student population there and will aid in science and technology instruction. Construction is scheduled to begin in the summer of 1995, according to reports. The total project cost is estimated at between $750,000 and $775,000.

Garrett Community College will receive $203,000 for roof replacement,

Pa. Man Injured After Tractor-Trailer Overturns

A Utica, Pa., man was admitted to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., Saturday after the tractor-trailer he was operating on I-68 near Friendsville, ran off the road, traveled into the median and overturned. He was initially listed in "fair" condition, but has since been released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

According to reports filed by Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Roger Wilkinson, 25, was driving the rig for Gainey Transport Service of Indiana, Inc., when he reported ly fell asleep just before 6 a.m. He was trapped in the vehicle until 7:24 a.m.

Wilkinson was flown to the Morgantown hospital by HealthNet helicopter. In addition to the state police, others dispatched to the scene were the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department, and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Attempts were made to remove the vehicle, but the non-hazardous ore in the trailer spilled out. The westbound lane of I-68 was closed from 6 a.m. until 2:52 p.m., when the interstate was opened to one-lane traffic.

After the ore in powder form spilled, the Maryland State Hazardous Response Team, Maryland Department of the Environment and the State Highway Administration were dispatched, as were local fire departments and rescue squads, and the state police Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division. Because of gusting winds, the ore was covered by a tarp so the material would not be spread.

A private trucking company was called to the scene to load and transport the material. The area remained one lane until late Sunday evening.

FALLS ASLEEP

Another tractor-trailer operator fell asleep while traveling on I-68 near Bear Creek Monday morning.

Sam Coleman, 37, Fayetteville, N.C., driving a 1992 International tractor-trailer owned by J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. of Oklahoma City, Okla., was not injured when the vehicle crossed onto the right shoulder of the interstate, struck a guardrail and overturned, according to state police reports.

Coleman was charged with a traffic violation following the 6:22 a.m. mishap, and MSP note an investigation is underway to determine whether he had exceeded his daily driving time limit.

LISTED AS "STABLE"

A Mtn. Lake Park woman remains hospitalized, listed in "stable" condition at Ruby Memorial Hospital, following a Sunday morning mishap in Friendsville.

Patricia A. Beeman, 20, was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Richard D. Beeman, 21, on Md. Rt. 42, near the ramp to I-68, when a car driven by Peggy J. Pritt, 53, Charleston, W.Va., pulled into the path of the Beeman vehicle. A report filed by Maryland State Po-

Grantsville Man Pleads Guilty To Sex Offense

A Grantsville man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court to fourth degree sexual offense and Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the plea. A presentence investigation was then ordered for Michael W. Wilburn, 32, who is accused of forcing a 17-year-old female to have sexual relations with him.

Wilburn was also originally charged with second degree rape and assault and battery, but these charges were not prosecuted. The incident is alleged to have occurred on August 24, 1993, when the defendant was driving the victim home. He reportedly drove to a vacant spot and attempted to force the girl into having sex. When she tried to leave the car, according to the original police report, Wilburn threatened to run over her with the car. He then is accused to have sexually molested her.

The defendant had temporary responsibility of the teenager at the time of the WINTER GUARD CAPTURES TWO FIRST PLACE TROPHIES - The Garrett Girls, a winter guard comprised of students from Southern and Northern high schools, captured first place trophies at two competitions last Saturday, winning the top placement in their class as well as overall. The guard topped several other competitors at a Westmar High contest and at one hosted by Frankfort. The girls will travel to McGuffy High School in Pennsylvania this Saturday, April 23, and in two weeks to the regional championships in Walkersville. GCC Trustees Meet With School Board; Discuss Standards, Concerns

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees met Tuesday evening at the college's Continuing Education Center. Prior to the regular agenda, a joint dinner meeting was conducted with the Garrett County Board of Education to discuss standards at GCC that may also be of interest to the education board.

GCC President Dr. Stephen Herman talked about concerns at the college. He noted approximately 80 percent of the student body comes from Garrett County schools, and praised the quality of students who graduate from the county school system. However, he stated problems are surfacing with respect to education. In Garrett County, as well as the rest of the nation, students are not ready to meet their counterparts around the world. Students from other countries are coming out of their high schools far better prepared than from schools in the United States. Many students according to Herman, are not being challenged in education in America.

A questionnaire filled out by students prior to taking their SAT exams indicate that in 1972, 28.4 percent of the students reported they had A or B averages. In 1993, 85 percent reported they had A or B averages. And, according to Herman, the same kind of grade inflation is granted at the college level as well. The grade has come to mean less and less. "When a student gets an A, it is hard to know what that means," he said. "The sense of proportion, the scale by which people are graded, has been lost." GCC sees students come with fewer and fewer of the work ethics that were seen in past years. Some school systems no longer assign homework, but have reading homework in class and, "it's tragic because it's a waste of important time," he added.

Another concern being confronted at GCC is the problem of cheating. Again, according to Herman, this is not exclusive to GCC, but is a problem at institutions all over the nation. "My guess is it's less so in Garrett County because of the kind of moral upbringing our youngsters get," he said, but the problem still remains.

Herman indicated some people have lost sight of what education is for; some see it as a ticket for employment. Today, more than ever, students must develop their minds...jobs are changing and it is a continuous race to outdo the competition. Jobs today will be different tomorrow. The school system must train people with flexible minds to adapt to changing work conditions, he said.

Herman noted the GCC Board of Trustees and the Garrett County Board of Education share a good relationship, and work together as well as any community of educators; they share the same feelings and attitudes. He is hopeful that by working together they can do some important things. Some stands taken by GCC include: placement testing (what level of reading, writing and computation a student is currently working at); mandated developmental studies (studies a student must take at GCC, in addition to the regular core of studies, with none of those studies counting toward a degree); implementing a new grading system; a requirement for students to attend eight academic enrichment activities in order to graduate; the possibility of instituting an exit graduation examination; and a tough academic honesty policy.

The college is concerned that because it is getting tougher on mandated developmental studies, it may drive some students away. They can go somewhere else to get a shortcut education. Herman stated the community college has a responsibility and it needs to discharge that responsibility and cross a line, and say, "This is where the erosion of the standards stops." The next step, he said, is to work until GCC's students are competitive anywhere in the world.

Following Dr. Herman's remarks, GCC Board Chairman Charles Bender introduced Superintendent of Garrett County Schools Jerome Ryscavage, and Assistant Superintendent Albert Coviello, who noted they would like to see the schools get back to basics. The schools, they said, are in the process of implementing a tech prep program which puts students in one of four levels: job entry; community college; trade school; or a four-year college. Eighth graders in Garrett County will be getting information about high school and tech programs next school year, and will have to begin looking at choices they will have to make. They will have to decide, "Where do I fit?" "What do I want?" "Where am I heading?"

The school system has developed a course development program for K-12 students and plans to implement a K-14 program, to work in conjunction with GCC, to get students thinking, at an early age, about what they're interested in. The tech prep program, according to Coviello, is a way of getting people from school into the work force.

In addition to Dr. Ryscavage and Coviello, board of education members present at the meeting were Hannah Sincell, Beverly Murphy, Charlotte Sebold and Bryan Paugh. Not present for the meeting was board member Mikal McCartney.

Following the joint meeting, the board of trustees and GCC's director of information services, Don Storck, showed the board of education members the college's new interactive video classroom, featuring the latest in telecommunications. It is a fully interactive studio that, according to Storck, is being used more and more as the months progress.

The tour then advanced to the math lab, led by Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics at GCC. The equipment in the classroom, including 20 laptop computers, math software, three 486X computers, a wide carriage printer, a laser printer, an overhead document camera, a projector, monitor, converter box, and a laptop for the teacher's desk, all provided by a three-year grant, will be given to Southern High School in the fall, and new equipment will be obtained for GCC. At the beginning of the following school year, that equipment will be given to Northern High School, as part of the conditions of the grant.

OUTSTANDING CONTRIBUTOR

Also during Tuesday's meeting, the board of trustees unanimously approved the 1994 individual award for Outstanding Contribution to GCC. The honoree will be Dennis Gibson, McHenry, the men's basketball coach at the college.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Dr. Herman introduced the GCC men's basketball team, headed by Coach Gibson. Standing in for the coach was David Martin, assistant coach. This year's team was recognized for advancing to the Division III national championships in Danville, Ill. It was one of eight teams to advance to the competition, and ended the season sixth in the nation.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER, AWAITING SURGERY - This photo, taken on Monday, reveals only slightly the anxiety of Mrs. Nosova and the weariness of her daughter, Anna, as they rest at Garrett Memorial. The surgery took place the following day, and the two were understandably worried about the procedure that had been such a long time in coming. All went well, however, through the skillful work of local surgeons David Tuel and Dona Alvarez. A good recovery is expected.

and should be active and healthy for many more years. Her daughter, the Russian manager of Virginia-based INT Traders, Inc., spoke of her dilemma with the American president of the company, Edward Pool. Pool is a resident of Kingwood, W.Va.

"We had to try to do something for this woman," Pool said. "To know that these injuries could be easily repaired and watch them become life-threatening was reprehensible."

Thus began a seven-month struggle to bring Mrs. Nosova to the United States for treatment. The red tape was lengthy and tangled, causing dashed hopes and delays. Because INT Traders, Inc., regularly deals with the bureaucracies of both this country and Russia, Pool and his business partner Ned Tarpley were familiar with the seemingly endless paperwork and authorization troubles, but because this was a person in need, the men were surprised at the countless roadblocks and obstructions.

"We simply did not possess the resources and political muscle to accomplish this type of project. But we could not close our eyes to the situation," Pool said. So with the help of numerous people, companies, and medical teams, the day of Mrs. Nosova's trip grew closer. One setback came when the West Virginia hospital first willing to accept the patient backed out at the last moment. The hospital officials feared that they did not possess the best equipment to perform the surgery. Pool then contacted Ben Rosenthal, administrator of Garrett Memorial, who after only a few hours of consultation agreed to admit Mrs. Nosova. Dr. David Tuel and Dr. Dona Alvarez agreed to perform the hip replacement.

Anna Nosova, who speaks fluent English (her mother does not), spoke of the dilemmas she and her parents dealt with on their end of the situation.

"When everything was set for April 15, we had to get my mother out of the house. She had not been out for months because she was immobile. We had to find someone with a car, and I asked two male friends to help carry her down the steps. They carried her on a chair.

"The flight was pleasant," she said. "The attendants helped her get arranged on a large seat, and they made sure we were comfortable."

When the Aeroflot airliner landed at Dulles Airport, there was yet another delay. Pool had been told that the arrangements were completed and that the patient could be transported directly to the waiting helicopter, which was donated by Buffalo Coal Company. However, the placement of the aircraft had indeed not been worked out, and the mother and daughter had to wait for some time. Then the patient was forced to endure a long trek from the airliner to the helicopter, which had been unable to land near the plane. The helicopter ride to Garrett Memorial was somewhat frightening to the patient, but certainly quicker than a three-hour ride in a car or ambulance.

She was finally settled in her hospital room late last Friday afternoon. Tests were performed for the first few days, and Mrs. Nosova waited with some trepidation for the Tuesday morning operation.

"She misses her husband and her cat," said a smiling Anna of her mother, who has never been to the United States before. "But the pain is better, and we know relief is near."

When asked how the treatment had been so far at the local facility, Mrs. Nosova said one word, which Anna quickly translated. "Perfect."

The surgery was successfully completed on Tuesday morning, and the patient is recovering well, according to a nursing supervisor. The staff will probably help her out of bed for a walk sometime today or tomorrow.

As for her stay in the United States, Mrs. Nosova said she will remain here until she is mobile again, and until "I know I won't fall apart."

As for the success of this enormous project, Pool said the key lay within a unique group of people encompassing three states and diverse backgrounds, all saying "let me see what I can do."

"It is a testament to our country, our values, and our determination," he said. "This project underscores the small town virtues that are the backbone of our nation."

battery, reckless driving, attempt to elude a police officer, driving with a suspended license, and failure to stop after an accident. There were no more details about this arrest.

Michael R. Reams, Swanton, was arrested on the strength of a warrant charging him with harassment. The charge was first filed by Patricia Boyce, who has stated that Reams repeatedly harassed her from March 24 through April 14, according to the report.

Numerous DWI arrests were made on the night of April 16 and early morning of April 17.

Dehnas E. Tasker, 42, Oakland, was charged with DWI after an officer observed him driving his vehicle in an erratic manner. The arrest took place on Rt. 135 near Allegany Drive.

Donald W. Matthews, 46, Bayard, W.Va., was arrested for DWI after he reportedly drove across the center line and into the path of a police cruiser.

John E. Sweitzer Jr., 23, Oakland, was charged with DWI at 1:50 a.m. after he had apparently been involved in a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 135, west of Rt. 38.

Russell J. Rounds, 34, Oakland, was stopped for an equipment violation, according to the report, and was subsequently charged with DWI at approximately 11:45 p.m. on April 16.

Rodney L. Pike III, 22, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with DWI on Rock Lodge Road. Dep. J. Green logged the arrest.

Property Damage, Theft Incidents Probed By GCSO

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office received various complaints in the past week involving property destruction and theft. Damage and/or loss estimates ranged from approximately $160 to $1,000.

Cynthia L. Sanders, Oakland, contacted police when she discovered that her 1989 Ford Tempo had been vandalized. Both sides of the vehicle were scratched and an obscenity was scratched into the hood.

Miss Sanders had parked the vehicle in the Southern High School back parking lot, near the running track, on the morning of April 13. She discovered the damage when she was leaving school in the afternoon. The repair costs were estimated at $1,000. According to the police report, there is a suspect in the case.

An Oakland man alerted police to vandalism at his home on Tannery Road. Ron Stewart told officers that someone had shot the side of his home with a BB gun. Officers responded to the residence and found four BB holes in the siding. One BB had gone through a window.

Damage estimates were set at $255. There are also suspects in this incident, according to the report.

In a third case, Warren R. Glotfelty contacted the sheriff's office to report the apparent theft of several propane bottles which had been stored outside four trailers, located at the Double G Campground. The bottles were taken sometime between January 1 and March 1.

Each bottle's value is $45. They are owned by four out-of-town vacationers.

DNR Arrests Angler On Drug, Park Violations

A Frostburg man was arrested by an officer of the Department of Natural Resources Police last week after he was discovered to be in possession of too many fish, according to reports. Eddie L. Hitchins, 20, was observed at New Germany State Park as he caught fish and apparently hid them in a wooded area. An official search resulted in the discovery of 14 rainbow trout hidden in the park, as well as an undetermined amount of suspected hashish and drug paraphernalia.

In the "put-and-take" fishing area at the park, the legal number of trout allowed per fisherman is five. When Hitchins was seen taking more than that number from the water, an inquiry followed by Maryland Ranger John Frank. In addition to the fish, Frank also discovered the illegal drug and paraphernalia, according to the report.

Hitchins was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and two counts of possession of drug paraphernalia. He was also cited for possession of trout over the limit.

The defendant was released after posting a $1,000 bond, according to reports.

Note the Good Points...

The accessibility and affordability of health care are hot topics of debate and study in our nation and one of the primary areas of concern by the Clinton Administration. Despite the fact that the majority of our citizens do have some form of health insurance, despite the fact that the great majority of our hospitals continue to provide millions of dollars in charity care, and despite the fact that our country has, in general, by far the best quality of health care available in the world, we have deemed this issue a national crisis of extreme magnitude.

While one can make a sound argument that our health care system is among those programs that certainly need addressed and restructured, we think it is both therapeutic and noteworthy to examine at least one of the good points of health care in the United States.

A rather dramatic event has taken place right here in Garrett County this past week that helps us realize that we still have an outstanding health care system when compared to those of some other supposedly equally civilized nations.

Through the persistence, determination, and literally months of hard work by Ed Pool, a Kingwood, W.Va., native, an injured Russian woman was flown from Russia to Dulles International Airport last Friday and then immediately flown by helicopter to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for hip surgery. She had lain for 10 months, in excruciating pain, with a broken and dislocated hip, not because she was impoverished and unable to pay for surgery in Russia, but simply because she is over 70 years of age. Access to surgery is denied to elderly persons in Russia, unless they are government employees or veterans. If left untreated, her injuries would have most certainly resulted in her death. In fact, the third leading cause of death among the elderly in Russia is broken hips, an injury that is relatively easy to treat. We were astounded to learn that one of the world's super power nations simply turns its back on its elderly in this manner.

While Mrs. Nosova's life has been spared, thanks to Mr. Pool's efforts and thanks to the cooperation of the physicians and administration of our local hospital, there are thousands of others in her country with the same injury who will not be so lucky.

So, yes, we have a lot of work to do on our health care system. But as this work progresses, we should be certain that the outstanding features of health care in the United States are duly noted and, if possible, preserved.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thanks for allowing me the space to express my opinions.

First, Mr. Ed King certainly is to be congratulated for gathering the background facts pertaining to the taxes in Garrett County and the people who pay the most and what they receive in benefits.

Secondly, I noticed from a recent letter from the Department of Natural Resources that the commercial interests on Deep Creek were given a small reduction in dock fees charged. As a private dock owner who uses the lake 4½ months a year, we will pay $150 for that privilege - fair?

The county commissioners certainly held back on contributing to the controlling of rising costs involved with owning Deep Creek property.

Please, voting taxpayers, consider the county commissioners' past business practices and consideration of the taxpayers when you enter the voting booth. I promise to remind you closer to election time!

Our family has a small cottage used by family only (no income) taxed at $1,300 a year and used a little over four months a year. We also pay an ever increasing sewer fee of now $208 for the year.

When we ask for the county to repair roads, we get tar and chips. Add to this the contribution all of us make to the local economy; food, building supplies, boat maintenance and storage, and many other services too numerous to list. Now a dock fee of $150 a year!

Is it wrong to ask the Garrett County government to consider ways to encourage us to stay in and enjoy Garrett County?

CRY FROM THE LAND
by C. Speicher

How many saws can a forest forgive if she has no trees left to give?

Will the blue whale still wail magic charms,
If harpoons in her home do her harm?

How much more will the last owl endure,
Where thousands of condors once soared?

If skies for us repel deadly rays should we not protect them in praise?

Yes, and can white beaches glisten pure,
if the water itself's impure?

How loud will wild wolves howl to the moon,
if banished, they vanish in doom?

How many lanes must we roam alone,
'til we see -- this planet's our home?

The answers, friend, cry from the land
Earth's final fate is in our hands

Beeman was flown to the Morgantown hospital by HealthNet helicopter. Richard Beeman and two other passengers in the vehicle were not treated following the mishap.

ONE INJURED

A McHenry woman was injured in an accident early Sunday morning on Md. Rt. 42, near McHenry.

MSP reports indicate Lynette D. Siegel, 23, stated a deer ran out in front of her vehicle. To avoid hitting the animal, she steered to the right, causing the car to run off the road and strike a telephone pole. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Siegel to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

According to the report, a passenger in the vehicle, Thomas Gnegy, 34, also of McHenry, was uninjured following the 12:30 a.m. mishap.

A Grantsville man was hospitalized in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following a mishap at I.F. Milling, Grantsville, late Friday afternoon. He was released from the hospital on Monday, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Gerald Tice, was working on a grain elevator arm when a strong wind caused the arm to strike him. He apparently suffered a broken leg in the incident. Tice was flown to the hospital by the MSP Medevac helicopter. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the 5:30 p.m. accident.

CAR OVERTURNS

A Bridgeville, Pa., man was charged with negligent driving, April 14, after he lost control of the 1994 Volvo he was driving, traveled off the right side of the road, struck an embankment, and overturned.

RT. 219 MISHAP

An Accident woman was slightly injured Tuesday evening in a two-vehicle mishap on Rt. 219 near the Rabbit Hollow Road.

Molly Deniker, 59, was southbound on Rt. 219 and, as she slowed to turn on the Rabbit Hollow Road, her vehicle was hit broadside by a Ford Aerostar van that was attempting to pass on a double yellow line, according to MSP reports.

An Update From The Superintendent

Of Garrett County Public Schools

Health Issues/Special Needs Of Garrett County Students
Written by Mrs. Wilda Massi, Director of Pupil Services, Garrett County Board of Education

The Garrett County Board of Education currently has employed four registered nurses to meet the needs of our 5,100 students. Certainly, they cannot do everything, but it is a good start. Gloria Miller serves all the southern elementary schools and Sharon Bogard serves all of the northern elementary schools plus Bloomington and Kitzmiller Schools. Rebecca Aiken works with Northern Middle and Northern High Schools and Peggy Logsdon works with Southern Middle and Southern High Schools.

Some of the health and special needs of our schools involve the need for increased communication between primary care providers and school health care providers and parents, which would help students come to school ready to learn. Nutrition is one of the special needs noted by the nurses. Parents and educators together can assist this issue by encouraging children to eat breakfast and school lunches, encouraging parents with lower incomes to apply for free and reduced meals through the schools, as well as participate in the W.I.C. Program, supporting educational programs for good nutrition and safe diet practice, and participating in the "Tooth Keeper Program" provided for grades 1-3 in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department.

Some other special needs would include working with children with Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) by educating parents, educators, and the public on what ADD is and the medical management for these children and having support groups for families of these students. Another special need is increasing staff to manage students, such as adding nurses and counselors, expanding clinical services, seeking financial assistance for students who receive medication, and offering behavioral strategies and techniques in the classroom.

Special health care needs in our schools include IDDM (Insulin Dependent Diabetes Meleitis), feeding tubes, tracheotomies, asthma, Lyme Disease, hemophiliac, and serious illnesses such as cystic fibrosis, spina bifida, and fetal alcohol syndrome, to name a few.

Our nurses provide parent education and support as well as faculty education and support. We also monitor the medical status of these children through communication with the primary physician.

As medical technology increases, we anticipate a greater number of students having special health needs that will be managed in the classroom such as ventilator dependent students, suctioning equipment, catherization, and dialysis, to mention a few.

Our nurses currently offer continuing updates of immunization status, scoliosis, vision and hearing screenings, basic First Aid, and classroom instruction. We want to encourage parents to contact the school nurses if they have any questions or concerns.

What's Happenings in Our Schools?

•Report cards for the third marking period will be coming home on Thursday, April 21, or shortly thereafter.

•The Annual Garrett County Honor Band Concert will be given at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 23, at Southern High School. The concert will feature both the middle school and high school honor bands and the general public is invited.

•Fifth grade students from Red House will be traveling to Broad Ford Elementary School the morning of April 27 for Career Day and then visit Southern Middle School in the afternoon for middle school orientation.

•Students in grades 3, 5, and 8 from Swan Meadow School will visit Bedford Village on April 28 for a "hands-on" colonial living experience.

•The Maryland School Performance Test will be given to all fifth graders the week of May 2. It is important that students be in attendance during this week because there are no make-ups for these very important state tests.

Note: The Superintendent's Update can be heard every other Sunday on WMSG/WXIE Radio at 8:15 a.m. and every other Saturday on WKHJ at 8:35 a.m.

PLANTING TREES

Do you remember Arbor Day? In my own school days, now some 30 years ago, the entire school gathered outside to observe and celebrate publicly the planting of a tree. On the hillside that half rings our old playground, there stands today a pinegrove planted on arbor days before I began first grade.

The word "arbor' comes from the Latin "herbarium." The English, in the 16th century, began dropping their aitches end pronouncing "er" as "ar". It is the dialect known today as cockney. A herbarium was, as one might expect, a collection of herbs. The definition altered and expanded with the actual word. Strictly speaking, the word "arbor" today means a plant or plants shaped into a shelter-like canopy, such as a grape or rose arbor.

As it pertains to Arbor Day, "arbor" means trees or shrubs of any kind. On April 10, 1872 J. Sterling Morton, the president of the Nebraska Board of Agriculture, prevailed upon his fellow citizens to observe Arbor Day for the first time by planting trees. Two years later the governor proclaimed the day. In 1885 it became an official holiday in Nebraska by law. It is an interesting contribution by a man otherwise unknown, at least to me, and in a state that had been admitted to the Union only in 1867.

Out of the tumultuous politics of that frontier state, exploding in population because of the railroad, came one of our quietest and cost reflective civic observances. Though the date of observance varies from state to state and even from place to place, the last Friday in April has customarily been most usual for Arbor Day.

Do you remember 1970? That was the year of the Kent State riots and shootings. The civil rights movement had channeled most of its energy into the peace movement. It was a wild time. Arbor Day did not get cancelled that year, but in a sense it was superseded. April 22, 1970 was the first Earth Day. It provided occasion for organized demonstrations against pollution. I remember a great deal from that year, but I confess the premiere Earth Day has slipped from memory.

What Arbor and Earth Days have in common, both observed within the same week and perhaps on the same day, is that they arose out of a political clash. Each endured into a gentler form. Our kids have been getting ready for Earth Day at school. We know this because of the jaunty tunes they sing around the house. The words to these songs instruct us all to recycle, re-use, replenish, and generally, to take care of the Earth. It is sage advice since, to date, the Earth is the only home we have. I feel refreshed and relieved to hear our children sing something other than the anti-life music (if screaming and pounding can be called music -- God help me, I'm getting old) that fills the airwaves.

Here at home we prepare for one or both of the observances. Each of the 10 years I have lived on this farm. I have planted trees. The number and kind varies from year to year. In 1989 we planted nine acres of mixed hardwoods and a two-acre pinegrove, all under the federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). Other years I have planted a few dozen shrubs and trees along the stream banks to provide cover and food for wildlife. There are also the apple trees of our home orchard.

This year we shall plant nearly 200 trees of various kinds. The stream banks will get 25 red dogwood and 25 sycamores. In the CRP acres we shall replant red oak, white ash and black walnut. There is one bald spot in the pine grove that needs a few dozen trees. We shall plant around the house too. Four sugar maples provide shade for somebody in a few decades. Two copper beeches will rise majestically above the place in another century.

Call the observance Arbor Day, Earth Day or what you like. God has given us glorious gifts in trees. Over the ages men and women have extracted from them clothing, shelter, food, fuel, transportation, medicine and numerous other kinds of necessities and comforts. Trees shelter us from the wintry winds of winter, and shade us from the summer sun.

John Wesley, when asked what he would do if he knew he would die today, replied that he would plant a tree. Few things repay investment like the planting of a tree. Few things convey the spirit of hope more than planting a tree. It is a wise and joyous thing to do even for those of us who think it likely that we shall live until tomorrow.

Committee Kills Farm Run-Off Bill

A Senate Committee recently killed a bill that would have attempted to reduce the amount of run-off from Maryland farms into the Chesapeake Bay. The decision has provoked criticism from environmental groups, whose representatives have reportedly argued that the reduction of farm run-off is critical to the health of the bay.

Agriculture practices, they say, are the biggest cause of phosphate and nitrate loading in the bay.

One Anti-Smoking Bill Passes; Many Others Rejected

Even though a bill that would have banned smoking in most public places failed to pass in the Maryland General Assembly this year, legislation was passed that restricts minors from purchasing cigarettes.

Highlights of the bill include increasing the fines for selling to minors to $300 for a first offense; $1,000 for a second; and $3,000 for a third or subsequent offense within a two-year period.

The bill also makes it a civil infraction for minors to buy or possess tobacco products, setting fines at $25 for a first offense and $100 for subsequent offenses. In addition, the law will require minors to attend smoking cessation classes and to perform community service.

The tobacco lobby, however, was successful in blocking a proposed cigarette tax hike, as well as killing bills that would prohibited the sale of cigarettes in vending machines and allow local jurisdictions to regulate smoking and the sale of the tobacco products.

In fact, only one of the 36 anti-smoking bills introduced by the Schaefer administration was passed, and it was amended to exclude components the tobacco industry opposed.

Assembly Passes Official English Language Bill

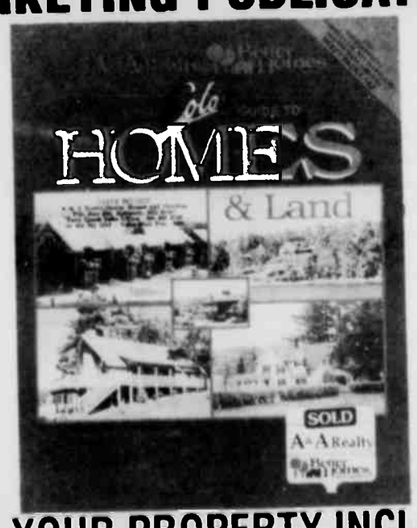
A measure making English the official language of Maryland won final approval by the state legislature recently, although Governor Schaefer is not clear about whether or not he will sign it.

One of the most controversial bills of the 1994 session, the bill is part of a nation-wide effort to make English the nation's one official language with 19 states already having adopted similar laws.

Proponents of the bill have reportedly said that adopting one official language would help in unification efforts and deter separatist movements by ethnic groups.

Year-Round School Bill Is Passed By General Assembly

Final legislative approval was given to a bill that removes restrictions on the school year now requiring a summer vacation, giving certain local school systems the authority to schedule classes as they wish, provided that students attend at least 180 days of classes throughout the year.



School districts in Baltimore City, and in Allegany, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Howard, and Montgomery counties have received grants from the state totalling $404,990 to develop pilot programs in an effort to test the year-round school concept.

The bill is expected to be signed by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer, whose administration introduced the legislation.

Schaefer reportedly stated that the measure is advantageous because it eliminates the need for some new school construction -- different students would be using the same building during the year -- and because some studies have reportedly revealed that students retain more when shorter, but more frequent, vacations are given.

Potomac Edison Files With PSC For Rate Hike

In an application filed last week with the Maryland Public Service Commission, the Potomac Edison Company requested an increase in its Maryland electric rates designed to produce additional annual revenues of $31 million. The company has requested the new rates, which the company says reflect in large part the company's work to comply with the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, become effective May 15, 1994, but expects that the increase will be suspended until Nov. 11, 1994. During that time, the Public Service Commission will hold hearings on the proposed rate hike.

The requested increase, if approved, will generate 8.9 percent in additional overall revenues annually. The percentage increase will vary among residential, commercial, and industrial classifications. Residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a month would see their costs rise $8.63, or an average of 12.3 percent, from $70.13 to $78.76. Potomac Edison last filed for a general base rate increase in July 1992, receiving $11.3 million of a requested $23 million.

According to Potomac Edison President Alan J. Noia, the company's work to comply with the Clean Air Act Amendments is almost complete, and the major portion of the request is being made to recover costs associated with this work.

"Potomac Edison and its affiliated companies in the Allegheny Power System (APS), West Penn Power Company and Monongahela Power Company, are nearing completion of a flue gas desulfurization (scrubber) system at our jointly owned 1,920-megawatt Harrison Power Station located near Shinnston, W.Va.," Noia said. "The scrubber system, which is more than 80 percent complete, will remove 98 percent of the sulfur dioxide from plant emissions released from burning nearly five million tons of coal a year at Harrison."

Noia added that the cost of the project for the APS companies is more than one-half of one billion dollars. Potomac Edison's share of this cost is $180 million. "However, due to an early construction start, good planning, favorable construction, the willingness of state regulators to reflect financing costs in rates during construction and the combined efforts of the company's employees and those of contractors and subcontractors, the scrubbers at Harrison cost APS companies about $171 million less than originally estimated," he said. The Harrison project, now with a work force of about 950, has made history as one of the largest of its kind ever in North America.

"Under the Clean Air Act Amendment's Phase I requirements, the scrubbers must be on-line by January 1, 1995. We expect the newly constructed system to be in service by late this year," Noia said.

"Potomac Edison has always been in compliance with all environmental laws and will comply fully with the federally mandated Clean Air Act Amendments, as well," he added.

Potomac Edison provides electricity to 187,000 customers in seven Maryland counties.

First Smoke-Free Bingo Deemed Successful Event

Garrett County's first smoke-free bingo sponsored by the area's Knights of Columbus #1771 organization was held recently at St. Peter's Church hall in Oakland. With all proceeds collected going to the local Hospice association, approximately 100 local residents turned out for the charity event, playing bingo in a clean, smoke-free, indoor air environment.

"Smoke-free is the direction that the local Knights of Columbus organization hopes to go for the future as we aim for our specific goal of offering only smoke-free bingos beginning July 1 of this year," stated John Toston, Grand Knight for the local Knights of Columbus club. "We hope that providing smoke-free environments for our events will encourage other local organizations to follow us in what is becoming a state and national trend for clean indoor air."

Current legislation at both the state and federal levels is being discussed in the area of smoking in the workplace. Even with the proposed regulations in place, noncommercial bingo does not require paid staff and may therefore not be considered a workplace.

After over 75 years of activities in Garrett County, Toston and the 46 other members of the local Knights of Columbus organization are seeing a changing trend in their group's sponsored events.

A SMOKE-FREE BINGO was held recently by the Knights of Columbus Council #1771, Oakland, to benefit Hospice of Garrett County. Held in the St. Peter s Catholic Church social hall, the event attracted some 100 persons, smokers and non-smokers. It was one of the county's first smoke-free Bingo gathering. Helping coordinate and conduct it were: Grand Knight John Toston, Past Grand Knights John Kurilla, Paul Miller. and Bill Heise, and Knights Jerry Cox, Joe Tyrene, and Joe DiSimone. Also helping were Betty Kurilla, Vera Heise, Bobby Andersen, Lucy Shorb, and Peg DiSimone. Hospice volunteers provided cakes. Pictured left to right above are: John Kurilla, Hospice President Wayne Johnson, Joe DiSimone, John Toston, Bill Heise, Sharon King, director of Hospice volunteers, Joe Tyrene, and Paul Miller.

K OF C HOLDS SMOKE-FREE BINGO -- Shown above is Bessie Murphy, Kitzmiller, who participated in the county s first smoke-free Bingo event, held recently by the local Knights of Columbus #1771 club. Approximately 100 citizens turned out for the event to support Hospice of Garrett County and the Knights of Columbus.

It seems that any Knights of Columbus event or meeting that is of an official nature, rather than a social function, is planned as both tobacco and alcohol-free," stated Toston.

Discussion of the tobacco issue among the local members has brought up the idea of providing separate areas for smokers and non-smokers within the same room at club events.

"This idea of separation is just not possible in our current Knights of Columbus building on Route 219 where the majority of our events, including our bingos, are held," stated Toston. "Even if a room adjustment to provide separate smoking and nonsmoking sections was possible, the change would only reduce the risk of environmental tobacco smoke, but not make it disappear."

Many of the Knights believe that the biggest obstacle they may face locally will be continuing to recruit a large number of bingo players to their events if smoking is no longer permitted indoors on the site.

"We did see a number of our residents who are smokers at our Hospice bingo event, donating to the organization that has directly affected someone in their family," stated Toston. "We hope that our area's bingo players will continue to support us throughout the year as we work to meet our goal of being smoke-free by July 1."

According to John Kurilla, treasurer for the club, "bingo is the main fund-raiser for the local Knights of Columbus organization." Over $10,000 in donations is distributed each year to community organizations from the club's fundraisers.

Discussion on the Knights goal to provide smoke-free community events continued at the most recent organizational meeting on April 5.

Knights of Columbus #1771 provides community bingo every Monday at the Genus Center on Route 219 and one Wednesday night each month at St. Peter's Church hall.

MS Police Issue Reminder About Window Tinting

The Automotive Safety Enforcement Division (ASED) of the Maryland State Police has issued a reminder to motorists that add-on window tinting on vehicles must meet specifications permitted by law. All vehicles currently equipped with add-on tinting must be approved by the ASED, located at the Motor Vehicle Administration Office in Cumberland.

Add-on tinting film is made in different degrees of light transmittance, such as 50 percent, 35 percent, 20 percent and 5 percent, according to the reminder. These percentages indicate the amount of light that will be transmitted through the film. Federal regulations require a minimum of 70 percent light transmittance in glass when the vehicle is manufactured. Therefore, when 50 percent tinting film is applied to 70 percent glass, the light transmittance will be reduced by half to 35 percent, which is the amount of light required to come through the glass in certain locations of certain types of vehicles.

According to the reminder issued to all state police barracks in the state, add-on window tinting is allowed on any window of a passenger car, pickup truck, truck tractor, bus or van, except on the windshield. Add-on tint to a windshield cannot be more than five inches below the top of the windshield, and must have at least a light transmittance of 35 percent. All other windows on these vehicles can be tinted to any degree of darkness. The tint may not, however, be red, yellow or amber in color. A reflective type material also may not be used on any glass or any type vehicle. Additionally, all vehicles with add-on tint must be equipped with an outside mirror on each side.

The local state police, in cooperation with the ASED, advise motorists to have their tinted windows checked by the division. Windows that pass the inspection will have an approval label attached to each piece of glass that has add-on tinting.

Senior Citizen Art Competition Judges Selected

Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is announcing the panel of judges for the 1994 Senior Citizens Fine Arts Competition. The panel includes Sophia McDonald, Sonia Pratt, and Dennis Ruane.

She holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Maryland Institute of Art. She is a member of the Garrett County Arts Council. She operates her own studio, Candle Light Art Studio, in Oakland and is a member of the newly organized Summit Studios Fine Art Guild. She specializes in realistic oil paintings depicting the natural beauty of the county and its wildlife.

Sonia Pratt, a collage/fibre artist whose work defines the mountain agrarian coal mining culture of Appalachia, graduated from Fairmont State College with a BA in art education. She has done graduate work in painting at West Virginia University and the University of Arizona extension Guadalajara, Mexico. She is employed as an art teacher at Southern High School. A member of Summit Studios, she maintains her studio on Herrington Manor Road, Oakland.

Dennis Ruane is an artist who specializes in hardwood sculpture of both traditional and contemporary design. He was affiliated with Spruce Village Artisan Village for five years. He has been actively working in wood sculpture for 12 years. He currently operates his own studio at the Fuller-Baker log house in Grantsville. He is also a member of the Summit Studios Fine Art Guild.

Garrett County senior citizens, age 60 or over, may enter one work in the competition. The entry must have been completed in the past 12 months and the senior may not have been employed as a professional artist.

The 1994 contest categories include works on canvas (oil, acrylic), works on paper (watercolor, pastel, drawing), woodcarving (not including furniture) and fiber arts (quilting, needlepoint. weaving, crocheting, etc.).

The judges will select first place winners in each of the entry categories and a "Best of Show" from among the top winners. The "Best of Show" winner will represent Garrett County at the Governor's statewide award ceremony in July.

Selection of winning entries will be based on creativity, originality and overall artistic excellence.

The entries will be exhibited at the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center St., Oakland, from May 4 through May 20. A reception and awards ceremony will be held May 20, 6 to 8 p.m., at the center. Winners will be announced at that time.

Deadline for entries is Friday, April 29, at 4:30 p.m. Works may be delivered to Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, next Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, next Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Glendening To Kick-Off Run For Governor

Prince George's County Executive Parris N. Glendening has announced that he will formally kick off his gubernatorial campaign Monday, April 25, at the Student Union atrium at the University of Maryland in College Park.

An educator at the University of Maryland and former Hyattsville police commissioner, Democrat Glendening has been Prince George's County executive for 12 years, and has introduced a comprehensive plan to move Maryland in a "new direction," focusing on what he calls the Five E's: education, enforcement, economic development, environmental protection, and excellence in government.

"I don't want people to vote for me because I have the catchiest slogans or the slickest advertisements," said Glendening. "I want people to vote for me because they believe in my vision for our future and want to work together to change Maryland for the better. If we allow the gubernatorial campaign to dissolve into yet another festival of mud-slinging commercials and empty sound bites, we will only feed the distrust and cynicism that have weakened our people's faith in their elected officials. I challenge the other candidates to join me in this commitment to the people of Maryland."

Under Glendenning's administration, Prince George's County gained 108,000 new, primarily high-paying jobs. In fact, over the last ten years, one out of every six new jobs created in Maryland was created in Prince George's County, according to Glendening's press staff.

Also, the average annual income of county residents almost doubled in just 12 years; the county police force was increased by over 40%; the size of county government was cut by over 20%; and model economic development, corrections, and neighborhood revitalization programs were implemented.

Tapes Donated To Hospital By Local Pets Club

The members of the local branch of the Patriotic Pets Club (PPC), based in Accident, recently concluded a collection for new and used video tapes. The tapes were then donated to the Pediatric Unit at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Various businesses throughout the area donated tapes for young patients at the hospital, including Reel Video, Accident IGA, Deep Creek Video, and Avon. Collection sites were maintained at the Ruth Enlow libraries in Accident and Oakland, Accident Elementary School, and Northern Middle School for local residents to drop off tapes they were willing to donate.

The 80 tapes are now stored in a video case constructed and donated by Beachy Lumber Company. Paint for the case was donated by Deep Creek True Value Hardware, McHenry. Members painted the case before delivery. Four of the members involved were present to donate the videos and the video case to the Garrett Memorial Hospital representative Esther Benedict.

The PPC is on the approved list for the required community service hours program for students in Garrett County.

The PPC, represented in 15 states throughout the U.S., also made a donation through its Pennsylvania members to the Fallen Timber Humane Society located in Elizabeth, Pa.

The project consists of an annual donation to humane societies located near different members. The club has received a letter of thanks from Dorothy B. Zewe, administrative assistant for the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society for the club's donation of $75.

The club is planning a fund-raiser for the Garrett County Humane Society in May. They will be selling chances on a quilt at Arrowhead Deli.

The PPC noted appreciation to all persons and businesses who participated or contributed to their latest community projects.

Persons interested in joining the Patriotic Pets Club should contact Rachael Gosnell at (301) 746-8623. There are no age requirements.

PETS CLUB DONATES TAPES - Members of the local chapter of the Patriotic Pets Club, based in Accident, recently collected video tapes and then donated them to the Pediatric Unit of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital for use by patients in that unit. Also presented was a case, constructed and donated by Beachy Lumber Company and painted by the PPC members, for storage of the tapes. Pictured left to right above are: Shane Russell, Rachael Gosnell, and Wesley Spiker, club members; Esther Benedict, representing the hospital; and club member Stephanie Gosnell. Four-year-old patient Mindy Redmond is shown below as she takes advantage of the recent gift. The movie Aladdin helped entertain her as she rested and recovered from an illness. Teresa Harvey, registered nurse and nursing manager of the medical and surgical pediatric unit, said she was grateful that the Patriotic Pets Club chose the pediatric unit as the recipient of the gift. "These tapes are really very beneficial to the kids," Nurse Harvey said. "It really helps break up their long days here." Members of the club also noted that persons may continue to donate tapes to the hospital, if they wish, and may leave them at the Information desk at the hospital entrance.

port about his visit to the American Association of Community Colleges. He attended several workshops there and made a presentation to a group about GCC's characteristics of excellence.

ACADEMIC REPORT

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, reported the Beacon Semester began March 21, taking on 67 students, showing an FTE (full-time equivalency) of 5.6.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Ted Along, dean of administration, told the board the college is experiencing a good cash flow. It has repaid a short-term loan and no borrowing is expected for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Concerning the Cash Flow Forecast, Chairman Bender questioned the placement of credits for contracted services, supplies, and equipment books in the report. According to Bender, the March 31 cash flow numbers are supposed to be accurate; everything from there on is projected. He questioned how the college can have credit numbers in the expense account items and said, "To the best of my recollection, in my 11 years on the board, I don't ever remember seeing a credit number in a cash disbursement printout." Along said he would look into the matter and have an answer by the next meeting.

In other financial matters, Along noted the institution's expenditures are running about 76 percent of the budget and requested a revised budget for FY94 of $3,750,000. He said he believes it is a reasonable estimate on what the revenue may potentially be, and the college will maintain itself in the black through the end of the year. There were, however, some questions concerning the budget request, and the board voted to table the matter until the next meeting.

The auxiliary enterprises fund balance deficit, accrued by the college's cafeteria and bookstore, had been recommended by Along at the last meeting to be forgiven. The board unanimously voted in favor of the recommendation.

OTHER BUSINESS

Dr. Herman noted GCC's recognition in Community College Week, a national publication sent to all community colleges in the country. GCC, along with Allegany Community College and Hagerstown Junior College, was given special attention for the installation of the interactive television network. "There is tremendous interest, nationally, in what we're doing," he said. "There are quite a number of systems...far in advance of us, that are getting into the distance education undertaking, but...many have obsolete equipment . . . We are on the cutting edge of the nation, and a lot of people are interested in what we're doing."

Herman's final remarks involved GCC's reputation. The school set out in its strategic plan, a year ago, to achieve a reputation for excellence--locally and throughout the state and nation. "The signs are really there that this is what's really happening." He noted Dr. Priselac has been instrumental in leading GCC to a national reputation, highly regarded among the TIMS (Tune In Math And Science) people, and as a result, GCC is recognized for its mathematics program. The science program, as well, is being recognized for its efforts. The sports program, according to Herman, is showing signs of being a vibrant program. Additionally, he expects to see the agricultural management technology program grow, noting an enrollment increase in this area. He praised the college for its accomplishments.

At the recommendation of Dr. Herman, the FY95 budget request was tabled until the next meeting, scheduled for May 17.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT WEEK PROCLAIMED - The Oakland mayor and town council recently joined with the Maryland Municipal League and Governor William Donald Schaefer to proclaim Municipal Government Week, April 25-29. A proclamation of the observance was signed this week by those pictured above. The document states that since the chartering of Annapolis in 1708, municipal government has played a vital role in the state, providing leadership while meeting the daily needs of citizens. Maryland is home to 155 municipalities, with one-third of the state's total population residing in these municipalities. Oakland, incorporated in 1862, is the county seat of Garrett County, and, as stated in the proclamation, has "enhanced the life for its residents by maintaining natural and historic sites and structures, helping to make Oakland a great place to live, work, and explore." Finally, the proclamation states that the mayor and town council designate April 25-29 as Municipal Government Week in Oakland and "does commend this observance to all citizens." Pictured left to right are John Sines, Oakland police chief; Council Member Mary Lou Stemple, Gwen McBee, town clerk; and Mayor Asa McCain.

Annual All-Star Classic Set At Frostburg State

McDonald's restaurants and the Potomac Valley basketball officials have teamed up to present the 14th Annual McDonald's Maryland/West Virginia All-Star Basketball Classic.

The classic will be held in Bobcat Arena, on the campus of Frostburg State University, on Sunday, June 19.

The girls' game of the annual doubleheader will begin at 2 p.m. and the boys' game will start at 4 p.m.

The Western Maryland Basketball Classic originated 14 years ago to help defray athletic expenses for the former Bruce High School. The game was founded by James "Hefty" Newlon and Garry Clem and its goal was to raise money and honor the best senior girls' and boys' basketball players from the Western Maryland Interscholastic League and the Potomac Valley Conference.

The game's original home was Bruce High school and it was played in that gym for 12 of the previous 13 games. It was played at Frostburg State once because of the overwhelming demand for tickets to see Circleville's Christy Cooper, the nation's fourth all-time leading scorer and a USA Today All-America team selection.

The game has expanded to include players from the Eastern Panhandle of West Virgina and Western Maryland.

Three area McDonald's restaurant owners, Al Boxley, Bob Boxley, and Jim Stenburgh, have joined with James Newlon of the local basketball referees association to help bring the classic more recognition. Proceeds for this year's classic will be donated to the Ronald McDonald House in Morgantown. The facility is used to house terminally ill children and their families while they are being treated for their disease.

The Classic has produced players at every college level and one professional player, Jenny Hillen, the 1985 MVP of the game and graduate of Southern High School, who played in Europe as a professional.

For more information, persons may contact James "Hefty" Newlon, the game chairman at (301) 359-0675.

Rams Win Fifth By Rolling Over Wildcats, 8-1

The Southern High School varsity baseball team upped its unbeaten streak to five games and maintained its grip on the first place area ranking yesterday by rolling over visiting Westmar, 8-1.

Mark Elliott fired a two-hitter for the Rams, striking out nine batters and not allowing a single walk.

Seth Tressler's two-run double in the second inning gave the Rams all the points they would need. They added two more runs in each of the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings.

The first run in the fourth inning was scored on an error, after which Matt Newcomb rapped a two-out single to score Tressler.

Josh Woods led off Southern's fifth inning with a walk, stole second, moved to third on a sacrifice fly, and came home on a squeeze bunt by Rich Warnick. Later in the inning Mark Dawson reached on an error and ultimately scored on an error to give the Rams a 6-1 lead.

Elliott and Woods singled in the sixth inning, Elliott later came home on a fielder's choice by Jeremy Fitzwater, and Woods scored on an error.

Mike Miller went the distance for the Wildcats and allowed eight hits. Sonny Livengood and Tressler each doubled for the Rams, while the rest of the hits were singles by six different players.

The Rams have a packed schedule for the next week, as they are slated to play eight games in eight days, with only one day of practice. The regular schedule calls for them to play today at home against Keyser and tomorrow at home against Northern, with both contests getting underway at 4:30 p.m. Then they will travel to Tucker County on Saturday for a 4 p.m. make-up game, and play a doubleheader make-up at Berkeley Springs on Monday, beginning at 4 p.m. They will entertain Allegany next Wednesday and Tucker County next Thursday.

"It's going to be a tough week for us," stated Coach Jim Bosley. "We are going to be playing four games against probably the three toughest teams on our schedule (Northern, Berkeley Springs, and Allegany) within just five days."

RECORDING A HIT yesterday afternoon against Westmar is Southern Ram Mark Dawson, and advancing to second base is Jeremy Fitzwater. The Rams defeated the Wildcats, 8-1, to remain undefeated on the season (5-0) and maintain their number one ranking in the area. The next eight days will be a major test for Coach Jim Bosley and the Rams, as they must play eight games, including contests against the strongest teams on their regular schedule. Rams, Huskies Split In Jayvee Doubleheader

The junior varsity baseball teams of Southern and Northern high schools faced each other in a doubleheader Tuesday afternoon on the Southern field, and each came away with a win.

The Rams won the first game, 8-3, and the Huskies took the nightcap, 6-3.

Steve Goralski smacked a two-run triple for the Rams in the opener, while Jim Pamepinto hit a two-run double and Jamie Bernard added an RBI double. Bizzy Tasker earned the win on the mound for the Rams, who are now 3-1.

Leading the Northern offense in the first game was Zack Leverenz, who tripled and singled, while Matt Umbel produced two singles good for a pair of runs.

Umbel's two-run triple and a run-producing single by Brett Thomas paved the way for the Huskies' victory in the second game. The Northern jayvees are now 1-1 on the season.

Andy Woods accounted for two of the Rams' three runs with his RBI single.

Southern also recorded a pair of wins in Lonaconing last Thursday afternoon, topping the Westmar jayvees, 10-5 and 11-4.

Tasker was the winning pitcher in the first game, while Joel Uphold went two-for-three in hitting.

T.J. Morgan had three hits for the Wildcats and J.D. Doman finished with two.

Upton was the winner on the mound in the second game.

SHS Softball Team Splits DH With Hyndman

The Southern High girls' softball team split a doubleheader with visiting Hyndman last Thursday, as the Rams dropped the opener, 9-7, and then won the second game, 9-6.

The score in the first game was tied at 1-1 after one inning and 5-5 going into the fifth when the Hornets added three runs to take the lead for good. Southern rallied for two runs in the sixth, but Hyndman added an insurance run in the seventh and held on for the win.

Alisa Rugg took the loss on the mound for the Rams, as she yielded eight hits, walked seven, and struck out four.

Crystal Sines smacked two doubles for three RBI to lead Southern's eight-hit effort. Rugg doubled and singled for three RBI, while Brandi Stoner and Nicole Bosley each finished with two singles.

Fichtner went three-for-four for the Hornets.

Rugg pitched five innings of the second game and was credited with the win, as she allowed five hits, walked three, and struck out five. Stoner came on in the sixth to strike out two of three batters to earn the save. The game was called after six innings because of darkness.

The Rams' big inning was the third, when they scored seven runs on five hits and three walks. Hyndman rallied for six runs in the fifth on two hits and three walks.

Wendy Craver and Tina Reese each finished with two hits to lead the Southern offense. Fichtner recorded two for the Hornets.

The Rams played a single game last night against Salisbury, but no results of that game were received by presstime. They are slated to play a doubleheader at home this afternoon against University of Morgantown, beginning at 4:15.

Lakers Win Four Of Eight, Including Game With Trojans

The baseball team of Garrett Community College won four games and lost four this past week; however, one of their wins was a big 11-8 victory over arch rival Allegany Community College last Thursday afternoon in Cumberland. The Trojans had come into the contest with a 12-game winning streak.

The Lakers then split a doubleheader with Charles CC on Friday in LaPlata, winning the opener, 15-7, and dropping the nightcap, 8-4, dropped two games to host Dundalk on Saturday, 3-2 and 7-1; swept both ends of a twinbill with visiting Hagerstown Junior College on Sunday, 9-8 and 15-9, and were then hammered by nationally ranked Potomac State College Tuesday, 18-4, also at the McHenry Campus. The results left Coach Ed Wildesen's team with a 16-9 mark.

The Lakers wasted no time taking control of the game against ACC last Thursday, as they recorded eight hits and seven runs in the top of the first inning. Sam Alvaro had a two-run double in that frame.

Garrett made it 10-0 with three more runs in the top of the fourth before the Trojans finally got on the board with a pair of runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Leading the Lakers's 14-hit effort were Patrick Donahue and Aaron Cook, who each had three hits, and Deron Godby and Chris Swaney, who finished with two hits each.

Chad Chabala had two RBI for ACC, while teammates Shane Reed, Bill Ellis, and Scott Shrefler each recorded two hits.

The first game against Charles on Friday went into extra innings with the score tied at 8-8, but the Lakers erupted for seven runs in the ninth inning to secure the win.

Garrett was on top 8-4 going into the bottom of the seventh, but Charles scored four runs in that frame to extend the game.

Godby led off the Lakers' winning ninth inning with a walk. Then Donahue, Hakim Edwards, Chad Miller, Aaron Cook, and Jamethro Rogers all singled.

Todd Blackburn, who relieved Jason Fitch in the seventh inning, received credit for the win.

Mike Crosby led the Lakers' 19-hit performance in the first game with a solo homer, a double, and a single, and also scored three times. Donahue recorded four singles, Swaney hit a double and two singles, Cook singled three times, and Rogers added a pair of singles.

The second game went into the bottom of sixth inning tied 4-4, but the Hawks recorded four runs in that frame to take an 8-4 advantage. The inning featured a two-run homer by Rick Russell.

Gene McLeod doubled and singled, while Dave Russell and Mike Hyson each singled twice for the Hawks, who finished with eight hits off Shane Skipper.

Rogers and Joe Pecarro each doubled and singled for an RBI for the Lakers. Donahue contributed two singles.

The Lakers went into the doubleheader at Dundalk on Saturday without the services of Aaron Cook and Mike Crosby, who were injured in the Charles twinbill, and then Pat Donahue got hurt in the first game against Dundalk to take away a large piece of Garrett's offensive power. While Cook and Donahue were expected back in the line-up by the end of the week, Crosby, one of the top hitters in the JUCO Conference, may be off for as much as two weeks with a hand injury.

Neil Bailey allowed only five hits in going the distance for Garrett in the opener, but Dundalk's Dan Quadrini was equally as effective, as he yielded just four hits.

Both of GCC's runs were scored in the fourth inning, one on a lead-off solo homer by Rogers and the second by Chris Swaney who reached with a double and later came home.

The Lakers managed just five hits in the second game off Mike Beagle, while Mike Pertko also pitched well for Garrett, but the Lions scored four unearned runs in the bottom of the sixth to insure their win.

Swaney finished with two singles for Garrett.

The Lakers seemed to be glad to be back on their own field Sunday afternoon, as they rallied from a 3-2 deficit with three runs in the second inning, and then came back again in the sixth with four runs after trailing 7-5.

Godby doubled and singled twice, Rogers finished with a double and a single, and Derick Namack produced a two-run double, as Blackburn went the distance for the win.

The Lakers maintained the momentum going into the second game, and erupted for eight runs in the first inning.

Ed Mata recorded five RBI with four singles, while Namack rapped two doubles and a single for two runs, and also scored four times. Rogers doubled and singled, and Swaney and Godby each singled twice in the 14-hit effort.

The Lakers were dominated by the 19-4 Catamounts of Potomac State on Tuesday, as Chad Cooper pitched eight innings to record the win over GCC freshman Jason Fitch.

Tim Oakes smacked three doubles and scored three times for the Catamounts and John Murphy added two doubles and scored twice.

Rogers led the Lakers with three of his team's seven hits and Cook contributed two singles.

Potomac State is currently the top ranked Division II team in the nation.

The Lakers are slated to host the Frostburg State University junior varsity team this afternoon, play a doubleheader at Essex CC on Friday, play two more games at Chesapeake CC on Saturday, host Catonsville CC in a twinbill Sunday afternoon (1 p.m.), and then entertain Montgomery-Rockville in a single game next Tuesday.

Huskies Drop Doubleheader To Clear Spring, Then Whip Beall

The Northern High baseball team saw its unbeaten streak come to an end Saturday in losing both ends of a doubleheader to Clear Spring on the Garrett Community College diamond.

The Huskies were 6-0 going into the twinbill, but dropped the first game, 20-12, and lost the second, 14-6. They came back Monday, however, to record a big 6-1 victory over Beall, also on the GCC field.

The Huskies will play again this Friday at Southern in a 4:30 p.m. contest.

Clear Spring recorded two dozen hits, including five home runs, in Saturday's pair of games, as the wind help carry some of the balls over the fence. Brad Elwood smacked a pair of homers and a single to account for four of his teams runs in the opener, while Mark Albowicz recorded six RBI with a homer, a double, and a single; Steve Presgraves added a home run and a single; and Matt Bragunier homered and singled for two runs.

Pacing the Huskies' 13-hit offense in the first game were Ryan Folk, who hit a three-run triple and a single, Bob Fritz with a double and a single for two RBI, Chris Wright with a double and a single, and Jeremy Brenneman and Tim Sines with two singles and one RBI each.

Presgraves, who was relieved by Chris Black in the fifth, earned the win on the mound over Rob Speicher.

Albowicz scattered eight hits in picking up the complete-game win in the second game for the Blazers over Northern starter Aaron Blocher.

Presgraves paced Clear Spring's 10-hit performance with a triple and a single for two runs, while Bragunier added two singles for two RBI and Elwood hit a two-run single.

Folk rapped a two-run triple for the Huskies, John Hamilton doubled and singled, and Sines and Brad Williams each recorded two singles.

"With the wind blowing the way it was, we probably shouldn't have played," stated Northern Coach Phil Carr. "But since it was a doubleheader, we were afraid that we wouldn't be able to re-schedule it. The outfielders on both teams had a terrible time."

Blocher had a much better day on the mound Monday, as he allowed only four hits, struck out nine, and walked just one Beall batter in six innings. The win was his fourth in five starts.

Walker Chapman performed nearly as well for the Mountaineers, as he pitched a no-hitter into the fourth inning, striking out seven Huskies in the first three frames.

After recording his eighth strike-out in the bottom of the fourth, Alan Sebold finally connected with one of Chapman's pitches for a line-drive single. He stole second base, moved to third on a wild pitch, and scored the first run of the game on a single by Fritz, who later came home on a single by Wright to give the Huskies a 2-0 lead.

Northern added four insurance runs in the fifth inning. Sines reached on an error, Folk followed with a walk, and Sebold singled to load the bases. Fritz drew a walk to send home Sines.

With two outs, Wright plated Folk and Sebold with a single and Brenneman followed with a single that scored Fritz.

The win gave the Huskies a 5-2 mark in regional play.

Following their game at Southern on Friday, the Huskies will play at Hancock on Saturday, host Flintstone on Monday, and entertain Rockwood next Wednesday.

Mat Club Ends Season; Three Win Maryland Titles

The Southern Mat Club, under head coach David Sines, recently celebrated the 1993-94 season at its annual banquet.

The Mat Club is composed of area youth sharing an interest in wrestling. The season began in November and recently concluded with several wrestlers competing in district and regional competition. Membership in the Club was over 40, with youth ranging from kindergarten through eighth grade. Wrestlers compete against opponents of their own age and weight affording the ability to participate to all, regardless of their age, weight, or gender.

In addition to its regular season, the Club participated in two district tournaments. The first, held in Shepherdstown, W.Va., resulted in four wrestlers being eligible to advance to the regional tournaments. They were Tom Sweitzer, Scott Wildesen, Geoff Tressler and John Hayhurst.

The following week, several members participated, for the first time, in the Maryland State Tournament, held in Columbia. Three young men emerged as state champions: Nick Sines, Eric Rexrode, and Eric Archer. Placing third in the state was Shawn Shiflett, with Andrew Grant and Steve Shiflett placing fourth. Archer advanced through the Regional Tournament, held in New Jersey, where he placed second.

One of the highlights of the banquet was the naming of the recipients of the Coach's Trophy, signifying excellence in all aspects of wrestling, including leadership, overall record, and attitude. The awards went to Steve Shiflett and Nick Sines.

Correction Noted

It was incorrectly reported last week that C.T. Granke was the only member of the Southern boys' track and field team who earned a first place finish in a meet with Northern and Allegany. Also capturing a first place was Southern's Cole Bauer, who won the shot put with a toss of 42'4". The omission is regretted.

Southern Track Teams Sweep Beall, Finish Second To Campers

The Southern High track and field teams swept a meet at Beall High School in Frostburg last Thursday and then finished second to Allegany in Cumberland Tuesday afternoon.

The Southern girls' team finished with 104 points in the meet at Beall to defeat the Mountaineers, who were second with 68 points, followed by Westmar with 51 and Mt. Savage with 24. The Southern boys edged Beall, the only other team in the boys' meet, 74-72.

Recording four first places for the Southern girls was Jenny Reams, who won the 200-meter dash and was a member of the 400-, 800-, and 1,600-meter relay teams. Lauren Newcomb won the 400- and 1,600-meter runs and was a member of the 1,600-relay team, while Aaron Buser won the triple jump and was a member of the 400 and 800 relay teams.

Other first places were won by Shannon Dabney, in the 3,200 run, and Orr in the 800 run.

In the boys' meet, Bryan Clickener won the 100- and 400-meter runs and was on the winning 800 relay team. Nathan McBee won the 800- and 1,600-meter runs, Andrew Lane won the long jump, Jerod Beckman won the high jump, and C.T. Granke won the triple jump.

In Tuesday's meet, the Southern girls scored 53 points to finish second to Allegany with 108 and ahead of Mt. Savage with 15.

Buser won the triple jump, Reams won the 200-meter dash, Miranda Marple won the 100-meter dash, and all three were on the winning 400 and 800 relay teams. Andrea Devens was also on the two winning relay teams.

A double winner for the Southern boys, who were defeated by Allegany, 99-38, was Cole Bauer, who won the shotput and discus. Clickener won the 400-meter run.

The Southern teams are slated to host Beall and Westmar this afternoon, beginning at 4 p.m.

Julie Adams & The Rhino Boys: A Review

by Jack DuBose

By turns jazzy, funky, and jangly, this unusual threesome puts the groove in acoustic music. Julie Adams' sultry voice and original tunes are the centerpiece around which circulate Steve Hill's melodic one-man-band guitar style, and Ammed Solomon's groove-master, tambourine-shoes percussion. This trio's folk-pop roots mingle with jazzy inflections and bluesy soul to deliver a sound somewhere between Bonnie Raitt and Rickie Lee Jones, with hints of Willie Dixon, Billie Holiday, and of course, Elvis Presley. Julie Adams and the Rhino Boys are currently at work on their first CD/cassette project, to be released in early 1994.

Julie and Ammed are best known for their weekly appearances on American Public Radio's live music show "Mountain Stage." Over the last 10 years, they have been on millions of listeners' radios in 115 cities across the U.S. that broadcast the critically acclaimed show.

Julie Adams, as featured vocalist on "Mountain Stage" (first with The Fabulous Twister Sisters, and now on her own), has been dazzling audiences and winning fans from Boston, Mass., to Fairbanks, Alaska, with her clear bluesy voice. This "Mountain Stage" connection also earned her a spot (as one of the Twister Sisters) on Vol. III of the "Best of Mountain Stage" CD series on the Blue Plate record label. Her songs have appeared in three feature films by award-winning filmmaker, Danny Boyd. Previous recordings include three records with the well-known West Virginia band, Stark Raven, and the self-titled album, The Fabulous Twister Sisters. Larry Groce, host of "Mountain Stage" says, "Julie Adams is one of the best singers anywhere, period."

Ammed Solomon is the versatile percussionist and funky back-beat behind the Mountain Stage band. He also provides the groove for many "Mountain Stage" guests (Michelle Shocked, the Roches, Dr. John, Warren Zevon, etc.). His ease with a variety of musical styles and his session expertise are readily apparent in his fluid musicianship. With Julie Adams & The Rhino Boys, audiences hear Ammed weave a fantastic texture of percussion sound, using clay and wooden drums, congas, and a unique array of tomtoms, cymbals, and other curious noisemakers. Ammed also counts among his recording credits The Fabulous Twister Sisters, three Stark Raven recordings, as well as recordings with the regionally legendary Putnam County Pickers.

Steve Hill, also an alumnus of the Putnam County Pickers, rounds out this trio with his innovative guitar work. Steve's approach to the acoustic guitar mixes jazz chordings with R & B rhythms and a funky pop sensibility. His improvisational technique keeps things jumping and serves as catalyst for the instrumental-vocal chemistry that makes this trio something truly out of the ordinary.

West Virginia audiences will recognize these three fine musicians from their past performances with West Virginia's most loved musical groups. Through their involvement with The Fabulous Twister Sisters, Stark Raven, and The Putnam County Pickers, these three have played in countless schools, from kindergarten to high school, have entertained college and university students, and have appeared at various state events -- from the steps of the state capitol to Senator Rockefeller's Washington, D.C. home. Their original music has been heard in concert settings across West Virginia and the eastern United States.

Meetings Set To Consider Changes In Fishing Regs

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced a series of public meetings to discus changes to the nontidal fishing regulations being considered for 1995 and to discuss fisheries resources generally.

The purpose of these meetings is to obtain input from the angling public prior to formal submission of proposed changes, and to provide for an open exchange of information regarding freshwater fishing in Maryland.

The meeting for Garrett and Allegany counties is scheduled for Monday, May 16, 7 p.m., at Frostburg State University in Room 210, Louis Ort Library.

Among the specific changes under consideration are:

*Add the following waters to the list of "Put-and-Take Trout Fishing Areas":

a. Sang Run (Garrett) Co.) mainstem including North and South branches.

b. Taneytown Rod and Gun Club Pond (Frederick Co.).

*Establish a Catch-and-Return Fishing Area for largemouth bass and smallmouth bass on the nontidal Potomac River. The area for discussion is Seneca Breaks upstream to the Monocacy and up the Monocacy to Buckeystown Dam.

*Establish a closed season for walleye in Deep Creek lake from March 1 to April 15.

*Add Bear Creek (Garrett Co.) to the list of Put-and-Take/Catch-and-Return Trout Fishing Areas.

*Change the closure dates of the Delayed Harvest Trout Fishing Areas for the Casselman River from Jan. 1 through June 1 to Jan. 1 through June 15.

$63,000 for parking lot improvements, and another $30,000 for the rehabilitation of its computer room. Edwards was able to obtain funding for the latter two projects only after he was able to convince the full House of Delegates that a project should be eligible for funding even it cost less than $100,000 -- the previously established standard for funding such projects.

Funding in the amount of $525,000 has also been set aside to open up the Maryland side of Jennings Randolph Lake through the construction of accesses and boat launches, said Edwards.

Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., will be the recipient of $1 million for the construction of a new facility. Lighthouse is a community rehabilitation program.

Other funding to Garrett County includes $100,000 for the Grantsville Senior Center; $100,000 for the Chestnut Ridge Sewer project; and $107,625 for the Mtn. Lake Park water mains rehabilitation.

Edwards also reported that during Fiscal Year 1995, the state will expend $2,329,658 for debt service on state bonds issued in prior years to fund capital projects in Garrett County.

The state will be paying a total of $2,441,630 for the employer share of local employees who are members of either the teachers' retirement or pension systems maintained and operated by the state.

Edwards noted that even though some categories of direct aid from the state to public schools, county government, public safety, libraries, the community college, and health formula grants have shown a slight decrease, the overall aid has been increased.

In other news from the delegate, two bills introduced by Edwards that affect only Garrett County were passed by the General Assembly.

HB 1543 will enable the county commissioners to establish by ordinance or resolution a Garrett County Women's Commission and HB 1381 established June 30, 1997, and June 30 of every fourth year thereafter as the dates by which the County Salary Study Commission must reports its recommendations to the county commissioners. Neither bill will effect a fiscal impact, according to Edwards.

Edwards is also hopeful that Governor William Donald Schaefer will sign an amended welfare reform bill that will set up a pilot program in two counties (Prince George's and Anne Arundel) and in Baltimore City.

"Even though the original bill had provisions for a family cap -- which would deny increases in welfare benefits to women who have children while on public assistance -- and that cap was rejected, the bill is still a step in the right direction for welfare reform," said Edwards. "We can't stay where we are right now."

The cap was taken out when anti-abortion legislators refused to support abortion rights advocates' inclusion of state funding of abortions for poor women.

Edwards noted that the implementation of the pilot program in the state, as well as in other states, will allow lawmakers to "see what works and what does not."

ONE OF MANY PARADES held in downtown Oakland over the past 100-plus years is pictured here, probably sometime around 1920, when the streets were still brick and the buildings were quite different. The angle of this photo is looking north on Second Street from the intersection of Second, Green, and Liberty. The only structure still standing is what is presently the Stewart Funeral Home in the background. The other buildings are all gone from the site now occupied by American Trust Bank. Quality Lunch and the first quarters for Proctor Klidow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, were among the businesses organizations housed on this block. The sign on the automobile in the center reads "Baby Welfare Conference." Behind that vehicle appears to be members of the local American Red Cross unit. The vehicle in front carries signs advertising Kellogg's All-Bran and Kellogg's Pep cereals. The photo, from the files of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, is published courtesy of the Historical Society and The Republican.

Northern Middle School Students "Take A Cruise" Across The Curriculum

by Rachel Leverenz and Kista Knox

The eighth grade class at Northern Middle School decided to skip the Caribbeans and the Bahamas and ignored the travel agents and the brochures from the Norwegian Cruise Lines and, instead, followed a more interesting route directly across the curriculum. They didn't watch the sunsets or swim on the beach and watch the fish dodge each other along the coral reef. In fact, they didn't even board a boat, but they did sail. Each NMS eighth grade student and teacher sailed across the curriculum as an integrated activity.

More realistically, during the month of January, the class participated in a program called "Sailing Across the Curriculum," which involved conducting related activities involving boating in each class. Science, social studies, math, and language arts classes all participated by teaching or organizing their shares in the program and then carrying the projects to another class.

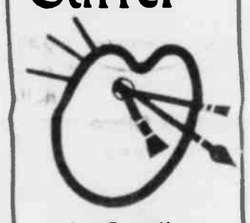
In science class, the students began by being introduced to the varieties and extremes of weather. They studied winds and hurricanes and then moved toward the constructional area of the project. The eighth graders were each given one piece of paper, and one inch of tape. With these materials, they were instructed to create a sail that would prove most successful when placed on a small physics cart and exposed to wind. When the students had finished making their sails, they taped them to a physics cart and set the cart 10 centimeters from a box fan on the highest setting, freeing them to roll as far as they could, where they were then measured and recorded.

With the class's data, the students calculated the mean, median, and mode of each student's highest scores. Next, just like the sails, the students were instructed to create sailboats from two pieces of paper and a two-inch piece of tape. These were then placed in a sink filled with water and float-tested.

From here, the class members carried their experiments to math class where the students tested the sailing of their home-made boats. Each student's sail boat was placed in a 105 centimeter long water-trough in front of a box fan on low setting. Each student was given three trials to race his boat to the end of the water-trough where the timer was stopped. The scores were recorded and the formula D=RT was used to find the rate and distance each boat traveled. Each person's lowest score (fastest time) was recorded and used to complete a box and whisker plot that showed the median of the class's averaged scores.

In social studies class, the eighth graders reviewed boating rules and discussed sailing safety, and then studied actual court cases from Maryland that involved sailing or boating. After reviewing these cases, each class acted out the case by playing the parts of judges, lawyers, juries, witnesses, and defendants. The jury decided whether to state the defendant innocent or guilty at the end of each case.

Finally, the students kept journal entries in their language arts classes that briefly described each day's integrated activity. They then read and studied the construction of a newspaper article in preparation to write their own about the program.



All in all, the program was different and many students showed interest and enthusiasm toward their sail across the curriculum.

"I think this was a very worthwhile activity," said David Butler, a participant. "It shows that all subjects are related and that problems can be easily worked out by using different subjects." Eric Neubert, also an eighth grade student at NMS, had positive comments to share. "It was an interesting program because we used activities and studies from one class and continued them in another."

In closing, the project, "Sailing Across the Curriculum," was successful as a first try, and the students "cruised" right through it.

Retired Local Businessman Dies Sunday

T. Kelly Vance Sr., 75, Mtn. Lake Park, founder and owner of Kelly's Appliance and Furniture Store, died Sunday, April 17, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland. He had operated the Mtn. Lake Park store for more than 30 years, until his retirement in 1984.

A sentencing date for Wilburn was not indicated on the court document.

In a separate case, a Myersville man was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with all but 30 days suspended, for a DWI (driving while intoxicated) conviction. Darren S. Mills, 31, was stopped by a Maryland State Police officer in July 1993 on Rt. 495, south of Painter School Road. At that time, he was charged with speeding, failure to drive right of center, failure to wear a safety belt, and DWI.

Mills pleaded guilty to DWI, and the other charges were not prosecuted. In addition to the jail time, he was fined $500 plus any court costs. He was also ordered to be on three years of probation following his release from the local jail.

A third case involved a 21-year-old Baltimore man who was charged with violation of probation. David D. Campbell made a motion for acquittal, and Thayer's verdict was "not guilty."

Campbell was originally convicted of escape and theft, having escaped from Savage Mountain Youth Center and stolen a van. The probation violation charge arose because the defendant was reportedly found guilty of drug possession in 1992, which was against one of the conditions of his parole. However, the judge found him not guilty of the violation.

Food For Thought

Frozen puff pastry can make elegant cookies, too. Brush a flattened sheet with water and roll up tightly, then cut the roll into ¼-inch rounds. Place on baking sheet, finger-press the tops and spoon jam into each hollow. Bake at 400 degrees about 20 minutes.

Making a stew? Be sure the meat chunks are big enough, about one-inch cubes. Smaller pieces may shrivel into odd-shaped bits as they cook.

Turn a package of goat cheese into a tasty dip with 3 Tbs. chopped radishes and 2 Tbs. chopped green onion tops, plus 2 Tbs. olive oil to smooth it out. Serve with crisp fresh vegetables.

To cut calories and still get the taste of mayonnaise or butter you crave on your sandwich, just spread a little around the edges of each piece of bread.

Custom-made kitchen allows one gentleman-chef to avoid back strain when he cooks: all food-preparation surfaces have been raised two inches higher than standard.

Thanks a bunch.
We'd like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of the many volunteers who have given their time so generously to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. These dedicated groups and individuals include the chaplains, board of governors, EMS squads, Foundation members, Loar auxiliary, and VIVA. This past year, our volunteers worked countless hours doing everything from delivering flowers to patients to raising money for a variety of hospital programs. Every minute of these countless hours was spent making the lives of our patients brighter and better. So in recognition of their remarkable contribution, we'd like to present our volunteers with this bouquet. It doesn't come close to expressing the depth of our gratitude but we thought flowers were appropriate for the people who have done so much to help us blossom.

Power Station Employees Honored

JUDITH ANN PARSONS

ERNEST SHOTWELL

LOUANNA B. CARR

Four present or former employees at Virginia Power's Mt. Storm Power Station have been honored under the utility's Volunteer of the Year program.

Louanna B. Carr, Randy D. Henderson, Judith Ann Parsons, and Ernest Shotwell are among 15 Virginia Power employees or retirees who were honored at a Richmond, Va., awards banquet Thursday night for their extensive community volunteer efforts.

Carr, a senior clerk typist at the station, was honored for her participation in a variety of Tucker County youth programs. She is involved with a number of youth recreation programs and works with the Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) program and also with programs at the county youth center and her church. Carr has been with Virginia Power for 12 years.

Henderson was cited for his leadership role as a director of the Burlington Old Fashioned Apple Harvest Festival. He is also president of the Burlington Volunteer Fire Department Inc. and president of Mineral County Fire Fighters Association. He works with a variety of regional churches, offering assistance in meeting building fire code regulations.

A veteran of 15 years with Virginia Power, Henderson is station safety and loss prevention coordinator at Mt. Storm.

Parsons was honored for her leadership as vice president of the Women's Aid In Crisis organization's Board of Directors and her efforts in the group's personnel and fundraising functions. She is also a member of the Board of Directors for the Tucker County Community Endowment Foundation and chair of that group's Grants and Scholarship Committee. Parsons is also a member of the board for the Tucker County United Way and is active in the power station's Volunteer Committee.

The power station's supervisor - Administrative Services, Parsons has been with Virginia Power for 25 years.

Shotwell, who retired from the station four years ago, was honored for his participation in a church-sponsored trip to Miami, Fla., to repair homes damaged by Hurricane Andrew last summer. He spent almost two weeks living under primitive conditions in Florida while he and others from his church worked on badly damaged houses and other buildings.

A maintenance planner at the Mt. Storm station before his retirement, Shotwell had been with the utility for more than 34 years.

Virginia Power's Employee Volunteer Program was organized 10 years ago to provide an effective way for the company's 12,000 employees to make contributions of their time and effort to their communities. Since the program's inception, volunteers have contributed almost one million hours to projects ranging from cutting wood to help the needy stay warm, to community recreational projects and working with local youth groups.

Almost all volunteer hours are contributed on the employee's own time, although company equipment may occasionally be used to support worthy projects. The program was honored in 1989 with the national President's Volunteer Action Award.

Selections of the Volunteer of the Year and the Volunteer Project of the Year were made by a panel of judges made up of state volunteer leaders from outside the company.

LWV GATHERS TRASH ALONG ADOPTED HIGHWAY - The State Highway Administration's Adopt-A-Highway (AAH) program is celebrating its fifth anniversary this spring, and because the month of April has been designated Earth Month, several groups have worked this month to keep their adopted roadways free of trash and garbage. The members of the local League of Women Voters were out, armed with trash bags and gloves, to do their part in beautifying the area. Pictured above, left to right, are Donna Aspinall, Barbara Flinn, and Edith Brock. These women, along with Connie Margison and Gene Flinn, gathered eight trash bags full of garbage, with two of the bags full of recyclable items. They also collected a fender, two hubcaps, a muffler, and a five-foot exhaust pipe. In a letter written to all AAH participants, Garrett County Coordinator Robert Rowan stated that a clean environment is "crucial today and for our future. Even more, we should be proud of our state and its beauty." Persons who wish to receive information on adopting a highway may contact Rowan at 895-3234 or 746-8141.

HOT IDEA FOR COLD TEA

Because no one ever wants to drink cold tea, there have been many suggested solutions to the problem down through the centuries. During the 18th century, a small hollow porcelain pedestal was designed that could hold an oil lamp. This tiny heater was kept in the bedroom to heat the contents of a bowl, cup or teapot for an invalid or sick child.

About 1800, the design was improved, and a matching teapot — with a special bottom that fit into the stand — was produced and called a veilleuse. The name came from the French word meaning "keep a night vigil." Veilleuses were made by many important porcelain factories in Europe. The idea remained popular until the 1870s, and even today modern versions are made.

Q. I just purchased a bachelor's chest at an auction. The upper drawer extends out slightly over the three lower drawers. It is stamped "Johnston, Meader & Co. Manufacturers of all kinds of Furniture & chairs, 41st & 48, W. Second St., Cincinnati, Ohio." Can you tell me about the maker?

A. Charles Johnston was a chair manufacturer in Cincinnati from 1849 to 1868. In 1856, he was working with John Fitch Meader on West 2nd Street in Cincinnati, but by 1860, he had changed partners and locations. Your bachelor's chest was made sometime between 1856 and 1860. The larger upper drawer is typical of the Empire-style furniture made at that time.

Q. I have a cast-iron toy airplane given to my father in 1934. It is a two-seat, single-engine plane with molded words on the wings that say "Lindy" and "NR-211." On the rudder it says "Lockheed Sirius," and on the bottom are the words "1933 Hubley." It is 10½ inches long. What is the history of this toy?

A. The toy represents the first low-wing Lockheed plane designed by Jack Northrop and made to the specifications of Charles Lindbergh, who set the transcontinental speed record in a Lockheed Sirius in 1930. He had the aircraft converted to a seaplane and used it on flights to the Orient. The original plane is now on display in Washington. The toy was made by the Hubley Manufacturing Co. of Lancaster, Pa. Their tags are favored by toy collectors.

Home Tips

SORTING IT OUT — I recently made a major move and needed to put a lot of my furniture into storage. I had several assistants and didn't want to take a chance on arriving at my destination and finding that an item I needed was being stored, so here's an idea I came up with.

To separate the items going into storage from the ones that needed to be packed, I used colored adhesive labels. I placed a fluorescent green dot on all the furniture to go. The storage items didn't have dots because I didn't want stickers to stay on the furniture for an indefinite amount of time.

This also worked with closets and cabinet units.

A little baby oil removed any sticker residue that was left on the furniture when it was unpacked. Jim T., Youngstown, Ohio.

IN-HOUSE SCHOOLING — I have a great idea for people wondering what to do with old reference materials (e.g. encyclopedias).

I have recently joined the ranks of thousands of other home schooling families, teaching my teenager at home. I would love to get my hands on an inexpensive set of used encyclopedias and a world atlas.

People should advertise unused reference materials in the local newspaper or newsletter. No doubt some people will be interested or will pass the word to an eager home schooler they know.

Even though much of the information may be outdated, an old encyclopedia may shed new light on historical events, and an old dictionary may list words that are contained in old literature books but are not found in today's more "modern" dictionaries. Liz R., Green Bay, Wis.

EAR RELIEF — If your clip earrings hurt, buy a hole puncher and a piece of self-sticking moleskin (found in foot-care sections of supermarkets). Punch out a circle of moleskin, remove the backing and stick it to the earring clips for comfort. It's less costly than ready-made clip pads. Victoria G., Yuma, Ariz.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

WARMING UP TO FROZEN FOOD: Nutritionists used to shrink in alarm at the thought of suggesting the use of frozen foods. There was almost always just too much fat and sodium, and too few good things in these foods to qualify as healthful additions to the diet. But, thanks to consumers who are increasingly aware of what's healthful and what's not, the frozen food industry is changing many of its products to conform to better nutritional standards.

According to an article in the University of Texas Lifetime Health Letter (March, 1994), greasy drumsticks and potatoes mashed in saturated fats are no longer the stars in the frozen food cabinet. But the key to whether you're getting a more healthful frozen product or not is learning how to read the labels.

The following guide from the Lifetime article will help you decipher what those labels mean.

1. Fat Content: The dinner or entree should derive no more than 30 percent of its calories from fat.

2. Sodium: Next to fat, salt traditionally has been a big dietary offender in frozen foods. Look for products that contain no more than 600 milligrams of sodium.

3. Protein: Ideally, a frozen dinner should provide at least 15 grams of protein, or a third of the average adult's daily requirement.

4. Serving Size: Some dinners and product lines offer more food than others. Compare weights. So-called complete dinners tend to go heavy on the entree and skimp on vegetables and side dishes.

5. Vitamins and Minerals: Many frozen dinners (even the "healthier" versions) don't provide adequate amounts of certain vitamins and minerals. Knowing the nutrient content of a dinner can help you decide how to "fill in" with your own foods to make a meal more nutritionally complete.

You can "fill in" with a fruit, vegetable, or salad to supply some of the missing fiber or nutrients. A glass of skim milk or a cup of low-fat yogurt provides calcium. Also add a slice or two of whole wheat bread to obtain the important B vitamins and fiber.

A note of caution: Don't be misled by catchy product names or phrases. Something cited as low in calories can be high in fats and sodium. (Remember, it's the calories from fats that are mostly responsible for unwanted weight gain and other nutritional woes.) Always go past the advertising to the labels. They have to be accurate by law!

Women At Work
by Tamara Jones

JUST IN TIME! That's what employers are calling a new hiring practice designed to help them offset increased expenses if the mandatory employer health reform measure becomes law.

James E. Challenger, president of Challenger, Gray & Christmas, an international outplacement consulting firm explains the process:

"The use of just-in-time workers is expected to increase dramatically as employers recognize the added value of hiring a more flexible workforce."

Challenger also challenges the widely-held notion that health reform would be a hardship for small or medium sized businesses. "(It) ... may turn out to be a blessing in disguise for some smaller employers. The emphasis in business today is on cost control..."

However, while these employees (which sound to me very much like "temps" with a new title) may help employers keep their bottom lines profitable, I'm not so sure the practice is that beneficial for the workers. Of course, if President Clinton can persuade Congress to keep in his universal coverage aspect under health reform, they wouldn't have to worry about losing health care insurance because they don't have permanent jobs. But all other things being equal, "journeymen" employees (which is what they'll be — as they take their skills from job to job) can hardly expect to grow with a company and be promoted as it becomes more profitable.

Shriners To Hold Annual Onion Sale

The local Shriners of the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, Cumberland, will hold their annual sweet vidalia onion sale this Friday and Saturday, according to Boss Clown Harold Kisner, of the local Harige Clown Unit, pictured above.

Shriners will be located in the parking lot of Farmers Market and Browning's Foodland to take orders.

Kisner said the slogan for the annual sale is, "They only make you cry when they're gone!" The sweet vidalia onions were expected to arrive this week from Georgia.

According to Don True, general chairman of the sale for Western Maryland, over 2,000 bags of the onions were sold two years ago, the first year of the project. "And last year we sold just under 3,000 bags," he said.

Proceeds from the sale benefit the various service projects of the Shrine Club.

Students at Northern High School, Southern High School, Northern Middle School, and Southern Middle School are designing and fabricating three dimensional papier-mache or foam-core birds of many colors and species which will be displayed at the Ruth Enlow library on Friday, April 29, and Saturday, April 30.

Kenneth Bauer, Dennis Ruane, and Mark Stutzman will judge the entries on Friday at 4 p.m.

Cash prizes for first, second, and third places will be awarded to the winners from the combined Northern and Southern high schools and from the combined Northern and Southern middle schools at a reception on Saturday, April 30, at 2:30 p.m. at the library.

Refreshments will be provided at the reception by members of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) Benefit Committee. All of the birds will be displayed at the GLAF dinner on June 25 to create an atmosphere of "Totally Tropic."

The public is invited to view these "Feathered Fantasies" and to attend the reception for the students.

Joffrey Ballet Dance Symposium Slated At FSU

To celebrate the return of The Jollrey Ballet to the Frostburg State University campus, the University will be sponsoring the symposium "The Joffrey Achievement: 1956 to 1994" at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 24, in the Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center. The symposium, conducted prior to the Joffrey's return performance, is free and open to the public.

Moderated by Dr George Dorris, a New York associate professor of English at City University of New York and founder and co-editor of the Dance Chronicle, the event will feature four internationally-known authorities on the world of ballet.

Sasha Anawalt, a free-lance writer and author of a history of The Joffrey Ballet (currently in progress), will address the early days of The Joffrey and its tour of the Frostburg State Teacher's College in her presentation: "Set, Dancers and a Station Wagon: The Earlier Joffrey Ballet Tours."

Dance critic for The New York Times Jack Anderson will discuss "Joffrey as Connoisseur." Anderson, also a poet and dance historian, is co-editor of Dance Chronicle and editor of An Anthology of Twentieth-Century Dance Poems.

"The Joffrey I Know" will be presented by Ann Barzel, a Chicago teacher of classical ballet and dance history. Barzel frequently publishes writings on dance and serves as dance consultant to the National Endowment for the Arts, the United States Information Agency and the Illinois Arts Council. Currently, she is arranging the dance archieves of the Newberry Library of Chicago.

Finally, a presentation of writings by Clive Barnes, Associate Editor and Drama/Dance critic for The New York Post, will be read. Barnes is also editor of Dance and Dancers and author of Nureyev. His writings will address "The Joffrey Achievement."

This symposium has been made possible, in part, by the Maryland Humanities Council through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For additional information, persons may contact the Dean of School of Arts and Humanities at Frostburg State at (301) 689- 7459.

COVER STORY

CBS offers a tough but tender 'Yearling'

Jean Smart

Viewers who – as this one did – think of "The Yearling" as "Old Yeller" on hooves are in for a shock. CBS' stunning remake, based on Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' novel and airing Sunday, April 24, is an unsentimental and, thus, almost unbearably moving coming-of-age story.

Peter Strauss plays Penny Baxter, a farmer struggling against all odds to eke out a living in the scrub forests adjoining the Florida Everglades. He and his wife, Ora (Jean Smart), buried several children as infants, and now have only the adolescent Jody (Wil Horneff, "The Sandlot").

Due to the family's isolation, Jody has almost no interaction with other children, apart from a crippled older boy with a passion for animals. It is typical of Rawlings' unsparing narrative that this friend dies before the TV movie is half over. Before then, however, he plants an important idea in Jody's mind: "Critters don't got to have a use, Jody. They just love you. Ain't that worth a little trouble, boy?"

"A little trouble" understates what follows after Penny tells Jody he can bring home a tiny fawn orphaned by Jody's rifle. Ultimately, the boy will have to make a harsh adult decision about the animal's fate.

Despite a Southern accent that is a sometime thing, Strauss is otherwise perfectly cast as Penny, a gruff but very loving father, even in adversity. Horneff is generally effective, if not quite as memorable in his vulnerability as the Oscar-winning Claude Jarman in the 1946 feature adaptation.

Make no mistake about it, however: The movie's heart and soul stems from Jean Smart, who draws on her innate warmth to make some very daring actor's choices in portraying an exhausted mother so used to abject poverty that she is reduced to grateful tears over her husband's simple gift of six yards of cheap fabric.

"Jody, the day your Ma told me she was with child again, there weren't no joy in her eyes. Only fear," Penny confides in his son. "I don't know how to take that fear away."

And that fear shines through every scene that Ora has with her son, the child whom she is terrified to love openly because she is afraid that he, too, will be taken away. As Penny lies fighting for his life after a rattlesnake bite, Ora finds Jody crouched by the graves of his dead siblings ("the others," he calls them).

Choking back tears, determined that her child won't see her own vulnerability, she says, "You go to your room, and you get in your bed, and you pray like you've never prayed before. My prayers ain't saved a one of 'em,' she adds, nodding toward the tombstones. 'I got no prayers left in me."

After she drives Jody away by wounding his pet to protect their badly needed corn crop, Ora's stony facade cracks and she confronts Penny: "You take him off and you teach him 'the ways of men.' But you leave it to me to do the hard things. ... It was you that give him the deer. It was me that took him away."

"The Yearling" – and most especially Smart's performance – is not to be missed.

In the one-hour special, Barney, the popular, purple children's television character, takes his friends on a magical adventure to Imagination Island.

There they meet an eccentric toy inventor, Professor Tinkerputt, and receive a valuable lesson on the virtues of sharing.

'Prime Suspect 3' thrilling but brutal

BY SUZANNE GILL

Jane Tennison is tough. As a detective chief inspector of the London Police Department, it's her job to head up criminal investigations – visiting crime scenes, viewing bodies, interrogating lowlife witnesses.

She also handles the personnel issues of her team, and she frequently battles an old-boy network that views her with suspicion, disrespect and a callow grin. The one thing she seems to be afraid of is love; she keeps men at arm's length.

Helen Mirren, who plays Tennison in the "Prime Suspect" series on PBS' "Mystery!," calls her character "driven, obsessive, vulnerable, unpleasantly egotistical and confused – like we all are. ... But I don't see her as unhappy."

As "Prime Suspect 3" opens, Thursday, April 28 (check local listings), Tennison is moving to the Vice Division in the city's notorious SoHo district. Her first case involves the death of a 17-year-old "rent boy" in the apartment of a transsexual cabaret singer (Peter Capaldi). The investigation won't be easy; a recent sweep operation was rendered useless by a leak on the force.

The trail leads Tennison through a world of homeless, abused and drug-abusing children, to a child prostitution ringleader (David Thewlis of "Naked"), a child pornographer and their elite clientele. Two more boys die. One of Tennison's team is exposed to AIDS, and she faces a personal crisis.

The script, by "Prime Suspect" creator Lynda La Plante, is crackerjack, the scenes brutally realistic. The cast includes Tom Bell as Sgt. Bill Otley, an old burr in Tennison's side, and Andrew Woodall as Detective Dalton of Scotland Yard.

Thursday, Jane Tennison (Helen Mirren) begins a new assignment in "Prime Suspect 3," part of PBS' "Mystery!" series (check local listings). Tom Bell returns as Sgt. Bill Otley.

Tim and Tyne Daly

Q: My daughter and I have a bet. I say that the man who plays Joe on "Wings" is Tyne Daly's brother. She says it is the guy who plays Roy. Who is right? –P. Dye, Flint, Mich.

A: You are. Tyne and Tinn are the children of the late James Daly ("Medical Center").

Q: My husband and I are avid watchers of "Mystery Science Theater 3000." Please let me know what former host Joel Hodgson is up to. I just love him! –Wendy Horkman, Green Bay, Wis.

A: I'm always delighted to hear from a fellow Mstie (pronounced "misty," for the uninitiated). Since fleeing the Satellite of Love via an escape pod that his robot Gypsy found concealed in a crate deceptively labeled "Hamdingers," Green Bay area native Hodgson has been exploring a variety of new projects, while still occasionally helping to write and direct "Mystery Science." His first effort bombed: He helped produce the offbeat and short-lived "Paula Poundstone Show." Although head writer Michael J. Nelson has taken over host chores on "Mystery Science," you can write to Hodgson C/O the MST 3000 Information Club, P.O. Box 5325, Hopkins, Minn. 55343.

Q: A recent "Highlander" episode was dedicated to the memory of Werner Stocker, who played Darius last year. What happened? Also, please tell me about Adrian Paul. –Cheryle Horvath, Cleveland.

A: Born April 7, 1955, in Elmtsbusch, Bavaria, Stocker died at 38 last May of a cerebral tumor. The show's producers deemed it appropriate to acknowledge his death in an episode called "Unholy Alliance," during which MacLeod (Adrian Paul) discovered Darius' murderer, Horton, is still alive.

Paul was born and raised in London. He performed in school plays, but his focus was on sports. He played semi-pro soccer, then traveled around Europe as a model, dancer and choreographer for six years before moving to Los Angeles to dance and seek acting roles.

Paul's first acting experience was on "The Colbys." He co-starred with Tom Berenger in the feature film "Last Rites" and has appeared on series such as "Murder, She Wrote," the 1991 "Dark Shadows" and "Beauty and the Beast." His wife, Mellam, is one of the Uh-Huh Girls in the Ray Charles Diet Pepsi commercials.

Write to the cast of "Highlander" C/O Rysher Entertainment, 3723 W. Olive Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91505.

Q: Where can I write to Jack Lemmon? –Enness T. Arnold, Tombstone, Ariz.

TIME OUT

NFL draft: Where will Wilkinson wind up?

BY JEFF PLASS

Mel Kiper Jr.

For this year's NFL draft, airing on ESPN and ESPN2 Sunday, April 24, the operative words are "Big Daddy."

At press time, the Cincinnati Bengals hold the top pick in this year's annual talent pool, and whether they keep that pick or trade it to another team, it looks like Ohio State defensive lineman Dan "Big Daddy" Wilkinson will be the first player selected.

ESPN analyst and NFL draft guru Mel Kiper Jr. explains why he believes Wilkinson will be the top pick.

"There's no question he is the best player in the draft overall," Kiper says. "He's got awesome strength, tremendous 40 speed (timed runs in the 40-yard dash) and he's a killer in the trenches."

Meanwhile, the New England Patriots stand poised with the fourth pick.

Patriots head coach Bill Parcells is known for his sincere appreciation of fine defensive players and may try to trade up to get to the coveted Wilkinson.

"My point is," Kiper continues, "that if Parcells can work out a deal to go from number four to number one, then 'Big Daddy' goes number one to New England.

"But if Cincinnati stays where they are, they take Wilkinson with that pick. Even though they drafted University of Alabama defensive end John Copeland last year, other than Copeland there's really nothing else to speak of on their defensive line."

Selecting second and third, respectively, are the Indianapolis Colts and the Washington Redskins, two teams in need of quarterback help.

"Now that Indy has traded Jeff George," Kiper says boldly, "you know that they're gonna take Shuler."

Kiper is referring to University of Tennessee quarterback Heath Shuler who, along with Fresno State quarterback Trent Dilfer, is giving fans of the draft a sense of deja vu.

In last year's draft, the top two picks were quarterbacks Drew Bledsoe (Washington State) and Rick Mirer (Notre Dame) and there was some controversy regarding which of the two should go higher.

Kiper correctly predicted that Bledsoe would be the top pick, taken by the New England Patriots.

"With QBs it's a feel and an instinct that you have," he explains. "I just felt that Bledsoe was better than Mirer and I feel that Shuler's better than Dilfer. And there's not a great difference there. But I just think there's enough of a difference there to warrant a higher rating."

MOVIE MARQUEE

Laughs held 'Hostage' in Fox action-comedy

BY JEFF PLASS

George Wendt

Fox's premiere action-comedy, "Hostage for a Day," is reminiscent of those silly "Gilligan's Island" movies that popped up in the late 1970s.

In both cases, the material should have been mercifully condensed into a half-hour format, and in both cases a laugh track should have been incorporated to let viewers know where the "funny" moments are.

Premiering Monday, April 25, "Hostage" stars George (Norm-te from "Cheers") Wendt as Warren Kooey, a horrifically henpecked husband who stages his own kidnapping to recoup his own money and fund his lifelong dream of living a simple, rustic life in Alaska.

Perhaps "Hostage" should have been kidnapped by the society for the preservation of the memory and good name of the late John Candy. Sadly, the film marks Candy's one and only directorial work.

The film's writing and acting duel it out for the outstanding mediocrity award with the script taking home the ribbon.

"Hostage" does contain moments where viewers can see Candy's comic brilliance scratching to get out.

John Vernon (Dean Wormer from "National Lampoon's Animal House") plays Warren's overbearing father-in-law, and is seen passing his fingers over a candle flame (a la G. Gordon Liddy) during the police questioning.

And Candy, in a cameo as one of the Russian terrorists Warren claims to have been kidnapped by, quips, "You know anything about movie rights?" to Warren's lawyer pal at the end of the hostage crisis.

But aside from these comic nuggets, the laugh track would have come in handy for the rest of the movie.

Now, more seriously, Rebecca De Mornay stars in the ABC drama "Getting Out," also premiering Monday.

De Mornay portrays a young Georgia woman, recently released from prison, who seeks to be reunited with the son she bore while in jail. While trying to get her life in order, she is forced to deal with the horrors of her childhood and the role her mother (Ellen Burstyn) played in creating those demons.

On Sunday, April 24, Jean Smart and Peter Strauss star in CBS' remake of "The Yearling," and the hills are alive with Julie Andrews in "The Sound of Music" on NBC.

NBC offers Powers Boothe in "Web of Deception" on Monday, and Kenny Rogers in "MacShayne: Final Roll of the Dice," on Friday, April 29.

'Days' actor Carey dead at age 81

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Macdonald Carey

The patriarch of the Horton family on "Days of Our Lives," Macdonald Carey, died March 21, 1994, at the age of 81.

"Days" debuted on NBC November 8, 1965, with Carey introducing the soap opera with the message, "This is Macdonald Carey, and these are the days of our lives."

But before joining the daytime drama, Carey enjoyed a distinguished career in feature films, theater and television.

Carey starred in more than 60 films, including "The Great Gatsby," "Streets of Laredo," "Let's Make It Legal," "Stranger at My Door" and Alfred Hitchcock's "Shadow of Doubt."

As a young man, Carey joined NBC radio in 1937, where he worked in dramas such as "Stella Dallas," "Young Hickory," "John's Other Wife," "Just Plain Bill" and "Ellen Randolph."

On Broadway, Carey starred opposite Kitty Carlisle in "Anniversary Waltz" and with Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady in the Dark."

Just before the onset of World War II, Carey moved to Los Angeles and signed with Paramount Pictures. When war was declared, he decided to join the Marines.

After the war, Carey finished out his contract with Paramount and set out to tackle the world of television. In the mid-1950s, the actor enjoyed an active television career. He starred in several dramatic series including "Playhouse 90," "The U.S. Steel Hour" and "Alcoa Playhouse." Later he portrayed Squire James in the popular miniseries "Roots."

Carey was twice awarded Emmys as Best Actor in a Daytime Drama for his work on "Days." He also won six viewer-selected Soap Opera Awards for his role as Dr. Tom Horton.

Carey married Betty Heckscher in 1943, and they had six children. The couple divorced in 1969, and the actor attributed the breakup of his marriage to his alcoholism. He wrote about his battle with alcohol in his 1991 autobiography, "The Days of My Life."

Deciding he liked the idea of writing and the power words seemed to have, Carey began a second career. He penned three volumes of poetry: "A Day in the Life," "That Further Hill" and "Beyond That Further Hill."

Carey is survived by his six children and six grandchildren.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Humor found at home; trouble brewing abroad

Brett Butler

A sense of humor can be as important as vitamins during a girl's formative years. To that end, there's "Growing Up Funny," a comedy special with host Brett Butler ("Grace Under Fire") airing Sunday, April 24, on Lifetime.

Lily Tomlin, Marlo Thomas, Jasmine Guy and Raven Symone share their wit and wisdom on topics such as self-esteem, physical appearance and career choices. The special is produced in association with the Ms. Foundation's second annual Take Our Daughters to Work day, Thursday, April 28.

This year's Oscar-winning documentary feature, "I Am a Promise: The Children of Stanton Elementary School," takes a bow with an encore airing Monday, April 25, on HBO.

The hardening of Muslim opinion against the West is explained with unusual clarity in "Beirut to Bosnia," a three-part report airing Wednesday, April 27, through Friday, April 29, on The Discovery Channel. British correspondent Robert Fisk, who has lived in the Lebanese capital since 1976, shows viewers the carnage on both sides of the fighting in the occupied territory of southern Lebanon and Israel's Gaza Strip. In Part 3, "To the Ends of the Earth," Fisk travels from Egypt, where Muslim extremists resist the government peace plan, to Bosnia, where Muslims fight a losing battle against "ethnic cleansing." Finally, Fisk wonders aloud why the West fails to hear its journalists' reports of Muslim suffering and predicts that the people's pent-up anger will not go away.

Also on Friday, Bill Kurtis visits the training camp of the fanatical Tamil guerrillas of Sri Lanka in "Investigative Reports: Suicide Killers," airing on A&E.

"Jesus: Holy Child," airing Friday on A&E's "Ancient Mysteries: Mysteries of the Bible," reviews the known facts of Jesus' birth, which some scholars believe was at another time and place than tradition suggests.

Wesley Snipes stars in the HBO debut of "Boiling Point," Saturday, April 30. Dennis Hopper co-stars in the 1993 suspense drama about a federal agent looking for revenge.

Randy Travis stars in The Nashville Network's original movie "Wind in the Wire," airing Wednesday. Filmed in Santa Fe, N.M., Maui, Hawaii, and the Dakota badlands, "Wind" is little more than a setting for Travis' 10 songs, plus cameo appearances by Burt Reynolds, Lou Diamond Phillips and Chuck Norris – as themselves.

Maryland State Insurance Agency To Hold Forum

The Maryland Insurance Administration has scheduled an open forum to provide information and discuss insurance issues on Thursday, April 28, at 7:15 p.m. in The Front Room of the Community Center, 27 South Water Street in Frostburg.

This open forum is another in a series of statewide sessions with the general public. The Maryland Insurance Administration, under the leadership of Commissioner Dwight K. Bartlett, III, has placed a high priority on reaching-out to the general public to assist and to inform on the myriad questions and problems of insurance-related issues.

When Insurance Commissioner Bartlett assumed his position in June of 1993, a major portion of his mission was that "we shall educate the public about insurance so that Marylanders can make informed choices, and we shall insist that the industry be responsive to its customers."

Members of the staff of the agency will be present at the open forum. Although the principle thrust of the discussion will be geared to automobile and homeowners insurance, other questions about life insurance and health plans will be welcome.

The forum is not intended to deal with individual complaints, but rather broad insurance-related issues. However, a representative will be there to talk with people with insurance problems and to undertake the initial procedures toward rectifying them.

For more information on this open forum, persons may contact the Consumer Services Office of the Maryland Insurance Administration at 1-800-492-6116.

Earns Degree In Hamburgerology

Jeffrey L. Haines, manager at the McDonald's restaurant in Oakland, has been awarded a bachelor of hamburgerology degree from McDonald's Hamburger University (H.U.) for graduating from the University's advanced operations course. All McDonald's restaurant managers, franchisees, mid-management and company executives are required to complete this course.

According to a company spokesman, McDonald's managers are trained in every aspect of general business management, including customer service, personnel practices, quality assurance, equipment fundamentals, accounting and marketing. Coursework also includes training in effective communications with personnel, suppliers and customers.

To attend H.U., students must first complete McDonald's management development program which consists of classroom instruction and more than two years of restaurant training. This program and the advanced operations course are approved for 18 hours of college credit by the American Council on Education and can be applied toward an associate or baccalaureate college degree.

McDonald's H.U. was founded in 1961 to ensure consistency in food quality, customer service and restaurant operations throughout the growing McDonald's system. It has been cited by several business publications as a model corporate training facility. By the end of 1994, more than 50,000 students will have graduated from H.U.

On The Menu...

Fresh Vegetable Varieties

Zesty vegetable medleys, such as Roasted Red Pepper Dip and Vegetable Cornucopia Salad, add a fresh, healthy splash to any menu.

Spring heralds the arrival of many natural delights—the earthy aroma of fresh green grass, vibrant colors of new tulip blossoms and the anticipation of tasty, sweet vegetables at their peak of freshness. The season's choices of crisp radicchio, aromatic herbs, juicy bell peppers and sweet peas are a vegetable lover's dream! In fact, more than 100 vegetable varieties will be available this season.

When choosing your produce, the power of observation—and natural instinct—should direct your purchases. Produce that is firm to the touch with rich, bright colors is the most fresh and vitamin-rich. For instance, darker varieties of leafy greens are great sources of vitamin A. Smaller sized vegetables often ensure a more tender texture and full flavor. And, keep your eyes peeled for bruises, soft spots and cuts—these are sure signs that produce has passed its peak of freshness.

Whether you select your favorite produce at your neighborhood grocery store, farmers' market or right out of your own backyard, your primary concern is how to keep your produce fresh until you have time to eat it.

Very often you open the refrigerator only to find that the vegetables you stored for just a short period of time have spoiled. The key to avoiding the refrigerator nightmare of limp lettuce, slimy celery, dried-out carrots and mushy tomatoes is knowing proper storage methods. This will help put an end to unplanned trips to the grocery store to replenish spoiled produce, save you money and simplify meal planning.

Proper storage means sorting and storing fresh vegetables according to their moisture levels. Once they're picked, many vegetables immediately begin to lose moisture and flavor. As a basic rule of proper storage, fresh produce should be stored unwashed and uncut to retain maximum quality, unless you plan to serve it immediately after purchase. The most advanced technique for storing produce is Ziploc vegetable bags—the first bags scientifically designed to keep vegetables fresher, longer. In each bag, hundreds of tiny holes called Freshness Vents allow excess moisture to escape, yet hold just the right amount of moisture in the bag.

Armed with proper storage techniques, there's no end to the multitude of vegetable dishes you can prepare. Whether you're creating simple side dishes, salads, casseroles or party appetizers, a wide variety of vegetables can satisfy your taste buds and, of course, provide many nutritional benefits. For instance, you can simply upgrade dips and spreadable salads, such as tuna or egg salad, with chunks of chopped cucumber, zucchini or tomato. Or, spice up steamed vegetables and other vegetable combinations with minced fresh dill weed or basil.

To sample some of the season's freshest vegetables, try any of the following recipes for an invigorating lunch, dinner or snack.

Healthy diets are in!

Nutrition experts recommend eating "5 a day"–that is, a minimum of five servings of vegetables and fruits each day to maintain better health. What exactly is "a serving?" Here are a few examples:

- ½ cup fruit
- ¾ cup 100% juice
- ½ cup cooked vegetable
- 1 cup leafy vegetable
- ¼ cup dried fruit

GRANTSVILLE WOOD SCULPTOR Dennis Ruane will be presenting an exhibit of his hardwood sculptures at The Windrush Gallery, April 28 to May 12. He is pictured with his black walnut piece titled "Rising Pheasant."

Wood Sculptor Dennis Ruane To Show At Windrush Gallery

by Carol Calhoun

Wood Sculptor Dennis Ruane is carving out a niche in the local arts. His works created from native hardwoods depicting his visions of the world are masterfully produced -- sometimes amazingly true to life, and sometimes more impressionistic. He presents a look at the natural world as well as an intimate presentation of human nature. A show of his wood sculpture will be opening April 28th at The Windrush Gallery in Friendsville.

It all began in 1982 when Ruane was looking for a distraction from his studies at the University of Wisconsin. "In the spring of 1982, one year into my Ph.D. work, I quit school and began to carve for a living. I was not a scientist. Carving began as a hobby to distract me from my studies, and soon began to compete for my time. Initially my interest was in folk art and folk carving," he said.

He found that there was a demand for hand carved spoons, and from the start he had a way to support himself while perfecting his skill. Even though he had graduated magna cum laude from WVU with a B.S. degree in animal and veterinary science, and a master's degree in nutritional science, he discovered that his calling was the creation of art made with his hands and heart.

"I moved to a farm in Northeastern Pennsylvania where I transformed an old barn into a primitive studio apartment. It was here that I began to carve more involved sculptures and began to experiment with various hardwoods," he said. His raw materials are most frequently started from rough logs, often times donated to him by people who are instantly captivated by his good nature and easy smile.

"Wood sawn into boards isn't nearly as interesting," he said, and neighbors and friends are always telling him about big trees that are being cut. "I love walnut," he added.

In 1985 Ruane was invited to join the Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville, where he was a wood sculpture for five years. He carves spoons that sell as fast as he can make them to craft shops in several states.

However, his larger pieces really show his creative talents, and his future direction is for more inspired and elaborate work. "Not long after moving to Grantsville, I acquired a large old log house, and over the last five years, I have been fashioning a sculpture studio. While experimenting with various subjects and styles my interest is in contemporary hardwood sculpture. I'm hoping that I can stop making spoons and concentrate more on larger work." he said.

His works in black walnut, cherry, and other native hardwoods are a diverse collection of his thoughts and ideas. From beautifully conceived birds in flight to the tenderness of a mother's help with her child's first step, his works are always tender and comforting; in ways perhaps much like the feel of a really great wooden spoon.

The awarding of a Boy Scout woodcarving merit badge to Ruane while growing up in Hopwood, Pa., was a long time ago, indicating that dreams and experiences from childhood, may prove to be what truly makes people the most fulfilled in adulthood.

The public is invited to meet Ruane at the Opening Reception of his show on Thursday, April 28, from 7 until 9 p.m., at the Windrush Gallery, 720 Morris Ave., Friendsville. Musicians Dan Muss and Mary Louise Walcek of the Marsh Mountain Consort will be providing music from the Baroque & Renaissance, with a sprinkling of folk. For information, persons may call Carol, at (301) 746-4083. This show runs through May 12.

Women Invited To Convene At GCC May 18

All women of Garrett County are invited to "Gather at Garrett" on May 18, from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Continuing Education Center of Garrett Community College.

According to Bretta Reinhard, chairperson of the event, this will be an opportunity to share information about educational programs and services available at the college. "We want more adult women in this community to know how GCC can make a difference in their lives," she said. Ms. Reinhard also pointed out that over 60 percent of the enrolled students this semester are women.

During the evening, staff members from the college will discuss programs, support services, and financial assistance offered by GCC and a panel of adult women students will share their experiences as members of the college community. A campus tour will also be conducted.

Anyone desiring further information about the event may call Joan Crawford at 387-3046.

He has been a member of the Southern High track and field team since ninth grade. He throws shot put and discus and is the current record holder in boys' discus. He plans to continue his interest in track and field at Drexel. Bauer is the son of Wendy Bauer, Oakland, and Ken Bauer, also of Oakland.

Bartlett Backs IRS Tax Bill

Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has announced his co-sponsorship of HR 3261, a bill that would place the burden of proof on the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) -- not the taxpayer -- in federal tax fraud and evasion cases. Currently, the IRS can hold an individual's assets until the individual proves his or her innocence.

"This legislation establishes a safeguard to give taxpayers protection from overzealous IRS collectors. HR 3261 states that in any tax case involving an alleged fraudulent act by the taxpayer, the burden of proof is on the IRS to prove evidence of wrongdoing," said Bartlett. "Our system of justice dictates that all Americans are innocent until proven guilty. Ordinary taxpayers should be awarded at least that same right as criminals in our society."

Bartlett said he signed onto HR 3261 to commemorate tax day in America -- April 15 -- the tax filing deadline nationwide "when we all have to give far to much of our hard-earned income to Uncle Sam to fritter away with wasteful spending."

Bartlett has also signed the discharge petition for this bill to help ensure it will reach the House floor for a vote.

GATT To Be Signed This Week; Congressional Vote Up Next

The Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade will be formally signed by participating nations later this week.

The worldwide trade pact will be formally signed by leaders and trade ministers of the 121 participating GATT nations during a ceremony in Marrakech, Morocco, on April 15. The signing clears the way for President Clinton to send the pact to Congress for a vote.

Following the GATT's presentation to Congress, the House and Senate will have 90 legislative days to approve or reject the agreement without the opportunity to offer amendments. A finalized version of the agreement, for which negotiations began in September 1986 in Punta del Este, Uruguay, is slated for implementation on Jan. 1, 1995. That could be delayed until July 1, 1995.

Farm Bureau supports passage of the trade agreement, which for the first time brings agriculture under the umbrella of GATT. Under the new accord, quotas and all other non-tariff barriers will be converted to tariffs. The converted tariffs will be reduced gradually by 36 percent over a six-year span with export subsidies reduced by 21 percent over the same period.

American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner said the Uruguay Round agreement will represent a "major step forward' for American agricultural trade and world trade in general. He said the market access provisions contained in the agreement will allow American products to compete on a more level playing field in the global trade arena.

Kleckner said he hoped the seven-year fight for a good agreement will not be snuffed out by a Congress unwilling to stand up for American agriculture.

A concern among many agriculture groups, including Farm Bureau, is the method that will be used to fund the GATT. Farm Bureau, a member of an 18 member group coalition of agriculture organizations, called on the Clinton administration to hold the line on agriculture export and promotion program spending. The groups fear that the administration will take the needed funds from promotion and export programs, rather than from other areas.

"We feel agriculture will benefit from this agreement," Kleckner said. "But we must ensure that passage of the GATT will not bring about cuts in domestic or export agriculture programs."

U.S. Dept. Of Ag Reorganization Clears Senate

The Senate passed a bill last week that would reorganize the Agriculture Department while providing "one-stop shopping" for farmers and ranchers at the county level. Similar legislation in the House has seen subcommittee action and is expected to be sent to the full Agriculture Committee in the near future.

The legislation's sponsors, Sens. Richard Lugar (R-Ind.) and Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.), said the measure will streamline the $60 billion department over the next five years. The department's budget will be trimmed by $2.3 billion over the next five years, according to Clinton administration calculations.

Farm Bureau supports the bill's inclusion of farmer-elected county committees. The committees play a role in the implementation of USDA programs and will provide for improved coordination between conservation districts and farm program officials.

The measure will consolidate USDA by slashing 15 of the 43 current agencies. The remaining 28 agencies will be based in Washington, D.C., with most of the county-level services lumped under the umbrella of the Farm Service Agency. The department's work force will be scaled down with the dismissal or phase-out of 7,500 USDA employees.

The Senate legislation also calls for the creation of a new agency that would oversee food safety and inspection programs. Oversight of the new agency would come from a new assistant secretary's position that would be created solely for that purpose.

Although the Senate bill virtually mirrors Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy's original overhaul proposal, the House plan (H.R.3171) differs slightly.

Farming In Maryland.....

Farm Groups Oppose Ag Cuts To Finance GATT Pact

The Uruguay Round world trade agreement was formally signed last week by more than 100 member nations in Marrakesh, Morocco. But a coalition of farm groups, including Farm Bureau, is concerned that the cost of the agreement could fall unfairly on U.S. agriculture.

In a letter to President Clinton, the groups said that if U.S. agriculture is asked to bear a disproportionate share of the cost of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, they could not support legislation implementing the proposed agreement.

Some estimates show that by reducing tariffs on imports, the agreement could reduce U.S. government revenues by $14-$18 billion. Such estimates, the groups noted, are highly subjective and fail to consider the potential for increased revenues due to expanding trade and increased economic activity, which help create jobs and an expanded tax base.

It is our understanding the administration has under consideration various proposals, including requiring significant reductions in current farm and related programs, to help offset a major proportion of such revenue losses," the letter said. "This is despite the fact that tariff revenue losses from agricultural imports account for only about five percent or less of the estimated total."

The administration has repeatedly assured farm organizations that the new GATT agreement would not require any further reduction in domestic income and price-support programs, the groups said.

"In meeting after meeting, we were repeatedly assured that the new GATT agreement would not require any further reduction in domestic income and price-support programs," the letter said. At the same time, the administration emphasized its commitment to fully use its authority under GATT to maintain U.S. agriculture's ability to compete internationally.

The coalition is concerned, however, that payment for the GATT agreement will fall disproportionately on the agricultural sector, which already has seen significant spending cuts in recent years.

Under the negotiated GATT agreement, tariffs in participating countries would be reduced on a wide range of products. But while the agreement requires countries to reduce their use of export subsidies, it allows them to maintain - or even increase- their support for certain non-trade-distorting ("green box") programs. The coalition urged the president to shift current funding from reduced or disallowed programs to those that are permitted.

Agricultural support programs considered in the "green box category" include market development and promotion, export credit, food aid and other related programs. The budget currently under consideration would significantly reduce many of these programs, even though they are permitted by GATT.

"Unless these concerns are addressed, it is hard to envision how U.S. agriculture stands to gain as a result of the new GATT agreement," the letter said.

The GATT agreement was negotiated over a seven-year period. Before it can take effect, most participating countries must bring their own domestic laws into compliance with the GATT agreement. The U.S. Congress may take up this implementing legislation later this year.

The coalition includes the following organizations: American Farm Bureau Federation, American Meat Institute; American Sheep Industry Association; Coalition For Food Aid, National Association of Wheat Growers, National Barley Growers Association; National Cattlemen's Association; National Corn Growers Association, National Cotton Council; National Council of Farmer Cooperatives; National Farmers Union; National Grange; National Milk Producers Association; National Pork Producers Council; National Potato Council; National Sunflower Association; National Turkey Federation; Rice Millers Association; United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association; and U.S. Rice Producers Group.

New Farmers' Markets To Open Across State

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced that six new outdoor community farmers' markets will open in Maryland this season. They will join the 21 existing producer-only farmers' markets that the Maryland Department of Agriculture has helped to open since 1989.

The new markets will be in Frostburg in Allegany County, Odenton in Anne Arundel County, Iverson Mall in Prince George's County, White Marsh Mall in Baltimore County, Salisbury in Wicomico County and Snow Hill in Worcester County.

"Farmers' markets are becoming more and more popular. People have discovered that by buying directly from farmers, they can put high quality fresh fruits and vegetables on their table at an excellent price. In the past few years the number of farmers' markets has grown significantly and I expect this trend to continue," said Walker.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture's domestic marketing efforts have seen new farmers' markets established in 14 counties and Baltimore City. In 1993, the department helped start successful markets in St. Mary's County, in Berlin in Worcester County and at Pimlico Race Course in Baltimore City.

For more information on farmers' markets in Maryland, those interested may contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401; telephone (410) 841-5770.

Part Of The Solution, Not All Of The Problem

by C. William Knill

(Editor's note: C. William Knill is a beef and dairy farmer in Carroll County and is currently president of Maryland Farm Bureau.)

Maryland is now completing the "Tributary Strategies" -- our state's plan to reduce nutrients flowing into the Chesapeake Bay. Culmination of this process is the result of more than a year's hard work by citizens, agencies and elected officials. I am proud to say that farmers have demonstrated their commitment to this effort through their active and constructive participation in countless workshops and meetings across the state.

Problems in each of the tributaries have been described and analyzed. Now we get down to the tough part--selecting specific actions to reach the 40 percent nutrient reduction goal of the Chesapeake Bay Agreement. Draft strategies will be reviewed at public meetings in each of the 10 tributary basins during late April and May. Later this summer, the implementation phase will begin with consideration of the strategies by the Chesapeake Bay Executive Council.

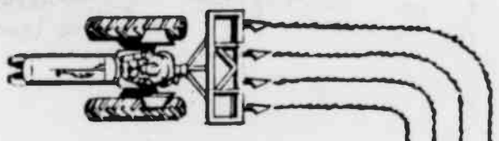
The following guidelines can help assure continued partnership with Maryland agriculture as the Tributary Strategies are developed.

The Tributary Strategies should be "user friendly." They must be based on education and cooperation, not regulation. Maryland farmers are leading the nation in environmentally sound farming practices which for the most part, have been implemented voluntarily. Most of us who remain in farming today have learned that good agriculture, by definition protects our natural resources and the environment. Environmental stewardship is an ethic that in most cases can not be legislated. Voluntary programs win converts who will go beyond requirements. Mandates get only what the law requires.

The Tributary Strategies must be credible. Although most would agree that we're on the right track with reducing Bay nutrients, we can't be afraid to reexamine assumptions which have been accepted as "scientific facts."

As recently as the late 70s, many scientists believed that herbicides were the primary cause for the disappearance of Bay grasses. Subsequent studies proved otherwise.

Scientists now recognize that the most recent, comprehensive study of Bay pollution--the $20 million 1982 Chesapeake Bay Study--greatly underestimated atmospheric sources of nitrogen which could account for as much as 30 pounds per acre per year.



Important research now being conducted at the University of Maryland's Wye River Research and Education Center is identifying new, more effective agricultural practices to reduce nutrient leaching into the Bay while we keep farmers farming.

Credible tributary strategies need to be based on the best science available and recognize that science is still defining and redefining what farmers, homeowners, industry, government and the rest of society need to do to help the Bay.

They should be equitable. Maryland farmers are recognized nationally for their use of environmentally responsible farming practices. A recent survey documents that Maryland farmers are among the highest, or leading the nation in their use of soil and water conservation plans, nutrient management plans and "no till" farming--practices which conserve nutrients and reduce water pollution. Unfortunately, these practices and the extent to which they are being used are not recognized by many non-farmers.

An equitable tributary strategy will recognize what farmers are doing right and that nutrients come from a number of sources, not just agriculture. For instance, Maryland Farm Bureau recently documented 1.2 million pounds of nitrogen used as deicer during this winter. This originated from only two fertilizer suppliers and three airports and is equal to 5.2 percent of Maryland's yearly nutrient reduction target prescribed by the Bay agreement.

Maryland farmers are already doing a lot for the Bay. If the strategies are realistic, credible and equitable, farmers will do more. Maryland farmers are and want to be a part of the solution, but we are not all of the problem.

Farmers Are Sending Seed-Tag Notes To Support Ethanol

Despite rigorous spring planting schedules, American corn producers are sending urgent, unique messages to Congress and President Clinton in support of ethanol, and they're not straying too far from their corn planters to do it.

Farmers are ripping tags from their bags of seed corn and jotting on those tags short messages of support for the Environmental Protection Agency's proposal to expand ethanol's role, as a renewable oxygenate, in the Clean Air Act's reformulated gasoline program. According to Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, this approach saves precious field time, and effectively counters increased political pressure from ethanol foes.

Kleckner said the ethanol debate is heating up, due to renewed anti-ethanol efforts spearheaded by the petroleum industry and a "dear colleague" letter, circulated by Sen. Bill Bradley (D-N.J.) and delivered to EPA Administrator Carol Browner. The letter objects to the EPA's renewable oxygenate requirement.

The seed-tag campaign will provide a steady stream of pro-ethanol messages to Congress and the president as planting season works its way northward this spring, according to Kleckner. "A short message to Congress, or to thank President Clinton and ask for his continued support for ethanol is all it takes," Kleckner said. "Through this effort, corn farmers can communicate ethanol's importance to the environment and agriculture without even leaving their field."

The idea of using a seed-tag as the medium for a pro-ethanol message is relevant to the entire issue, and a seed-tag with a hand-written message from a busy farmer will likely draw added attention, Kleckner said.

"These seed-tag notes will immediately communicate to the president that the EPA's plan to create an opportunity for ethanol is so important to corn farmers that they actually will stop their planters for a moment to say thanks and encourage continued support," he said.

Farmers may like to point out in their notes that the seed corn bag from which the tag was removed will produce about 400 bushels of corn -- enough to produce about 750 gallons of renewable ethanol, according to Kleckner.

AFBF statistics indicate that revenues to corn producers could increase as much as $920 million a year as a result of the administration's proposed renewable oxygenate requirement. The proposal would mandate that 30 percent of the fuels in the reformulated gasoline program come from a renewable source such as ethanol.

Ethanol also is good for the environment. The EPA has concluded that ethanol use and production, compared to gasoline, reduces carbon dioxide emissions by approximately 30 percent. The use of ethanol also lessens U.S. dependence on foreign oil. According to the USDA, the amount of crude oil needed to produce one British thermal unit (Btu) of gasoline can produce more than eight Btu of ethanol, thus leveraging crude oil supplies by a factor of eight.

Furthermore, the production and use of ethanol has an overall positive effect on federal government outlays, even after taking ethanol tax incentives into account. The General Accounting Office estimates that expanded ethanol production could reduce federal farm program outlays by as much as $608 million a year.

"Even with all those facts, we are seeing renewed efforts by those who oppose ethanol to strip the renewable oxygenate requirement from the reformulated fuels program," Kleckner said. "The whole ethanol issue has gone beyond the economic and scientific proof that it is good for the environment and the economy. It is now a pure political battle that requires farmers to speak out, and it needs attention during one of the busiest times of a corn farmer's year."

Extremely Wet Conditions Slow Planting In State

Through the week ending April 17, Maryland farmers prepared only nine percent of the acreage for planting spring crops. This is behind last year's progress of 13 percent and the five year average of 36 percent. Cool temperatures and well above normal rain continued to deter field work.

Topsoil and moisture rating was 21 percent adequate and 79 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was rated 16 percent adequate and 84 percent surplus. Conditions allowed an average of only 2.1 days suitable for fieldwork during the week, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Pasture feed averaged in good condition. Small grains were rated in mostly fair to good condition. Green pea and sweet potato planting progress was about the same as last year but behind normal.

Good Results Can Be Obtained In Post-emergence Weed Control

Personally, I'm sold on post-emergence weed control in field corn. Over the last three years, I have seen a lot of excellent weed control results with the use of some of the new post-emergence herbicides on the market. The major advantage is that you know exactly the weed or weeds that are problems. You mix your herbicide recipe for the problem rather than a "catch all" approach. Also, only one trip over the field is necessary, in most instances. Two products that I like for grass control are Accent and Beacon. Both are extremely effective on all of our common grass problems with the exception of yellow nutsedge. If you have a broad-leaf weed problem add Banvel. With Accent and Beacon it is necessary to use a surfactant in the mix. There is a wide window for applications up to the 11-leaf stage on corn. However, if you're using Banvel for broad-leaf control, it is most effective on smaller weeds. There are several other mixes that can be used with the two herbicides. Prior to using the herbicides read the label thoroughly for crop rotation restrictions, etc.

Rain Free Requirements Following Application Of Post-emergence Herbicides

Some farmers shy away from post-emergence herbicides because they are afraid it will wash off of the leaf before it has a chance to enter the plant. In Garrett County I certainly can understand the concern, however, the rain free time may not be as lengthy as you may think. The following information on some of the common post-emergence herbicides used in our area was taken from the product label: Accent, 4-6 hours; Ally, 4 hours; Atrazine, 4 hours; Banvel, 2 hours; Basagran, 8 hours; Beacon, 4 hours; Bladex, 4 hours; Buctril, 0.17 hours; Gramoxone, 0.5 hours; Marksman, 6 hours; Poast Plus, 1 hour; Pursuit, 1 hour; Roundup, 2 hours; 2,4-D Amine, 4 hours and 2,4-DB, 6 hours.

Local Cub Scouts Recognized During Blue Gold Banquet

Cub Scout Pack 70, sponsored by St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, conducted its annual Blue and Gold Banquet, Feb. 19, at the church. This year's theme was "Traditions," and the evening included a pack inspection, conducted by Commander Rick Wakefield of the Maryland National Guard. The featured speaker, Howard Boltz, talked about the traditions of scouting.

The highlight of the evening was the awards ceremony. Jacob Dehus, Chris Remley, Matthew Vecchioni and Eric Yoder, all Webelos Scouts from Den 6, received the Arrow of Light Award, Cub Scouting's highest honor, and the only award which can be worn on the Boy Scout uniform. Additionally, eight cubs received their Webelos badges: Chase Ashby, Teddy Bell, K.C. Louie, and Jonathan Neville, all from Den 2, and William Hanley, Chris Miller, D.R. Parsons and Stephen Teagarden, members of Den 4.

The following Scouts earned the Bear award: Brian Crabtree, Erick DeWitt, Robbie Kutchman, Donald Meteny, Doug Stephens and Andy Swiger, members of Den 1; and Wayne Lantz, Brian Moats, Carl Moats, Ricky Moats, Albert Taylor and Adam Vance, all from Den 7. Those earning their Wolf badges were Tyler Ashby, Anthony Filsinger, Mark Rohrbaugh, Matthew Shaffer, Curt Taylor and Chad Webster, all from Den 5.

Pack 70's youngest Scouts, the Tiger Cubs, were awarded their one year service pins, including: Robert Bowman, Eric Brown, Matthew DeWitt, Christopher Kelly, Erik King, Adrian Martin, Dustin Smith and Brian Yoder. A special award was presented to Betty Eaton who has served as pack committee chairman for the past seven years.

Decorations for the evening's banquet were provided by the Cub Scouts. The event was catered by Brian Shaffer, and a family dance followed the ceremony, with music provided by Pat McCloud. The planning committee for the evening included Cindy Kutchman, Cheryl Miller, Judy Brodak and Nanette Sowers.

Any boy in the first through fifth grades who is interested in joining a Cub Scout pack, may contact the Potomac Council Office at 729-1300, or Deep Creek District at 387-7224.

Tree Planting Encouraged By DNR Secretary

Spring is tree planting season and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has several cost-share and incentive programs designed to encourage landowners to plant trees and forest buffers on their properties.

"Planting trees provides economic and environmental advantages and can often be done at low or no cost to landowners," said DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D. "In addition, tree planting is fun, rewarding and beneficial for future generations."

Trees can increase property value, act as windbreaks or view and noise screens, and be managed for future economic return through harvesting. Trees improve the environment by cooling and beautifying the local community and removing CO2 from the atmosphere.

Many landowner incentives provided by DNR's Forest Service are for planting trees along streams to create a forest buffer, which ultimately improves water quality in the Chesapeake Bay. A forested stream buffer provides a number of values for private property owners, Brown said.

"Whether a landowner is interested in keeping the land from washing downstream or attracting wildlife to the property, planting trees can help," Dr. Brown said.

Trees planted in a stream buffer prevent sediment and nutrients from reaching the stream, protect the streambanks from erosion, keep stream temperatures cool and provide food and habitat for aquatic wildlife. "These buffers also provide a great wildlife habitat for other birds and animals, often acting as a corridor for animals traveling from one wooded area to another," Brown said.

DNR's foresters can assist landowners in establishing these buffers by assisting in tree selection and planting location.

The DNR Forest Service can also assist private landowners with a variety of other activities, such as developing Forest Stewardship Plans with suggestions on managing their resources, and providing advice on timber stand improvement, wildlife management, timber harvesting, and other related activities.

Private landowners interested in tree planting, forest stream buffer establishment, or any of the other services offered by the DNR Forest Service should contact their local forestry office or the Forest Service headquarters in Annapolis at (410) 974-3776 for more information.

by Adam Herbert, reporter

Ten members and nine adults were present for the April meeting of the North Glade 4-H Club. Three prospective members -- Holly Baumann, Jessi Woods and Alexis Story -- were also present.

Nine members and nine adults went to the Steyer Sugar Camp last month to learn about the process of making maple syrup. Seven members and eight adults helped serve lunch at a farm auction in McHenry also last month. Serving approximately 1,000 people, this was the largest sale the club has ever catered.

A total of 30 members and parents attended Achievement Night at Southern High School. Every member received a blue ribbon on his/her 1993 record book.

The club will meet at 1 p.m. on April 30 at the 4-H Campgrounds for the archery project, to be taught by Chris Herbert. Adopt-a-Highway will be done afterwards.

The next meeting will be May 11 at 6:30 p.m. The North Glade Cemetery will be cleaned at this time. Project demonstrations will be given at the 4-H Building afterwards.

Refreshments were served at the April meeting by Chris Herbert.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about the theft of a kayak.

Sometime before February 5, suspects removed a fiberglass kayak from the yard of the Rob Dobson residence, located off of Glendale Road. The kayak is described as having a "Rocker" design with a blue metal flake deck, white hull with black seam, and the words "New Wave" written in silver letters behind the cockpit rim.

The kayak is approximately 10 feet long, two to three feet wide, and weighs approximately 35 pounds.

Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Persons do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Hosts are needed at two campgrounds for a few weeks in the springs and a few weeks in the fall. Those interested should telephone Suzanne Glass or Allen Shultz at 814-395-5408 or stop by the administrative office at the dam in Confluence, Pa.

Lupus Support Group Formed; Meeting Slated

The Maryland Lupus Foundation will sponsor a new support group for lupus patients and their families who live in the region surrounding Garrett County. The first meeting is planned for Wednesday, May 11, at 6 p.m. at the Garrett Country Memorial Hospital Board Room in Oakland. The group, which is free and open to the public, will continue to meet on the second Wednesday of each month, at 6 p.m. at the hospital.

In addition to the new group in Garrett County, the Foundation also sponsors 13 other support groups throughout the state of Maryland.

Lupus is an incurable disease in which the body's immune system forms antibodies that attack healthy tissues and organs. While lupus can affect anyone, it most often strikes women in their childbearing years.

Meetings will include open discussions with periodic education sessions featuring medical experts in the field of lupus. The group's self-help structure focuses on learning to cope with a life changed by lupus. "Through the process of sharing experiences and solutions, persons with lupus and loved ones can learn to cope more effectively and feel more in control of their lives," said the group's moderator, Rae Ellen Finn. "Group discussion helps people accept their illness, share coping skills and deal with the basic psychological reactions of anger, loneliness and depression that are associated with a chronic disease."

For more information on the group or to receive a packet of information on lupus, persons may call, Rae Ellen Finn at 301-777-7858 or the Maryland Lupus Foundation at 800-777-0934.

FOOD FOR FOOD - The Subway shop in Oakland will sponsor its second Food for Food collection this Sunday, April 24, from 3 until 4:30 p.m., when persons who bring canned food items to the Subway will be rewarded with a free six-inch submarine sandwich. The collected food will be presented to the Garrett County Community Action Committee's Food Bank. A member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will be on hand to greet donors. Pictured is Shawn Moran, owner/operator of the local Subway. Moran, son of James and Naomi Moran, Lake Lynn, Pa., is a U.S. Navy veteran, having served, ironically, on the USS Norfolk, a nuclear powered submarine. While Moran traded his career on a real submarine for one involving the edible kind of submarines, two of his brothers are presently serving with the Navy on board submarines, one with the USS Cashmere Pylaski and the other with the USS Nevada.

Pool Operators' Course Slated

The Garrett County Health Department, in cooperation with the Allegany County Health Department, will be conducting the Pool Operator Certification Course at the Cumberland Country Club on May 19 and 20. All persons interested in attending may contact the Allegany County Health Department at 301-777-5653 or the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8980 as soon as possible.

Maryland Law (COMAR 10.17.04) requires all public swimming pools to be under the direct supervision of a certified operator. Participants who successfully complete the course will receive three-year certifications valid throughout the State of Maryland.

4-H Club To Hold Newsprint Drive

The Lucky Clovers 4-H Club is organizing a drive to collect newspapers for recycling, and is asking local residents to begin saving newspapers now for the drive. Persons are asked to remove all coated (slick) inserts from the newspapers.

Pending approval by the town of Oakland to use the Mtn. Fresh building as a collection site, the drive is scheduled for May 30.

Trash-Free Parks Program To Continue

As people begin to visit Maryland's state forests and parks this year, Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., reminds visitors of the Trash-Free Parks program.

DNR initiated the Trash-Free Parks program in March 1993 in all Maryland state forests and parks. Brown said the program was "an overwhelming success," having met all four of the goals set forth by the department last year.

Trash-Free Parks is designed to help eliminate unsightly litter, trash, and debris from day-use areas of Maryland's state parks and forests. Trash barrels, receptacles, and dumpsters have been removed from picnic and beach areas within the parks and visitors are asked to remove their own refuse in bags provided upon their entrance to the park. Campgrounds are not included in the program.

"I'm very pleased with the public's response to this program," Dr. Brown said. "Our parks are cleaner now than they have ever been. People learned how to create less waste while enjoying the out of doors. This enabled us to redirect our resources and save money."

"This program has been successful in more than 20 other states," Governor William Donald Schaefer said. "I had every confidence in the citizens of Maryland and our state forest and park visitors that the program would be successful here, too."

The major goals of the program are to encourage individual responsibility and foster an outdoor ethic that embraces the idea of parks -- and the environment in general -- free of trash; to encourage recycling and less wasteful practices; to improve the overall appearance of state forests and parks; and to make more productive use of the available resources in the parks.

Richard Barton, superintendent of the DNR State Forest and Park Service, reported that last year, through the hard work of park personnel and with the cooperation of park patrons, the program was a success. The goals met were:

"The public's environmental awareness has been heightened. More than eight million visitors received the Trash-Free Parks message when they entered the parks this year. Compliance statewide has been estimated at 90 percent.

"Recycling and waste reduction have been enhanced as people learned to utilize reusable and recyclable food containers and other picnic supplies, then took these home to either reuse or sort for recycling. All of the garbage collected in years past would have gone straight to landfills.

"The appearance of the parks has been significantly improved through the elimination of trash cans and the odors, bees and other animals that gather at these receptacles. An unofficial count at several state parks indicates that reported bee stings were less frequent this year than in years past.

"Manpower and money have been redirected to provide additional nature programs and other visitor services, maintain -- and even enhance -- existing facilities, and to patrol areas and enforce laws to protect the public and natural resources. Also, an estimated $325,400 was saved through the elimination of trash collection, dumpster rental and other trash-related expenses.

"We took the lead on an environmentally sound program, which is exactly what the public expects from the Department of Natural Resources," Barton said. "Once introduced to the program, Marylanders showed overwhelming support by helping us to achieve all of the program's goals. This year we expect the program to work even better and exceed our goals."

Solid Waste Disposal Fees Set By Officials

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners has recently established a number of solid waste disposal fees. The fees became necessary to help fund increases to the County's Solid Waste Management budget because of the costs associated with the construction and operation of the new Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Facility and closure of the old Round Glade Landfill.

Officials have anticipated that the establishment of these fees will eliminate the need for any specific new taxes to support solid waste activities. Even so, the tipping fee which will be established at the new landfill will be, "by far, the lowest in Maryland," stated Rodney Glotfelty, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling.

All solid waste brought to the new landfill will be weighed prior to disposal. A tipping fee of $20 per ton, or portion thereof, will be assessed for all acceptable waste crossing the scales. A small portion of the $20 tipping fee will be dedicated for use in the county's recycling effort and to establish a program for handling small amounts of household hazardous waste at the facility. The tipping fees at the landfill will primarily effect county residents who utilize a private collection service.

To help in paying for the disposal of refuse brought to the six rural collection sites by county residents not served by private haulers, a $20 per year sticker fee will be charged for each vehicle permitted entry into the sites. As the average household produces approximately one ton of refuse per year, this fee will equate to approximately what would be charged at the landfill for the same amount of garbage if taken over the scales by a private hauler.

The rural collection sites are currently being upgraded to reduce many of the problems which have been associated with their use in the past, said Glotfelty. The sites will be fenced, gated, and staffed when in operation. These and other changes will result in long term savings to the county through elimination of non-county refuse and reduction of the amount of unacceptable material currently being deposited at the sites.

REBIRTH OF A RIVER - Hundreds of trout have now made the new improved North Branch of the Potomac their home after nearly a century of non-survivable conditions in the river because of pollution from coal mining operations. The utilization of lime dosers (acting like a giant Tums in the water) has made all the difference, and Maryland Department of Natural Resources officials were swamped by various media last week as they introduced the fish to the river in the Kitzmiller-Shallmar area. As the headwaters of the Potomac are cleaned up, the possibility of cleaning up the entire length of the Potomac River and the Chesapeake Bay is strengthened. The whole event was recorded by Maryland Public Television's OUTDOORS MARYLAND crew for an upcoming segment of the program. Photo by Glenn Tolbert

Car Accident Sends One To Local Hospital

A Sunday afternoon car accident at the intersection of Rt. 219 and Bumble Bee Road resulted in minor injuries for one passenger. Marcie Corbett, 32, McHenry, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 4:30 p.m. mishap, and she was reportedly treated and released.

According to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Bernard K. Shepard, 22, Aurora, W.Va., was operating a 1989 Pontiac Grand Am northbound on Rt. 219, and Bernard R. Corbett, 35, McHenry, was driving a 1988 Chevrolet Astro eastbound on Bumble Bee Road. Cobett stopped at the intersection of 219 and Bumble Bee, and then reportedly pulled into Shepard's path, causing the vehicles to collide.

Two other passengers in the Corbett vehicle - in addition to Mrs. Corbett - were Emily Corbett, 12, and Kaitlyn Corbett, 6. Neither child was injured, according to the report, nor was either driver.

Corbett was cited for failure to yield to right-of-way.

Trout Stocked In Revitalized North Branch Of The Potomac

For the first time in nearly a century, the North Branch of the Potomac (the headwaters of what is commonly called the nation's river), is able to sustain life after having been virtually destroyed by millions of gallons of acidic water from coal mines that had been abandoned just after the turn of the century.

Just last week, a 30-mile portion of the river was stocked by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) with brown and rainbow trout after pH-correcting lime dosers, along with biological science techniques and improved coal mine restoration, were utilized earlier in the spring to help bring the river back to life.

"A major segment of the Potomac's headwaters is alive again, and on its way to becoming a major recreational fishery," said Dr. Torrey C. Brown, DNR secretary. "The restoration of this spectacularly beautiful, fast-running river, with clear blue-green pools and steep-sided hardwood forests, is rapidly becoming a national model of multi-jurisdictional restoration efforts."

Through the cooperative efforts of the coal mining industry, DNR, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, a model has been created for other regions where acid mine drainage and industrial pollution have turned once vital waters into barren rivers, added Dr. Brown.

The revitalization of the river began when the Bureau of Mines installed two in-stream dosers along the North Branch at Kitzmiller and at Lostland Run in December 1992. The Allegheny Power System (APS) donated the water-powered machines for the clean-up effort.

Upon completion of the river stocking, DNR employees will have added approximately 6,000 trout to the North Branch of the Potomac.

Before the 1960's, there was no regulation of mining, and it wasn't until the 1970's that serious regulatory efforts began. Before regulation, companies went in, mined what they could, and left. Currently, mining companies are "paying for the sins of their fathers, "as one mining official said, partly because the funds used by the Bureau of Mines for its clean-up work is generated by coal compa-

Convicted Child Abuser Sentenced To Twelve Years

An Oakland man convicted of child abuse has been sentenced to 12 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, with four years suspended. Charles P. Hacek Jr., 30, was sentenced by Judge Frederick Sharer in Garrett County Circuit Court last Tuesday. Sharer also ordered that the defendant be on five years of supervised probation following his incarceration.

Hacek had pleaded guilty to the charge at an earlier trial, and at that time Judge Fred A. Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation. The guilty plea followed a plea agreement, according to the court document.

The defendant is accused of abusing a three-month-old boy in 1990. The child was in the custody of Hacek and his wife, Linda S. Hacek, and was brought to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital emergency room for injuries. Physicians discovered the child to have a broken rib and a head injury. An "old" injury was also discovered - one for which the child had not received medical help, according to the report.

After a three-year investigation into the incident, the Haceks were indicted by the September Term Grand Jury, 1993. The victim in the case as well as one sibling were both put in foster care shortly after the 1990 incident.

Hacek was remanded to the custody of the department of corrections following Tuesday's trial. He was granted 216 days of time already served, according to the record. Child abuse is a felony which carries a sentence of no more than 15 years.

Education Board To Vote On Budget

A special meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education will be called to order at 5 p.m. this evening, April 28, in the education board office.

After a short executive session, the board will hold a public meeting to consider approval of the school board budget for fiscal year 1995.

House Damaged By Fire Because Of Hot Burner

A burner on a stove that was accidently left on is believed to be the cause of a fire yesterday afternoon that damaged a Loch Lynn house.

Oakland and Deer Park volunteer fire fighters were summoned at 5:50 p.m. to the residence of the Randy DeWitt family, located along Shenandoah Avenue, after one of the children in the family discovered flames in the kitchen of the two-story wood frame house. The blaze was quickly brought under control with fire extinguishers, but not before causing considerable smoke damage throughout the house. Fire damage was contained primarily to the wall and ceiling area of the kitchen above the stove.

The house is owned by Ray Mattingly. Smoke and fire damage was estimated to be $5,000.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported. Fire units remained on the scene until just after 4 p.m.

BRUSH, WOODS FIRES

Numerous area fire departments have been busy throughout the week battling a variety of brush and woods fires, spawned by the recent dry weather conditions.

About six acres burned along Filsinger Road off Boiling Springs Road near Deer Park on Monday, while about 13 more acres along Spring Lick Road near Swanton burned after being caught fire by a hot chainsaw. Some 30 fire

A dedication ceremony for the Friendsville Community Park has been scheduled for Saturday, May 7. Included in the day's events will be the appearance of dignitaries, concerts, and a variety of family activities. Master of ceremonies will be Marlin Lawson, president of Friendsville Lions Club. He will be assisted by Kenneth Metheny.

Activities at the park will begin at noon and continue until dark. Some events are scheduled around the dedication ceremony, set for 3 p.m. All-day events include a display by Oakland Unit of the National Guard, horseshoe pitching contests, free rafting rides, Shriner clowns, pony wagon rides, a Kids' Trout Fishing Rodeo, ball games, and beach volley ball. Food will also be available for sale at food booths throughout the park.

Musical activities, including a performance by the Northern High School band, The Die Hards, country line dancing, a tentative appearance by the U.S.A. Field Band, and possibly others, are planned before and after the park's dedication ceremony. More information with specific times will be announced at a later date.

State, county and local public officials who plan to attend the ceremony include Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein; Delegate George C. Edwards; Senator John J. Hafer; County Commissioners John Braskey, Brenda Butscher and Elwood Groves; as well as Friendsville's mayor and town council members. Also planning to attend are three confirmed candidates for governor of Maryland, Ellen Sauerbrey, Bill Shephard and Helen Bentley.

Lawson notes President Clinton and his family have also been invited, but a response has yet to be received. "Maybe being this near to 'whitewater' (rafting) would make him uncomfortable," he said.

The public is invited to attend the day's activities and enjoy the events at no charge. There is, however, a $1 per car for parking, with proceeds to benefit the Disabled American Veterans.

Disabled Climbers To Top Backbone For Local Cause

Three disabled mountain climbers, representing the Fifty Peaks project, will be in Garrett County on Monday, May 2, to top Backbone Mountain for the cause of epilepsy. The Fifty Peaks project is an undertaking that seeks to focus awareness on the abilities of people, rather than their disabilities. The climbers, each with a different disorder, illness, or disability, will be representing the 50,000 Marylanders with epilepsy, the Epilepsy Foundation of America, and the Epilepsy Association of Maryland (EAM).

The climbers include John Goggin, a 42-year-old mountain climber with a chronic asthmatic condition; 25-year-old Mary Ann Rancanelli, who lost her sight to glaucoma at the age of 5; Todd Huston, 32, who lost his leg in a boating accident as a teenager; 71-year-old Helen Klein; and Erik Safewright, 14, who has Muscular Dystrophy. All five are physically active people who maximize their capabilities, said a spokesperson for Fifty Peaks.

At noon on Monday, a ceremony will be held prior to the climb. Students from nearby Red House Elementary School will join in the celebration and send the climbers off with a balloon release. At this point, Helen Ravenscroft, Oakland, will present an emblem that represents epilepsy, to one of the climbers. Ravenscroft, who is an epileptic, is involved with People First, a self-help advocacy group for people with disabilities in Oakland. The emblem will be placed in a pack that houses the emblems for the other causes, and carried to the mountain's peak.

The Epilepsy Association of Maryland, Inc., is a private, non-profit organization that has been serving the 50,000 Marylanders with epilepsy for more than 25 years. Additionally, EAM provides services for persons with related neurological disabilities. Services include: counseling, information and referral, advocacy, employment assistance, housing and community living assistance, and public and professional education.

District Court Cases Heard

A variety of cases were heard in Garrett County District Court last week by Judge Ralph M. Burnett and Allegany County District Court Judge Timothy W. Finan.

Two Grantsville men, Thomas D. Durst, 19, and Gary A. Beitzel Jr., 26, co-defendants in a case involving a stolen tailgate from Diehl Ford, resulted in guilty pleas by both men. The judge amended an original felony theft charge to petit theft and fined each $350 plus $150 in restitution to Diehl Ford. Durst and Beitzel were also sentenced to six months in jail, with all being suspended except four weekend incarcerations, and placed on one year of supervised probation. The pair will serve from 11 a.m. Friday to 4 p.m. on Sunday during that time.

Additional charges of malicious destruction of property against the pair were not prosecuted by the state's attorney and, in a separate incident, Durst also had one count of giving a false statement to a police officer placed on the stet docket, because of plea agreements with the state's attorney.

According to court documents, on Jan. 26, 1993, Durst removed the tailgate from a 1988 Ford pickup at Diehl Ford. He was later picked up on Rt. 40 by Beitzel, who then drove to Wildwater Inn, where they sold the tailgate for $100 to Duane Brown, resulting in their subsequent arrests.

A guilty verdict was handed to Gregory D. Williams, 19, Frostburg, for resisting arrest. He was sentenced to one year in jail, with all being suspended except 90 days, fined $50, and placed on two years of supervised probation with the DWI Monitor. He must also attend an MVA alcohol education course. Because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office, one count of disorderly conduct in a public place was not prosecuted.

District court documents indicate on June 28, 1993, Tfc. Randy Tarburton had responded to the Beall School Road, Frostburg, for a trespassing complaint. Upon his arrival, the trooper found Williams and two other people under the influence of alcohol and asleep on the property of Bernard McKenzie. When the three were awakened by the officer, they became argumentive. The documents further indicate the other two persons calmed down, but Williams began to shout profanities that "could be heard 100 yards away," resulting in his arrest.

Clayton F. King, 24, Oakland, pleaded guilty and was found guilty of trespassing, and disorderly conduct, on private property. He was handed a three-month suspended sentence, fined $50 for each offense, and placed on three years of unsupervised probation. The conditions of his probation state King must obey all laws and stay away from Kerry King.

Additional charges of breaking and entering, false imprisonment and malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney. The charges stemmed from a domestic dispute on Oct. 31, 1993, at the home of Kerry King.

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to a charge of violating a zoning ordinance, after operating a business at his residence. Leslie A. Bittinger, 28, was fined $2,500, with all suspended but $300, and was placed on three years of unsupervised probation.

A motion by Douglas D. Hinebaugh, 27, Oakland, to have his sentence reduced was granted by the presiding judge. He was convicted of felony theft during a March 8 court proceeding. All of his 90-day sentence was suspended except for time already served.

B&Es, Thefts Investigated By Md. State Police

The Maryland Sate Police, Barrack W, McHenry, are currently investigating the reports of two separate breaking and entering and theft complaints.

On April 24, George Hilton, Bumble Bee Road, McHenry, told police that he came home after being gone for four days and, during that time, someone broke into his home and stole a 12 ga. shotgun, a VCR, a 19-inch TV, a two-and-a-half-inch color TV, a Sega Genesis game deck, eight Sega gamepacks, a Pioneer car radio/CD player, Kicker speakers, an amp, and Punch speakers. The total value of items stolen is approximately $3,290. Tfc. Randy Tarburton is the investigating officer.

Frank Schimizzi, Jeanette, Pa., reported that unknown persons broke into a shed on his property on Beckman's Peninsula Road, and removed a 16HP garden tractor with a dump cart and blade. He said the theft occurred sometime between Jan. 1 and April 22. Tfc. S.H. Anderson is continuing his investigation.

Anyone with information about either incident is asked to call the McHenry Barrack, 387-5511.

DWI ACCIDENT

A McHenry man was charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) and numerous other charges following a one-vehicle mishap, April 18, according to reports filed at the local state police barrack.

Edward Donald Shuttleworth, 28, was charged after he failed to negotiate a turn in the 1992 Chevrolet GEO he was driving, and skidded into a bridge.

The accident occurred on the Glendale Road near Deep Creek. Police reports indicate 70-feet of pre-impact skid marks led to the scene. Shuttleworth refused transport.

Tfc. P.R. Brown investigated the 8 p.m. accident.

MORE DWI ARRESTS

Two additional DWI arrests were logged at the state police barrack this past week.

David Ellis Stapleton, 22, Frostburg was arrested and charged with DWI on April 21, by Tfc. G.S. Becker.

Also arrested for DWI on April 21 was Jimmie Lee Lazenbaker, 31, Accident. The arresting officer was Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

JUVENILE CHARGED

A 16-year-old juvenile from McHenry was charged with passing in a no-passing zone, resulting in an accident, April 20, on U.S. 219 at the Rabbit Hollow Road.

Police reports state the juvenile, operating a 1990 Ford van, was traveling south on Rt. 219, behind a 1985 Chrysler LeBaron, driven by Molly A. Deniker, 34, Accident. As Deniker attempted to turn left onto the Rabbit Hollow Road, the juvenile started to pass her, in a no passing zone, causing the two vehicles to collide. Deniker's vehicle was driven into a guardrail.

There were no apparent injuries to either driver, nor to the four passengers in the van, following the 6:45 p.m. mishap. Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated the incident.

One of the highlights of the seventh annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 4, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry will be performances throughout the day by renowned Scottish folksinger Carl Peterson.

More Details Of OVFD's 100th Anniversary Celebration Noted

With a dance, a parade, and a day in the park, Saturday, May 21, is shaping up to be an event-packed day in Oakland, said Phil Rook, chairman of the 100th Anniversary Committee for the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department (OVFD). "Local residents and visiting fire fighters from all over the region will share in the festivities as our fire department celebrates its 100th birthday."

A parade in downtown Oakland is planned to start off the day's activities. Line-up will be at 9 a.m. and the parade will begin at 11 a.m. Fire and rescue units from all over the tri-state area are slated to participate.

Immediately following the parade, at approximately 2 p.m., numerous activities will be initiated at Broadford Park. The Baltimore County Fire Department will sponsor the "Smoke House," which is a fire simulator trailer designed to teach children what to do when fire occurs. Children will enter the house, accompanied by fire fighters, under simulated smoke and fire conditions, and they will be taught first-hand about fire safety.

Children's games will be held, and "Sparkles," the OVFD's fire clown, will be on hand. Food booths, souvenirs, entertainment, fire fighter competitions, and the Maryland State Police Trooper-5 Medivac helicopter will also be included in the day of festivities.

The events will continue in the evening, as a dance will be held at the Oakland Elks Club from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The regional band Spektra will provide music, featuring hits of the 50's-90's. Tickets are $7 per person or $10 per couple, and are available from an OVFD member.

Information on all of the 100th anniversary activities can be obtained by calling 334-8558.

SPEKTRA, a popular area band that plays hits of the 1950s through the 1990s, will provide the music for the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's 100th Anniversary Dance, slated for May 21 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Oakland Elks Lodge. Tickets, which are now available from all OVFD members, are $7 per person and $10 per couple. The dance will cap an entire week of entertainment and activities scheduled to celebrate the founding of the Oakland VFD in May of 1894. See story for more information.

Health Department, Hospital Offering Cardiac Program

In an effort to combat heart disease, Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department have developed a cardiac program that will be available to the residents of Garrett and neighboring West Virginia counties beginning May 1.

The program, titled "The Heart You Save May Be Your Own," consists of a 15-minute slide presentation that focuses on learning to recognize and respond to the early warning signs of a heart attack, as well as risk factor management and services offered by the hospital and health department that can assist in the diagnosis and treatment of heart attack. Educational materials and a corresponding lecture are also included in the program.

Linda Stresky, R.N., instructor for the cardiac program, will travel to local and surrounding area communities to present the program to interested groups and organizations. In addition to her regular duties as a nurse in the hospital's coronary intensive care unit (CICU), Stresky is responsible for reorganizing, managing and teaching Garrett Memorial's inpatient and outpatient cardiac rehabilitation programs.

"The goal of the cardiac program is to increase public awareness of the health risk factors associated with heart attack and to implement behavioral changes that will lead to healthier lifestyles," said Stresky.

"I look forward to going out into many different communities to provide educational information to people about heart attacks and prevention," she continued. "By giving an increasing number of people the knowledge and skills to assist in preventing a possible heart attack, we could quite possibly save thousands of lives each year, toppling heart attack from its number one position as the nation's killer."

According to the American Heart Association, heart attacks kill 600,000 Americans annually. Although heart attacks are American's number one health problem, half of these deaths can be prevented by learning about the early warning signs, symptoms and risk factors associated with a heart attack.

To schedule a cardiac presentation for your organizations or groups or for more information, persons may call 334-2155, ext. 362.

Several Persons Arrested By GCSO On Varied Charges

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested several persons this week on charges ranging from DWI (driving while intoxicated) to trespassing and malicious destruction of property. One man was charged with "rogue and vagabond."

An Elkins, W.Va., man was arrested last week after he apparently ransacked a room in a house where he had been residing. Timothy R. Facemire, 22, was charged with disorderly conduct, trespassing, and malicious destruction of property.

The defendant apparently refused to leave the home of Delaine Faulkner and Donna Rice. After finally exiting the house, Ms. Faulkner discovered that he had ransacked Miss Rice's bedroom and had written obscenities on the mirror, according to the report.

Two men were arrested after they were observed removing a grocery cart from Foodland grocery store. Michael P. Sliger, 21, Loch Lynn, and Johnny J. Thomas, 33, Deer Park, had apparently taken the grocery cart down to the goodwill clothes box on the parking lot of Foodland. According to the report, they removed clothes from the box, put them in the cart, and were attempting to push the cart to Loch Lynn when they were spotted by several witnesses.

The witnesses then contacted the sheriff's office, and deputies responded to the scene. They were able to capture Sliger as he rode his bicycle toward Loch Lynn. Thomas was apparently apprehended some time later.

Both were charged with two counts of theft (less than $300) and one count of conspiracy. The incident took place last Thursday afternoon.

The sheriff's office was notified last week that a man was apparently living in his car, which was parked at a pull-off area on Table Rock Road. Officers found John J. Lockard, 55, no fixed address, to be living there, in his Pontiac. The vehicle apparently had no tags, and the officers informed him that he would have to leave the area and have the vehicle towed.

Several hours later, another call came in about a suspicious man at an unoccupied house near the Table Rock area. Officers found it to be Lockard again, and at that time charged him with "rogue and vagabond." He was also suspected of committing indecent exposure by standing nude along the roadway as cars passed, according to the report. He has since been placed at the Finan Center, according to the report.

A Frostburg man was charged with DWI early Sunday morning. Jeffrey A. Smith, 22, was stopped along Rt. 135 for an equipment violation. The officer suspected him to be intoxicated and he was charged accordingly. A further check into his record revealed that he was driving with a suspended license and operating an uninsured vehicle without current tags, according to the report.

An inmate in the Garrett County Jail was charged with two counts of battery following a dispute. Bradley A. Sims, 25, McHenry, is accused of hitting another inmate on two occasions in the past two weeks.

An arrest warrant was issued by Garrett County Circuit Court for Kenneth Mabe, 22, Baltimore. Mabe is accused of violating his probation by moving to a new residence without the court's permission and failing to attend alcohol addiction classes.

Roy L. Friend, 22, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant last week. Friend is charged with failing to appear in court.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Espy L. Parker Jr., 44, Wheeling, W.Va. Parker is accused of failing to appear in court on April 20 for a support hearing, according to the report.

A Deer Park man was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant that was issued a year ago. Donald R. Park, 33, has been charged with violation of probation. His original charge was arson, according to the report.

GC Health Dept. To Sponsor Rabies Vaccine Clinics

The Garrett County Health Department will sponsor a week of low cost rabies clinics for the vaccination of cats and dogs beginning Monday, May 2, through Saturday, May 7. All clinics will take place from 5-6 p.m., except on Saturday, when the clinic will run from noon until 2 p.m.

Residents are encouraged to check the following schedule of times and locations of the clinics:

Accident Elementary School, Monday, May 2; Gorman Fire Hall, Tuesday, May 3; Friendsville Elementary School, Wednesday, May 4; Bloomington Fire Hall, Thursday, May 5; Grantsville Elementary School, Friday, May 6; and Broad Ford Elementary School on Saturday, May 7.

The cost of the vaccination is $5 per animal. Dogs should be on leashes and cats should be secured in a wire cage or box with air holes.

The vaccination of dogs and cats is one of the most critical measures that can be taken by pet-owners in protecting their families from possible exposure to the rabies virus, according to Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for Garrett County. Three rabies cases have been confirmed in the county so far this year, with 12 documented cases in 1993. Because of the wide geographical distribution of documented cases, no dog or cat should be considered safe from the disease in the county.

Thefts Reported To Sheriff's Off.

Two local persons contacted the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week to report apparent theft incidents. In one case a gun was stolen, and in another various items from an Oakland business.

Conrad L. James, Oakland, alerted police when he discovered that his .357 handgun and .22 calibre bullets were missing. The items had been hidden in a desk drawer, located in his basement. The gun was in a leather shoulder holster.

The stolen items have been valued at $430. They were apparently stolen sometime in the past three months. There is a possible suspect in the case, according to the report.

In a second case, Anita Teter, owner of Grandma's Attic, Oakland, reported the theft of an 8x12 rug, two trash cans, and a ceramic crock. The items are worth a combined amount of $200.

Remembering Nixon...

We feel somewhat obliged this week to comment on the life of former president Richard M. Nixon, who died Friday following a stroke. Nixon will most likely be remembered primarily for his Watergate involvement, but it seems fitting to point out some of the accomplishments of this man that changed the future for the better, accomplishments that either have been forgotten or are perhaps unknown by most people.

While Nixon will be remembered as a typical staunch conservative, it may be surprising to realize that it was he who established the Environmental Protection Agency; it was he who designed a family assistance plan that was the most far-reaching welfare reform plan ever created by any president (it did not pass because Congressional liberals believed it was not far-reaching enough); it was he who began to pull troops out of Vietnam within just a few weeks after his inauguration, and ultimately withdrew the last troops from that nation via a peace accord signed by Henry Kissinger; and it was under Nixon that affirmative action received a major boost, as more Southern schools were de-segregated under Nixon than under any administration before or since then.

Perhaps his greatest contribution to his country, and really to the world at large, was his efforts in foreign policy that initiated an end to the cold war between the United States and the communist nations of China and the Soviet Union. After reopening relations with China that had been non-existent for decades, Nixon's next move was to travel to Moscow and begin negotiations on the first nuclear arms reduction treaty. Despite the total reluctance of Soviet Chief Leonid Breznnev, Nixon stuck to his guns and the treaty was signed.

Had Nixon not made the mistake of attempting to cover up the Watergate break-in, he may have weathered that storm and completed his administration. It was a huge mistake that led to his disgrace. We are pleased that he lived long enough to: regain the respect of most Americans; reveal that, under what appeared to be a shroud of coldness and indifference, was a man of compassion and caring; be recognized as one of our better presidents; and provide quiet but valuable counseling and guidance to five presidents who succeeded him.

Unlike many of today's most influential Republicans, Richard Nixon was born into poverty, and had to struggle for everything in his life. His brilliance, perseverance, and many of his accomplishments, save the Watergate fiasco, should be remembered.

View From My Window

THE LEGACY OF RICHARD MILHOUS NIXON

My first involvement in politics was Richard Nixon's 1968 Presidential campaign. My mother and I went to the offices of our county's Republican State Central Committee, and picked up letters which needed stuffing into envelopes. I was 13 years old.

There were rumors in those days that my family might sell our farm, and move to another state where we were also farming. Mom and Daddy capitalized on the local rumor mill, and got a real estate-like campaign sign which said "This house is SOLD on Nixon-Agnew." We had fun, watching from the front porch as cars slowed and stopped in order to read that sign.

It seems like a fantasy to recall how much hope we placed in Nixon's campaign. Someone once likened President Johnson to King Saul of ancient Israel who had been the Lord's anointed when he had championed black Americans and the poor of our country. In the tragedy of Vietnam, the spirit of the Lord departed from him. During 1968 the winds of revolution blew throughout the world. In America it was a year of assassinations and riots.

Nixon looked and sounded like America's senior statesman, so moderate after the Goldwater campaign only four years earlier. The candidacy of George Wallace also gave Nixon the middle of the road. 10,000,000 American voters, nearly 15% of the total, cast their ballots for Wallace who came very close to avowing racism.

Though Nixon won a landslide Electoral College victory he barely snuck by Hubert Humphrey in the popular count with only a half million votes to spare out of 73,000,000 cast.

Richard Nixon promised to bring America together again. He said he would win the war in Vietnam, and bring our boys home. Of course, his detractors said this was the same old "Tricky Dicky" just dressed up for church.

Once he entered the White House President Nixon did some amazingly un-Nixon-like things, to the consternation of both his supporters and his enemies. Nixon, the great anti-communist (remember his kitchen debate with Khrushchev) opened the door to communist China. He implemented wage and price controls (a categorical failure). He was also the last President to attempt a thoroughgoing domestic policy. It was during the Nixon years that the last meaningful reform of American social-welfare programs took place.

In 1972 Nixon's re-election was not a sure thing which no one knew better than the old warrior himself. Republican ideologues did not like the China business, and accused Nixon of going soft on communists. In a country where George Wallace could garner 15% of the vote, having as the top international policy adviser someone (Kissinger) who spoke with a foreign accent was not politically prudent. The great area of vulnerability, however, was Vietnam. The Democratic Party, fairly enough, played tapes of Nixon's 1968 speeches when he said that anyone who had four years to win a war and couldn't, should not be re-elected. It was a compelling argument.

So Tricky Dicky was reborn. He did his best to manipulate the nomination by the Democrats of his weakest possible rival, Senator George McGovern. Nixon's best, though in a bad endeavor, was effective. So in 1972 we had a choice, as many said at the time, between a crook and a fool. By then I was in college. I went door to door for Nixon in a strange town in Maine. In one of the little twists of irony in life my partner in that door-to-door effort was a guy who 18 years later turned up in a neighboring county to run and win public office the same year I did in my own county. When we see each other, we recall that eerie Saturday in the fall of 1972, marching up and down streets we had never seen before and would never see again.

We elected the crook. Two years later we found out the crook had been a fool too. Not only had he engaged in the disgusting dirty tricks all too common in political campaigns the world over, he had actually orchestrated a burglary for political purposes.

In my sky, a star had fallen nevermore to rise. For 20 years now, Richard Nixon has campaigned to be acknowledged as a great former President. I never troubled myself to believe in him again. He was great and, at the same time, small and mean. His best and his worst are past. Now he has spent his strength.

Words of scripture sum up his life: How are the mighty fallen!

Trout Stocked

ties, not by taxpayers.

When water comes in contact with the pyrate (sulphur and iron) in exposed coal, the result is sulfuric acid. The acid -- a problem by itself -- also leaches out metals from the soil, including iron, manganese, and heavy metals. Depending on the flow, anywhere from two to 15 million gallons of acidic water, with a pH of between two and three, enter the North Branch each day, according to the best estimates of DNR officials.

There are 52 mine sites in Maryland and West Virginia that contribute acid discharge into the river and, of those, 15 are responsible for 90 percent of the acid pollution, according to DNR reports.

The Kempton mine, which began producing coal in 1914 and then discontinued operations in 1949, was one of the state's most sophisticated and productive deep mines during that era, covering more than six square miles. Acidic water still flows out of mine each day, into Laurel Run and the North Branch of the Potomac.

Gob piles are another problem created by past mining practices. The 30 to 50-foot tall hills of tailings and waste products which did not contain enough coal to profitably mine at the time are, today, creating acid and environmental damage.

Lime doser technology has been used in Sweden for many years and, five years ago, the Bureau of Mines obtained four Swedish-manufactured, surplus machines. The dosers currently in operation at the North Branch mix approximately four and one-half tons of lime each week into tributaries flowing into the river.

The result is a river that can now sustain life, including that of ospreys, eagles, otters, and other wildlife dependent on the river.

Garrett County residents see the return of the river as life-sustaining in more ways than one. Not only can it again support trout, but it offers an economic opportunity in an area with an historically high unemployment rates.

"This is a major step toward revitalizing the river, but there is still more to do," said DNR Regional Fisheries Biologist Ken Pavol, who was instrumental in overseeing the return of biological processes to the North Branch of the Potomac. "Some of the tributaries up-river from the location where the trout was stocked are still lifeless and barren, but we are making progress," he added.

To the Editor:

I'm inviting people of God to write to the six members of the Board of Education before their May 10 meeting to share their views as to why we need prayer at graduation. The members and their addresses are below. Anyone wanting to attend this part of the meeting which is open to the public may call the Board to find out the time.

I believe we need prayer at graduation services because people need the Lord. I believe we have been created to need God, (as John 15:5 says...without Christ we can do nothing.) I know that my journey on this earth is to serve my creator and be ready to meet Him face to face and to spend eternity with Him.

(1 Corinthians 1:18: For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness, but unto us which are saved it is the power of God.)

REMOVING ADHESIVES

The last thing one may have to do with Christmas presents is to remove the sticky label, often nearly impossible task, it seems.

Removing sticky adhesive substances from various surfaces can be difficult and any treatment should First Be Tried On An Inconspicuous Place to be sure there will be no damage to the item from which the label will be removed.

Stickers with pressure-sensitive are peeled from a backing or roll, then pressed into place. They can often be peeled off with the remaining adhesive rubbed off with your fingers similar to the way you thumb-roll rubber cement into balls. If the adhesive is old or has been exposed to high temperature or humidity, it will be more difficult to remove. Carefully remove as much of the tape as possible with the dull edge of a knife. For fiberglass, plastic or glass with a high lead content only use plastic or wood scrapers. The next procedure will again depend on the surface of the material. Usually the adhesive can be removed with a solution of warm water and liquid dish washing detergent, or vinegar, or ammonia (not on aluminum).

To remove sticky labels from plastic dampen the end of a cotton swab, with dry cleaning fluid. Allow the dry cleaning fluid to remain only long enough for the label to be removed. Wipe off excess fluid immediately and wash the article in warm, sudsy water, otherwise the fluid will dull the finish of the plastic surface.

To remove price mark labels from glass or metal, other than aluminum, fold a paper towel or cloth to make a thick pad. Dampen the pad with ammonia and lay over the label. On a vertical surface tape the pad down, wait one half to two hours, re-dampen the pad if it dries out. The label should just slide off. Never use this procedure on aluminum or plastic.

Tub appliques are more difficult to remove because they are made in three layers - the visible top layer, a middle layer of mylar film, and the bottom layer of adhesive. Any solvent must reach under the mylar to work on the adhesive. Use a chisel-pointed plastic or wood scraper (caution on fiberglass which readily mars) to lift several corners of each appliques. Then apply a generous portion of a liquid pre-wash product over the entire tub bottom. These solutions must get under the mylar film to work. Allow to soak for two hours. The adhesive should soften to the point where appliques are easy to lift off. You may need to repeat the soaking procedure. Wipe up the softened adhesive with a coarse paper or dry cloth. Be sure to clean the tub thoroughly before putting on new adhesives, otherwise new appliques may not adhere properly.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week. The menu for the week of May 2-6 is as follows:

Day 1 - Cranberry juice, Hawaiian chicken, rice, peas & carrots, biscuit, orange sherbet.

Milk, Coffee, and tea are served with all meals.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows:

Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, 746-8824; Finzel Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-2848; Starner Hill Apts., Grantsville 895-5092, Jennings Community Building, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, 334-9431, ext. 135, and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

Note: Friendsville Senior Citizens are now being served at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant at noon instead of 1 p.m. Friendsville Nutrition Site (Twila's Old Mill Grill) and Grantsville Nutrition Site (Starner Hill Apartments) will be using alternate menus.

Info On Elder Abuse

The following is one of a series of articles by Daphne D. Bennear, long term care manager for the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, regarding the various forms of abuse of senior citizens.

Elder Abuse, be A.W.A.R.E.
by Daphne D. Bennear

May 1994 has been designated by Governor Schaefer as Elder Abuse Prevention Month. The Area Agency on Aging is sponsoring an awareness campaign titled, "Elder Abuse: be A.W.A.R.E.

Young and old, elder abuse effects everyone in Garrett County. In fiscal year 1993 there were approximately 70 reported cases of elder abuse in Garrett County. This figure includes physical and financial abuse and neglect.

Everyone who participates in the care of an older person is a potential abuser. Many times abuse occurs because of the lack of resources a caregiver has or the lack of knowledge about abuse and how to prevent it.

The Area Agency on Aging wants all citizens to be informed about elder abuse and know how to spot and what to do about the abuse when it is detected.

A.W.A.R.E. represents an easy-to-remember set of guidelines about elder abuse. The letters stand for:

Ask questions.
Watch for signs of abuse.
Alert authorities if abuse is suspected.
Reassure the victim.
Educate others about elder abuse.

In the following issues we will explain each of these guidelines and give tips for the prevention of elder abuse. However, if you have any questions about elder abuse feel free to contact the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging at 334-9431.

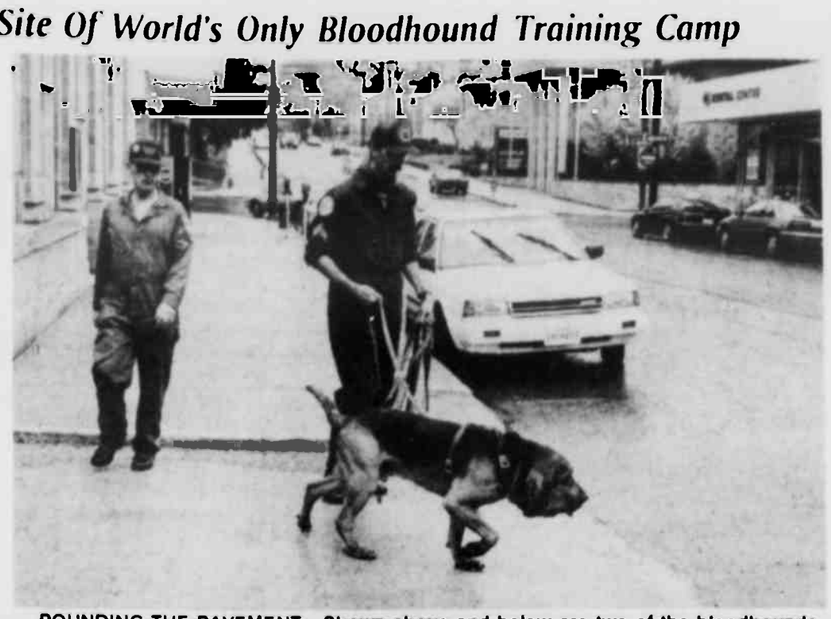
County Is Again Site Of World's Only Bloodhound Training Camp



by Sherry Frantz

Garrett County residents may or may not have noticed that during the past week a total of 73 bloodhounds, 20 instructors, and 125 trainees have moved about in their midst with what seems to be a minimum of commotion and flurry, returning nightly to the Western Maryland 4-H Center in Bittinger to rest up for the following day's hard work.

This week marks the eighth year that the only bloodhound training course in the world has been held in Garrett County -- a place that provides enough geographic diversity to suit the various training requirements and one that is centrally located for most of the participants.

Although not entirely new to the area, the training camp has grown to attract more participants from around the world, including three from Sweden, two from Denmark, two from Canada, and one from Hawaii, as well as many from throughout the United States.

Sgt. Ronald E. Brown, instructor/trainer for the camp and a member of the Allegany County Sheriff's Department, said that the training camp (after having moved around to different locations throughout its 30-year history) finally settled on the Garrett County site partly because "it is an area conducive to different runs, including what we call the contaminated trails with people, vehicles, stores and other kinds of activity on the streets, as well as the woodland areas."

POUNDING THE PAVEMENT - Shown above and below are two of the bloodhounds and their respective trainers who took part in the annual bloodhound training camp held this week in Garrett County. The county has been the host for this, the only bloodhound training camp in the world, for the past eight years. A total of 73 dogs were busy at various sites throughout the county, learning the fine art of tracking criminals and fugitives, whether in a woodland setting or on the streets, where human and vehicular traffic must be ignored by the dogs in order to successfully track.

Participants come from various police and rescue agencies, as the dogs are utilized in law enforcement and other types of search and rescue operations to track criminals or anyone attempting to flee from authorities.

Brown is one of only 20 instructor/trainers in the world and has been at it for about 15 years. He explained that a progressive training method is used in order to advance the handlers to instructors and ultimately to trainers.

He also noted that a lot of what is shown on television is not an altogether accurate portrayal of how bloodhound tracking really works, and so the public is left with misconceptions about the tracking methods.

First of all, he said, bloodhounds do not track humans by following the scent of their footwear but, more accurately, the scent that comes from the top of a person's head. He explained that cells are continuously being replaced in the body and, as the old cells are discarded, the particles resembling "microscopic snowflakes" fall to the ground.

As those "rafts" begin to decay, a gaseous odor is emitted, which the bloodhound identifies and then begins the tracking process. Each person's scent is different and is made even more unique by the individual's eating and other lifestyle habits. As a matter of interest, Brown noted that people of Oriental origin have the least amount of scent because their diets consist of more vegetables, fruits, and grains and fewer meats and fats.

Brown stated that the bloodhound is most adept, of all the other breeds, at scent discrimination. During training exercises, the hound is required to track only one individual from several that have been sent out on a trail.

When the hound successfully completes the more preliminary training exercises, the tests become progressively more difficult. One example of a more advanced training exercise consists of having a person run across a golf course that other individuals are also using. The golf course is utilized throughout the following day by other golfers and, that night (24 hours later), the hound is sent out to track the person who ran through the golf course the day before.

Hounds that are trained well are able to track a seven-year-old scent if that scent sample has been frozen. Brown explained that a sterile gauze is used to absorb the scent and the gauze is then frozen.

The bloodhound's extraordinary powers of scent discrimination are such that utilizing the dogs is a much more effective way of tracking criminals than any type of human identification.

"When a human being is attempting to identify a criminal in a line-up situation, mistakes are bound to be made because of the human bias," said Brown. "A dog can't be biased."

He did say, however, that, like humans, each dog has a different personality and a proficient trainer will be able to "read" the dog he is working with so that any wrong moves by the dog will not be reinforced.

Only positive reinforcement is used in the training of the dogs, he said, and their cue that the work whistle has been sounded is when they are outfitted with a collar/harness apparatus.

"You have to really love dogs to do this," said Brown. "You especially have to love working with these bloodhounds. Most people would say they're pretty ugly and stinky."

And then, of course, there's the slobbering.

D-Day Program Being Planned For GCC Campus

Special programs commemorating the 50th anniversary of the June 6 D-Day invasion of Normandy are being planned by the Garrett County World War II committee, according to Paul Shogren, chairperson.

Plans include scheduling programs at the high schools during the day and a program from the community at the college during the evening. The program will include a color ceremony by members of veterans' organizations, presentations by several veterans who were members of the Allied invasion force that hit the beach on D-Day, and several persons who remember what happened in Garrett County that day. There will also be a video tape showing scenes of the actual combat. Chairperson of the committee planning the programs is John Grant.

A Garrett County resident and veteran of D-Day, Charles McIntyre, will appear on Maryland public television later this month, following a video-taping session scheduled for May 4. McIntyre is a member of the storytelling guild organized by Dr. Gail Herman and has told the stories of his experiences in that battle.

Other veterans of the D-Day invasion who are willing to share their experiences are asked to call Shogren at 387-5013 or 334-1386.

Hosp. Foundation Working To Recruit Partners

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation's Annual Support Committee has dedicated its 1994 community fund raising efforts toward the purchase of a new cardiac monitoring system that will provide updated technology to Garrett Memorial's intensive care unit, telemetry unit, progressive care unit, operating rooms, and recovery room.

To assist in raising the necessary funds to finance the project, a special Partners in Health drive team of the hospital's Foundation is working in the community to recruit 150 new Partners in Health members.

To make potential Partners in Health members aware of the patient care benefits of the monitoring system, the drive team recently participated in a workshop which familiarized them with the capabilities of the cardiac monitoring system.

Members of the special drive team include Elaine McDonald, chairman of the Foundation's Annual Support Committee and Partners in Health drive team, Kathy Gibson, Ed King, Roxanne Reed, Diane Robeson, Linda Taylor, Gary Daum, Dr. Dan Koch, Denise Rinker, Rick Trydahl, Ned Holloway, Marsha Osckowski, Joanne Rebele, Hal Forsyth, Carmen Rosenthal, and Ann B. Smith.

"The efforts of our Foundation volunteers and their respective committees have helped this organization to raise close to one million dollars that has assisted in providing Garrett Memorial with some of the most current medical technology available," said Kathy Greaser, Foundation director. "Through the continued support of the community and dedication of volunteers, Garrett Memorial can continue to advance, providing our area residents with state-of-the-art, comprehensive medical care."

Members of Partners in Health, comprised of both community residents and hospital employees, have committed to contributing to the hospital's Foundation a minimum of $100 per family per year. The membership is renewable on an annual basis. For more information about the Foundation or Partners in Health, persons may call 334-2155, ext. 377.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

KILDOW'S GRIST MILL was located at the far west end of Water Street in Oakland. The mill's grind stones were powered by the waters of the Little Youghiogheny River, which were dammed for the purpose (note dam on the right side of the photo). The mill was the second one built on the same site. The first grist mill there was known as the McCarty Mill, built in the early 1800s by Isaac McCarty, regarded as the founder of Oakland. The Kildow Mill was raised a number of years ago. Pleasant View Teens Committed To Abstinence

A group of teenagers from Pleasant View Baptist Church, Oakland, have made a commitment to wait until marriage for sex.

Recognizing the rising threat of AIDS, several sexually transmitted diseases, and "a need to be in God's will," the youth have decided to participate in a National Campaign called, "True Love Waits." The abstinence-based campaign was originally conceived by the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, and has flourished to become a non-denominational program.

"Youth must be challenged to understand the facts about pre-marital sex, and, armed with the truth, make wise sexual decisions," said Mark Watkins, youth pastor at Pleasant View.

The "True Love Waits" program encourages youth to sign commitment cards, promising to remain "sexually pure" from that moment on. "Sexually pure" means practicing abstinence from that moment forward, until marriage. The program also offers those who have already been sexually active a "second chance."

According to Pastor Watkins, several teens have already signed commitment cards, promising to God, their current date, their future mate, their future children, and themselves, to wait until marriage.

Area youth will attend a state-wide rally April 30 at Southwestern High School in Baltimore with several hundred other committed teens from across the state. Commitment cards will be displayed during the rally, then sent to Washington, D.C., for display in the mall area July 29. Watkins said it is hoped that over 500,000 will be sent in by that date.

Gov. Schaefer Sets Elder Abuse Prevention Week

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland-Office on Aging, have announced that Maryland will observe Elder Abuse Prevention Week. Governor Schaefer has proclaimed May 1-7 Elder Abuse Prevention Week in Maryland.

"Maryland is pleased to focus attention on the problems of elder abuse in our communities and heighten sensitivity about the issues, as Maryland's seniors are truly deserving of our great respect, admiration, understanding, protection and care," said Governor Schaefer.

Put simply, elder abuse is the mistreatment or neglect of an elderly person at the hands of others, often family members or caregivers. Mistreatment may occur in the home or institution where the older person lives. According to the National Aging Resource Center on Elder Abuse (NARCEA), "Elder abuse is a shocking revelation to most Americans, and the average citizen may find it hard to believe that the problem exists." This form of family violence has received heightened public attention over the past five years. A 1990 report by the U. S. Senate Select Committee on Aging revealed that 1.5 million persons may be victims of abuse each year. The report further stated that cases of elder abuse are far less likely to be reported than cases of child abuse. The Committee found that ". . . while one out of three child abuse cases is reported, only one out of every eight cases of elder abuse is reported."

The major types of elder abuse include: physical abuse, emotional or psychological abuse, sexual abuse, neglect, and financial exploitation.

The Maryland Office on Aging and the Maryland Department of Human Resources are working cooperatively to effectively address the problem of elder abuse through public awareness, outreach and the development of related programs and services at the local level.

"We are alarmed that the elderly are the subject of over 65% of all reports to the Department of Social Services regarding adult abuse, neglect or exploitation," said Mrs. Abrams. "Through preventative efforts such as education, counseling, information and referral, the devastating effects of elder abuse may be curtailed; therefore, maintaining the health and well being of older individuals."

Persons interested in obtaining information on elder abuse may call their local Area Agency on Aging or the Maryland Office on Aging at 1-800-AGE-DIAL.

Area Publication Receives Award In Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania Federation of Museums and Historical Organizations recognized the Casselman Chronicle with an award of achievement in the publications category at the Federation Conference in Reading, Pa., on Monday, April 11. The Conference was a joint effort by the Pennsylvania Federation of Museums and Historical Organizations, the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission and the Berks County Museum Council.

The Casselman Chronicle, published by the Springs Historical Society since 1961, documents the history of the Casselman Valley region. The specific issue receiving the award was Volume XXXII, which discusses the history of religion, education, and family life in the Salisbury, St. Paul, and Summit Mills region.

Dr. Alta Schrock, Chronicle editor for the first 16 years and founder of the Springs Historical Society, was present to receive the award. She presently serves as editorial consultant and continues to contribute as a writer for the publication. David Parke, president of the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Federation of Museums and Historical Organizations and executive director of the Hershey Museum, presented the award to Dr. Schrock at an evening banquet at The Inn in Reading.

The award banquet was part of a three-day conference held April 10-12. Fifty-four persons representing historical societies, commissions, sites, and publications were present. Dr. Schrock toured the Reading Public Museum on Monday afternoon and participated in several workshops the following day. "The Role of Museums in Public Education" was the topic of a session dealing with the need for museums and historical organizations to become involved with the educational community in offering "hands-on" experiences for students of history and science.

Another workshop explained the new Technical Assistant Grant program sponsored by the Institute of Museum Services which pays to train staff members in museum operations. The Springs Historical Society has already taken advantage of this program by submitting an application to send Beth Holler to an oral documentation workshop in August. If funding is received, Mrs. Hollar will continue with oral documentation in the fall of this year, using the interviews to develop a special exhibit around an industrial theme.

Dr. Schrock said that the information received at the Conference is helpful to the Springs Historical Society's efforts to become a vital force in the local and museum community. "The award given to the Casselman Chronicle is a confirmation that the efforts of many throughout the last 33 years have been worthwhile in the documentation of history. This recognition will provide an impetus for broader participation in the coming decades," stated Dr. Schrock.

CASSELMAN CHRONICLE RECOGNIZED - The Springs Historical Society recently received an award of achievement from the Pennsylvania Federation of Museums and Historical Organizations in recognition of the Society's publication, the Casselman Chronicle. Receiving the honor in the above photo is Dr. Alta Schrock, Grantsville, former editor of the Chronicle and founder of the Springs Historical Society. Making the presentation was David Parke, president of the board of directors of the Federation. See story for details.

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, have announced that Maryland will join the nation in honoring older Americans during the month of May.

To officially kick-off this month-long observance, Governor Schaefer has issued a proclamation designating the month of May as "Older Marylanders' Month" in the state. This is in line with the national effort to recognize older adults throughout the month of May.

The proclamation honors the more than 735,000 Marylanders over the age of 60 for their accomplishments and their contributions to improving and advancing the State of Maryland.

"Celebrating Long Life and Good Health" is the theme for this year's Older Americans' Month. This year's slogan is "Aging: An Experience of a Lifetime." The Administration on Aging (AoA) selected this year's theme and slogan.

This year's celebration of Older Americans' Month is the prelude to the 30 Anniversary of the Older Americans Act of 1965 and the White House Conference on Aging, which will take place in May 1995.

"Maryland is pleased to join in celebrating a special month during a special year -- the "Year of the Senior" in Maryland -- as we salute Maryland's older residents," said Governor Schaefer.

"I urge all community leaders, public officials and other citizens who are concerned with the well-being of our older citizens, to help make Maryland a better place for them to live," said Ms. Abrams.

To celebrate May as Older Marylanders' Month and 1994 as the "Year of the Senior," Garrett County Area Agency on Aging has planned the following activities for the month:

--Maryland Public Television will film "Leaving A Legacy" class at Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, May 4, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

--A Mother's Day dinner, with "Mother of the Year" presentation, Mary Browning Senior Center, May 6, beginning at noon.

--Medication Management Programs: local pharmacists will review senior citizens' medications for possible misuse; and the Health Department Outreach will present "How To Manage Your Medications.

--Finzel fire hall, pharmacist Cindy Bavry, May 12, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Keystone Notes Numbers From First Quarter

Keystone Financial, Inc., the seventh largest bank holding company in Pennsylvania, has reported results for the first quarter ended March 31, 1994, and an increase in its planned stock buyback. First quarter net income increased to $12,060,000, or 63 cents per share, compared to $11,458,000, or 59 cents per share for the same period in 1993, which represented a 6.8% increase in earnings per share. Results for the initial three months of 1993 were restated to reflect the acquisitions of Elmwood Bancorp, Inc., and WM Bancorp, that were completed in January 1994. First quarter return on average assets was 1.32% and return on average equity was 13.82%.

Assets at the close of the first quarter increased to $3,689,480,000, from $3,611,820,000 at March 31, 1993. Deposits were $2,991,819,000, compared to $3,010,034,000 at the end of the same period in 1993, while loans increased slightly to $2,499,624,000, from $2,496,615,000 in 1993.

"It is gratifying to report an increase in earnings given the adverse financial impact of the severe weather conditions of the quarter. Our primary areas of focus remain the swift integration of our acquisitions, and the realization of operating efficiencies through the streamlining of many of our back-office activities," Carl L. Campbell, president and chief executive officer, said.

Keystone also announced that it has increased its planned stock buyback by 450,000 shares, bringing the aggregate to 750,000 shares. Keystone previously announced its intention to acquire, in the open market, approximately 300,000 shares, an amount equivalent to the number of shares to be issued in connection with the acquisition of American Savings Bank.

"Keystone's significant capital base makes greater stock repurchase possible. The expanded buyback program demonstrates our optimism about the future, and our commitment to enhance Keystone's financial performance," Campbell commented.

Keystone Financial has seven member banks including American Trust Bank, Cumberland, and American Trust Bank of West Virginia, Keyser, which together operate 122 community offices in 26 counties in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia. Keystone will have total assets of approximately $4.6 billion following completion of the mergers of Frankford Corporation, Horsham, Pa., and American Savings Bank, Tamaqua, Pa.

Sierra Club To Discuss Allegheny Highlands Trail

The Allegheny Highlands Trail will be the topic of discussion at the next meeting of the Western Maryland Group of the Sierra Club, to be held Tuesday, May 10, at 7:30 p.m., in Library 237 at Frostburg State University.

Mark Spencer, Maryland Department of Natural Resources Greenways and Resource Planning, will talk about the trail and present a video about the "Rails to Trails" projects and their associated benefits. The group will then discuss the current status of the local project and the club's contribution to that effort.

The trail will run from the C&O Canal terminus in Cumberland via Corriganville and Mt. Savage to Frostburg. It will then turn north to the Pennsylvania line, linking up with the Youghiogheny River Trail already under construction from Confluence. When completed, the trail will enable hikers, bicyclists, and horseback riders to travel from Pittsburgh to Washington.

"Strong support from the local community and government will be required to make this proposal a reality," stated Louis Bernstein, chairperson of the Western Maryland group, who invited the public to attend and help provide that support.

Refreshments will be served at the meeting.

More information may be obtained by calling Karen Krogh at 689-5974.

TAKING A SWING at what appears to be a low pitch yesterday against a Rockwood pitcher is Northern Husky Derek Mason, whose two-run single spearheaded a seven-run fourth inning that led to a 10-0 defeat of the visiting Pennsylvania team. It was the third straight win for the Huskies, who nearly upset the area's number one team, the Southern Rams, last Friday afternoon. Coach Phil Carr's Huskies are now 10-3 on the season and will play at Mt. Savage this afternoon. Photo by C. Speicher.

Huskies Nearly Upset Rams, Then Win Three Straight

After nearly upsetting Southern, the area's top-ranked baseball team last Friday, the Northern Huskies came back Saturday to record a 14-7 win over host Hancock, then ripped visiting Flintstone on Monday, 13-0, and crushed Rockwood at the Cove yesterday, 10-0.

The Huskies came to Oakland Friday determined to defeat the unbeaten, arch rival Rams, and nearly pulled off the upset, as they held a 7-5 advantage midway through the fifth inning. But Southern rallied to tie the score and then went on to win the game, 8-7, in the bottom of the eighth inning (see separate story).

Coach Phil Carr's team came rolling back Saturday to record 15 hits and 14 runs in their win over the Panthers of Hancock.

Alan Sebold, Brian Heslop, and Derek Mason each recorded three hits for the Huskies, while Chris Wright, Rob Speicher, and Brad Williams finished with two apiece. Heslop's hits accounted for four runs, Wright sent home three, and Sebold plated two.

Aaron Blocher and Jeremy Brenneman combined on the mound for the Huskies, as they yielded a total of nine hits. Ross, the Panthers' starting pitcher, recorded two hits, as did Jaime Younker and Jamie Wheeler. The defeat dropped Hancock to 6-3.

It was Sebold who initiated a five-run first inning Monday against the Flintstone Aggies, as he ripped a three-run homer. He later added a double.

Northern scored two more runs in the second inning and six in the fourth to conclude the game early because of the 10-run rule. Getting three of the Huskies 12 hits was Wright, who had three singles for three RBI. Ryan Fold doubled and singled and winning pitcher Derek Mason added a run-producing double.

Mason tossed the first four innings and Danny Butler took over in the fifth, as the duo held the Aggies to just three singles.

Flintstone, who dropped to 5-6, also committed seven errors.

Jeremy Brenneman and the Northern offense needed just five innings to dispose of Rockwood yesterday, as Brenneman fired a one-hitter in going the distance. He nearly recorded a no-hitter, but with two outs in the fifth and final inning, Rick Reckner connected for a bloop single over the second baseman's head.

The Huskies managed just six hits against two Rockwood pitchers and scored their first run in the third inning on three errors and no hits. They put the game away in the fourth inning with seven more runs.

Brenneman led off the fourth with a single, which was the first hit of the game, and later singled home a run. Derek Mason had a two-run single in the inning, while Sebold and Williams each rapped RBI doubles.

The 10-3 Huskies will play a strong Mt. Savage team this afternoon on the Indians' diamond, beginning at 4 p.m. They are slated to play at Beall next Wednesday.

Husky Jayvees Top Beall, Drop Two To Wildcats

The Northern junior varsity baseball team edged the visiting Beall jayvees last Thursday, 5-4, before dropping both ends of a doubleheader to Westmar in Lonaconing on Tuesday.

Matt Umbel smacked a home run and a double to pace the Huskies against Beall, while Herman Arndt added a bases-loaded single in the final inning to win the game for the Huskies.

Martin Strnad, a foreign exchange student at Northern, was the winning pitcher.

Arndt went two-for-three in the first game against Westmar on Tuesday, but the Wildcats held on for a 6-5 win for starting pitcher Danny Tinney.

T.J. Morgan doubled and singled for the Wildcats and teammate Shawn Swisher singled home the winning run.

NRP Advises Safe Start For Boating Season

Missing and presumed drowned is a dreadful message, but it may be a message that could become too familiar if boating enthusiasts in Maryland do not heed safety precautions, particularly the one to wear a life jacket.

Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) Superintendent Franklin I. Wood has issued a reminder to citizens who are boating in Maryland waters to keep safety in mind as they begin this year's boating season.

Warmer weather is beginning to lure many to Maryland waters for boating and fishing recreation, but there have already been two fatalities in the year, recorded from boating incidents on Sunday, April 17, Col. Wood said. Neither victim was wearing a personal flotation device (PFD).

"We want our citizens to enjoy Maryland waterways and boating activities, but we want them to be as safe as possible. We definitely want a safer boating season than we had in 1993 where 22 lives were lost," Col. Wood said. "And, we hope our boaters wear their U.S. Coast Guard approved PFDs while on the water."

Of the boating deaths last year, falling overboard was the most common type of accident. In studies of those incidents, NRP found that with 77 percent of those fatalities, life jackets had not been worn.

Col. Wood has been surveying statistics of Maryland recreational boating for the past four years and is publishing papers with two national organizations on safe boating, based on his studies.

NRP, as designated by Maryland law in 1960, oversees all Maryland waterways for boating safety as well as for enforcement of natural resources laws.

In the NRP studies, Col. Wood has profiled the peak boating incident occasions and situations. Incidents are highest for those cruising in a boat, during the time frame from noon to 8 p.m. on Sundays, during July, and without PFDs. The majority of deaths are from drowning, Col. Wood said.

Alcohol is considered the significant primary cause of fatal boating accidents. The NRP is endorsing a Designated Skipper program for Maryland waterways this year.

"Citizens are urged to boat smart, by using PFDs and practicing safe boating procedures," Col. Wood stated. Safe boating courses are offered through the NRP.

Rams Still Number One As They Up Record To 10-0

Five more victories recorded this past week by the Southern High School baseball team, including a dramatic come-from-behind win over cross-county rival Northern, has sohdified the ranking of the Rams as the area's top high school baseball team.

Coach Jim Bosley's team upped its season mark to a perfect 10-0 with a 9-4 win over visiting Keyser last Thursday, a major 8-7 victory over the Northern Huskies on Friday, also in Oakland, and 11-6 win at Tucker County on Saturday, and an 18-1, 16-2 doubleheader smashing of Berkeley Springs on Monday on the Indians' diamond.

The Rams were slated to host a strong Allegany team yesterday, but the game was postponed until Saturday because of rainy weather.

Jeremy Fitzwater struck out nine batters, walked five, allowed only one earned run, and had a no-hitter going into the fifth inning last Thursday against Keyser.

The Rams wasted no time taking control of the contest, as they scored four runs in the first inning and led 9-1 after six innings.

Matt Newcomb led off the first inning with a triple and then scored on a sacrifice fly by Mark Elliott. Josh Woods, Fitzwater, and Rich Warnick followed with singles and Mark Dawson brought two of them home with a triple. Then Seth Tressler singled in the fourth run of the inning.

Elliott scored a run in the second inning after walking, stealing second, and coming home on a double by Fitzwater. He repeated the same actions in the fourth inning, this time scoring on a single by Woods.

Singles by Warnick, Tressler, and Brian Reams led to two more runs for the Rams in the sixth inning.

Fitzwater's no-hitter was halted by a single by Brad Smith in the fifth. Chip Mason's double sent Smith home for Keyser's second run. All three Keyser runs in the seventh inning were unearned.

Warnick led the Rams in number of hits with three singles, Dawson and Newcomb each tripled and singled, Fitzwater doubled and singled, and Woods and Tressler each chipped in two singles.

The loss dropped the Golden Tornado to 2-11.

It appeared the Rams' undefeated streak would come to an end Friday afternoon when the Northern Huskies moved out to a 7-3 lead in the fifth inning, but a two-run homer by Tressler in Southern's half of the fifth tied the game at 7-7 and ultimately sent the game into an extra inning.

Josh Woods scored the game-winning run with two outs in the bottom of the eighth after getting a single, advancing to second on a wild pitch, and coming home on an error of a shallow fly to right center field.

The Huskies jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first half, as Ryan Folk, Rob Speicher, and Alan Sebold each singled to load the bases. A hit batter and a walk followed, forcing in the first two runs, and Brian Heslop smacked a double to plate the second two.

An RBI double by Elliott and a fielder's choice in the second inning yielded two runs for the Rams in the bottom of the first.

Northern took a 5-2 advantage in the third when Jeremy Brenneman singled and came home later on an infield error.

The Rams answered with a run in the fourth, as Steve Eyler doubled and scored on a single by Elliott.

It was in the top of the fifth that it appeared the Huskies might put the game away, as they loaded the bases with no outs. Two of the runners reached on errors and another walked. However, Doug Copeland, the starting pitcher for the Rams worked his way out of the jam after giving up just two runs, giving the Huskies a 7-3 lead.

Leading off the Rams' four-run fifth was Woods who singled. Fitzwater followed with a double and both later scored on an error of a ball hit by Warnick. Tressler followed with his score-tying, two-run homer to set the stage for Woods' game-winning score three innings later.

Woods finished with three singles, Elliott and Eyler each contributed a double and a single, and Newcomb and Dawson each singled twice. Elliott pitched the final two and one-third innings, striking out four Huskies and allowing no hits.

Southern out-hit the Huskies, 14-7, with Sebold and Brenneman each recording a pair of singles for Northern, who dropped to 7-3 with the loss.

Reams recorded his first-ever win on the mound for the Rams Saturday at Tucker County, as he struck out seven and pitched into the fifth inning before giving way to Joey DiSimone.

Fitzwater ripped a pair of home runs and a single, Newcomb finished with three singles, Tressler homered and singled, and Woods singled twice for two RBI, as the Rams took a 9-2 lead after four innings.

Bo Carr singled three times for the Mountain Lions, Rocky Hebb had a two-run homer and a single, and Tim Tompkins doubled and singled.

Coach Bosley was anticipating a difficult time for his team in Berkeley Springs on Monday, but the Rams coasted past the Indians by scoring a total of 34 runs and allowing only three in the two games.

Copeland upped his personal record to 3-0 in the first game, as he pitched just three innings, but struck out eight and yielded three hits.

Newcomb remained one of the top Southern batters as he rapped two home runs, including a solo shot to lead off the first inning. He also scored three times. Tressler, who is a freshman, homered and finished three-for-four for four RBI.

The only run by Berkeley Springs in the opener was scored on a solo homer by Donald Gray.

The Rams carried their hitting momentum right into the second game, as they scored 14 runs in the first three innings.

Fitzwater pitched five innings, allowed just three hits, and struck out 10 to record another win on the mound.

Elliott homered and singled, Woods tripled and went three-for-three, and Tressler went three-for-four with two RBI.

The Rams are scheduled to host Tucker County this afternoon in a 4:30 p.m. game, make up their game with Allegany Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m., entertain a strong Petersburg team on Monday, and host Bishop Walsh next Wednesday.

SHS Softball Team Wins Two Of Five Games

The girls' softball team of Southern High School won two of five games on the field this past week, but picked up a pair of forfeit wins from Bishop Walsh to up the team record to 6-5.

The Rams, coached by Dave Bosley, rolled over visiting Salisbury last Wednesday, 13-5; split a doubleheader with University High of Morgantown last Thursday, dropping the first game, 7-5, and winning the second, 13-11, also in Oakland; and then dropped both ends of a twinbill by just one run each to host Preston County on Monday, 18-17 and 11-10.

Alisa Rugg was the winning pitcher last Wednesday against Jesse Livengood of Salisbury, as she allowed just five hits, struck out three, and walked four. The game was called after four and one-half innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Rams put the game away in the fourth inning by scoring eight runs. Wendy Craver and Tina Reese led off the inning with walks and Crystal Sines followed with a double that scored Craver. Rugg, Nicole Bosley, and Brandi Stoner then drew walks and Christy Stoner singled, leaving the bases loaded with three runs scored and no outs. After two outs, Craver walked again and Reese followed with a two-run single.

Sines led the Rams' hitting with a double and a single, while J. Beitzel doubled and walked twice for the Orioles.

The score of the first game against University on Thursday was tied at 4-4 after six innings, but the Hawks put three runs on the board in the top of the eight and then held on for the win.

Lisa Marci earned the win on the mound over Rugg, as she allowed seven hits and struck out seven. Rugg gave up 11 hits, including four to Parker and three to Rodriguez.

Reese led the Rams with two hits.

Southern was down 6-1 in the second game, but surged for nine runs in the second inning and take a 10-7 advantage. Meghan Price doubled and singled in that inning, while Sines added a double. There were also four walks off losing pitcher Jenny Newborne.

Brandi Stoner earned the win on the mound for the Rams.

Each team finished with eight hits, with Sines going two-for-three with four RBI, Stoner hitting two of four for three RBI, and Price contributing two hits.

The first game against Preston County on Monday featured a total of 43 hits, with the Knights recording 24 and the Rams, 19. The contest went into extra innings with the score tied at 17-17 and the Knights scoring the winning run in the bottom of the ninth.

The Rams were on top 17-13 after six and one-half innings, but Preston came back with four runs in the bottom of the seventh to extend the game.

Leah Henry gained the win on the mound over Alisa Rugg.

Sines, Brandi Stoner, Christy Stoner, and Bosley had three hits each for Southern, while Kendra Daft recorded four for the Knights.

The Rams were also up by two runs, 10-8, in the shortened second game, but the Knights rallied for three runs in the bottom of the fourth to record their second win of the day.

The Rams out-hit the Knights, 13-10, but Rugg had to absorb the loss. Kelly Dixon was the winning pitcher.

Craver, Sines, Rugg, and the Stoners each finished with two hits for Southern, while Daft, Stacie Haskell, and Shelley Bolyard had two hits each for Preston.

The Rams received their forfeit wins from Bishop Walsh because the Spartans cancelled their program for the rest of the season.

The Rams, who are currently fourth in the regional standings, will meet Preston again next Tuesday in a doubleheader at home and then play two games at Northern on Wednesday.

Easy marinade--and time to let its flavor sink in--make for delicious chicken. Toss a quartered chicken with ¼ cup olive oil, 2 Tbs. chopped fresh parsley and 1 tsp. dried thyme. Cover and chill up to 24 hours. Add salt & pepper before broiling.

What used to be fancy French food seems to be getting simpler and lighter. One three-star chef serves an appetizer of freshly grilled shrimp on a bed of raw mushroom, all tossed with oil and lemon juice.

Dramatic ice-cream bombe is made of store-bought parts. Line a medium bowl with plastic wrap, then with ladyfingers, rounded side out. Spread them with a layer of vanilla ice cream, freeze, then fill the center with coffee ice cream. Soften 20 minutes before serving.

From-the-pantry meals are handy, and great for supper. To cooked chopped bacon and chopped onion, add two cans black beans (drained and rinsed) and one can each diced tomatoes and green chilis. Flavor with lots of chili powder and oregano, plus cayenne pepper to taste.

Even better for supper--eating out at

Lakers Win Six Of Seven, Including Game With Rockville

It has been a highly productive week for the Garrett Community College baseball team, as the Lakers won six of seven games, including a big 14-13 win over nationally ranked Montgomery-Rockville Tuesday afternoon in McHenry.

Garrett also crushed the junior varsity of Frostburg State University last Thursday, 18-2, recorded a 5-4 come-from-behind win over host Essex CC Friday, whipped Chesapeake CC in both ends of a doubleheader on Saturday, 10-6 and 11-5, at Wye Mills, and split a doubleheader with visiting Catonsville CC on Sunday, losing the first, 14-13, and winning the second, 10-7.

The Lakers also received word on two games that had been protested by Coach Ed Wildesen. The first, against Penn State-Beaver, was ruled a Laker win, while the second, against Charles CC, was designated a loss.

The Lakers are now 22-10 overall and 4-1 against Division I JUCO teams. They are scheduled to host powerful Allegany CC this afternoon in a 3 p.m. game, host a doubleheader with Anne Arundel CC on Saturday, beginning at noon, and then wrap up the regular season Sunday with a twinbill at Montgomery-Rockville.

In the easy win over the Frostburg jayvees last Thursday, Jamethro Rogers, Aaron Cook, and Chris Swaney each recorded three hits for the Lakers. One of Cook's hits was a two-run homer and he also scored three times. Swaney, who had a double and two singles, scored four runs.

Shane Skipper, who pitched the first three innings, was credited with the win on the mound, although Derek Griffith, Jason Fitch, and Mike Pertko also pitched for the Lakers.

The match-up with Essex Friday was a doubleheader, but the second game was suspended by the umpires after an altercation at third base, with the score tied at 3-3.

Todd Blackburn went the distance on the mound in the first game for the win, as he allowed eight hits and struck out seven.

The Lakers were down 4-0 going into the top of the sixth inning, but scored all five of their runs in that frame behind RBI singles by Cook and Darren Godby, plus a wild pitch that sent Swaney home.

Zack Collins, who started for Essex, allowed only one hit and struck out eight through the first five innings.

The second game was called in the ninth inning when Godby singled, moved to second on a bunt, and headed for third on a passed ball. Godby went into third standing up and was slightly off balance when he stepped on the bag. The Essex third baseman allegedly lifted Godby's foot off the base with his glove, causing a shoving match and flared tempers, at which time the umpires suspended the game.

In the first game against Chesapeake on Saturday, the Lakers moved out to a 10-0 lead before allowing the home team to come back with six runs in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Bill Wilcox, returning to the GCC line-up after being out for two weeks with an injury, did not allow a single hit in the first five innings. He threw just 53 pitches in those five frames to retire 15 Chesapeake batters.

Joe Pecarro and Sam Alvaro each finished with two singles for Garrett, while Hakim Edwards added a double and scored twice.

Chesapeake's seventh inning rally included four hits and four Laker errors.

The second game was tied 5-5 after six innings, but this time it was the Lakers who erupted for seven hits and six runs in the seventh to secure the win.

Rogers, Swaney, and Alvaro each recorded two singles, while Danny Biafore added a double.

Jason Fitch went the distance for the win, as he fanned seven batters and allowed 10 hits and eight walks.

Chesapeake's Chris Sawer hit a two-run homer in the first inning.

Sunday's doubleheader with Catonsville featured a total of 59 hits and 44 runs.

The Lakers nearly pulled out a win in the first game when they rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh, but left the tying run at third and the winning run at second. They were just two of 10 base runners left stranded by the Lakers, eight of whom were in scoring position.

Godby and John Colantuono each had four hits for the Lakers, with Godby knocking in two runs and scoring four more, while Colantuono rapped a double and three singles to send home two runs. Biafore added a triple and a single for two RBI and Pecarro singled twice to send home two runs and also scored twice.

Catonsville's Bob Taylor singled four times for four RBI and also scored four times. Jason Green had a double and two singles and George Steller singled three times.

Godby's hitting streak continued in the second game, as he added a triple, a double, and a single to help Mike Pertko to his win on the mound. Colantuono and Derek Namack each singled twice.

The Lakers trailed, 6-4, after three and one-half innings, but recorded four runs in the bottom of the fourth and three more in the fifth to ice the victory.

Leading the Cardinals' hitting was George Steller, who ripped two home runs.

It was a two-out line drive by Godby in the bottom of the ninth inning that sent home the winning run for the Lakers against Montgomery-Rockville on Tuesday.

Previous to his winning hit, two other Garrett batters were within one strike of the end of the game.

The Lakers trailed 13-12 going into the inning. With one out, Shane Skipper singled and Rogers followed with a line drive that was caught, but moved Skipper to second. Then, with two strikes on him, Pecarro doubled to score Skipper's courtesy runner, Danny Biafore, to knot the score at 13 apiece.

Swaney was then walked intentionally, after which Godby smacked his winning hit that couldn't be handled by the Rockville second baseman and Pecarro came home to record the winning run.

The Lakers finished with 14 hits against the 15-ranked visitors, with some of those hits coming against starter Justin Krieder, who came into the contest with the sixth lowest ERA in the nation (1.29). His reliever, Keith Cassidy, was ranked second in the country with an ERA of 0.69. Nine of the Garrett runs were scored on these two pitchers.

Rogers rapped a home run and a triple for six RBI and also scored four times for the Lakers. Pecarro doubled and singled for two RBI, while Swaney doubled and tripled to send home three runs, Namack singled three times and scored three times, and Alvaro doubled and singled.

DNR Finalizes Regulations On Hunting, Trapping

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced proposed 1994-95 hunting and trapping regulations after consideration and review of recent public input at five meetings held throughout the state in late March. These proposals have been submitted for regulatory adoption.

"It is encouraging to see an increased interest and acceptance of our Wildlife Division's citizen participation efforts," Dr. Brown said. "DNR's Wildlife Division has certainly worked hard to seek public input in the decision-making process."

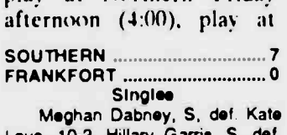
A sample of public input and the DNR Wildlife Division's actions are as follows:

•A proposed October segment for the deer muzzleloader season (Thursday, Oct. 20 - Saturday, Oct. 22) generated a lot of response. Overall, about one-third of the attendees supported the season as proposed, one-third liked the ideal of an early muzzleloader season but wanted it held at a different time and one-third were negative toward the proposal. These results, that two-thirds of the hunters support the idea of an early muzzleloader season match very closely the results of the deer hunter preference survey conducted last winter.

In reviewing possible options for the timing of the season, DNR has chosen to go with the original proposal. This season is a two-year experimental season, and will be evaluated in detail after that time. Another concern was the timing of the season and its potential impact on other seasons, particularly small game season. A November muzzleloader season would interfere with the fall turkey and goose seasons, in addition to many of the other small game seasons.

The impact of the prerut harvest of bucks in October was another concern. DNR's Wildlife Division will closely monitor the buck harvest. Total kill is expected to be between 6,000 and 8,000 animals during the October segment of the muzzleloader season.

•The need to increase opportunities for small game hunting was another item of concern expressed at the public meetings. The Wildlife Division will be pursuing this in the coming months.



•Other regulatory changes included allowing the use of copper slugs for hunting deer with a shotgun, requiring muzzleloaders be loaded from the muzzle, and moving the boundaries of the sea duck zone in the Choptank River in Talbot County.

Bowl For Kids' Sake Rated As "Most Successful"

The fifth annual Bowl For Kids' Sake was held Saturday, April 16, at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland, as bowlers, young and old, from the area pitched in and gave their best performance to help make the event the most successful ever.

Bowl For Kids' Sake is the major fund-raiser for The Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies, as well as Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America.

One hundred and forty-three bowlers participated in knocking down pins for the local Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters. The top bowlers bringing in pledges were Ms. Veronica Cross with $1,043, Kent Miller with $818 and the husband and wife team of Jack and Agnes Franz with $425 and $385 respectively.

The local branch's goal of $14,000 was reached and surpassed this year, thanks to both an increase in individual "pledge" bowlers and a substantial increase in the number of corporate sponsors supporting the event, according to Dan Seib, coordinator of the local agency. The number of corporate sponsors in-

GCMH To Hold Pediatric Asthma Workshop In May

Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in conjunction with the American Lung Association of Maryland and Allen and Hansbury's Pharmaceuticals, will sponsor a pediatric asthma workshop on Saturday, May 14, from 9 - 11 a.m. in Garrett Memorial's Community Services Center.

All children with asthma, family members and anyone associated with children who have asthma are encouraged to attend the workshop. Although there is no charge for the workshop, reservations are necessary and can be made by calling (301) 334-2155, extensions 408 or 443.

"The workshop is designed to give children and their families a better understanding of asthma through sessions that will focus on how the lungs work, causes, triggers and treatments for asthma, and what to do in the event of an attack," said Eric Tribbey, director of cardiopulmonary services at Garrett Memorial. "When children and adolescents can understand their asthma and know that it is nothing to be ashamed of, they can better manage it and keep it in control."

According to the American Lung Association, asthma is a lung disease that causes breathing problems for nearly 10 million Americans, making it the seventh-ranking chronic condition in the nation. Although asthma is a disease of all age groups, the steepest recent increases in asthma cases have been among the young. Asthma is the most frequent reason for hospitalization because of chronic disease in children and teenagers under age 15. In fact, it is the leading chronic illness among children and is the number one cause of school absences attributed to chronic conditions.

Managing the disease can be a serious challenge for people with asthma, their families, and care-givers. The American Lung Association advises that the care of asthma begins with the advice and counsel that the doctor provides. But coping with asthma on the day-to-day level can require additional support. As an extension of the doctor, carefully developed asthma health education programs have been shown to help people with asthma and their families be more able and more confident to cope with the condition, a hospital spokesperson said.

Local Student Attends Seminar On Leadership

Julie Caruso, a sophomore at Southern High School, recently returned from a trip to Baltimore where she participated in the Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Foundation's (HOBY) 1994 Maryland Leadership Seminar. The event was held April 14-17 at the Columbia Inn.

HOBY is a national organization committed to seek out, recognize, and develop the leadership potential of high school sophomores. The Maryland Leadership Seminar, held annually since 1978, builds leadership skills through a series of workshops and discussion groups during the all-expense-paid seminar.

Through HOBY, students are provided an opportunity to interact with leaders from the fields of business, government, education, science, and the professions. Special events included a Business Leaders' Luncheon held at Oriole Park at Camden Yards and a tour of the Information Superhighway courtesy of Bell Atlantic's Chesapeake Training Facility.

HOBY was established in 1958 by actor Hugh O'Brian who portrayed television's Wyatt Earp. He founded the organization as his contribution to society, inspired by a visit with Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Miss Caruso is the daughter of Pam Stover, Oakland, and Phil Caruso, Cumberland.

Michelle Dixon And John Brobst Are Married In October Ceremony

Michelle Elaine Dixon and John Riedemann Brobst were united in marriage on October 9, 1993. The double-ring ceremony took place at the Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren with the Rev. John Lancaster officiating. The organist was Beth Holland, and Scott Shumaker and Angela Glass were vocalists.

The bride is the daughter of Zelda and Charles Stanton, Grantsville, and the groom is the son of Anita and Thomas Brobst, McHenry.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white satin wedding gown with a sweetheart neckline and puff sleeves accented with bows and drop pearls. The fitted bodice, with a Basque waistline, was decorated with lace, pearls, sequins, and small pearl buttons down the back. A full skirt with a pearled bow at the back swept to a chapel length train with lace edging.

The headpiece, made by the bride, was trimmed with flowers and pearl sprays and held a double-tiered fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of mixed bridal white flowers enhanced by scattered peach blush flowers, lily-of-the-valley, baby's breath, and ivy.

Senior Center Week Proclaimed For May 8-14

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, have announced that Maryland will join the nation in the celebration of National Senior Center Week, May 8-14.

Governor Schaefer has issued a proclamation designating May 8-14 as Senior Center Week in Maryland. "Maryland is pleased to join in celebrating a special week during a special month - Older Marylanders' Month - as we salute both older persons and the senior centers which excel in serving them," said Governor Schaefer. "I call upon all citizens to recognize the special contributions of senior center participants and the special efforts of senior center staff and volunteers who work every day to enhance the well-being of the older person in our state."

Abrams said that senior centers in Maryland affirm the dignity, self-worth and independence of older persons by facilitating their decisions and actions, tapping their vast experiences and skills, and enabling them to continue to remain actively involved in the community. Today, over 15,000 senior centers across the nation provide education, recreation, nutrition and social services to older adults, regardless of their economic status.

"For seniors who have not been to a senior center lately, or have never been, this is the perfect opportunity to join in the celebration," said Ms. Abrams, "I encourage all seniors to visit a senior center in their area during the week of May 8-14 and join in this special celebration, and discover the many programs, services and activities available to them."

Senior centers throughout the state will be holding a variety of fun-filled, informative events during the week of May 8-14. For more information about activities planned for Senior Center Week, persons should contact their local Senior Center or their local Area Agency on Aging.

Fees Set

nience to county residents, each site is expected to be open for up to 60 hours each week, including weekend operations. The upgrading of the sites should be completed by early summer, according to Glotfelty.

Access stickers for vehicles sold during 1994 will be available to all Garrett County residents and property owners, and will be valid through December 31, 1995.

A separate fee of $10 per unit will also be established for individuals bringing white goods, such as freezers and refrigerators to the landfill. Federal law requires that the refrigerant gasses be removed prior to hauling these types of units to a scrap dealer. The county has purchased equipment to perform this procedure and will do so at no additional cost for individuals bringing these units to collection sites.

In setting these fees, the Garrett County Commissioners studied the recommendations of their Solid Waste Advisory Committee, a committee of municipal representatives as well as the comments of numerous concerned citizens.

"Foremost, it was felt that the user fees which were to be established should eliminate the need to raise any new property taxes for solid waste activities," stated Glotfelty. "It was also felt that the fees should be set at a low enough level so as not to place a financial burden on the County's residents, businesses and industries. The $20 per ton tipping fee for commercial and industrial waste is half the $40 per ton fee recommended by the Solid Waste Advisory Committee."

Glotfelty concluded that the low fees will also continue to allow individuals to utilize the system at a small cost, rather than resorting to illegal disposal methods. Garrett County's projected tipping fee for residential waste will be 27% below the next lowest fee in Maryland, and 65% lower than the state average of $57 per ton.

fighters from five area departments, along with DNR personnel, battled the latter blaze.

Still another brush fire Monday along New Germany Road was quickly brought under control.

creased from 31 in 1993 to 45 this year.

"A preliminary grand total of $17,700 has been raised", says Anna Bishop, Chairperson of the event. This money will be used to continue and expand the services of Big Brothers/Big Sisters here in Garrett County, she said.

Of the 45 corporate sponsors of the Bowl for Kids' Sake event, 24 entered teams in the Corporate Sponsor Tournament held the same day at Par-Matt. The team representing the B.P.O. Elks Lodge captured first place with a scratch score of 775. The Elks team consisted of Tom Mattingly, Doug Ratliff, Jay Meyers, and Randy DeSimone. These bowlers will receive a dinner at the local restaurant of their choice. The team from the Deep Creek Ready Mix came in second with a score of 695.

The Wisp Resort donated a round of golf with carts for four people. This prize was the object of a raffle held at the event. The raffle generated $161 for Big Brothers/Big Sisters and was won by Ms. Linda Fike of Mtn. Lake Park.

Many local businesses donated door prizes that were given to the pledge bowlers during the event. "These prizes really made the event more exciting and more fun. I feel that this outpouring of generosity from the community is really something special," said Seib. "Big Brothers/Big Sisters wishes to express their sincere appreciation to everyone that helped in any way in making this the biggest and best Bowl For Kids' Sake yet."

The Garrett County Branch operates on funds that it raises itself, getting no federal, state, or county funds. For information on the services offered by the Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, persons may call 334-3591 or 1-800-400-0735. The local branch is seeking both children and volunteer adults (especially Big Brothers) who would like to participate in the program. "There are several children on the waiting list, needing that special friend to show them the way through all the confusion of growing up in today's world," Seib said.

If a ruler harkeneth to lies, all his servants are wicked.

When the wicked are multiplied, transgression increaseth: but the righteous shall see their fall.

In other district court news, David M. Stoner, 38, Oakland, had one count of violating a protective order (violate exparte) placed on the stet docket, because of an agreement with the state's attorney, Sharon Stoner, and the arresting officer, Deputy C.P. Nolan of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Charges of littering, malicious destruction of property, trespassing on private property, and removal of survey markers, all misdemeanors, were not prosecuted against Marvin R. Murphy, 49, Beverly A. Murphy, 48, and Marvin G. Murphy, 23, all of Grantsville, because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office. The original charges involved an ongoing dispute concerning septic and storm water exits on the property of John A. Cupler, Grantsville.

Jason D. Warnick, 18, Swanton, who was recently found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), had his charges amended to probation before judgment in last week's court proceedings.

DWI CASES

Violation of probation cases were prevalent in the numerous DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases heard in district court during the past week, including Carl Franklin Severe, 22, Oakland; Ida Suzanne Donnelly, 34, Md.; Joshua M. Browning, 21, Md.; Wilmer Leroy Day, 31, Md.; Richard Joseph McFetridge, 29, Md.; Scott Emerson Stilley, 28, Ohio; Robert Carl Glass, 24; and John Joseph Hovatter, 34, Md.

Brian Timothy McDermott, 19, Md., was not prosecuted for his violation of probation charge at the request of the DWI Monitor. According to court records, McDermott is to appear before Judge Stakem in Allegany County on another violation. He had been arrested for DWI on July 9, 1993.

Steven Ray Thomas, 21, Md., failed to appear on a DWI charge. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest and a new bond was set at $5,000. Thomas was originlly arrested for DWI on Oct. 1, 1993, by Maryland State Police.

William Thomas Sachs Jr., 33, Md., had a violation of probation charge against him dismissed. He had been arrested for DWI in July 1990.

Brian Philip Lynch, 39, Del., was found guilty of DWI, and handed a one year suspended sentence. He was also fined $1,050 and placed on three years of supervised probation for the offense. He had been charged on Nov. 7, 1993, by state police.

Also found guilty on a DWI charge was Frank Wilson Seiler, 63, Pa. He was fined $550, sentenced to two months in jail and placed on three years of supervised probation. Bartlett Votes Against Version Of Crime Bill

District Six Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has voted against a watered-down version of the Crime Bill (HR 4092), after a lengthy amendment process defined the scope and the cost of the measure.

Bartlett said he held off final judgement on the bill until the amendment process was complete, but that the bill was simply "too flawed and weak" to warrant his support.

"I can't see putting forth this bill as law to the American people, trying to convince them it will help stem crime in our country," he said. "While the intention of the bill initially was to do this, the final bill will not. Unfortunately, it developed into a sham."

An amendment supported by Bartlett to invoke truth in sentencing failed in the House. The amendment would have mandated that criminals serve 85% of their actual sentences for the crimes they committed. Language to strengthen Habeas Corpus favored by Bartlett that would have disallowed lengthy and expensive continual appeals also was rejected.

Bartlett noted that the bill also includes more than $8 billion in funding not required to be used for anti-crime programs, but for secondary "fluff" programs such as midnight basketball and police "cultural sensitivity" training. Said Bartlett, "I think our police forces would be better served if we spent that money on more police and the tools and training to better enable them to apprehend criminals. That is what our obligation to our nation's police forces should be."

Other items Bartlett disapproved of in the bill include imposing a quota requirement with regard to death penalty sentencing weakening mandatory minimum sentences by retroactively reducing mandatory minimum sentences for convicted drug felons; and weakening the three strikes and you're out provisions.

"While there were some good, constructive points in the Crime Bill, such as provisions promoting child protection, cracking down on criminal aliens, I could not, in good faith, vote for a bill that did not go far enough to protect Americans from not only the criminal, but from the cost of crime to taxpayers."

HR 4092 passed in the House by a 285 - 141 vote. The bill was opposed by national organizations representing the nation's attorneys general and district attorneys.

CAN CANCER BE AVOIDED? I recently received a long letter from a woman who cited several examples of people she knew, who, in her words, "did all the right things about health ..." but still developed cancer and cardiovascular problems."

My reader made the point that these conditions "run in their families (so) they were probably doomed no matter what."

At one time, I might have answered by saying, maybe so. While genetics, sex, age, and ethnic origins are certainly factors to reckon with, they are not, necessarily, the final determinants of a person's health. There are things we can do to reduce the risk of developing these diseases.

First, stop smoking. This is absolutely essential in reducing the risk of all three conditions. Also, avoid passive smoke. What other people exhale in the air all around you. (If you still believe the tobacco companies' assertions that secondhand smoke doesn't affect nonsmokers, consider the fact that nicotine has been found in the hair of newborn infants whose mothers either smoked or were exposed to cigarette smoke.)

Second, make changes in your lifestyle. If you're overweight, have your doctor put you on a safe weight reduction program. Switch from high-fat and high protein diets to one that emphasizes more fruits, vegetables, and dietary fibers. Avoid the heavy use of alcohol.

If you've been leading a sedentary

Looking for a different, inexpensive collectible? Vintage wallpaper and textiles are collectibles that date back centuries. Examples are saved by museums and copied by modern companies.

Now we wonder if gift wrap paper might be an unusual, inexpensive collectible. A few collectors have started looking for old paper, tags, seals and ribbons. It seems hard to believe that Christmas gifts wrapped in attractive sturdy paper and sealed with transparent tape (Scotch tape was introduced in May 1930) were not part of the Christmas tradition even 50 years ago.

Nineteenth-century drawings of Santa Claus show his bag filled with unwrapped gifts. By the 1890s, a few illustrations show ribbon-tied packages that were probably wrapped with white tissue paper. Colored paper was used for crafts and not as a throwaway wrapping.

In 1921, the Crystal Tissue Co. in Ohio started selling white and colored tissue to be used as gift wrap. The 1931 Sears catalog offered "new, smart gift wrapping materials" — an assortment of paper, cord, tags and seals for 49 cents. By the mid 1930s, heavier paper was printed as gift wrap, although most gift wraps were made of tissue paper. Gift wrap paper on rolls was first sold about 1946.

When Life magazine shut down in 1972, Cleo Wrap bought the heavy magazine paper stock and used it for printed gift wraps, similar to the type sold today.

Q. My newly purchased antique Oriental chair is described on an old bill as a "hongmu chair." What does that mean?

A. Oriental furniture was often made of woods that are not grown in the United States. Sometimes the wood is familiar, but the Oriental name is confusing. Hongmu is a red wood that resembles mahogany, nannu resembles cedar or walnut; huali resembles rosewood, and chi-ch'ih-mu, or chicken wing wood, is similar to satinwood. Chang mu is the Oriental name for camphor wood, hua-mu for burl, tzu t'an for purple sandalwood, wu mu for ebony, and yu-mu for elm.

You probably know that Medicare is administered by private insurance companies in the different states, and it's these companies that determine what claims get paid, and which are denied. That's why in some states, certain procedures will be paid for while in others, if you want to have them, you'll have to pay for them.

It's interesting that the private insurance companies, who have been spending millions on those Harry and Louise commercials which tell us there has to be a better way (regarding the health reform programs introduced by the White House) make no mention of the fact that their industry makes these decisions about Medicare around the country. We all need to get involved in making sure that health reform meets the needs of every American. Seniors, who have seen their out-of-pocket expenses for Medicare rise sharply over the past decade, need to be reassured that they won't be ignored when the program is finally written.

Meanwhile, contact your representatives in Congress and tell them that you want them to investigate the different payment methods used by the companies for Medicare claims. There is absolutely no reason why Medicare recipients should be held hostage to the decisions of separate private insurance companies.

The following is part of a letter I received from a woman who identifies herself as a private duty nurse. I've cited portions that I felt would be helpful. "... I recently worked with an elderly woman who was bedridden due to an arthritic hip. her daughter said caused her to lose the ability to walk. I felt everyone had just given up on this woman, and were happy just to have her lie there quietly as her life went by. I gave her massages. I got her to sit up and put her feet over the side of her bed when she had her meals. I checked with her doctor and was told that if I could get her into a wheelchair, I would be allowed to take her out. She resisted everything at first. (But) eventually, she cooperated with me and her life changed. She's going to see a surgeon about possible hip replacement. I wanted to write to say, please don't give up on yourself or others. You don't know what can happen unless you try ..."

SHELF SPACE — We use lots of cereal and with limited shelf space, I remove the closure label showing the cereal name and insert it into the inner wrapping. I then remove the inner wrapping and its contents from the box and attach a clothespin to hold it closed.

Cereal boxes take up a lot of shelf space, especially when they are half-empty. Storing the cereal in just the inner wrapping allows more space on the cupboard shelf, and the cereal remains fresh just as long. Dana L., Salem, Ore.

BANANA ON A STICK — Bananas hardly ever go to waste in our house by ripening faster than we can eat them. We just peel the borderline bananas, cut them in half crosswise and poke ice cream sticks into the cut ends (plastic spoons can be used by pushing the handle ends into the banana). After arranging on a plate, we place them in the freezer.

When frozen solid (about half a day or less), they can't be beat as a refreshing, delicious, nutritious fruit "pop" for youngsters and grownups alike. They are a great favorite in our family year 'round. Janet H., Louisville, Ky.

STORING SPICES — In order to store and obtain quickly the many small cans and jars of spices that I have, I use a couple of plastic Lazy Susans placed on a cabinet shelf.

I line the cans (with the outside edge of the can facing outward) around the Lazy Susan in alphabetical order. When I need a spice, I simply twirl it around to what I need.

I use the center of the Lazy Susan for those spices which are in taller containers and can be spotted more easily.

This sure saves the time it takes having to hunt through many small cans of spices.

Patty L. Glover Files To Retain Treasurer Seat

Garrett County Treasurer Patty L. Glover recently filed for a third term as a Republican candidate for that office.

Mrs. Glover began her duties in the treasurer's office in July 1976. She then served for 10½ years as deputy treasurer for Arzella L. Parsons. After the retirement of Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Glover was elected treasurer in November 1986.

A native of Garrett County, Mrs. Glover is a graduate of Northern High School. Following graduation, she was employed by the United States Air Force in Washington, D.C., for a period of one and one-half years before returning to Garrett County. She has completed continuing education classes in computer literacy, staff management, and supervision.

"I would like to give a special thanks to my office staff and all who have supported me over the years. I feel my 18½ years experience in the office well qualifies me for this position. If re-elected, I will continue to work for you and serve you to the best of my abilities," Mrs. Glover said.

Mrs. Glover resides in the Deep Creek Lake area. She is the mother of four children and has two grandchildren.

Janet L. Bernard is serving as her campaign treasurer.

Adopt-A-Highway Program Underway For Fifth Year

More than 500 State Highway Administration (SHA) Adopt-A-Highway (AAH) groups are taking part in a massive cleanup effort in celebration of Earth Month and the five-year anniversary of the AAH program.

"Throughout April, Adopt-A-Highway groups across the state have been cleaning their adopted stretches to beautify our highways and preserve our environment," said SHA Administrator Hal Kassoff. "With more than 4,600 truck loads of trash dumped on state-maintained roads every year, these volunteers really do provide an important service to Maryland."

The pick-ups will culminate in a special one-day, mass cleanup throughout the state on Saturday, April 30.

"The Adopt-A-Highway Program has been a successful way for Marylanders to work together to both beautify our highways and save money on trash pick-ups," said AAH coordinator Chuck Brown.

Launched in 1989, the AAH program now boasts nearly 15,000 individuals representing more than 1,350 groups who volunteer to help pick up trash along roadways across the state.

In the program, organizations of all types adopt a one-to three-mile stretch of road for a period of two years and agree to pick up trash at least four times a year. Out of 2,500 miles of adoptable roads, more than 2,350 have been adopted. In FY 1993, AAH groups collected nearly 11,500 bags or 225 truck loads of trash, said a spokesperson, and the program has saved Maryland taxpayers between $100,000 and $200,000 each year.

Emergency Training Drill Slated In Finzel

Allegany and Garrett counties emergency services personnel will be participating in a hazardous materials exercise this Saturday, April 30, at the Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department, Finzel. In addition to local emergency service providers, DuPont Corporation personnel will also be assisting in the exercise.

As part of the exercise, a portion of Rt. 546 will be closed and traffic will be detoured. This is not expected to inconvenience local residents.

This exercise provides a training opportunity, and also tests response plans and allows the various departments and agencies involved to work together, according to Jeff Grogg, coordinator of the event.

"Many volunteer emergency service providers will be giving of their personal time to participate. They do this because they recognize the need and importance of training. This donation of personal time assures the success of the exercise," Grogg said.

The exercise is also made possible by grant funds from the HMTUSA program. Allegany and Garrett counties joined together so that this grant would offer emergency service providers an opportunity for training and practice.

ROTARY SUPPORTS ARTS FESTIVAL - The Rotary Club of Oakland recently donated $500 to the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF). The money will help defray costs of the free performances being offered by GLAF this year. These free events will include a Shakespeare On Wheels production of Hamlet on July 22-23, and a performance of the Reggae group "Rasta Rafiki" on September 3. Pictured above left is Jim Harvey, president of GLAF, as he receives the check from Tom Browning, president of the Rotary Club.

GCC Class Set To Help Small Business Owners

"Winning Cash Strategies" will be shared by Jeffrey Bell with business owners and managers during an upcoming class at Garrett Community College. During the two sessions, set for May 2 and 9, participants will learn proven cash management techniques to help them survive difficult times and grow during prosperous times. The sessions will meet from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m. at GCC"s campus in McHenry.

Bell, owner of Financial Advantage, will help business owners discover ways to make working capital work for their businesses and find places where cash may be hiding. He will also focus on why and how to invest in the business, according to a GCC spokesperson.

According to Bell, "Every small business has a limited number of resources to use. In order to maximize resources, small businesses need to have the financial direction of the company clearly mapped out and communicated to everyone who influences it. They also need to be always looking for legitimate tax savings to avoid sharing a large percentage of resources with the IRS." He believes that if a small business has a clear cut vision, accurate financial forecasts, and available cash to seize opportunities' success becomes a habit.

Financial Advantage was started in Wisconsin in 1992 to provide complete financial support for small companies. He previously worked with small businesses in the area of commercial lending, and in various accounting and financial management positions with General Electric.

The "WHAT IFs?"

"What if I accept this position and find I can't handle the responsibility?"
"What if I marry and choose the wrong partner?"
"What if I fly to Paris and my plane crashes over the Atlantic Ocean?"

What if I gave you a solution to the "what ifs"? As long as we continue to function, we must make decisions daily. Many decisions carry little risk. Others may change the course of our lives. However, decisions need not be stressful or frosted with negativity. God is our Source of positive power. In Matthew 21:22, we are promised... "whatever you ask in prayer, you will receive, if you have faith." Though our prayer may or may not be answered as we expect...our prayer is always heard and answered as God wills it.

Visit God this Sabbath. Talk with Him and trust Him with your daily concerns. Let go of your "what ifs". Why not?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALMOUSE

EATING WITH THE GENTILES
May 1, 1994

Background Scripture: Galatians 1 through 2
Devotional Reading: 1 Timothy 1:12-17

It may be difficult for many of us to understand why this question of eating with Gentiles was so important in Paul's time—so important that he made a public condemnation of Simon Peter for refusing to sit at table with Gentiles who had been won to Christ.

Of course, we're on Paul's side. It seems idiotic to us that Peter should shrink from sharing a meal with Gentile Christians. Hadn't he himself had that life-changing experience at the house of Cornelius in Joppa? Did not Peter say, as a result of that experience, "You yourselves know how unlawful it is for a Jew to associate with or to visit any one of another nation; but God has shown me that I should not call any man common or unclean" (Acts 10:27-29).

Yet, in order to understand the importance of this conflict, we have to realize why this was so important to the Jewish Christians. Originally, there was a good reason for this practice. Throughout most of their history the Jews were surrounded by paganism. The Old Testament gives us continual evidence of the vulnerability of the Hebrews to the influences of paganism.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

The people of Israel were called to be God's special people and there were certain practices and life-style features that were designed to keep them untainted by the pagan world. Circumcision was to be a mark of their specialness. So was the way they conducted themselves at the table.

As one commentator, Raytnor T. Stamm, puts it, "Begun with joyful thanksgiving and sanctified by conversation concerning God, a common meal became God's table, and the Jewish Christians were unwilling to risk spiritual contamination by eating with those who did not share it."

As to why Peter weakened on this matter, we must realize that he knew how sensitive the Jewish Christians were on this subject. Peter didn't want to alienate these people. If a whole segment of the church became upset, how would the gospel benefit from that? In changing his stance on this, was he not simply doing what his constituents wanted him to do? If he had put it to a vote, certainly they would have overwhelmingly voted against this kind of liberalism.

SUBVERTING THE GOSPEL

So, the prohibition of eating with non-Jews was meant to preserve the sanctity of the Jewish tradition. As such, it was well-intentioned. Yet, as so often with us, despite the good intentions, the prohibition had its pitfalls, too. And these pitfalls were subtle, for they tempted sincere Jews to pride and self-righteousness. Yes, the traditions kept them different, but they let this difference subvert the true nature of their specialness.

Now, the point for us in May 1994 has little to do with whom we sit at table. But that doesn't mean that what happened between Paul and Peter at Antioch is irrelevant to us. Even though the circumstances may be different, all of us have our "eating with the Gentiles" problems today, too. Can we share Holy Communion with Christians whose beliefs may not be the same as ours? Should we share our churches with people whose life-styles make us uncomfortable? In order to avoid being stained by the pagan world, don't we also have to keep ourselves pure and unsullied by others?

It is in the midst of questions such as these that Paul says to us, as he did to the Galatians, "I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting him who called you in the grace of Christ and turning to a different gospel..." From a gospel of gospel of grace to a gospel of works. And that is not a gospel.

COVER STORY

AIDS is part of 'Place for Annie'

BY TED KUSIO

Sissy Spacek

Television seems to be entering the era of AIDS more smoothly than the big screen.

While Hollywood is still patting itself on the back for "Philadelphia," the first major film to focus on AIDS, television continues to deal with the deadly disease more frequently, more subtly and with more humanity.

ABC's "A Place for Annie" is a perfect example of this. The Hallmark Hall of Fame film, based on real-life events, airs Sunday, May 1.

Although AIDS plays a significant part in the film, it is not portrayed as some rare disease in a spectacular spotlight. Instead it's shown as an unfortunate part of life that must be fought, right along with ignorance and government bureaucracy.

Star Sissy Spacek agrees.

"I guess the issue is AIDS in this film," she says, "but I was mostly touched by the human element of the project, certainly not the political one."

Spacek plays Susan, a pediatrics nurse who takes in Annie (played by twins Kathy and Leslie Anderson), an abandoned HIV-positive baby. The mother, Linda (Mary-Louise Parker), is a drug user who was infected by sharing dirty needles.

Although Susan understands that Annie may acquire AIDS and die while in her care, she does not expect Linda to return. But Linda does and she wants her baby back.

When the court awards Linda full custody, Susan makes a bold move and welcomes Linda into her home. At first they mix like oil and water. But with time, as Linda's condition worsens, they find common ground in their hopes for Annie.

Joan Plowright co-stars as Annie's sensitive yet tough nanny. Jack Noseworthy plays Susan's occasionally bratty and annoying teen-age son.

The result is a truly heart-wrenching tale full of tragedy that doesn't necessarily center on AIDS. Instead the film shows believable characters who are affected by the deadly disease and struggle with the demons it unleashes.

However, viewers may need patience at times. There are moments of moral self-righteousness from Susan, and the plot takes some detours that have no obvious purpose other than to waste time. Both Spacek and Parker play fascinating characters, and it would have been interesting to learn more about them — to get to know them better — instead of watching them literally light fires.

And, of course, there are the babies, who appealed to Spacek. Scenes of her on duty as a nurse were filmed at an actual neonatal unit in a San Diego hospital.

"We had hundreds of babies!" she exclaims. "It was just these tiny, tiny babies. The most stressful part was people handing over these, like, day-old babies to us, to shoot with. They were precious. It was a wonderful experience."

With the babies comes a fact that some children are born with AIDS, even some that Spacek worked with. It's a tragic situation, but it does happen. Perhaps the humanity displayed in the film will rub off on reality.

CALLING R. SHERMAN of Atascadero, Calif., who asked for the title of what I believed to be an obscure movie. It was recognized by a dozen readers. According to Brett Piper of Derry, N.H.: "The picture was called 'The Sadist' (a.k.a. 'Face of Profile of Terror'). Released in 1963 by the people who brought you 'Incredibly Strange Creatures Who Stopped Living and Became Mixed-Up Zombies'; it was written and directed by James Landis and starred Arch Hall Jr. as the title wacko whose pathological hatred of teachers drove him to bump off bunches of them before meeting his demise in a pit full of rattlesnakes. Not a great film, but a lot more fun than 'To Sir With Love.' " Others added that it's available on Rhino Video.

NBC goes a little bit country this week

BY JEFF PLASS

There was this concert at Texas Stadium.

The singer was flying around above the crowd. There were explosions, pillars of flames, thunder, lightning and people screaming at the top of their lungs.

No, it wasn't a Kiss concert from the 1970s.

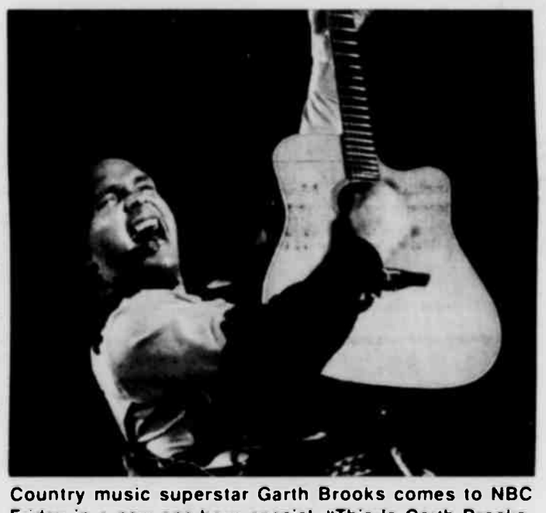
The aforementioned sonic and visual pyrotechnics were provided by country music superstar Garth Brooks.

Fans not lucky enough to see the performance in Irving, Texas, can tune in to NBC Friday, May 6, for "This Is Garth Brooks, Too!"

The one-hour special is a follow-up to NBC's "This Is Garth Brooks," which aired on NBC in January 1992.

Since then he has recorded three albums, sold millions of records, won countless awards and become a new dad.

Brooks claims to owe much of his current momentum to a six-month hiatus he took from the music industry recently.



"It was the best decision for my personal life and my career," he says. "It allowed me to get my personal life and my career in a good balance to attack the future year."

Attention country music fans. "This Is Garth Brooks, Too!" is the second helping of country on NBC this week.

On Tuesday, May 3, the network presents the 29th annual "Academy of Country Music Awards."

The show's hosts will be Reba McEntire and Alan Jackson, who each holds numerous "Hat" awards from the academy.

Awards will be presented in 12 categories including entertainer of the year, top male and female vocalists, and song and album of the year.

Country music superstar Garth Brooks comes to NBC Friday in a new one-hour special, "This Is Garth Brooks, Too!"

IN FOCUS

Stefanie Powers and Robert Wagner reprise their roles as the jet-setting supersleuths, the Harts, in "Hart to Hart: Old Friends Never Die," premiering Friday, May 6, on NBC.

When a world-famous publisher invites Jonathan and Jennifer to a remote island for an exclusive weekend bash, the guest list reads like a "Who's Who" of the literary world.

On the island, Jennifer overhears two men plotting the murder of a businessman. And it looks as if Jonathan could be the intended target.

It's a long day in Cicely, Alaska, for Maurice (Barry Corbin) on CBS' "Northern Exposure" Monday, May 2.

When Ron and Erick (Doug Ballard and Don R. McManus), the gay owners of the local bed and breakfast, decide to get married, Maurice avoids the wedding he is unable to understand. In doing so, he disappoints Erick's mother, who wanted Maurice to be her escort.

Holling (John Cullum) gets in trouble when he tries to take shortcuts catering the wedding.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Cable Health Club working out for Steinfeld

Jake Steinfeld

Former trainer to the stars Jake Steinfeld has been pressing more and more show-business weight in recent years. First his syndicated "Body by Jake" was picked up on ESPN. Then he added a Family Channel sitcom, "Big Brother Jake," which just taped its final episode after a five-season run.

Now Steinfeld is partnered with Family Channel interests in a stand-alone niche network, the Cable Health Club. Viewers can get a taste of the 24-hour fitness outlet twice each weekday morning on Family.

"I love the idea of being able to follow an exercise program on television," Steinfeld says, "because I've always believed that you're the strongest you can be in your own environment, in your own home.

"At the top of every hour, we do 20 minutes of uninterrupted aerobic conditioning, which you can't get anywhere else on television (because of commercial breaks) ... I don't think anybody's ever 'stuck with it' through a commercial.

"At the bottom of the hour, I do a 10-minute calisthenic routine for the whole family."

The balance of each hour is rounded out with fitness, nutrition and health information and product offers.

Walt Disney's cartoon about a whale who sang tenor may not seem so far-fetched after "Whalesong," airing Thursday, May 5, on A&E. The special features a concert by Vancouver's Bach Choir and Symphony Orchestra, with solos by opera singers Judith Forst and Marke Pedroth — and a trio of killer whales.

"Subway: Empire Beneath the Streets" offers an informative and sometimes whimsical tour of New York City's underground transit system, Friday, May 6, on A&E's "Time Machine With Jack Perkins."

Let it never be forgotten that women's liberation rocked Camelot — that seems to be the theme of "Guinevere," a costume romance debuting Saturday, May 7, on Lifetime. Sheryl Lee, famous for her role as femme fatality Laura Palmer in "Twin Peaks," stars as the Queen. Sean Patrick Flanery ("The Young Indiana Jones Chronicles"), whose career seems to be linked to the Holy Grail, portrays King Arthur Lancelot, the amorous knight, is played by Noah Wyle.

Why would a loving God allow evil and suffering? That's a question addressed in "A Violent God," airing Friday on A&E's "Ancient Mysteries: Mysteries of the Bible." The program examines the role of violence both in biblical times and the modern Middle East.

SOAP TALK

Rambo dead at 53; Lester leaves 'ATWT'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Terry Lester

The fans, cast and crew of "Another World" were saddened recently by the death of Dack Rambo, who portrayed Grant Harrison on the show.

Rambo died of AIDS-related complications at his ranch in California.

The actor announced that he had AIDS in September 1991 and quit his job on "AW" because he was afraid of how his co-stars would react.

Fans of "Dallas" may remember Rambo from his stint as J.R. Ewing's cousin, Jack.

In other news: Not a person to stay long in one place, Terry Lester (Royce, "As the World Turns") has decided to leave the show. Lester impressed viewers with his portrayal of a man suffering from a multiple personality disorder.

"The response of colleagues, critics, mental health professionals and viewers has been intensely gratifying," Lester says. "The letters I've received from viewers suffering with this tragic disorder will hold a special place in my personal archives. But now it is simply time to move on."

"It's a cordial parting of the ways," Lester says. "I feel like I have done some of my best work here."

Lester, a recent transplant from Los Angeles, says he has always been a New Yorker at heart.

His future plans include working on several musical ventures and getting back to theater work.

Another character who is a favorite with fans is returning to daytime. Mike Horton is back on "Days of Our Lives." Daytime newcomer Roark Critchlow will step into the role.

"The return of Mike will have a major impact on several core characters," according to co-executive producer Tom Langan. "James Reilly (head writer for "Days") has planned his return to also include a few surprises in future stories."

Critchlow's previous credits include a recurring role on "The Round Table" and appearances on "The Highlander," "The Heights," "Street Justice," "Cobra" and "The Commish." His film credits include "Judgment Day" and "Cadence."

The role of Mike Horton was last played by Michael T. Weiss. Previous actors assigned to the part include Wesley Eure, Paul Coutos, John Amour and Bobby Eilbacher.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Lifetime's 'Guinevere' no helpless damsel

BY TED KUSIO

Noah Wyle and Sheryl Lee

The legend of Camelot gets feminized as Lifetime premieres "Guinevere" on Saturday, May 7.

Sheryl Lee stars as the medieval queen who is more warrior than damsel in distress. The film follows her as she falls in love with Lancelot (Noah Wyle), and then forsakes him to marry King Arthur (Sean Patrick Flanery) and bring peace to England.

What usually carries films of this nature is a grandiose vision of savage swords and supernatural sorcery. 1981's "Excalibur" reigns in this realm with such imagery.

But "Guinevere" offers something different. It tempers the savage swordfights with elements of feminism. Why is the magic of childbirth taken for granted, but a sword in a stone generates excitement? Where is the nobility when the path to peace leads through violence?

Of course one of the casualties of this philosophy is that the accepted legend is altered. Guinevere is shown as the creator of the Round Table, and she, not King Arthur, becomes the ultimate bringer of peace.

Once these elements are lost, the story loses some of its steam. Cleaning up the legend of Camelot is like creating cartoons that obey the laws of physics. There are some very interesting ideas in this film, but perhaps they would have come across better in a less familiar setting.

Other movie magic this week includes Sissy Spacek as a nurse who tries to adopt an HIV-positive baby in "A Place for Annie," Sunday, May 1, on ABC. Diane Lane and Donald Sutherland star as the "Oldest Living Confederate Widow Tells All" on CBS. The film concludes Tuesday, May 3. NBC offers the network premiere of "Cape Fear."

PBS premieres the fascinating documentary "Brother's Keeper" on Monday, May 2 (check local listings), about a simple farmer accused of murder. Peter Falk returns on ABC in the new "Columbo: Undercover," and Fox celebrates with "House Party 2."

Those who can't afford to see Barbara Streisand live — like who can — can watch her Tuesday in "Nuts" on HBO.

The USA Network preaches carpe diem as Robin Williams seizes the day in the rousing "Dead Poets Society," Wednesday, May 4.

NBC airs another heartfilled mystery on Friday, May 6, with "Hart to Hart: Old Friends Never Die."

Whoopi Goldberg and Ted Danson, sans blackface, star in "Made in America," debuting on HBO Saturday, May 7.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, he of the swashbuckling putter, is one golfer who knows which side his bread is buttered on.

Since joining the PGA Senior Tour in 1985, Rodriguez has won 22 titles (tying him for second most victories on the tour) and earned more than $4.5 million in prize money.

Coverage of the 17th annual Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf kicks off on ABC Saturday, May 8 (concluding on Sunday, May 9), and the 58-year-old Puerto Rican golf superstar reflects on the tournament that helped bring about the Senior Tour.

"Well, most of us senior pros are kind of loyal guys," Rodriguez explains. "We know where our money came from, and Liberty Mutual (Insurance Co.) was the first one to stick their money in there so we could have a tournament of fun.

"So, it doesn't matter to me how old I am or how I'm playing or whatever, as long as Liberty Mutual is involved with (the Legends of Golf), I'm gonna play in it."

Before the Senior Tour, golfers over the age of 50 were relegated to being club pros and teachers, with little opportunity to reap the huge financial rewards that now exist.

The Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf is known as the tournament that started the Senior Tour, which will award golfers more than $20 million in prize money this year.

However, things weren't always quite so profitable for golfers on the tour.

"Let me tell you something," Rodriguez states. "Don January and Miller Barber and Bob Goalby, when that tour first started, they used to pay their own way to press conferences to push the tour around. They paid for their hotel fares. Very few people know this.

"And these are the guys that really put their skin behind this whole thing. So I feel good every time I'm around those guys and I have a tremendous amount of respect for all of them. Not only for what they are and what they stand for, but for what they have done for the game itself."

To Rodriguez, the most enticing aspect of playing in the Legends of Golf tournament is playing alongside the people who made golfing for a living possible.

"The main thing of the tournament," Rodriguez concludes, "is that — all the guys that are pioneers of the game are there. They made it possible and opened the doors for all of us to make a good living.

"So I kind of like to be around them."

Annual Park Clean-Up Is Deemed Success

The annual park clean-up day at New Germany State Park was held on Saturday, April 16, 1994. The clean-up was sponsored by the Friends of New Germany, park volunteers. According to Park Maintenance Chief, Terry Gartlitz, the affair was a huge success in view of the hard winter recently passed.

The volunteers cleaned ditches and campsites, picked up branches and limbs brought down by winter winds, and house-cleaned the Schoolhouse Nature Center. A total of 130 hours were expended by the volunteers.

Those participating were members of Scout Troop #24, Frostburg, Swanton Girl Scouts Junior Troop #511, and Cadette Troop #5613 and Scout Troop #49, Grantsville.

Bill Martin, volunteer coordinator advised that the volunteers do an outstanding job in this yearly activity which tends to enhance the appearance of the park and ready all the facilities for summer visitors and activities. Any person interested in doing any type of volunteer work may call him at 895-5453.

Honored At LU

A student at David Lipscomb University from Oakland has been selected for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Tara Lynn Wildesen was among 49 of Lipscomb's eligible graduates nominated by academic departments.

Wildesen, a general studies/interdisciplinary studies teaching major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Franklin Wildesen, Star Route 2, Oakland. She is a graduate of Southern High School.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included these students based on their academic extracurricular activities and potential for continued success. They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Students at David Lipscomb University earn bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees in nearly 100 major programs of study. Master's degrees in Bible and education are also offered. An accelerated Adult Degree Program is also available. Lipscomb is associated with the churches of Christ.

Goldstein Reports Recovery Keeping Revenues On Target

"As Maryland's economy continues its steady recovery from the recession, our revenues are meeting projections for the current fiscal year," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told the members of the Maryland Public Finance Officers Association meeting in Solomons on April 22.

"For the first eight months of fiscal year 1994, general fund income tax receipts totaled $2,097,663,321, or 99.92% of the estimate for the period. Sales tax receipts are also holding their own despite harsh winter weather that depressed retail sales. For the first eight months of the fiscal year, sales and use tax receipts are within a quarter of a percent of the estimate," Goldstein said.

Sales and use tax collections for that eight-month period were $1,190,129,115, or 5% more than the amount collected for the same period of the previous fiscal year.

The construction-related categories all showed growth, reflecting a rebound in the building industries. The furniture category produced $146,232,596 for the first eight months of fiscal year 1994, up 8.9% from the same period of the previous year. The building and contractors category was up 5.6%, producing $132,746,745, while hardware, machinery and equipment produced $36,224,214, a 5.8% increase for the eight-month period.

Receipts from all the major categories except apparel grew compared to fiscal year 1993. The largest category -- taxable food and beverage -- produced $256,120,649 for the eight-month period, a 2.4% increase over the first eight months of fiscal year 1993. The second largest revenue producer, general merchandise, grew 5.4%, producing $229,894,475.

Goldstein, who is chairman of Maryland's Board of Revenue Estimates, told the public financial officers that the board decided not to revise its estimates for the current fiscal year, 1994, and for fiscal year 1995. "We based our decision on three factors: revenues are meeting our expectations, the Business Advisory Panel, representing various sectors of the Maryland economy, agreed with our overall projections; and economists throughout state government also believe our estimates are on track with Maryland's economic recovery.

"We also looked at the growth in Maryland's employment. The downsizing that has hurt our economy for the past three years has largely ended, and selective hiring has picked up. Income tax revenue withheld by employers and sent to the state continues to grow slightly faster than expected.

"Total payroll employment in Maryland increased by 18,500 during calendar year 1993. This is the best performance since 1985, and it has helped boost consumer confidence," the comptroller said.

Goldstein said Maryland emerged from the recession as one of only five states with a triple-A general obligation bond rating - the best obtainable - because of the state's underlying economic strength and because officials addressed each budget shortfall as it appeared and did not wait for the situation to become insurmountable.

a healthy choice for young adults

Trying to entice young adults to the table for a decent meal is often difficult. Time is at a premium, and the varieties of foods they eat may be limited. Wouldn't it be great if you could serve them some of their fast food favorites, but in a new, healthful way?

First, you'll need to start with the finest ingredients, Alaska seafood! Your choices are deliciously varied, from whitefish such as Alaska cod or Alaska pollock or Alaska halibut, to the five species of Alaska salmon. Alaska canned salmon, made from only the freshest fish, offers cooks a convenient and inexpensive alternative. For shellfish aficionados, three varieties of crab are available — Alaska King, Alaska Snow and Dungeness.

The icy, clear waters surrounding Alaska's 34,000 miles of coastline provide seafood that is completely natural and unparalleled in flavor. The annual U.S. harvest of seafood is approximately 9.6 billion pounds, over 50 percent of which is harvested in Alaska – with a myriad of varieties to choose from. Alaska seafood provides a number of easy-to-fix, healthful alternatives to high fat, cholesterol and sodium-laden fast foods. So try making some of your teenager's fast food favorites with Alaska seafood...far and away the world's finest.

fast food makeovers Packed with great flavor and high in nutrients, Alaska Seafood is ideal for fast food makeovers. Instead of a typical fast food taco, how about a salmon taco? Prepared with calcium-rich Alaska canned salmon, this healthful taco is also loaded with flavor. Quickly sauteed garlic and onions combine with fresh salsa, refried beans, shredded Cheddar cheese and Alaska canned salmon – all in an oven-baked tortilla shell. Guaranteed to satisfy the most discriminating teen. Remember, if you don't have the variety of Alaska seafood called for in a recipe, be creative and substitute a variety you do have – look for Alaska seafood featured at your supermarket.

Young adults love ethnic foods. All species of Alaska seafood are great with your teen's favorite ethnic dishes. South-of-the-border recipes such as fajitas, enchiladas, burritos and tostadas are outstanding when made with any variety of Alaska seafood. More flavorful, fresher-frozen Alaska salmon and Alaska canned salmon hold their own in highly seasoned recipes. Even milder flavored dishes such as some Chinese and Japanese recipes are delicious when prepared with Alaska salmon, Alaska cod, Alaska pollock, Alaska halibut or Alaska King, Snow or Dungeness crab. Sweet and sour seafood, Chinese seafood salad and seafood fried rice are lighter versions of these popular originals.

nutritional advantages of alaska seafood Teens and adults alike will appreciate the nutritional benefits of Alaska seafood. A good source of high quality protein as well as many important vitamins and minerals, seafood is also low in cholesterol, and what little fat it contains is highly polyunsaturated. Shellfish, in particular, are exceptionally low in saturated fats. And, despite the prevailing myth, Alaska shellfish do not contain enormous amounts of cholesterol. Alaska canned salmon is an especially good source of calcium. The skin and tiny bones, rendered soft during processing, are completely edible and supply an impressive amount of calcium. This is good news for growing young women who still have time to build up reserves of calcium to guard against osteoporosis in later years.

a quick fix for dinner When it's time to decide what's for dinner, Alaska seafood can be cooked quickly and adapts easily to just about any type of cooking method. Baking and broiling are tried and true, but what about sauteing or poaching? Overall, the rule of thumb for cooking seafood is simple. Measure fillets or steaks at the thickest part and simply cook your Alaska seafood 10 minutes per inch of thickness. Remove the seafood from the oven just before you think it's done, allowing for residual cooking time. This way it will remain juicy and won't overcook. Cooking seafood in the microwave is one of the fastest and easiest methods. Alaska shellfish comes already fully cooked yet should be heated thoroughly before serving. Boil, steam, broil, or bake in a 400 F oven for 4 minutes. Then serve or chill for salads.

QUALITY + CONVENIENCE = FRESHER-FROZEN ALASKA SEAFOOD

- FRESHER-FROZEN
  Alaska has developed state-of-the-art freezing and processing methods to insure the fresh-caught flavor is locked in within hours of being caught. That's why it's called fresher-frozen.
- FRESHLY THAWED OR SOLIDLY FROZEN
  When purchasing freshly thawed seafood, look for moist and firm flesh with a sweet, ocean smell. Good quality seafood should never have a strong odor. When purchasing frozen seafood, look for solidly frozen packages with no discoloration or freezer burn.
- COOKING IS EASY AND QUICK
  Just remember one simple rule: cook your Alaska seafood for 10 minutes per inch of thickness, measured at the thickest part. Use high heat – the broiler or 400 F. if you are baking. Check the fish and remove it just before you think it is done. Fish is juiciest when it is just cooked through.

In bowl, combine mayonnaise, green onions, cheese, lemon juice, garlic and pepper. Stir in crab; mix well. Cut potatoes in half lengthwise; place cut side up on large baking sheet. Spread crab mixture over each potato half. Broil 4 minutes or until hot and lightly browned. Serve immediately.

- 1/3 cup fresh lime juice
- 1/4 cup chunky peanut butter
- 2 Tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 Tablespoons oyster sauce
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper

- 1/3 cup chopped fresh mint (optional)
- 1/3 cup chopped cilantro (optional)

PRYDE Office Open To Serve Local Children

The Pressley Ridge Schools treatment foster care program, PRYDE, is expanding its Maryland program in order to serve children in Western Maryland. Program officials have established their first office in Garrett County, with the cooperation of the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth and Families, Garrett Community College, and the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Members of the community who have been a part of the expansion and the first PRYDE treatment parents were honored at a dinner given by PRYDE at the Silver Tree Inn on April 7.

PRYDE's mission is to serve as an alternative to institutionalizing seriously emotionally disturbed children by providing them with a highly structured treatment foster home. According to a spokesman for the program, Pryde's goal, through highly individualized and flexible treatment in the homes of trained professional parents, is to help the child gain family and community living skills needed to deal effectively with their problems, so that they can successfully live within their own communities. Additionally, PRYDE strives to promote the most natural relationship possible between family and child, ideally reuniting them when possible.

The PRYDE program, the spokesman explained, is guided by three core values: 1. Children belong with families; 2. A nurturing family environment is the most potent for behavior change in children; 3. Unconditional care, or "never giving up" ensures that each child has what he or she needs to succeed within a family setting.

PRYDE specially recruits, intensively screens, professionally trains, closely supervises, and financially compensates parents to provide treatment for one troubled child in their homes. The actual program is found within these treatment families who reside throughout the local community.

Children served by PRYDE range in age from infancy (medically fragile babies or babies of teen mothers) to 20 years, with the average age of 13.5. Most PRYDE youths have a history of institutional placements or special education placements.

PRYDE Western Maryland is currently serving two local youths in treatment homes. Local families are being sought who are willing to be trained to provide treatment in their homes for local troubled young people. Parents who are committed to children and who can provide unconditional care to a child for as long as needed, should contact Debbie Ambrose, program director, at 387-5291, or 800 280-7197.

PRYDE OFFICE OPENS LOCALLY - The Pressley Ridge Schools treatment foster care program has established a new office in Garrett County, in cooperation with the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families, Garrett Community College, and the Garrett County Department of Social Services. Persons responsible for the founding of the local office were recently honored at a dinner sponsored by PRYDE at Silver Tree Inn. Pictured above, front row, from left, are: Irene Mersing, Rosalind Lancaster, Cindy and Dana Rush, PRYDE parents, Cindy DeWitt, Tammy Arblaster, Cordelia Carson, supervisor of foster care for the Department of Social Services, and Dorothy and Ray Dashiells, PRYDE parents. In the back row, same order, are: Stanley Mersing, PRYDE parent, Debbie Ambrose, Western Maryland PRYDE program director, Rick DeWitt, assistant director, Department of Social Services, and Steve Howe, Maryland state director of PRYDE. See story.

ASSISTS LOCAL STUDENTS - Fifth grade students at Accident Elementary School were recently assisted by Rick Hartman, pictured above, owner of Accident Amoco, who provided space at his service station for the students to hold a car wash, bake sale, and yard sale. The students were raising funds to travel to the Maryland Science Center for an overnight camp-in this weekend. They noted their appreciation to Hartman for helping make their fund-raising effort a success.

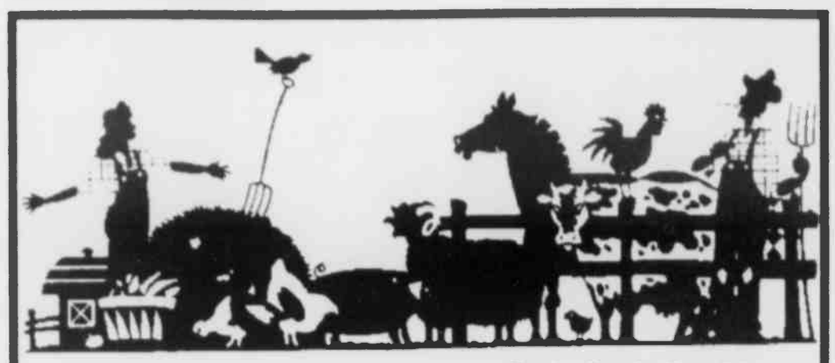
In Farewell Statement, Walker Praises Maryland Agriculture

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker, upon his departure from the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) to become the U.S. agricultural policy adviser in Ukraine, praised the strength of Maryland's agricultural community.

"I believe, with Governor William Donald Schaefer's leadership, we have brought fresh opportunities to the state's agriculture industry. I am most proud of our aggressive promotion of Maryland agriculture both domestically and internationally that has opened seldom-tapped markets for our Commodities around the world," Walker said.



"In the months and years ahead, it is imperative that we in Maryland build on this strong marketing foundation in order to continue to provide expanded economic opportunities for Maryland farmers and our food industry. We are definitely on the right track," said Walker.

Walker, who came to MDA in 1985 and succeeded Wayne A. Cawley Jr. as secretary of agriculture in 1991, pointed to the tremendous growth of regional farmers markets across the state, the new marketing territory developed overseas resulting in a dramatic growth in Maryland agricultural exports since 1990 and the effectiveness of selling products under the "Maryland With Pride" label.

"I am also gratified that in a few short years, we have managed to create a new industry in Maryland, fish farming. We now have farm operations producing seafood for sale. Today Maryland's 150 aqua-forms produce some 1.8 million pounds of fish in this $10 million a year industry," Walker said.

"While we have expanded these economic opportunities for Maryland's agriculture industry we have helped growers protect our land and water resources and increase farm efficiency. We are national leaders in using best management practices and wise nutrient management. I am proud of Maryland farmers for all they are doing to protect our environment," said Walker.

Walker will be heading to Ukraine in early May. He has traveled widely in the republics of the former Soviet Union, speaks fluent Russian and under his leadership made Maryland the first state in the United States to sign agricultural agreements of friendly partnership with Rumania, Ukraine, the Baltic States, Russia, Kyrghystan and others.

Farming In Maryland.....

Farming Goes Hi-Tech At College Park

The University of Maryland at College Park dedicates its new $15 million Agricultural Engineering Building at 11 a.m. on April 30 in what should be a rude awakening for those who still believe the discipline is all about fixing tractors.

Hydrology, aquaculture, human health, natural resource management, food safety and global positioning are all part of the lingo for today's agricultural engineers as they face the complex challenges of an increasingly technology- and environmental-oriented society. The new 44,000 square-foot facility, with its classrooms, conference facilities, offices and 14 state-of-the-art laboratories, serves teaching, research, extension education and service needs in four academic programs: biological resources engineering, natural resources management, agricultural engineering and general agricultural sciences. These programs focus on three important priorities: human health and safety, the environment, and food.

The facility also incorporates the latest in communications technology, computer-assisted security, and energy management technology. The design has been entered into a regional program recognizing architectural design excellence.

"The building has already made a tremendous difference on the faculty, staff and students--it has really lifted their morale," said Dr. Larry E. Stewart, associate professor and chairperson of Agricultural Engineering. "This building will let us do a much better job with our research and education programs and will be the most modern building of its kind in the U.S."

Among the highlights of the building:

• A soil and water engineering laboratory to study water movement through soil and the impact of sediment, nutrients and pesticides on water quality. The lab features a 30-foot long tilting hydraulic flume, one of the largest on the East Coast, for making precise engineering measurements related to water flow in open channels. The lab also houses a self-contained hydrology system that can generate artificial rainfall to study the movements of pollutants over the landscape through soil;

• Three aquaculture laboratories to study aquatic plant and animal production and how it is affected by various parameters. UMCP pioneered the study of aquacultural engineering over 25 years ago and remains a leader in the field;

• A human factors engineering laboratory to study human responses to environmental inputs. Research includes how respiration, endurance, mobility and visibility of humans are affected by protective face masks, and the development of non invasive methods for measuring respiratory capacity;

• An environment and structures laboratory consisting of four walk-in, controlled environmental chambers for studying environmental effects on biological systems. These feature temperature, humidity and lighting control over wide ranges, capabilities unmatched by any similar chambers in the U.S.;

• Biochemical and biomaterials laboratories to help determine agricultural impacts on water quality, how ground water quality influences surface water quality, and how to improve wetland performance;

• A model analysis laboratory featuring the latest in information processing and computing equipment and several receivers for tracking Defense Department global positioning satellites. Research focuses on issues of importance in the Chesapeake Bay restoration program such as developing mathematical pollution prediction models and interfacing them to geographic information systems, which make use of LANDSAT and SPOT satellites.

The formal dedication ceremony will begin at 11 a.m. with the recognition of several VIPs, including Gov. William Donald Schaefer, state and federal legislators, and campus administration. The ribbon cutting should occur at 11:45 a.m. and will be followed by a reception and guided tours of the facility for media and the public. The Agricultural Engineering Building is located just off Paint Branch Drive. Parking will be available in Lot G3.

Distribution Announced By Farm Credit

Richard Hamblin, president and CEO of West Virginia Farm Credit, ACA (Agricultural Credit Association), announced this week that the lending cooperative has declared a patronage distribution for 1994, payable to its stockholders in 1995. The distribution will consist of both a cash payment and an allocation to a stockholder equity account. Each stockholder who paid interest on a loan in 1994 will receive a portion of the distribution, which is based on West Virginia Farm Credit's earnings for 1994.

"We are pleased to be able to return a part of the Association's earnings to our stockholder members," said Hamblin. "The effect of the distribution is to lower the interest rates to members by as much as three tenths of a percent, depending on the amount of their loan. It's one of the advantages of borrowing from a cooperative."

Dairy Debate Continues In Ag Panel

Discussions to restructure the dairy price support program are continuing within the livestock subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee. With the strong encouragement of subcommittee Chairman Harold Volkmer (D-Mo.), members of the committee are seeking a consensus that until now has eluded the dairy industry.

The continuing erosion of federal financial support for the dairy program and the severe price fluctuations resulting from small amounts of surplus production have many producers and lawmakers calling for an overhaul of the current program.

Various proposals for industry "self-help" are being discussed. Most of the proposals would create a USDA-sanctioned industry board, responsible for disposing of surplus production primarily in export markets. The export program would be funded by creating a Class IV marketing pool or with producer assessments.

A key issue in the debate is whether assessments or penalties would be imposed on all producers, or only those who expand their production.

Reps. Volkmer and Steve Gunderson (R-Wis.) are the key spokesmen for the two most prominent proposals. Both include similar provisions to create Class IV programs for export, administered by an elected board. The Volkmer proposal maintains major components of the existing price support program, while capping government costs.

The Gunderson proposal modifies the price support system and mandates purchases for the food and nutrition program and the maximum, GATT-legal dairy export incentive program funding. This also limits total government costs. The Wisconsin congressman also would reduce the required budget reconciliation assessment, which goes toward the deficit, from 10 cents to 3 cents.

Dairy policy debates often are characterized more by dissension than consensus. Some observers believe that budget pressure and inadequate dairy farm income could create the avenue for action.

"AFBF is supportive of dairy farmers' efforts to truly help themselves," said Richard Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington office. "We must be sure that any program adopted is GATT-legal, positively impacts producer income, reduces or eliminates budget reconciliation assessments and has a board elected by and made up of producers."

Dairy Prices Expected To Drop In Summer

USDA predicts a drop in the prices dairy farmers get for milk in late spring or summer, after a large rise the first three months of the year. According to an Economic Research Service report, prices are expected to recover again later in the year. Prices in the second half of the year will average $1 less per cwt. than in the first six months. Farmers are expected to get more on average for their milk this year, however, because of the January-to-March increase, the report said.

Soil & Water Stewardship Week; Its History & Meaning

Soil and Water Stewardship Week is celebrated in the United States to help remind all people of their individual responsibilities to care for our soil and water resources. The roots of this special observance are deep in history.

For centuries, men and women have offered humble thanks to God for the priceless gifts of soil, water, air and sunshine which sustain all living things. The world as we know it could not exist without fruitful agriculture. A regular harvest is a critical matter. But nature, like man, is erratic. There are times when the very elements seem to conspire against a fruitful yield.

In the United States, the decision to set aside a week each year to acknowledge before God our dependence on the gifts of the soil has met with wide acceptance. In parts of the South earlier in this century, a few church congregations began to set aside the fifth Sunday after Easter as Soil and Soul Sunday. Subsequently, this designation was changed to Soil Stewardship Sunday when, in 1946, the publishers of Farm and Ranch magazine took on promotion of the observance.

The response of clergymen and laymen was so positive that observance of Soil Stewardship Sunday spread to other denominations in other states. In 1954, the publishers of the magazine (circulated primarily in the South) suggested to the officers of the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) that nationwide promotion of the observance would help create greater national awareness of the need for soil and water stewardship.

NACD, which represents 3000 local soil and water conservation districts, took on national sponsorship of the annual observance in 1955. The observance, now known as Soil and Water Stewardship Week, is celebrated each year between the last Sunday in April and the first Sunday in May. By its very nature, the observance is one to be joined in by everyone (regardless of religious beliefs) who shares a sense of personal responsibility to care for our valued natural resources.

New Deputy Appointed At Md. Department of Agriculture

Acting Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced the appointment of Dr. Henry A. Virts to be the department's acting deputy secretary effective immediately.

Dr. Virts has a long background in agriculture and since 1989, he has served in the Maryland Department of Agriculture as state veterinarian.

"I am extremely pleased that a person of Dr. Virts' abilities has agreed to help me and the Maryland Department of Agriculture continue to serve the agricultural industry in our state," Riley said.

"I know Dr. Virts will do an outstanding job. He understands agriculture, he is familiar with departmental policies and he is extremely talented in working with people. I know he will be a big asset to the entire agricultural community," said Riley.

Dr. Virts earned his veterinary degree from the University of Georgia in 1956 and he had a private rural veterinary practice in Southern Maryland for 28 years. In 1987 he became the Maryland Department of Agriculture's assistant state veterinarian. In addition, he represented veterinary medicine on the Maryland Agricultural Commission, an advisory group to the secretary, for 10 years.

"I am excited about the challenge ahead of me. The Maryland Department of Agriculture works for all the citizens of our state - producers and consumers alike. I am looking forward to furthering our efforts to protect the consumer and the environment and to promote Maryland's agriculture," Dr. Virts said.

Dr. Virts resides with his wife Nancy at Trent Hall, a family farm located on the Patuxent River near Mechanicsville in St. Mary's County.

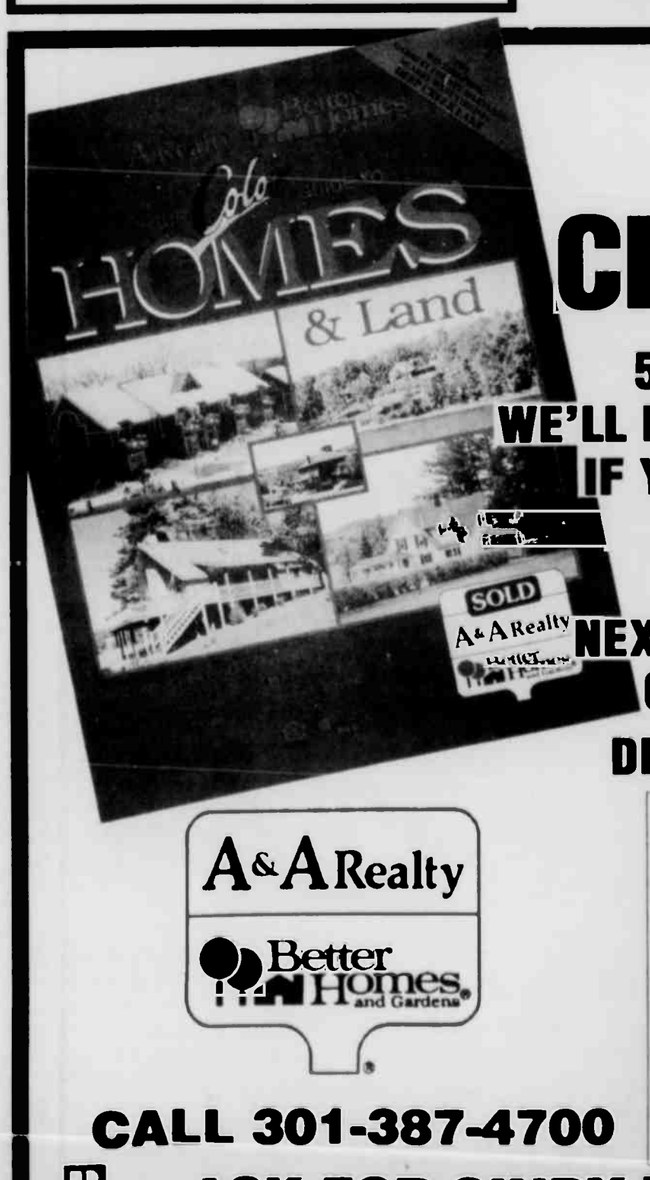
Mountain Fresh Producers To Meet April 30

The Mtn. Fresh Producers annual spring dinner meeting has been scheduled for Friday, April 30, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, beginning at 7:30 p.m., with a presentation by Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms on "The Backyard Greenhouse."

Invitations to the dinner have been sent to town officials and the Garrett County Commissioners, as well as area restaurant owners that have supported the Mountain Fresh Market. Anyone else interested in learning more about the organization or who would like to join Mtn. Fresh is encouraged to attend. The cost is $5 for a complete turkey dinner, and reservations may be made by calling the extension office at 334-1990.

Opening day of the 1994 summer market season has been set at July 9, and the market will open at 10 a.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Beginning this year, the market will also be open on Mondays at 2:30 p.m., on a trial basis, to accommodate a growing number of consumers, according to a spokesperson for the producers.

The Mtn. Fresh Producers met recently to discuss plans for the upcoming market season and to elect new members of the board of directors. Those elected to serve were Doug Herbert, Jim Fearer, Dayton Bolyard, and Cathy Sanders. Connie Stark and Paul Perrine will remain on the board this year to serve out their terms.



The next regular meeting of the group will be held Thursday, May 19, at the extension office, located at 202 South Third Street in Oakland.

MDA Market "800" Number Available

Taped agricultural information is available from a Maryland Department of Agriculture "800" number.

Call 1-800-638-2207 and receive regular reports on seasonal crop progress, weather conditions affecting agriculture, vegetable sales and prices, and other timely and pertinent agricultural production, marketing, and income facts.

Each Monday at 3:00 p.m., the Agricultural Statistics Service records a summary of information regarding the current agricultural situation. This report can be heard by calling 1-(800)-638-2207 each Monday from 3:00 pm to Tuesdays at noon.

At other times during the week, the MDA will feature items of topical and current seasonal interest. During the vegetable marketing season, a daily report on vegetable crop prices and volume will be updated each day.

Soils Drying; Farmers Planting

Through the week ending April 24, Maryland farmers prepared 30 percent of the acreage for planting spring crops. This was a big jump from last week's nine percent but still well behind the five year average of 47 percent. Warmer temperatures and very little rain allowed farmers to get back into the fields.

Topsoil moisture rating was 81 percent adequate and 19 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was rated 48 percent adequate and 52 percent surplus. Conditions allowed an average of 6.2 days suitable for fieldwork during the week, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Pasture feed improved to an average of excellent condition. Small grains were rated in mostly fair to good condition. Green pea planting has caught up with last year and normal, sweet potato planting progress remains behind normal. Melons, cucumbers, and tomato plantings are beginning. Peaches in the north and west part of the state will probably not bloom. Peaches in the rest of the state have virtually all reached the blooming stage or past.

Maryland's progress for the week ending April 24 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Planting progress: Corn for grain, 6, 5, 8; sweet corn, 8, 11, 13, potato, 20, 72, 67. Fruit bloom: Apples, 17, 3, 42; peaches, 95, 57, 81; strawberries, 33, 6, 32.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending April 22 had above normal temperatures and below normal precipitation. Temperatures averaged 60.3 degrees, 6.1 degrees above the normal of 54.2 degrees for the April 16 to April 22 period. Minimum temperatures ranged from 28 degrees at Hancock to 49 at Washington National, but generally around 40. Maximum temperatures ranged from 73 degrees at Oakland to 87 at Hancock but generally in the low 80's. Precipitation averaged 0.27 inch, 0.52 inch below the normal of 0.79. Precipitation averages were: western, 0.23; north central, 0.23; southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.33; and Eastern Shore, 0.31 inch.

What Does Calcium Carbonate Equivalent (CCE) Mean?

More and more lime companies are selling lime based on calcium carbonate equivalent (CCE). Also, several of the soil testing labs are basing the lime recommendations on CCE. Several farmers have called wanting to know how to adjust the amount of lime to apply based on CCE. Calcium carbonate equivalent refers to the neutralizing power of the lime. Pure calcium carbonate would have a CCE of 100 percent. The recommended amount of any liming material that is not equivalent to pure calcium carbonate limestone in neutralizing power (100 percent CCE) must be adjusted so that you actually apply enough liming material to neutralize the acidity in your soil. Using the CCE of your liming material, the actual amount required to neutralize the acidity can be calculated as follows:

Actual liming material required = soil test limestone recommendation/CCE of liming material X 100.

Example: Soil test recommendation for limestone: Apply 4000 lbs. calcium carbonate equivalent /A

Liming material label: CCE = 80 percent

Actual liming material required: 4000/80 x 100 = 5000 lbs. of lime /A

Apple Varieties Of Yesteryear

Arkansas Black Twig, Baldwin, Fall Cheese, Milam, Roxbury Russet are apple varieties not found in the modern supermarket. Yet, in the opinion of many people, the dessert quality of these and other old time apple varieties is superior to that of most of those in popular demand today. Many of the old varieties lost favor with the commercial grower because of low productivity, lack of attractiveness, susceptibility to the ravages of insects and diseases, and poor shipping quality. For the home gardener, these faults are overshadowed by the delightful flavor, rich aroma and culinary characteristics found in a few of the more recently introduced apple varieties.

There is increasing interest in the growing of old fruit varieties. Some commercial nurseries now propagate one or more of the better known old varieties, and there are a few that specialize in antique fruit varieties of all types. North American Fruit Explorers, 10 South 055 Madison St., Hinsdale, Ill. 60521, a non-profit association of fruit gardening enthusiasts, activity promotes the culture of old fruit varieties. It is a valuable source of information for anyone interested in locating a source of bud wood, characteristics of varieties, and successful cultural practices.

Among the old time favorites available from private and commercial sources is the variety Albermarle Pippin. Although seldom found in the orchards of our region, it is of some importance in western states under the name Yellow Newtown. Some of the old varieties still found in orchards are Arkansas Black Twig, Baldwin, Ben Davis, Esopus Spitzenburg, Fallawater, Gano, Golden Russet, Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Horse Apple, King David, Lady Apple, Limber Twig, Maiden Blush, Milam, Mother Apple, Northern Spy, Smokehouse, Winter Banana, and Wolf River.

Whether from a sense of nostalgia, a desire to preserve some of our history, or pride in having an antique to display, many of the old apple varieties have been saved from extinction. Some have already been around for centuries; hopefully they can survive a few more. They are too good to lose.

Yough. Glades Chapter Donates To Drane House

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), recently donated $1,000 to the Drane House Preservation Fund. In keeping with the society's objective, "to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence, to promote the development of an enlightened public opinion, and to foster patriotic citizenship," the local chapter made the contribution in addition to a previous $100 donation given in 1988.

Lt. James Drane of the Prince George's County militia moved into the log cabin with his family around 1800. The house is believed to be the oldest standing structure in Garrett County. A veteran of the Revolutionary War, Drane is buried in a cemetery located adjacent to his home. His grave was marked by the DAR in August 1967.

The Accident Cultural and Historical Society is responsible for the restoration of the building and hopes to have the final phase of the project, the chimney (shown as a large piece of plywood in the accompanying photograph), rebuilt in time for the dedication ceremony of the house, set for Sept. 24. Two members of the society, Marjorie Fratz and Mary Strauss, who worked diligently to see the preservation of this Western Maryland landmark, died in 1993.

Members of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society include: the Rev. Ernest Lindner, director Steve Schlosnagle, immediate past director and Drane House chairman; Charles Strauss, project manager; the Rev. William Carlson, cultural committee chairman; and Margaret Beadle, dedication ceremony chairman. Serving as officers of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, DAR, are: Pauline Parrack, vice regent; Ann Groves, secretary; and Rosanne Sherwood, treasurer.

Those interested in additional information about the Drane House preservation efforts, or those who would like to arrange a tour of the structure, may call the Accident Town Hall, 746-6346.

ACCEPT DONATION - On behalf of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society, Charles Strauss, project manager, shown left, and the society's director, the Rev. Ernest Lindner, center, accept a $1,000 donation from Rosanne Sherwood, treasurer of the Youghiougheny Glades Chapter, DAR. The donation will benefit the Drane House Preservation Fund. PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT INSTALLED - More than 50 parents and friends of Broad Ford Elementary School students assisted in the April 9 installation of their new playground equipment. Also lending a hand with the installation was a group from the Maryland National Guard. A large, multi-activity structure was installed on the grades K-2 side of the school, and several individual pieces were installed on the grades 3-5 side. This is in addition to the structure installed in the fall. The students helped in the selection of the equipment, which includes a swinging chain bridge, track slide, two climbing walls, and a large, multi-activity structure. A ribbon-cutting ceremony was conducted to celebrate the culmination of the playground campaign, which began the beginning of the school year. The PTA of Broad Ford expressed its thanks to all who helped to make the new playground a reality.

DCL To Be Site Of Mother's Day Canoe Trip

Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area officials have announced a Mother's Day (May 8) canoe trip on Deep Creek Lake at 2 p.m. Daughters are invited to bring their mothers to enjoy a few hours of easy paddling on a calm section of the lake and observe the signs of spring, said a spokesperson.

All participants should wear appropriate clothing for the weather.

The cost of the trip is $5 per mother daughter pair. The price includes all equipment and a nature guide. Limited space is available, therefore reservations are required. Persons who have signed up for the trip should meet at the park office on State Park Road before 2 p.m.

To register for the canoe trip, interested persons should call the park office at (301) 387-5563, or stop by the office.

Senior Recipe Contest Slated

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, invite Maryland senior citizens to participate in the "Senior Recipe Contest" in celebration of 1994 as the "Year of the Senior" in Maryland.

Sponsors of this event include the Maryland Office on Aging, the Maryland Association of Senior Centers, the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, the Baltimore International Culinary College, the Maryland Department of Human Resources, the Maryland Association of Area Agencies on Aging, the Maryland Energy Administration and Baltimore Gas Electric.

The SAVIE Senior Access to Vital Information on Energy) program was developed in January 1993 to educate senior citizens on how to make better use of their income by using energy-efficient improvements in such areas as cooking and home heating, and how to prevent health problems resulting from extreme heat or cold. SAVIE is a partnership between State agencies and utility companies in Maryland. It is designed to help seniors enjoy a better quality of life by learning how to save money and conserve energy.

The "Senior Recipe Contest" serves to encourage senior citizens to actively participate in energy conservation programs such as SAVIE and the Maryland Energy Assistance Program.

The contest will run from May 1 to June 30. Senior citizens are invited to bring their favorite dishes (in one of the three food categories of salads, entrees or bakery goods) to their local senior center on the morning of the scheduled contest judging. Criteria for judging each dish includes 1) appearance, 2) ease of preparation, 3) economy, 4) taste, and 5) wise use of energy. Following each local "Senior Recipe Contest," the winning recipes will be tested for accurate directions by the Baltimore International Culinary College. A special booklet of "Favorite Recipes of Maryland Seniors" will be printed by Baltimore Gas Electric and will be available in the fall. The names of the winners and their senior centers will be listed along with each recipes.

"The Maryland Office on Aging is pleased to co-sponsor this event, and we hope that our senior citizens will join us for this activity, which will highlight their special talents for cooking and conserving energy," said Mrs. Abrams.

Persons interested in participating in this event should contact their local Area Agency on Aging for dates, times, and locations of contest judging.

Summertime Auto Maintenance Tips

If you thought last winter was tough on your automobile, just add the punishment of summer's heat, dust, and stop-and-go traffic. Without routine maintenance, your vehicle could be poised for a breakdown.

The money you spend on regular periodic maintenance should pay for itself in peace of mind and longer vehicle life-up to 50 percent longer according to master auto technicians certified by the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE).

ASE, which tests and certifies the competence of automotive technicians presents the following tips as a public service. Some are easy to do; others should be performed only by a skillet auto technician.

Getting Started

The best planning guide is your owner's manual. Read it; and follow the manufacturer's recommended service schedules.

•Air-Conditioning - A marginally operating air-conditioning system win fail in hot weather. Have the system examined by a technician who is ASE-certified in air-conditioning repair and service. You'll be doing the environment a favor, too, since poorly maintained air-conditioners can leak ozone-depleting chemicals into the atmosphere.

•Cooling System - The greatest cause of summer breakdowns is overheating. The tightness and condition of drive belts, clamps and hoses should be checked by a pro. The cooling system should be completely flushed and refilled about every 24 months. The level, condition and concentration of the coolant should be checked periodically. (A 50/50 mix of antifreeze and water is usually recommended.) Do-it-yourselfers, wait until the engine has cooled before removing the radiator cap. Do not dump old antifreeze/coolant into streams or sewers.

•Oil-Change your oil and oil filter as specified in you manual-more often (every 3,000 miles) if you make frequent short trips, plan extended travel with lots of luggage, or if you tow a trailer. Many repair shops will accept your used oil; never dump it on the ground or into streams or sewers.

Engine Performance

Replace other filters (air, fuel, PCV etc.) as recommended-more often in dusty conditions. Have engine driveability problems (hard starts, rough idhng, diminished power, etc.) corrected at a good shop with modern testing equipment and ASE-certified technicians. In addition to getting better gas mileage, you'll help lessen air pollution by keeping your engine at peak performance.

•Windshield Wipers - A dirty windshield causes eye fatigue and can pose a safety hazard. Replace worn blades and keep plenty of windshield washer solvent on hand to combat insects and road construction dust.

•Tires-Have your tires rotated about every 5,000 miles. Check tire pressures once a month; let the tires "cool down" first. Examine each tire for tread life, uneven wearing and cupping; check the sidewalls for cuts and nicks. An alignment is warranted if there's uneven tread wear or if your vehicle "pulls" on a flat, level roadway. Don't forget to check your spare, and be sure the jack is in good condition. Properly maintained tires last longer, saving you money and reducing the burden at landfills.

•Brakes - Brakes should be inspected as recommended in your manual, sooner if you notice pulsations, grabbing, noises or longer stopping distance. Minor brake problems should be corrected promptly.

•Battery-Batteries can fail any time of year. The only accurate way to detect a weak battery is with professional equipment, but most people can perform routine care: scrape corrosion from posts and cable connections clean all surfaces; retighten connections. If battery caps are removable, check the fluid level monthly. Wear protective eye gear and gloves.

•Lights-Inspect all lights and bulbs; replace burned-out bulbs; periodically clean dirt and insects from all lenses. Use a damp rag to prevent scratching.

Emergencies

Carry some basic tools. Ask a technician for suggestions. Also include a first aid kit, flares and a flashlight. Consider buying a car phone or a CB radio.

Finding A Good Mechanic

To find a good technician, ask friends and associates for recommendations, check out the reputation of the repair shop with your local consumer group, and look for technicians certified by ASE in the appropriate specialties, such as brakes, engine repair, and heating and air-conditioning. Shops with ASE technicians often post their technicians' credentials and display the ASE blue-and-white sign.

For a free brochure on summer car care, send a No. 10, self-addressed stamped envelope to: ASE, Dept. MCS94, 13505 Dulles Technology Drive, Herndon, VA 22071.

ASE CERTIFIED

We employ technicians certified by the National Institute for AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE EXCELLENCE
Let us show you their credentials

THE BLUE SEAL of Excellence. The nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) tests and certifies the competence of automotive repair technicians. Repair facilities with one or more certified technicians often display the ASE sign. There are about 312,000 ASE-certified technicians nationally.

Heat Damage

Abrasion Damage

"Check Engine" Light Means Now!

Does your car have aluminum cylinder heads? If you don't know it would be wise to find out, says the Car Care Council. Aluminum heads are more vulnerable to damage from overheating than the traditional cast iron type. Excessive heat can warp the temperature sensitive heads, resulting in a major repair expense. And it can happen so fast you may not have been aware your car was in trouble.

The most common causes of overheating is loss of coolant due to a leak. Another culprit is a sticking thermostat, which prevents coolant from circulating through the engine.

To avoid the expense and inconvenience of trouble on the road, far from home, invest in an annual inspection of the cooling system, because overheating is a leading cause of mechanical breakdown.

The Council offers these additional tips on cooling system maintenance:

•Save gas with an efficient vehicle. Your car's engine, like your body, has an optimum operating temperature. Most engines run in the 210-240°F range, controlled by the cooling system thermostat. But fuel economy drops 10% - 20% when engine operating temperature falls below 125 degrees.

The small investment to replace a faulty thermostat soon can pay for itself, not only in gas savings but also in terms of reduced engine wear.

•When one hose or drive belt needs replacing you're likely to find more in marginal condition. Rubber components under the hood live in a hostile environment, surviving temperatures ranging from sub-zero to more than 250°F. Hoses circulate as much as 7,500 gallons of coolant per hour at up to 18 pounds of pressure. They warrant periodic attention.

•The radiator pressure cap serves as the safety valve in the cooling system. The pressure test, available at most service dealers, not only will disclose existing or potential leaks in the system, it also can detect a faulty pressure cap. For a free pamphlet on cooling system maintenance, send a business-sized, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Department Cool, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.

SCRAP TIRES

Where will your old tires go when you get new ones? Hopefully, not in YOUR back yard! They're a breeding ground for mosquitoes and vermin and they are a fire hazard. When buried in a landfill, they rise to the top. Your tire dealer (actually, YOU) will pay to have your scrap tires hauled away. Over 250 million of them will be scrapped this year in the USA. Of these, fewer than 10 percent will be recycled and another 10 to 15 percent will be burned as fuel. The rest will be disposed of illegally, end up in landfills or tire collection sites.

Scrap tires, which have posed an environmental problem, may become a valuable resource. They contain more BTU's per pound than coal, are lower in sulphur than more industrially used coal or oil, and they can be ground up and mixed with asphalt for a longer lasting highway pavement.

Pamphlet Explores Fix-Up Vs. Replacement

"Low, low monthly payments" are a big selling point in new car advertising. The fine print often discloses that these are lease payments. Lease or otherwise, the on-camera salesman makes $250 sound like chicken feed.

For many prospective car buyers that Chicken feeder would go a lot further in the immediate needs of the car you already own. It covers the cost of a brake system overhaul or a major tune-up PLUS that long overdue oil change.

It might pay for two new tires and a battery or for other needs that press a person to go car shopping.

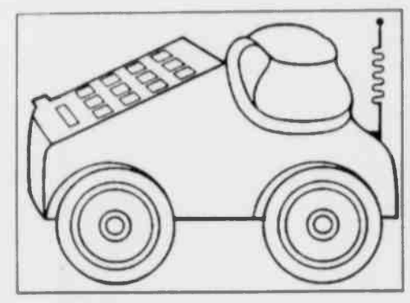
Car leasing or lower monthly finance payments help ease the sting of higher new car prices. But statistics demonstrate that owners are fixing up and driving their older cars. Average car age is at its highest since the early 1950's.

"For many of us, the handwriting is on the wall," says Don Midgley of Car Care Council. "In many cases it is wiser to accept one whopping repair bill and hang on to the old car or truck than to commit to a hefty monthly payment for 4 or 5 years."

This is the subject of a pamphlet published by the Council which says, When an aging car needs repairs, too often the solution lies in the quickest route to the car dealers showroom. But supposing the amount of the down payment (plus a little extra) were spent on the old car instead, making it serviceable for at least another year?"

One thing is certain: whatever repairs your car, truck or van needs, it probably won't cost as much as buying a new one. "And it's not a long term commitment," concludes Midgley. "Meanwhile you are driving a better vehicle and later, when you sell or trade, your car should bring a higher price.

For a good look at the pros and cons of fixing up vs. trading up, send for the Council's pamphlet "REPAIR OR REPLACE (Rx for Making a Decision)." All it takes is a business-sized, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Department R, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.



How To Discover The 'Book Value' Of Your Car

When trading in a used car recently, the gentleman across the desk gripped the Blue Book so tightly that the blood left his fingers. Holding it close to his chest, he stole glances secretively so that I would be unable to get a glimpse. He held all the cards, and without a time-consuming trip to the reference section of the library, or without finding a bank or credit union willing to give me the information, I was at his mercy.

However, now there is a no-nonsense 900 service that takes the guesswork out of used car negotiations and is both fast and convenient. Through the use of a touchtone telephone, the Auto Priceline™ quickly provides the high/low values of automobiles and trucks, without built-in delays designed to squeeze every last penny out of the caller.

The state-of-the-art computerized system includes options and mileage, and the data is systematically updated to always reflect current regional values. You simply punch in 1-900-884-3300, and follow the instructions for wholesale and retail values from 1973 to the present.

The service costs $2 per minute, and the average call is anywhere from four to six minutes. It's an investment that could save hundreds of dollars the next time you negotiate the purchase, sale or trade-in of a used vehicle.

Be Ready To Roll For Summer Vacation

The warm weather entices many to hit the highway, so the last thing anyone wants on a vacation is car problems. Before embarking on a long journey or even a weekend getaway, first make sure your tires are ready to roll.

"Keep in mind that tires are affected by warm temperatures," says Rick Brennan, marketing manager, consumer products, for Yokohama Tire Corporation, which manufactures and supplies several original equipment and replacement tires for the United States. "For example, air pressure increases with heat, so it's important to check regularly. Visual inspections are also important to detect cuts and other exterior damages which may be caused by driving on rough winter roads."

According to Brennan, tires are among the easiest and most economical part of the car to maintain. In fact, just a few minutes each month will help ensure longer tire life and top performance. Preventing problems before they occur is the key.

Tire maintenance is comprised of five main elements: air-pressure checks, visual inspections, rotation, alignment and balancing.

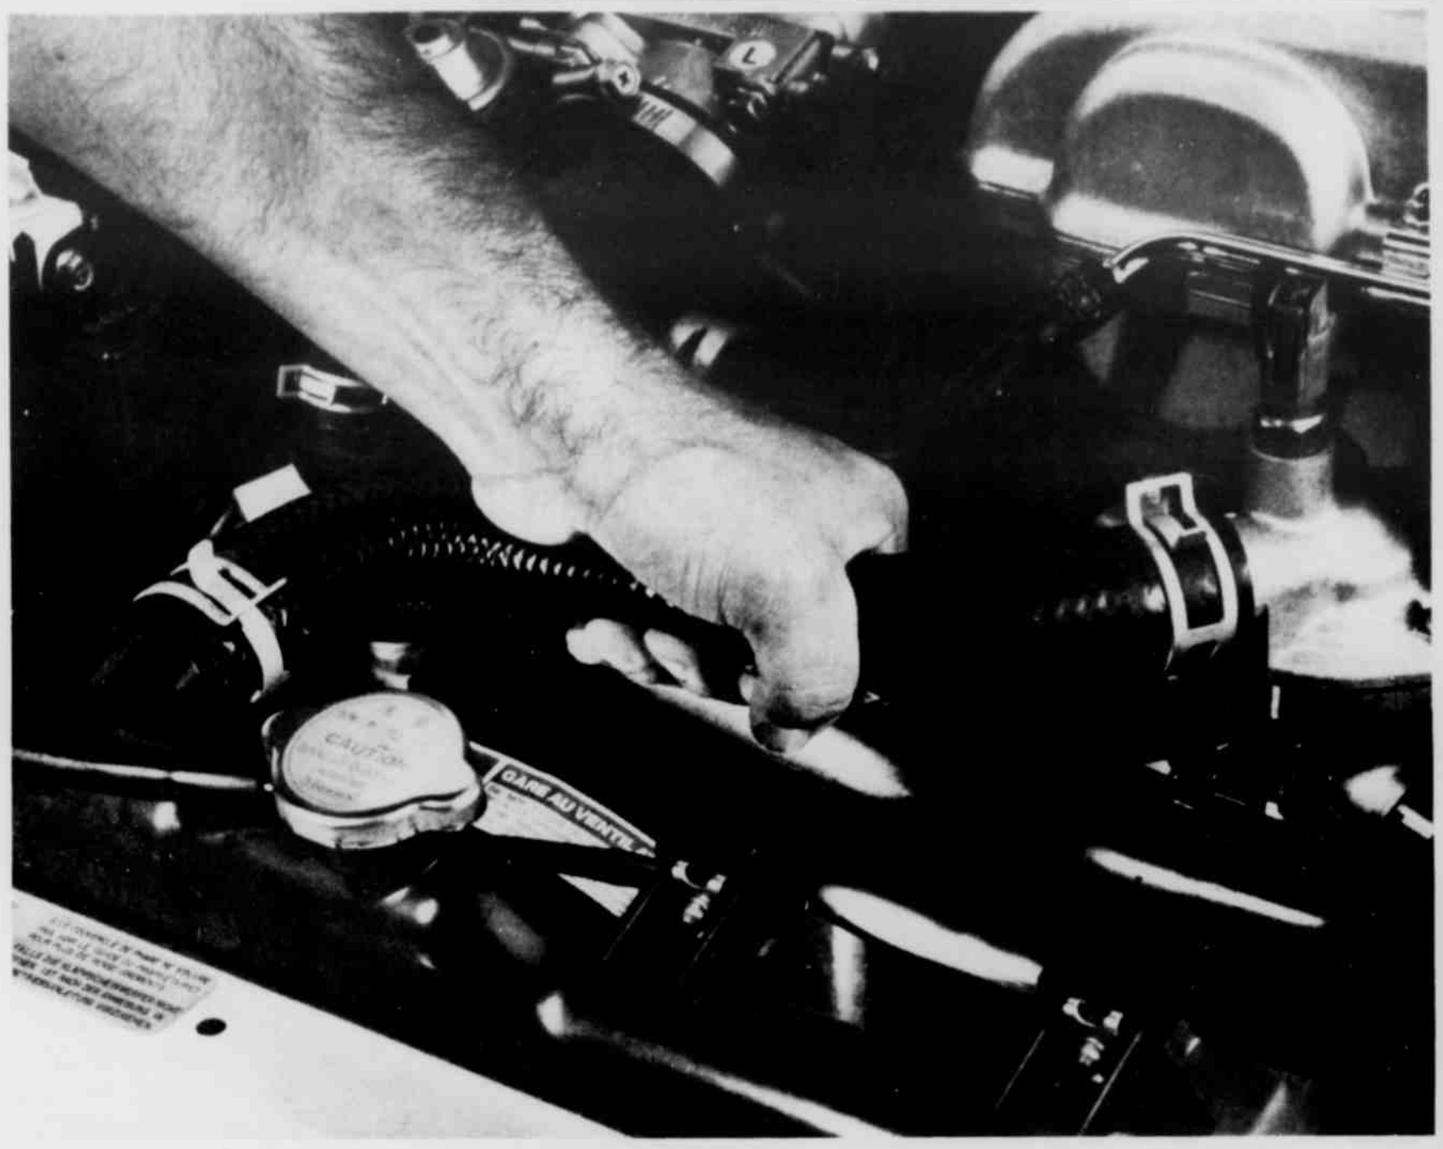
Air-pressure checks are considered to be the most important aspect of tire maintenance, because improper air pressure is the greatest cause of damage. Overinflated or underinflated tires result in irregular treadwear, poor gas mileage, squealing around corners and "mushy" steering.

Recommended air pressures usually can be found in owner's manuals, although it's best to consult with the tire dealer or manufacturer if the vehicle's original tires have been replaced. Generally, tires lose about 1 pound per square inch each month. Warmer conditions will cause a rise in pressure of about 1 psi for every 10 degrees, so tires should be cool for an accurate reading.

To ensure proper air inflation, Brennan recommends checking tire pressure at least once a month. Tires should be cool when checking air pressure. A tire is cool when it has been driven less than one mile. Checks can be done at service stations, usually at no charge. Visual inspections may be performed at home.

Visual inspections of the tires can also reveal irregular treadwear, punctures or other exterior damages, as well as the amount of tread remaining on a tire.

There are two simple tests for detecting if a tire's tread is below the safe, legal limit. One such method is to check the wear bar indicators, which can be located by using the arrows on the tire sidewall as a guide. The tire should be replaced, if the tread is the same height as the wear bar. Another test is by placing a penny in the tire's tread. If Lincoln's head on the coin is fully visible, the tire needs replacing.



"Tires should be rotated every 7,000 to 10,000 miles, with city driving requiring the most attention," Brennan says. "Treadwear is determined by a vehicle's weight distribution. Balancing out the wear variances extends the life and performance of the tires."

Treadwear can also be affected by improper wheel alignment. If neglected, incorrect alignment can lead to suspension damage. Alignment is often altered by driving over potholes and rough roads, which causes one part of the tire to wear more quickly than others.

Uneven wear may also occur if the wheels and tires are out of balance. Tires that are out of balance may be detected by a vibrating steering wheel, which usually becomes more pronounced at higher speeds. Brennan recommends having a vehicle aligned and balanced once a year by a professional.

READY TO ROLL — One of the first things to do before embarking on a summer trip is make sure your tires are ready to roll. Yokohama Tire Corporation points out that tire maintenance is comprised of five main elements: air pressure checks, visual inspections, rotation, alignment and balancing. Yokohama, which supports "Tread Lightly," the national awareness campaign striving to preserve our country's environment, also encourages drivers to be careful while venturing off paved roads on camping or fishing trips.

An occasional check of cooling system parts can prevent trouble on the road.

Air Conditioning Service is More Demanding Of Mechanic

Have you had your car's air conditioner serviced lately? Get ready for a surprise, if you haven't done so. Like so many things that have been affected by environmental concerns, air conditioning service is not the simple procedure it once was. The Clean Air Act is designed, among other things, to help protect the earth's ozone layer from the effects of escaping Chlorofluorocarbons.

Known as CFC's, these are the chemical compounds, including R-12 Freon (R*) and other gases which are widely used in refrigeration and cooling systems.

The laws have changed the way air conditioning (a/c) service will be done. Only licensed professionals are allowed to purchase R-12 refrigerant containers of any size. Recycling used refrigerant, with approved equipment, is required when completing a/c service or any other maintenance and repairs involving the removal of a/c hoses or components.

Professional refrigerant recovery and recycling equipment now allows technicians to remove Freon from vehicle a/c systems, recycle it for maximum performance and reuse it. No longer will it escape into the atmosphere and damage the ozone layer.

Auto service shops now must use this type of equipment. So, while you'll probably be able to have your air conditioning serviced at the same place you dealt with before, there will be a difference in the type and degree of servicing needed.

Service shops, for example, are forbidden from knowingly loading refrigerant into a leaky system, so more thorough maintenance is required. The bottom line result, a healthier environment and, as one might expect, a bit higher price tag for more thorough service, including more expensive materials and equipment.

Indy Driver Says To Make Sure Car Is Roadworthy

Memorial Day is just around the corner, and so is the Indianapolis 500. Again this year a woman will be competing for a spot in the 33-car lineup. She's Lyn St. James, 1992 Rookie of the Year at the Speedway. Holding more speed records than any other woman in motorsports, St. James also is recognized for her work in the field of car care.

As Director of Consumer Affairs for the Car Care Council, she offers advice on getting one's car ready for a trip.

Drawing a parallel between the family car and a race car, she says there's a type of performance that can be as critical as engine power. It's described as "readability" or "ride control," the ability to hold the road when cornering or maneuvering in traffic at high speeds.

"This means keeping the wheels in firm contact with the road or track surface," she says. "In a passenger car, this can be critical when you're hauling a load of people and luggage. Tight steering and suspension, strong shock absorbers and/or struts-and certainly good tires-count for a lot."

On the highway as on the race track, every aspect of car care is important. "A 'pit stop' with your heavily loaded family car won't cost you the race," emphasizes Lyn St. James, "but the risk may be every bit as serious."

In addition to her racing career, she also serves as Consumer Advisor to Ford Motor Company.

It's Pot Hole Season!

"It's pot hole season! Authorities predict that the recordbreaking winter we've just endured, with alternate freezing and thawing, will produce more than the usual crop of potholes.

When circumstances prevent dodging a deep one, you hang on and hope you won't damage a tire or break a spring. Strong shock absorbers or struts can help prevent your losing control, but the tire still has to bear the brunt of it.

If you're lucky you'll only have lost a wheel cover or two.

Sometimes the jolt can be very expensive. Have you ever hit a bump hard enough to knock the muffler right off your car? Maybe it's just dragging along at the end of the tail pipe. The clatter, plus the roar of your unmuffled exhaust, gets plenty of attention from surrounding drivers.

The loss of a muffler, and sometimes the pipes that go with it, usually is due to a broken bracket, or hanger, that secures the system to the frame. Inspecting the undercarriage in time could prevent the loss of a perfectly good muffler and pipes.

Damaged shock absorbers, struts and other suspension parts usually can be spotted by an expert, says the Council, but it may require an alignment check to determine if and how badly the vehicle has been damaged.

Car Care Council recommends a close under-car inspection to be sure one of those "craters" hasn't caused any damage. They emphasize that when you hit an obstruction hard enough to "jar your teeth" your car may have been damaged. Check it out.

For a free, illustrated pamphlet on shock absorbers and struts, send a business-sized, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Department RC, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.

BRAKES

Your braking system, probably the most critical safety system on your car, is like an extension of your body. When your brain tells your foot to push down on the brake pedal for a panic stop, you expect instant, predictable response.

Don't gamble with your brakes; have them checked periodically and when you do need repairs, invest in the best quality brake service you can get. You'll feel a lot more comfortable with your car.

Auto Facts

Is Replacing Your Old Car Worth The Hassle?

Is your old car squeezing you for everything you're worth? Are you fighting the urge, with every last ounce of determination, to head for the dealer's showroom or used car lot? Well, whether it's the once trusty old family sedan, the once-shiny sports car or the pick-up that was once the envy of truckers from Idaho to Ohio, your once-prized vehicle probably represented a sizeable investment.

Thinking about investing perhaps no more than the amount of a downpayment to fix it up may just make the soundest financial sense. A little money can go a long way toward upgrading a car.

Here's how to consider this option objectively:

1. Visit a mechanic and let him inspect your car. After compiling a list of mechanical needs, he can approximate the cost to put it back in good shape. If the car is paid for, you'll probably save money by giving it a new lease on life. Further, by having it repaired, you can make your car serviceable for another two to three years while saving toward its replacement. After all, you'd even have more value to bargain with when you're ready to trade!

2. Diagnosing mechanical problem is one consideration, but how about; manicure? Car owners should look to buffing out the paint job, fixing dented fenders or replacing missing trim. Some touch up work or perhaps a new paint job may be needed. How about pin stripes or adding rims to dress up the tires a bit?

3. Next, look at the interior. Does the fabric need to be cleaned and/or repaired? Would a sun rool make "Old Faithful" snazzier?

To estimate the costs of a cosmetic upgrading, you'll need the help of a body and paint shop plus an upholstery and trim professional.

If you decide to revamp the car you already own, depending upon the extent of the project, you may need a little help from your bank. Most banks will be eager to finance a loan for repairs on an older car -- the sum will be less and therefore a reduced risk. The customer's payments will be smaller and on a shorter term.

So the options beckon:

•A new car that may strain the budget and depreciate greatly once you drive off the lot;

•A used car that's an unknown; and

•The once-beloved car you already own.

Remember, regardless of the work your car requires, it won't likely be as costly as the first two options! Put the pencil to it and arrive at a conclusive figure. Treat your car to a makeover or an upgrade and, in return, it will give you extended years of driving enjoyment.

Help Your Car Keep Its Cool With An Inspection Under The Hood

Most people take the time to check the rubber on their car tires before heading out on a vacation trip. However, the rubber under the hood is just as important as the rubber around the rims. Broken belts and burst radiator hoses are two of the most common causes of engine failure on the road.

Rubber components, such as hoses and belts, exist in a hot, hostile environment. On a July day, the temperature under the hood can rise to above 250 degrees. To keep the engine cool more than 7,500 gallons of coolant per hour will circulate through hoses at up to 18 pounds of pressure.

With demands like these, periodic inspections are just common sense. You can inspect a cooling system yourself or take the car to your local mechanic. Many mechanics participate in the Dayco Cooling System Specialist program. These mechanics offer free cooling system inspections.

Cooling system inspections are not time-consuming. By making an appointment in advance, you can take care of this on your lunch hour, before your family departs for a road trip. Because they stock a wide range of Dayco belts and hoses, chances are most cooling system specialists will have replacements on hand, if replacement is necessary.

The goal of a cooling system inspection is to make sure your cooling system is in good shape before you leave home. The mechanic will look for worn, damaged or leaking parts. The following is a list of the items checked during a cooling system inspection:

•The proper coolant level.

•Leaks, breaks or worn spots on hoses.

•Loose hose connections.

•An adequate seal on the radiator pressure cap.

•A thermostat that adequately monitors engine temperature.

•Worn or frayed belts.

•Proper tension on belts.

The mechanic probably will recommend replacing worn or damaged hoses or belts with new parts. Cracks on belts and soft spots on hoses indicate it is just a matter of time before these parts fail. It will be less costly to replace them while the car is at the shop than to pay for a tow truck along a highway.

A cooling system inspection is an investment in your peace of mind.

COOLING FAN

Have you ever heard the whirring sound of an electric fan coming from under the hood of a parked car? The engine is shut off and the owner is gone.

It's normal for later model vehicles which use electrical fans instead of the belt driven fans to cool the radiator.

This energy and space saving device turns on when there's insufficient air passing through the radiator for adequate cooling.

A tip from the Car Care Council: when working under the hood, be aware of the possibility of that fan turning on unexpectedly -- keep your hands clear of the blades.

Reduce Stress From Your Daily Driving

We Americans drive more than a trillion miles a year, mainly commuting to and from work. Not surprisingly, these are among the most stressful hours for many of us, sometimes straining our traditional love affair with our automobiles.

Nevertheless, our cars remain an integral part of the family, with better than two-thirds of buyers planning to keep their vehicles for 5 or more years. Our cars, trucks and vans have become second family rooms and/or offices for many of us.

In the home, a family or living room typically would be redecorated every five years. Our family room on wheels, by the time it reaches its average age of more than 8 years, probably needs some sprucing up too, says the Car Care Council. The owner of a good older vehicle need not put up with a shabby, faded interior. It can be completely refurbished, wall to wall, floor to ceiling.

A car's interior can be redecorated with current state-of-the-art fabrics and styling to take on a whole new look and feel. Genuine leather upholstery, for example, is gaining popularity as a re-upholstering material for motor vehicles, adding the look and feel of quality. An old vinyl interior can be upgraded with luxurious fabric, available in a wide variety of colors and patterns.

Cloth fabric, with its comfort and durability, still is preferred by most vehicle owners and car company interior designers. It's cooler in the summer, warmer in the winter.

Consider restyling your older car, pickup or van. It won't improve rush hour traffic, but it can enhance the environment inside your vehicle. Car Care Council says it costs nothing to look over samples of material at your auto trim specialist (found in the classified section of your phone directory under "Auto seat covers, tops and upholstery") and you may be pleasantly surprised at the price estimate.

For a free pamphlet on maintaining your vehicle's interior send a business-sized, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Department N. One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.

SMOKER'S CAUTION!

Cigarette smoking can be harmful to the resale of your car. Car Care Council warns that cigarette burns on your car's interior, beyond being unsighty, will detract from the vehicle's trade-in value.

Damaged carpeting, upholstery and headliner (ceiling fabric) are high on the list of cosmetic discrepancies which cause appraisers to sharpen their pencils. Most dealers would prefer to contend with mechanical repairs, batteries or tires on a trade-in than with appearance maintenance.

Going back to that simple burn hole, it is likely to require replacing an entire panel of upholstery, a fairly routine procedure for an upholstery and trim shop.

A Well Tuned Car Is A Pollution Solution

Among the numerous government and consumer groups most concerned about air quality is the American Lung Association. Every October, during National Car Care Month, American Lung Association chapters participate in vehicle check lanes to monitor exhaust emissions and safety condition of the vehicles in their communities.

A pioneer among the sponsoring organizations is the Birmingham Committee for Car Care and Clean Air, consisting of the American Lung Association of Alabama, AAA of Alabama, the Jefferson County Department of Health, the Birmingham Audubon Society and the Birmingham Regional Planning Commission. Using the theme, "A Well Tuned Car is a Pollution Solution," this committee provides consumers with free vehicle safety and emission inspections plus educational material about preventive maintenance.

At the forefront of this campaign is American Lung Association of Alabama's Executive Director, Jim Hughes, who initiated the check lane program in Birmingham. He reports an overall improvement in vehicle condition since the program started in 1986.

"Last October we inspected 305 vehicles, of which 22 percent failed the emissions test," he says. "While there's plenty of room for improvement, that still represents significant progress over 1986, when 35 percent failed.

We continue to see signs of neglected maintenance," Hughes reports. Better than one out of four had tire problems and/or low oil level. Belts and hoses also showed lack of attention.

But we're making headway. Hopefully motorists are learning that preventive maintenance leads to cleaner air, safer vehicles, improved fuel economy and lower repair bills."

According to the Car Care Council, who administer National Car Care Month, owners should become more aware of the signs of deteriorating engine performance. On newer cars, with their numerous sensors and computers which monitor and adjust the various functions, the engine will "fix" itself as it drives down the road. In effect, it can compensate for certain discrepancies such as a dirty air filter or a malfunctioning emission control part. The driver may be unaware of deteriorating performance or poor gas mileage until the condition has progressed beyond the point where compensation is possible. That's when the engine may misfire, knock or ping and be hard to start.

This condition also leads to excessive exhaust emissions and polluted atmosphere. These vehicles, the gross polluters, are the target of the National Car Care Month effort.

As Jim Hughes emphasizes, "Public awareness works. We just have to keep at it."

For a free pamphlet entitled, "The Eight Most Common Signs Your Car Needs a Tune-up," send a business-sized, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Department T, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.

When your car gets bumped or scraped in a parking lot or accidentally bruised on the street, don't ignore the damage - it won't go away. It's likely to get worse as rusting sets in.

Body repairs, even minor ones, pay big dividends, says the Car Care Council. A car that looks good and runs well brings significantly more at trade-in than one that's been neglected.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

The Somerset County Speedway, located at the Somerset County Fairgrounds in Meyersdale, Pa., will begin its fifth racing season on Friday, April 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Racing at the speedway began in the 1940s under the Somerset County Fairgrounds Raceway name. In the early 1950s a tragic accident caused the raceway to close. In 1977, racing once again returned to the fairgrounds and remained open for three years.

By February of 1990, a new racing program was on the way to becoming a reality under the direction of Jack Fullerton from Meyersdale. When racing started in May of that year, 80 drivers were waiting for the green flag to drop at the Somerset County Speedway.

Racing at the 1/2 mile clay oval is considered stock with a few added twists. It is considered non-stop racing since the race is stopped only if the track is blocked or someone's safety is in question. Each race night at least four heats and three features are run. Some changes in the 1994 season are being discussed which includes an added class of vehicles which will be run under the caution. Cars must be registered prior to racing at the speedway because of the number of cars and the strict car specifications. The speedway is proud to have the Meyersdale Volunteer Fire Department, the Meyersdale Area Ambulance Association, and the Salisbury Ambulance providing coverage of the weekly events.

Drivers come from the tri-state area and run the gambit from "rookies" to "seasoned veterans." The track champions since 1990 have included Terry Walls, from Boswell, Pa., Rodney Sweitzer, from Berlin, Pa.; Jeff Nicholson, from Confluence, Pa., and Joe Donaldson, from Meyersdale, Pa. The amount of money spent on the cars varies from driver to driver. It is hoped that the car specifications keep this type of racing affordable to all.

If during the summer there is a threat of rain, a decision about canceling will not be made until 4 p.m. After that time, a message will be put on the answering machine (814-634-0916) only if it is canceled.

See you at the races?

Interstate 79 Speedway

Interstate 79 Speedway in Shinnston, W.Va., opened for the 1994 racing season Friday night, April 22. I-79 runs each Friday evening with gates opening at 6 p.m. and racing at 8 p.m. Many special events are planned throughout the season with a few on Sunday evenings.

Promoters Mark Richards and Steve Baker have announced a full schedule of events which includes a five-race West Virginia State Championship Series for Late Models, three of which are sanctioned by STARS (Short Track Auto Racing STARS). Other events include the return of the All Star Sprints with the 3rd annual Sprint Car Wheelie Contest, four Skoal Series races for the UMP Modifieds and an N.T.P.A. Tractor Pull.

Approximately 100 cars race weekly at the 1/4 mile clay oval which is located off Interstate 79 at Exit 125 just south of Fairmont, W.Va.

For more information, those interested may call 304-592-3200 or on race day 304-592-0916.

Race Results

Opening night at Interstate 79 Speedway found over 100 cars competing in five classes of racing. Taking the checkered flag were Chuck Harper in the Late Models, Jerry Haseleu - Semi-lates, Mike Wilson - UMP Modifieds, Mike Lewis, of Oakland, - 4 Cylinder Stocks and Jimmy Shaffer in the Pure Stocks.

In the Late Model feature event, Doug Hall took the early lead but Tim Hitt took command at lap six. Hitt seemed to be the car to beat while Mike Smith and Chuck Harper were coming from the seventh and 12th starting spots. Smith gave the first real challenge to Hitt. But just midway through the 25-lap event, Harper showed that he had the strongest of the three cars and he pulled past Smith to bring the next challenge for Hitt. The two ran side by side for three circuits when Harper finally took the top spot and went on to take the checkered flag. Hitt held on for second. Smith came across the line in third but was disqualified when he did not report to the scales immediately after the race. Dave Groves stepped into the third finishing spot followed by Doug Horton and Mike Hawkins. Heat race winners were Harper, Frank Wilson, Sr. and Frank Wilson, Jr.

The Semi-late feature found 18-year-old Robbie Scott in his new ride leading the entire first half of the race only to be overtaken by Jerry Haseleu in the latter laps. At the line it was Haseleu, Steve Booth, Scott Miles, Scott, and Rick Strickler. Winning heats were Miles and Haseleu.

Mike Wilson was the victor in the largest field of cars - the UMP Modifieds. Twenty-nine cars made for three heats and a consy in this ever-growing class. Mike Hawkins gave Wilson pressure at the end to finish second followed by Hubie Hatfield, Ron Parrish, and Rick Williamson. Hatfield, Wilson, and Williamson took the heat wins.

In the 4 Cylinder Stockers, Mike Lewis picked up his heat and feature win over Ron Hurley, Jim Hunt, Chad Haney, and Don Cutlip. Hunt also took a heat.

Jimmy Shaffer found victory lane for the first time in his career as he piloted his Pure Stock to lead the entire 15 lap event. Denny Sandy gave chase with Jim Byers, Steve Tarnowski, and Mark Bell rounding out the top five. Heats went to Sandy, Shaffer, and Tarnowski.

Racing action continues each Friday night at 8 p.m. at the Interstate 79 Speedway which is located at Exit 125 (Shinnston/Saltwell Road) just south of Fairmont, W.Va.

Cumberland Raceway

Racing will be held at the Cumberland Raceway, at the Allegany County Fairgrounds on Rt. 220 south of Cumberland, each Saturday night beginning at 7 p.m.

The 5/8 mile oval clay track opened in 1991 with racing on Saturday nights under lights for the first time in the history of the track. Currently entering the fourth season, promoters Ben and Nancy Evans of Lonaconing, host a number of classes each week. New this year at the entry level is Hobby Stocks. This class is for drivers with less experience and is less expensive. No points will be given, but prize money will be awarded. Also running this year will be Pure Stocks, and as the driver's racing expertise develops, he proceeds into Semi-late and possibly into Late Model racing. URC Sprints will make their appearance for the first time this year at the Cumberland Raceway.

The gates open at 4:30 p.m. with hot laps at 6:30 and racing at 7 p.m. Heat races take place after the hot laps which qualify drivers for the feature races of the night. As many as 24 cars may enter the feature race in each class.

The Cumberland Raceway has been well received in the area. Local businesses have purchased wall and fence advertisements, have sponsored weekly races adding additional bonus money to the week pay-off, and offer many free giveaways during intermission time. Fans contribute additional money to the driver finishing in various positions and to drivers who can break another driver's winning streak. Crowds have been tremendous filling up the entire original grandstand, creating a need for additional grandstands. Good advice: Come early to get a good seat.

Race Results

Saturday, April 23, the 1993 U.R.C. Sprint Champion Dave McGough, of Sassamansville, Pa., won the 25 lap feature for the U.R.C. Sprints in their first appearance ever at the Cumberland Raceway. The Dash for Cash for the 1993 top 10 point standing finishers had Tony Flanagan win in the Late Models, Lynn Ogden in the Semi-lates and J.R. Isner win in the Pure Stocks.

The season opener was dedicated in memory of Cumberland official Howard "Bump" Brode who passed away March 19, 1994.

In the 24 car starting field for the U.R.C. Sprints, John Eldreth took the early lead, and held the lead through four cautions. On lap 12, Dave McGough got by Eldreth for the lead. McGough held the lead through three more cautions to win the season opener and the early U.R.C. point lead.

Kramer Williamson finished second, Greg Coverdale came from the rear to finish third, and Jon Eldreth was fourth. Eldreth was followed by Jon Holmquist, Jimmy Martin, Midge Miller, Mike Haggenbottom, Billy Ellis and Kevin Kelly. Brian Brittingham took a wild series of flips down the backstretch on the last lap. The car was totaled but the driver was not injured. Lady U.R.C. driver Judi Bates finished 14th. Heat winners were Tom Capie, Mike Haggenbottom and Jimmy Martin.

The United Racing Club members liked the race track and said it was one of the most beautiful tracks they have raced on. They are looking forward to returning to Cumberland.

In the 10 lap Late Model Dash for Cash, Tony Flanagan was the winner and received $100 bonus from the Gang and Lamberts Auto Service and $50 from the Metty family. Finishing behind Flanagan was Larry Wright, Bob Salathe, Tom Clise, Bob Hershman, J.R. Keifer, Chuck Clise, Todd Price, Johnny Bauer and Jeff Miller.

The 10 lap Semi-late Dash for Cash winner was Lynn Ogden, who was followed by Jim Deneen, Jack Pencil, Bob Elbin, Donnie Witt, Brian Lowery, Allen Buckley, John Crowfis Sr., Barry Willison and Dave Hoover. The Gang and Lamberts gave Ogden a $50 bonus.

The 10 lap Pure Stock Dash for Cash was won by J.R. Isner, followed by Darras Deneen, Denny Sponaugle, Rick Saville, John Malcolm, Bill VanMeter, Wally Mowry, Merle Chaney, Bill Buchanan and David Riley.

There was open practice for all cars after the U.R.C. feature.

The regular points season starts Saturday, April 30, in all four classes. It will be Hamilton Night at the races with additional prize money in all classes.

Elkins Motor Speedway

Elkins Motor Speedway kicks off its 1994 racing season on Saturday, April 30, at 7 p.m. with Trophy Night sponsored by Teter Motors of Elkins.

Promoter Erin Dyer has announced an exciting schedule filled with action-packed events such as the Memorial Day Late Model Classic, the USAC Sanctioned SPL Shootout, the Race of Champions Qualifier, the Sixth Annual Armstrong Classic and the Hagerstown Hub-City Qualifier.

The field of racing classes at Elkins Motor Speedway this season will include Late Model, Semi-late, UMP Modified, Pure Stock and Four Cylinder Stock. The Street Stock and Four Cylinder Modified divisions have been dropped from the racing itinerary.

E.M.S. has gone through some wonderful improvements during the off-season, the most beneficial being the addition of clay to the track. Last Saturday's practice proved that this addition will promote faster and more exciting racing. "The track is in top shape," Dyer said. "Fans are going to be thrilled with excitement that this track will bring in 1994."

To reduce the chance of event cancellations due to weather, E.M.S. has installed a Rain-out Policy that guarantees the running of most rained-out Saturday evening events on Sunday afternoon. If there is Saturday rain, gates will open at noon on Sunday and racing will start at 2 p.m.

Elkins Motor Speedway opened in 1952 and has seen its share of great drivers cross its finish line, the most prominent being the 1950's coupe driver, Lee Petty, father of NASCAR great Richard Petty. E.M.S. fame rose through the 60s and 70s and became renowned across the Mid-Atlantic states. Now, in the 90s, Erin Dyer and his family are bringing that excitement back to Elkins with an atmosphere that promotes family entertainment.

Nestled within a valley of unsurpassed mountain beauty in the rural community of Kerens, West Virginia, Elkins Motor Speedway continues its great history. For further information, those interested may call (304) 472-3064 or on race day, call (304) 636-5940.

Don't Take Your Brakes For Granted

If your reaction time is typical, you'll travel about 70 feet in an emergency stop from 65 mph before your foot reaches the brake pedal. With visual problems, such as poor eye sight, bad lights or windshield wipers, or if your experiencing the effects of medicine or alcohol, reaction time will be slower.

Further, if you've neglected mechanical maintenance, hitting the brake pedal may be only the beginning of your crisis. Erratic braking action can cause a bad emergency situation to become worse, as it can pull your car right into the accident-or it may not stop at all. That's the number one fear among drivers, according to one national survey.

Despite recent advancements in braking system design, including anti-lock brakes, this vital safety system is among the most neglected on our motor vehicles and a leading mechanical cause of accidents.

The chain of events that occur in your car's braking system is, as the expression goes, as strong as its weakest link. A malfunction of any part of the system can cause brakes to be erratic or to fail completely.

Here's what happens when you apply the brake pedal:

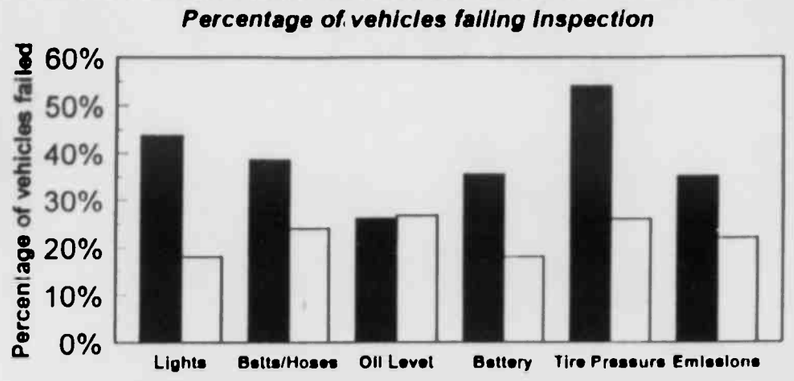
The pressure of your foot against the pedal is transferred to the hydraulic master Cylinders where pressurized fluid is fed to hydraulic cylinders at the four wheels.

On disc brakes, the caliper causes friction pads to squeeze the spinning rotor (like brake calipers squeezing the rim of a bike wheel), slowing or stopping the wheel.

On rear wheel drum brakes, a wheel cylinder receives the pressure and forces the brake shoes against the rotating drums.

Some vehicles have disc brakes or drum brakes on all four wheels; most have a combination of disc on front, drum on rear. In every case it is friction that stops the vehicle. Motion energy is converted to heat, which is dissipated by air cooling the rotors and drums.

Simple as the process may sound, it involves a complex system of parts that must function in concert. Friction and heat, combined with exposure to the elements and road contamination, lead to wear and deterioration of the braking system. Periodic inspection and service is essential.



Car Care Council offers an illustrated pamphlet on the braking system. For your free copy send a business-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope to Car Care Council, Department B, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, Ohio 43452.

Tune Up Today, Avoid Trouble Tomorrow

Today's high-tech automobiles can accumulate tens of thousands of miles with very little evidence of wear. Despite the longevity, cars still need to be inspected regularly to avoid costly repairs down the road.

"One area often overlooked is the ignition system," says Bill Wetzel senior product manager for Belden Automotive, a division of Cooper Automotive. "Battery connections and spark plug wires are essential parts in every car that many times go unchecked too long."

In most cases, that all-to-familiar sound of a grinding starter barely turning an engine over can be traced back to the battery.

Batteries lose their charge over time, especially in cold weather, and cable connections can corrode. A certified technician can test the strength of a battery's charge. If there is any corrosion where the cables connect to the battery they should be thoroughly cleaned.

"Batteries and corrosion go hand-in-hand," Wetzel says. "The terminals need to be cleaned and checked regularly. They are simple enough to check and it could save time and money in the long run if there is a problem."

Another area often overlooked is the spark plug wires. A number of signs to look for when checking the wires include corroded and torn boots, and cracks and abrasions in the wires.

The boots will corrode and tear from excessive vibrations, while heat may cause rubber insulation to crack. Abrasions can occur when a stretched wire comes in contact with another object. Also, a spark plug wire soaked in oil may not perform up to par.

Warning signs of trouble include misfire during acceleration, hard starting and reduced gas mileage.

"Damaged wires can carry electrical current to the spark plugs, but the charge may not be as strong as it should be," Wetzel says. "Trouble with wires can lead to bigger trouble down the road, including towing charges and large repair bills."

Just because your car starts every day doesn't mean the ignition system shouldn't be inspected on a regular basis.

"Preventive maintenance will help keep you on the road, especially when it comes to the ignition system," Wetzel says. "Nothing can ruin a vacation trip quicker than a mechanical breakdown on the highway, especially one that costs a bundle to fix."

10 (And ½) Steps To Protect Your Paint

As summer approaches, an annual rite of passage commences with the weekend ritual of washing and detailing your car. It's the time of year when you clean the wheels and polish the paint in an effort to bring back that showroom shine.

Bill Stuart, an expert in the detailing industry for more than 20 years, outlined how professionals take care of their own cars. "Most importantly," he says, "wash often and wash properly." Eggs, bird droppings, paint overspray and even water droplets are likely to cause permanent damage if left on the finish. Washing incorrectly can do almost as much harm as good. Stuart continued:

(1) Avoid washing your car in the sun. When possible, work in a protected area to cut down on the wind, which can carry dust and dirt.

(2) Rinse off as much soil as possible before washing.

(3) Properly clean the tires first, then the wheels. Spray a cleaning solution onto the tires and scrub with a strong-bristled brush such as CleanTools Tire Brush; it will let the tire absorb dressing more evenly and more thoroughly.

(4) Cleaning the wheels, especially today's clear-coated wheels, is important since brake dust and road salt can cause irreversible corrosion. It can start in hidden areas, and once it penetrates the clearcoat, the damage is impossible to correct. Use a brush that is safe.

(5) Avoid cleaning warm wheels. A chemical that might be safe at 60 degrees F might easily discolor or otherwise damage a wheel that is at 80 or 90 degrees F or hotter.

(6) Never use household detergents or dish soap to wash your car. These strip the protective wax coat, quickly causing your car's finish to dry out and age prematurely.

(7) Use quality mitts rather than sponges or towels. Washing with a sponge or towel can actually grind the dirt into your car's surface.

(½) Use two wash mitts. Clean the dirtiest areas with the first mitt- below the body side molding, the grille, areas covered with bugs, etc. Use the second mitt and fresh wash solution to clean the rest of the body from the top down, keeping the car wet until you're ready to dry.

(8) Wash in straight lines, not circles. Use overlapping strokes to make sure you reach every area.

(9) Take the nozzle off the hose to rinse the car. This allows water to sheet off, leaving less standing water for you to dry off.

(10) Use the absorbers to dry the car. It reduces your drying time and is safer on your paint; and since it doesn't pull wax from the surface, it prolongs the time between waxings and reduces dulling the car's finish.

COUNTY TO OPERATE NEW LANDFILL -- During a press conference held Tuesday at the new DelSignore Landfill, the Garrett County Commissioners announced that county government would be taking the responsibility of operating the facility, after having rejected two bids from independent firms. "Maximum local control" of incoming and outgoing waste, coupled with the projected savings to local taxpayers, were cited as the two main reasons for the commissioners' decision. Shown in the above photo are the officials who attended the conference. They are, from left to right, Director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County Commissioners Brenda Butscher and Elwood Groves; Director of Maryland Environmental Services George Perdikakis, Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey; Deputy Secretary of Maryland Department of the Environment Ron Nelson; and Garrett County Director of Environmental Health Edgar Harman.

AN AMERICAN EGRET on his (or her) way to who knows where made a stop on Broadford Lake this past week. apparently for some wading, fishing, admiration of his looks in the water reflection, and just general relaxation. These birds typically hang out in more southerly areas of the country, but occasionally pass through Garrett County. With the prevailing rains and 40-degree temperatures of the past few days, this particular fowl, who was captured on film by Craig Phillips, evidently departed late Monday for a warmer environment.

Blaze Destroys House Sunday, Family Homeless

A Swanton area family was left homeless late Sunday night when fire of unknown origin destroyed their house, located along Mellinger Road off Rt. 495.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dillsworth lost their 12-by-65-foot mobile home, an addition of about the same size, and most of their possession in the 10:24 p.m. blaze that was responded to by volunteer fire fighters from Deer Park and Bittinger. Residing there were Mr. and Mrs. Dillsworth, their daughter, a nephew, Mr. Dillsworth's mother, and an aunt.

According to fire investigators, five members of the family were at home when the fire was discovered, however all escaped the blaze uninjured. The fire was discovered by Mr. Dillsworth's mother, who noticed smoke coming from an unoccupied bedroom. One member of the family became ill later, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and treated and released.

Ken Collins, a member of the Deer Park Community VFD, was also treated and released at Garrett Memorial after sustaining an eye injury.

Fire fighters remained on the scene for about three hours and a Deer Park unit returned to the property at about 3 a.m. Monday after the fire rekindled.

The Dillsworth family is presently residing with other family members and a collection is now underway to assist them. While food needs have been taken care of, the family is in need of furniture, appliances, and building materials. An effort is being organized to help the family rebuild.

There has also been a trust fund established at First United National Bank for persons who wish to make financial contributions to the family. Donations will be accepted at the main office as well as all branches of First United.

Persons who have items to donate or who desire more information as to how they may assist the family may call 387-9145. For information about clothing sizes needed, persons may call 301-453-3435.

Fifty Peaks Team Arrives In County To Climb For Epilepsy

by Patti Grose

Garrett County was the site of a special event held by a team of unique people this week, who stood atop Backbone Mountain as part of their overall goal to climb to the highest point in each of the 50 states in just 100 days.

The climbers represent the Fifty Peaks Project, an undertaking that seeks to focus awareness on the abilities of people, rather than their disabilities.

A balloon launch by the students at Red House Elementary welcomed the three climbers, Mary Ann Rancanelli, who lost her sight to congenital glaucoma at the age of 5; Austin Gray, a support person; and Rick Porter, Fifty Peaks Project coordinator.

"It's an honor the highest peak in Maryland is right here," said Red House Elementary School Principal Linda Buckel; "that we're this close to the highest peak and were selected to be the hosts." The peak of Backbone Mountain is known as Hoyes Crest, with an elevation of 3,360 feet.

Several local dignitaries and support persons, as well as representatives from the Epilepsy Association of Maryland (EAM), were on hand for a ceremony held prior to the climb. Wilda Massi, director of Pupil Services for the Garrett County Board of Education, presented a proclamation from Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer, announcing May 2 as "Fifty Peaks Day In Maryland," to benefit the EAM. Oakland Mayor Asa McCain offered a similar proclamation for the town of Oakland, titled "Fifty Peaks Day In Oakland," and Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey presented the group with a certificate that offered "very best regards...for a very worthwhile cause."

Also present for the ceremony were Helen Ravenscroft, a member of the People First self-help advocacy group for people with disabilities in Oakland; Jan Kleiman and Sandy Fales, representing the EAM; and Paul Webster and Joshua Frick, representing TARGET, Inc., a local nonprofit organization that provides opportunities for

Board Approves Budget Proposal Submitted By Superintendent

After approximately two and one-half hours of discussion last Thursday, the Garrett County Board of Education approved a budget for fiscal year 1995 of approximately $29,475,000, which was presented to the board members by Superintendent of Schools Jerome Ryscavage. The budget has been a topic of discussion for several meetings in the past months.

This total amount represents an 8.5 percent increase in funding budgeted for the current year. Because both state and federal dedicated revenues are projected to increase only 1.3 percent and state current expense funds are only projected to increase approximately 1.5 percent, the major portion of the increase would have to be funded from funds appropriated by the Garrett County Commissioners, according to Ryscavage.

The board also ratified an employee contract with the Garrett County Teachers Association which includes a four percent increase for teachers next year. Also approved was an employee contract with the Garrett County Association of Educational Support Personnel which will provide for an approximate two and one-half percent increase in salary/wages for this group of employees.

The board is currently at impasse with a third employee group, the Garrett County Federation of Teachers, which represents cafeteria managers and head custodians.

The other significant increase which was budgeted for all employees was an

Local River Cleanup Day Set For May 18

America Outdoors, the national coordinating organization of National River Cleanup Week, has announced the third annual cleanup campaign will be May 14-21. In conjunction with the national event, a local effort, Youghiogheny River Cleanup Day, is set for May 18.

Sponsors for the local cleanup site include all Upper Youghiogheny outfitters and rafting companies, the local office of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Friendsville Town Council, and the Friendsville Lions Club.

Any group, club, association, or other interested volunteers are invited to participate in the local cleanup, and are asked to meet in Mountain Surf parkmg lot, on the west bank of the Youghiogheny River Bridge in Friendsville, at 10 a.m., May 18. River professionals and the DNR will divide into groups and clean the Youghiogheny from Swallow Falls to the I-68 bridge above Friends-

Route 40 School Playground Equip. Stolen

Over $700 worth of playground equipment was reported stolen from the Route 40 Elementary School this week. This report was among several complaints of theft and property destruction. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating the playground theft, which took place sometime between 6 p.m. on April 25 and 9 a.m. on April 26.

Patrick R. Delaney, principal of Rt. 40, contacted the police on the morning of April 26. He reported that the items stolen included an activity gym, $265; two picnic tables, $120; a "climb and slide," $165; a seesaw, $65; and a merry-go-round, $100.

Several persons were questioned about the activities at the school during the hours it was unattended, and apparently officers gathered information that may lead them to a suspect. A truck was seen in the park during those hours, according to the report. The investigation is continuing.

In a separate case, a Derry, Pa., man contacted police to report that someone had apparently broken into his vacation trailer, located in the Roman Nose Division in McHenry. It appeared that the culprits had lived in the trailer for some time.

Lester O. Burns arrived at his trailer last Friday to find that the door was unlocked and another door was damaged. The beds had been slept in and the kitchen had been used. Pots and

County Government To Operate State-Of-The-Art Landfill Facility

"This county has just solved its waste problems for the next 25 years," stated George Perdikakis, director of Maryland Environmental Services (MES), during a press conference held Tuesday in which Director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling Rodney Glotfelty announced that county government will become the operator of the new Garrett County Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility, located on Oakland-Sang Run Road.

The announcement came following the recent bid process conducted by MES, with two bids being received and reviewed. Chambers of Maryland submitted a bid of $1,377,350, and Perry's Solid Waste Disposal, Mtn. Lake Park, submitted a bid of $430,350.

Glotfelty explained, however, that after the two bids were reviewed, his office drew up a budget to see what the cost would be if the county were to operate the landfill. That figure was $354,096, so the county commissioners determined that county operation of the facility would not only save a great deal of taxpayers' money, but would also allow for maximum local control over the waste flow into the facility.

County operation of the facility will also expedite future recychng and waste diversion efforts which are essential to maximizing the life expectancy of the new landfill, according to Glotfelty.

Perdikakis stated at the press conference, "MES has a big stake in this landfill," and explained that the agency has floated several bonds with a commitment from the county. "We've made assessments and recommendations to the commissioners, and we believe that the staff is competent enough to oper-

Oakland Man Killed In Early Monday Accident

An Oakland man was killed early Monday morning on U.S. Rt. 50 in neighboring Preston County, W.Va., in a one-vehicle accident, after his car struck a fence and trees and then overturned.

Earl R. Sisler, 41, was the only occupant in a 1985 Chrysler LeBaron and, although the cause of the accident is still under investigation, officials indicate he may have fallen asleep at the wheel. The Preston County Sheriff's Department investigated the 3:45 a.m.

Born July 6, 1952, in Oakland, he was a son of Florence (Shaffer) Sisler, Oakland, and the late Monroe Sisler.

He was an employee of Mettiki Coal Co., Oakland. He attended Oakland Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witness. He was a licensed pilot.

In addition to his mother, survivors include his wife, Pauline D. (Wilt) Sisler; five sons, Samuel J. Sisler Jr., Vince R. Sisler, Bo R. Sisler, and Aaron R. Sisler, all of Oakland, and Eric POSTMASTER SWEARS IN STUDENT WORKERS - Oakland Postmaster Tom Twyman conducted a special swearing-in ceremony at Dennett Road Elementary School on Friday, where students are participating in the "Wee Deliver" in-school postal program. The school's post office gives students the opportunity to exchange letters to supplement their regular reading and writing lessons, while giving them a glimpse at some of the responsibilities and challenges they will face in the work world. The school's post office functions much like a real post office, and is operated by Dennett Road's fourth grade students under the direction of school enrichment teacher Marueen Sharps and parent volunteers Melissa Anderson and Sally Poholsky. The students perform the duties of postmaster, letter carriers, and clerks. All Dennett Road students will write and receive letters from each other, using stamps designed by fifth grader Erin Orr. The mail is dropped off in the central mailbox, designed by fourth grader Falon Stutzman. All mail that is generated is collected, sorted, and delivered by the student postal workers. Beachy Lumber Company and Garrett Gymnastics donated mailboxes for the program and Sincell Publishing Company donated envelopes.

Three Found Guilty On Drug Counts As Result Of "Operation Intercept"

Three persons were found guilty on drug counts in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings, by sitting Judge Paul Stakem from Allegany County District Court. They had all been arrested as the result of "Operation Intercept," a drug interdiction program set up on I-68 by Maryland State Police.

Michael J. Tada, 32, Willard S. Pennington, 31, and David S. Eli, all of Clarksburg, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) and were granted probation before judgment, fined $100 each, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Charges not prosecuted against the trio included CDS possession with intent to manufacture, distribute and dispense, because of insufficient evidence; possession of CDS paraphernalia, because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney, and an additional CDS possession charge, because of a negative lab test.

According to court records, the three were stopped Aug. 30, 1993, after state police officers observed the driver of the vehicle brake excessively and run off the right side of the road as he became aware of the check point. After the vehicle was stopped, a search revealed a plastic bag filled with suspected cocaine, a razor blade with suspected cocaine residue in the ashtray, loose marijuana in the console, pipe screens in the glove box, a camera case containing a baggie filled with marijuana, and a film container containing marijuana. Each defendant also had a gym bag containing a baggie filled with marijuana, and Eli's bag also contained a pipe.

In other district court news, Tracy A. Harding, 32, Friendsville, pleaded not guilty to obstructing and hindering an officer, and resisting arrest. Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett found him guilty on both counts. Harding was, however, found not guilty of one count of battery. A presentence investigation was ordered in the case and his bond was continued.

Harding had been charged with the offenses on Nov. 3, 1993, by Maryland State Police as they assisted the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force execute a search warrant at his mother's home. Court documents indicate when Harding arrived, he hindered the officers' search and, when asked to leave, he refused. At one point, he was escorted out of the house, but returned, resulting in his arrest.

Thomas J. Meyers, 21, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to one count of battery and one count of trespassing on private property, and was granted probation before judgment. He was fined a total of $200, and placed on three months of supervised probation, to run concurrently with a previous DWI (driving while intoxicated) charge. Conditions of his probation state he must stay away from Hillsman's Towne Restaurant. Additionally, Meyers was found not guilty of being disorderly on private property.

An arrest warrant had been issued for Meyers' arrest, after a Nov. 18, 1993, incident at Towne Restaurant with George L. Hillsman Jr., 38, owner of the establishment. According to court records, Hillsman fired Meyers after he arrived late for work. Meyers became loud and unruly when asked to leave, and when he was unable to leave through the locked front door, a scuffle resulted in the restaurant's dining room. Hillsman subsequently filed charges against Meyers.

In a counter charge filed by Meyers, Hillsman was found not guilty on one count of battery.

A sentence revision motion, requested by Charles L. Bernard, 57, Westernport, was granted by Judge Stakem in last week's court proceedings. A guilty verdict, resulting from a Nov. 1992, incident involving David W. Lidie Sr., at Savage River State Forest, was stricken from the record, and probation before judgment was granted. Additionally, Bernard was placed on one year of unsupervised probation. All fines, costs and probation conditions remain as imposed.

Charges of battery against Carole L. Cuppett, 45, Oakland; Thomas G. Cuppett, 33, Oakland; Tena M. Cuppett, 30; and Elizabeth L. Daniels, 32, Mtn. Lake Park, were not prosecuted at the request of the complainants. The charges against each of the defendants arose from a Dec. 18, 1993 altercation at the Elks Lodge in Oakland.

Isaac W. Morgan, 52, Frostburg, had a violation of a protection order charge against him placed on the NEW DELSIGNORE LANDFILL TO OPEN SOON - State and county officials this week took the opportunity to observe, first-hand, the progress at the county's new state-of-the-art landfill, located along the Oakland-Sang Run Road. The facility is scheduled to open sometime in June. The Garrett County Commissioners held an on-site press conference Tuesday to announce that county government -- instead of an independent business -- will operate the landfill. Two firms had submitted bids for the operation but county officials felt that local control would best serve the needs of the citizens, as well as save taxpayers' money. Director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling Rodney Glotfelty will oversee the operation of the 188-acre site.

"Garrett Girls" Are Chapter 13 Champions

The Garrett Girls, a winter guard comprised of students from both Southern and Northern high schools, won first place over all last weekend in the Tournament of Bands Chapter 13 Regional Winter Guard Championships. The local group topped five other guards in the competition to be placed first.

The Garrett Girls went to the championships having won first place the weekend before at McGuffy High School, Claysville, Pa. (west of Pittsburgh). Blair Glass, guard instructor, noted that the group had been bested by several of the guards in the Pennsylvania circuit earlier in the season, but were able two weeks ago to take first place overall. Five other guards competed in the event.

This weekend the winter guard will compete at the Virginia Beach Band Festival, at which the Southern Garrett Band will also be competing on the field and in concert.

Glass noted that the Garrett Girls are tentatively scheduled to perform the show at the close of the Southern band concert, slated for May 11.

The local guard is also instructed by Teresa Weeks.

Tax Rate For Oakland To Be Unchanged

The tax rate for the town of Oakland was set by the mayor and town council this week. It will remain the same as the current year's rate, which is $1.20 per $100 of assessed property value.

In an effort to raise money in another fashion, the council also decided to alter the collection procedure. Instead of receiving a five or four percent discount for early payment (by July or August), residents will receive three or two percent.

The council also decided to begin charging interest by one percent per month, beginning in October.

The town council has also taken into consideration the expected $10,000 increase for waste disposal in the new landfill. The Garrett County Commissioners have reportedly granted the town a recycling tax differential to compensate.

Eight Arrests Noted By GCSO

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office logged eight arrests this week on charges including driving while intoxicated (DWI), trespassing, and failure to appear in court.

A 33-year-old Oakland woman was charged with DWI on April 30. Tammy L. Fogle was originally pulled over for equipment violations, and was found to be allegedly under the influence of alcohol. The arrest took place at 1:40 a.m. on Rt. 135, according to the report.

Sheila A. McMillen, 41, Oakland, was arrested for DWI on May 1. The officer stopped her when he noticed that she was driving erratically, according to the report. She was arrested at 9 p.m. on Third Street in Oakland, according to the police report.

A Morgantown man was arrested on the strength of an arrest warrant last week. Kenneth G. Dawson, 41, is accused of violating a domestic protection order by attempting to contact Carolyn Dawson, Mtn. Lake Park.

Donald R. Park, 33, Deer Park, was charged this week with trespassing, according to the police log. Park apparently entered the property of Steven P. Uphold after being ordered not to do so. The incident took place on April 22.

Clinton R. Harvey, 18, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in Garrett County District Court. He was to face a charge of possessing an alcoholic beverage.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Michael J. McCartney, 25, Mtn. Lake Park. He apparently failed to appear in district court on April 26.

Shawn L. Gittere, 20, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant this week. He is accused of probation violation, according to the report.

Rodney T. Pike III, 23, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant. He has been charged with violation of probation.

Dear and Beautiful Friends,

Very rarely am I ever rendered speechless. However, I was Saturday night, April 23! Never has a surprise been so thorough or so completely carried out.

To be surrounded by 125 people whom I dearly love, and who I realize love me, is an incredible experience; one I wish everyone could have. The greatest gift anyone could receive in a lifetime is the gift of friends; people to laugh and cry with, people who are there no matter what.

Each of you is very special to me, and you each have greatly enriched my life.

Being 60 is indeed wonderful and exciting. Fred, being married to you is totally fulfilling.

Thank you all for a magnificent "passage" into my 60th year. I feel that each of you held my hand and ushered me into an exciting new age.

My love to you all,
Nancy Learey

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville Friday, May 13

The Garrett County Chapter of American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, invites local residents to donate blood at the Grantsville fire hall on Friday, May 13, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

According to Garrett County blood services officials, blood collections now are vital to maintaining the blood supply going into the Memorial Day holiday.

Donors of all blood types are urged to come out to the May 13th drive but particularly those people with Rh negative types.

Jan Kuruzovich, donor resources field representative for the Red Cross, added that the Grantsville community consistently supports community bloodmobiles.

"The people in this community always come out and donate at our (Red Cross) bloodmobiles. And we are asking the community to continue supporting the Red Cross and local hospitals by donating blood at the fire hall on May 13," he said.

In order to donate blood, a person must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds and be in general good health.

The Johnstown Region must collect at least 700 units of blood each work day to meet patient need throughout the hospitals it serves. The Johnstown Region Blood Services meets the needs of patients in over 80 hospitals throughout 61 counties (including Garrett County) across parts of five states.

Yoder Violates Probation; Judge Restates Sentence

A Salisbury, Pa., man who was originally convicted of numerous theft and forgery charges has been found in violation of probation and a 17-year jail sentence was reimposed by Judge Fred A. Thayer, Garrett County Circuit Court. The judge then suspended all but two years for Wendell J. Yoder, 28.

For the numerous theft charges, Yoder was originally sentenced in February 1991 to 20 years in jail. Thayer suspended all but three years at that time. The defendant apparently violated his probation in 1993 by writing a bad check. He was also accused of moving to a new residence without notifying his probation officers, not working regularly, and not making restitution to the victims in the case - all of which were developmentally disabled individuals.

The Red House Elementary students are participating in a "Mile of Pennies" project, and are donating the proceeds to various worthwhile causes. Deciding the Fifty Peaks project was a worthwhile cause, the students donated a penny to the EAM for each foot climbed on Backbone Mountain by the Fifty Peaks team.

The Fifty Peaks adventure began April 25 on Driskell Mountain in Louisiana, for the Alzheimer's Association, with five physically challenged climbers and nine support personnel. At the trailhead of each of the 50 states' highest points, a rally is held, and a symbolic emblem representing a major national organization like the American Cancer Society, the March of Dimes, muscular dystrophy and cystic fibrosis, just to name a few, is passed to the climbers, who will ultimately carry the emblems to the summit of America's highest point, Mt. McKinley.

Since the project began, one of the original five physically challenged climbers, 14-year-old Erik Safewright, who has muscular dystrophy, conquered nine mountains, including Mt. Mitchell in North Carolina, before his parents decided to pull him from the project. To the other climbers, Erik represents the culmination of what anyone could hope for. "Here is someone who avoids stairs, and we had him climbing mountains," said Porter.

Rancanelli wasn't sure if she would be able to continue with the others past the climb in Garrett County. "It takes a toll on your body," she said. "We did 12 states so far, and I did all 12 with them." Her personal goal was to go as far as she could.

"It's no longer a primary issue for me to do all 50," she said.

"One point of the project is to overcome challenges," added Gray. "We realize some challenges, like our health, are more important."

"We're all climbers," Porter said. "We are all on a journey. Whether you succeed or fail in your life's journey, expect obstacles."

Other members of the original team included Todd Huston, who lost his leg in a boating accident as a teenager; Helen Klein, a 71-year-old grandmother and great-grandmother; and John Goggin, who has a chronic asthmatic condition.

A behind-the-scenes team member is Jeff Struyf, a C-4 quadriplegic, who assists in coordinating logistics and media from his home in Indiana.

The team's quest is to inspire those individuals with or without disabilities.

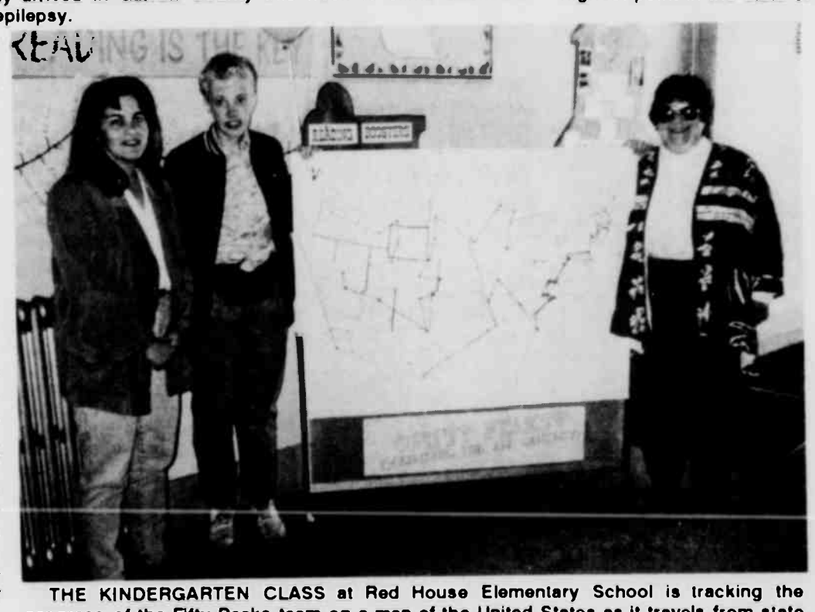
"It's not about disabled climbers summitting mountains, but it's about all people, everywhere, overcoming the natural challenges of life," said Porter.

Thousands of people will become involved in trailhead ceremonies in most of the states as the climbers symbolically take upon themselves the challenges of 43 million Americans, when an emblem is passed to them by individuals representing different health-related causes. And the team's goal is expected to cover the expanse of the United States, traveling more than 20,000 miles in 100 days.

Although a small portion of funding and equipment has been donated by various sponsors and individuals, the team itself is predominantly funding the project. They feel their message of "never give up" has more impact because of their relative self-sufficiency.

The climbers have become role models, representing individuals with disabilities -- those least likely perceived to successfully journey to the top. They become examples of what is possible. "If they can make it, anyone can" seems to be the motto.

Lives are changed, as the focus centers not upon the disabilities but on the abilities.



"Tackling each of these peaks, we discover a view from these highest of places," said Porter. "The rewards are there for all who persevere and accept the challenge to climb!"

A BALLOON LAUNCH by students at Red House Elementary School welcomed the Fifty Peaks team members to Garrett County, prior to their attempt to climb the highest point in the state of Maryland, Hoyes Crest, on Backbone Mountain.

THE KINDERGARTEN CLASS at Red House Elementary School is tracking the progress of the Fifty Peaks team on a map of the United States as it travels from state to state climbing to the highest points for different health-related causes. In Maryland, the team topped Backbone Mountain for the cause of epilepsy. Pictured, from left to right, are Sandy Fales, resources counselor for the Epilepsy Association of Maryland; Helen Ravenscroft, representing People First In Oakland; and Jan Kleiman, regional coordinator for EAM.

NATIONAL TEACHER DAY - The Garrett County Commissioners this week helped to observe Tuesday, May 3, as National Teacher Day by issuing a local proclamation. The document stated that "an educated citizenry serves as the foundation of our democracy . . . no other profession touches so many persons with such a lasting effect." The commissioners urged all citizens to observe the day by "taking time to remember and honor those who give the gift of knowledge through teaching." Shown above, left to right, are the commissioners, Brenda J. Butscher, Elwood L. Groves, and John G. Braskey. Standing, same order, are local teachers, Bonnie Yommer, Jane Scofield, Mary Jane Fike, and Jim Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers' Association.

Give Blood...

Gun violence, particularly on the streets of our major cities, has grown dramatically in recent years, and while the never ending debate over gun control rages on, the violence is contributing to the growth of another crisis in this nation - a dangerously low blood supply.

Urban emergency rooms are using literally gallons of blood on a weekly basis, sometimes on a nightly basis, trying to save the lives of victims of gun violence. Meanwhile, children with leukemia who also desperately need blood sometimes must wait because local blood supplies have been depleted.

Advancements in medical technology that make possible such procedures as organ transplants and joint replacement on a routine basis, plus hospitals' increased ability to keep trauma patients alive, have also greatly taxed the nation's supply of blood.

Not only has there been such an increase in the need and use of blood, but there has also been a decrease in the giving of blood. The American Red Cross reports that for every year since 1987 there has been a three-percent decline in blood donations, and that just last year alone some collection sites in the country experienced a 30 percent drop.

While there is little each of us in Garrett County can do to stop the violence on the streets of our cities, there is certainly something that most of us can do as individuals to help with this problem - give blood.

Out of Garrett County's entire population, there are probably 12,000 to 15,000 people who are old enough to give blood. Assuming as many as one third of them are unable to give blood because of various medical reasons, that still leaves 8,000 to 10,000 who are able to give. Yet, if a visit of the bloodmobile to Oakland nets 200 pints it is considered an extremely successful day. If 150 pints are collected in Grantsville and 40 are collected during a visit to Friendsville, those would also be considered good days. But that is a grand total of less than 400 pints of blood for this entire county!

Thus we strongly urge all local persons who are at least 17 years old, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health to respond and make a difference by becoming a regular blood donor. The entire process, which is relatively painless, usually takes less than an hour.

The next bloodmobile visit to the county will be next Friday, May 13, in Grantsville, followed by a visit to Oakland on May 27. It would be fantastic if we would set a new record high number of pints collected at these visits.

Remember, the person who suddenly and unexpectedly might need blood, and need it immediately, could be among our own loved ones. Let's do our part to ensure that a supply is available.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I read in the local paper, The Republican, April 28, the policy established by the Board of County Commissioners and Rodney Glotfelty, their employee, concerning solid waste disposal fees. Now I do not intend to be too critical of Mr. Glotfelty as I presume he is well paid for his time and services, as all others that are employed by the Commissioners.

However, I believe I should direct my remarks to the Commissioners for which I believe I know the responsibility of this governing body. They are elected primarily as custodians of the taxpayers. They propose the commitments and the taxpayers are responsible for all that are adopted.

I believe in the article that appears in the local paper, a $20 fee will be required to deposit family refuse or trash in the various dumpster sites throughout the county. Now, $20 is not that much money, but I will not pay this fee. I have used the dumpsters several times at the location on Bumble Bee Road. In an orderly and limited way, I have always deposited my refuse in the dumpsters. I will dispose of my household refuse on my own property for which I have been paying taxes to the county government for years and I will soon be responsible for more taxes.

In the event this policy may be adopted, I would not be surprised if garbage may be scattered throughout the county. There may have been garbage from outside of the county in the past. However, that will be difficult to control. We will wait and see.

Respectfully,
Hubert A. Friend

To the Editor:

This week is American Education Week. I grew up in the Garrett County school system and had the honor of having many great educators. These teachers played very significant roles in my life and have helped to mold me into the person that I am today. One particular teacher that I would like to publicly thank for his devotion to his career is Mr. Dave Mayfield, a mathematics teacher at Southern Garrett High School.

Mr. Mayfield will always be remembered as my favorite teacher. I remember him as being compassionate and kind, yet very firm in his discipline. He was greatly respected because he showed respect for his students. He never allowed his students to give up or simply "get by." Instead, he encouraged only the best because he always did his best. He truly cared about our futures and tried to prepare us for the real world. It was obvious: he loved his job, and it showed.

Mr. Mayfield, I greatly respect you and thank you. I hope that I am as dynamic of a teacher as you are because I always want to give to my students what you gave to me.

Sincerely,
Jodi Wilt Biehl McHenry

To the Editor:

The April 1 edition of The Nacubuper made my day. I especially appreciate the Sheistmeister-Tinglehop nuptial coverage, and do wonder how your reporter was able to sneak into my ultra-exclusive ceremony. Could have been that uninvited guest in the fake nose and groundhog-size eyebrows, but I thought that was my first husband's second cousin three times removed (after removing him the third time, he stayed removed, thanks to The Club and a big dog.)

For your sequel edition: the forklift operator and I are living happily ever after in Montana (his warrant is only for states east of the Mississippi and he has promised to change his ways. Also his socks, I hope.) We have changed our names as well (wouldn't YOU?) and are now known to citizens and dogs of this farm hamlet as

Yours truly,
Martha and Dan Downing
(thanks again for the guffaws!)

To the Editor:

I thank the 20,000 American servicemen who died in Vietnam under the Nixon regime would roll over in their graves to read your last editorial, "Remember Nixon." You imply his only roll in Vietnam was to remove troops and make peace.

In fact, Nixon was in office for as many years as Johnson during the Vietnam War. Nixon expanded and escalated our disastrous involvement in not only Vietnam, but Cambodia and Laos as well. During his administration, more bombs were dropped and more Vietnamese and Cambodians (many of them innocent) were killed than during Johnson's years. (See the May 1st Washington Post, page A-11).

Forgive if you want to, but don't mislead by editing the facts.

Sincerely,
Susan Haydel

Info On Elder Abuse

The following is the second in a series of articles by Daphne D. Bennear, long term care manager for the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, regarding the various forms of abuse of senior citizens.

Elder Abuse, Be A.W.A.R.E.
by Daphne D. Bennear

Elder abuse happens everywhere and affects everyone. If you are an older person, a caretaker of an older person, or someone who knows an older person, you can be affected by elder abuse in some way, and should be concerned.

"Elder Abuse, Be A.W.A.R.E.," is an awareness campaign sponsored by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging. A.W.A.R.E. is a set of guidelines concerning elder abuse. The directions it represents are:

Ask questions;
Watch for signs of abuse;
Alert authorities if abuse is suspected;
Reassure the victim; and Educate others.

Asking questions and watching for signs of abuse are two very important activities in identifying incidents of elder abuse.

The main reason for asking questions is to facilitate conversation and, in turn, get to know someone better. The best prevention you can offer yourself or someone else against elder abuse is to maintain a good relationship. You may want to ask someone about their past jobs, their family or hobbies. In talking with this person you will gain insight into their personality, their experience, their values, and you can develop a trust that is invaluable.

Getting to know someone's family, contacts and routine can help you recognize potential dangerous situations. If you see any signs of abuse, do not be afraid to ask the elder about them. Open-ended questions, questions that do not limit the answer to a short "yes" or "no" type answer, are best to use. This allows as much communication and information flow as possible. Sometimes signs are false. However, it is better to question than ignore those signs. If you are the older person, do not be afraid to ask someone you trust for their opinion or for help.

Some elderly, those who are confused, in care facilities, or in an abusive situation, may not be able or willing to answer questions. Ask caretakers or family questions if the elder will allow you. It is very important to be sensitive to the feelings of the elder and others involved. There may be fear, anger, resentment, or feelings of inadequacy involved. Don't push issues or demand answers for questions, but if you have a true concern, show it.

To identify signs of abuse, one needs to have an idea of what those signs are. The list below is not a complete list, but a general list of things to note. Also, no one thing on the list means that abuse has taken or will take place. There are always things that we don't know about a particular situation and every situation is different; however, several of these signs together indicate a need for concern in a particular circumstance.

When abuse occurs, both the abused and the abuser display signs of the situation. Signs are relevant physically, environmentally, and behaviorally, depending on the abuse. Some things to pay attention to are: regular physical injuries or frequent hospitalizations; bruises in pattern or in shapes of objects; burns; weight fluctuations; appearance is unclean, is odorous, or infested with vermin; medication is out of date; environment appears inadequate, unclean, or odorous, insufficient utilities; elder unaware of income, expenses, power of attorney, or changes in will; or elder has recent or sudden changes in behavior.

The potential abuse may: keep the elder isolated or leave him alone for an extended time; have recent family crisis, withhold food or medicine, exhibit "doctor hopping" with elder, suddenly appear as caring and concerned when was not there before, have unexplained cash flow, or use drugs or alcohol.

Knowing an elderly person well and knowing what signs to pay attention to can help stop and even prevent elder abuse.

If you have any questions concerning elder abuse, contact the Area Agency on Aging at 334-9431, ext. 142.

THE STORY OF THE MENTAL HEALTH BELL
by Carol Cox

In 1950, the leaders of the National Mental Health Association chose a bell as the organization's symbol, a symbol which people already associated with freedom and liberty. Among those leaders were those intimately familiar with the deplorable and inhumane conditions in the locked state mental hospitals during the 1940's, because they had worked in them as conscientious objectors during World War II.

Others in this newly formed organization knew that although we were halfway through the 20th century, it was only recently that shackles, chains, handcuffs and other barbarous relics of the days when mentally ill patients were treated like criminals had been removed.

There was a need to proclaim to the country that the "Mental Health Movement" of Clifford Beers was responsible for this progress and, more importantly, to proclaim to people with mental illnesses that they had hope for recovery; that there was now a revitalized nationwide army of volunteers fighting for them, for better treatment, for more treatment facilities, for wider research and for more help for the recovered patient.

In 1952 in the lobby of the national headquarters of the Mental Health Association in New York City, the metal restraints were gathered from hundreds of mental hospitals. The scene has been described as looking like a "chamber of horrors" with the large collection pile.

All of these restraints were shipped to the McShane Bell Foundry in Baltimore where they were dropped into a crucible and cast into a 300-pound bell.

Nothing could proclaim hope for those who have mental illnesses more dramatically than this bell cast from the actual chains and shackles used as restraints. The bell bears the following inscription:

"Cast from shackles which bound them, this bell shall ring out hope for the mentally ill and the victory over mental illness."

The bell has been rung on countless occasions to mark the continued progress in the mental health movement. We ring the bell with pride in our past history of achievements, with confidence in our present actions, and with hope in the promise of a future when we shall witness "victory over mental illness."

Flowers for Mother's Day

One of life's annual rituals consists in my giving my mother a quantity of geraniums each Mother's Day. I do not recall when I did this, but long enough ago for it to have become a tradition. The holiday coincides with the burgeoning of flowers, trees and shrubs. It is appropriate to think of our mothers at the time each year when nature busily prepares to give birth yet again.

Forsythia and daffodils have displayed their glory and now decline. Lilacs open their blooms, purple and white. Flowers signify mothering to us. They are so beautiful, but the beauty cannot be grasped or possessed. It is there, and then suddenly after a rain or after prolonged heat the flowers depart, not to return for another year. The flower promises fruit, but for the fruit to develop, the flower must fade.

Robert Frost captured this quality of beauty fraught with its own demise in his poem "Flower-Gathering." One person leaves another, and then returns. The person left stands with flowers waiting for the return. Frost does not tell us the age or gender of either person or how long the one waited for the other.

"I left you in the morning,
And in the morning glow
You walked a way beside me
To make me sad to go.
Do you know me in the gloaming,
Gaunt and dusty gray with roaming?
Are you dumb because you know me not,
Or dumb because you know?"
"All for me? And not a question
For the faded flowers gay
That could take me from beside you for the ages of a day?
They are yours, and be the measure
Of their worth for you to treasure,
The measure of the little while
That I've been long away."

Since the poet did not tell us who the two persons are, we may imagine them to be a mother who sees off her child, and then awaits his return. It could be a specific scene, such as the first day of school, but it describes the general relationship of mothers to their children.

A mother walks a way beside her child, but then must let him go roaming as he will through the world. She must let go, and not interfere in order for the child to become an adult, fully mature. The flower must fade for the fruit to develop. The image of the mother standing there, waiting, waiting for her child's return is poignant enough.

But she is holding flowers, emblem of her love and devotion. Therein is her pain, for she must let the flowers fade even while holding them in her hand. She stands ready to offer love and devotion, but as long as her child has strength to roam she must feel the wilting of her sacrifice. At the moment of the child's return she offers the faded flowers, precious still because they were kept ready all the while.

Those flowers might be a hug and a snack after school, or a favorite supper after a year at college or of military service. They might be the unasking affirmation after failure in what had once seemed an enduring achievement or relationship.

The flowers continue to fade, and the child continues to grow and, after a while, to grow old. In the normal course of events, one day the child removes the faded flowers from her hand, and lays them upon the broken ground of the grave.

Mistress Anne Bradstreet, America's first poet, wrote a poem before the birth of one of her children which tied her death to her child's life.

"All things within this fading world hath end,
Adversity doth still our joys attend;
No ties so strong, no friends so dear and sweet,
but with death's parting blow is sure to meet."

We celebrate our mothers in whose hands the flowers blossom gloriously to our delight. As the flowers fade and as we, children, roam, the gloaming comes on. In the shadow of the day we reunite. A sacrifice of waiting is the mother's gift; gratefully receiving is the child's.

Tourism Development, Arts Council Funding Bills Signed By Governor

Governor William Donald Schaefer has signed into law three bills passed during the 1994 session of the General Assembly that are expected to provide increased funding for tourism promotion and the arts in the future.

"Tourism is a very important contributor to Maryland's economy," said Governor Schaefer. "By signing these bills into law, we are making a highly significant commitment to the future of Maryland's tourism industry."

The Maryland tourism development funding bills, Senate Bill 310/House Bill 421, require the governor to request an additional $3 million annually for tourism promotion in fiscal years 1996, 1997, and 1998. The bills also require the governor to set a base funding request for those three years for the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, part of the Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED), in an amount not less than that proposed for fiscal year 1995.

"The passage of these bills is the most significant accomplishment of Maryland's unified tourism industry," said DEED Secretary Mark L. Wasserman. "The industry convinced the General Assembly that promoting Maryland will not only support the state's growing tourism industry, but will also benefit the Maryland economy."

According to the Office of Tourism Development (OTD), the Maryland tourism industry provides more than 90,000 jobs for Marylanders and generates $350 million in tax revenue. In fiscal year 1993, for every $1 spent on promoting Maryland, $7 in state tax revenue was generated.

The tourism bills were the result of recommendations made by the Maryland Tourism Development Board, established in 1993 by Governor Schaefer to guide the state's tourism marketing and advertising plans. The Board is chaired by ABC sportscaster and Maryland resident Jim McKay.

The Maryland State Arts Council funding bill, House Bill 594, also was signed by Governor Schaefer.

"The arts play a fundamental role in improving our quality of life," said Governor Schaefer. "This bill is a step towards ensuring that the arts continue to be a part of the lives of all Marylanders, whether they live in big cities, small towns, or rural communities."

The Arts Council bill requires the governor, beginning July 1, 1996, to increase future fiscal years' appropriations for the Arts Council by the percentage of growth in overall state revenue over the previous year. In addition, the fiscal year 1995 operating budget for the Arts Council was increased by 30 percent.

The mission of the Maryland State Arts Council is to identify, develop, and sustain artistic excellence wherever it exists within Maryland; to make art of high quality increasingly available to all citizens; and to encourage active and supportive relationships between artists and the public, which is essential to the cultural and economic development of the state.

Garrett Memorial To Celebrate Nat'l Hospital Week

National Hospital Week Stresses "Miracles" of Medicine.

"Where Miracles Happen Every Day" is the theme of the 1994 National Hospital Week celebration, exploring the relationship between medicine and the miraculous events that are a routine part of hospital life. The week will be observed May 8-14.

"Miracles happen so frequently in a hospital, it's easy to see them as mundane occurrences," said Benjamin Rosenthal, president of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. "In 1994, we're helping everyone in our facility remember that when a child is born, or an infection is cured, or a broken bone mends, we've been a small part of a very large miracle."

The slogan "Where Miracles Happen Every Day" will be a prominent part of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital celebration of the week. National Hospital Week was initiated in 1921 by a magazine editor who, concerned about the public's uncertainty of what to expect when going to a hospital, started a community awareness campaign regarding the function of medical facilities. Every year, National Hospital Week is scheduled for the Sunday through Saturday surrounding May 12, birthdate of nursing pioneer Florence Nightingale.

In coordination with National Hospital Week, Garrett Memorial will participate in the 100th anniversary celebration of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. At the fire department's Sunday, May 15, open house, Garrett Memorial, in cooperation with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, will provide "Kinderprints" to all children ages three years of age and up as a free community service.

"National Hospital Week is a special time that gives us an opportunity to show our appreciation to the dedicated men and women who help bring about the miracles that occur everyday in hospitals across the nation as this year's theme indicates," Rosenthal said. "At Garrett Memorial, we thank our committed and caring staff for their devotion to our patients, our cause, and our hospital."

The British Are Coming!

by Dave Spirk

The British are coming! The British are coming!

Don't panic! this isn't an invasion. It's simply a statement of fact that the Mountaintop Soccer Association has invited the British coaches of North American Soccer Camps (NASC) to Garrett County to conduct one week of soccer instruction for the youth of our area.

The camp will be held from August 1-6. Assuming sufficient enrollment, camps are planned for both the northern and southern regions of the county.

Sign-ups will be conducted this Saturday, May 7, at Dennett Road Elementary School and at Northern High School from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. This will also be the first opportunity to sign-up youngsters for the fall season.

The price for the camp is $88. All campers receive three hours of instruction per day, a camp jersey, and a ball. This is a great value when you compare it to the cost of resident camps held at various universities throughout the U.S., which range in price up to $450. The camp is open to boys and girls from ages 5 through 18. Scholarships are available to those with a financial need and discounts apply to multiple enrollments from the same family.

With the World Cup coming this year and Olympic Soccer again in 1996, now is the perfect time for youngsters to explore the world's most popular team sport. MSA chose to sponsor the NASC camp as a result of its commitment to developmental soccer throughout the entire county. MSA President Carol Ann Lovett said, "NASC spends approximately $50,000 annually on the recruitment and training of the top player coaches the United Kingdom has to offer. The result is a comprehensive soccer curriculum designed to bring out the best in the individual player, from the beginner to the advanced."

MSA Camp Director Karen Spirk has coordinated NASC camps before in Texas and Pennsylvania. She commented, "The quality of the training has been outstanding. In our previous camps, NASC sent some of the finest young gentlemen we have ever met who genuinely care about sharing their passion for this great game with American youth. The improvement experienced by the kids who participate is just incredible. Come this fall, it will be easy to tell the difference between the kids who were able to attend camp and those who have never been to one. It's also a lot of fun for parents when they have their own shot at a free training class during an evening session. This helps us all understand a little better the difficulty our players have at sticking that little ball into that huge net!"

So maybe it is an invasion . . . a soccer invasion! For more information, brochures will be available at both sign-up locations this Saturday. Or interested parties may call Karen Spirk at 387-8039.

State Seeking Cycling Advisor

The Maryland Bicycle Advisory Committee (BAC), a statewide panel appointed by Governor William Donald Schaefer, is searching for a new member. The successful candidate will replace Dr. L. Louis Mould, M.D., of Cumberland, who served as the BAC's representative for western Maryland. Governor Schaefer is expected to appoint a new committee member this summer.

The BAC was created by Governor Schaefer in April 1993 to promote educational programs and safe bicycling facilities for bicycle commuters and recreation cyclists in Maryland. Representatives of state agencies and regional cycling advocates have formed a 13-member committee that meets six times a year. Committee members are also responsible for leadership of several subcommittees that work throughout the year on bicycle-related issues.

Participating agencies include the Department of Transportation, Department of Education, Maryland State Police, Department of Employment and Economic Development, Department of Health and Hygiene, and the Department of Natural Resources. Citizen advocates represent cyclists in the Baltimore metropolitan area, the Eastern Shore, western Maryland, southern Maryland, and the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area.

The ideal candidate will demonstrate a strong knowledge of bicycling issues in western Maryland, and a commitment to improving bicycle facilities and educational programs across the state. Applications will be accepted until June 1 and should be send to: Stephen Kaiser, Chairman, Maryland Bicycle Advisory Committee, c/o Kaiser Associates, Meadow Mill at Woodberry, 3600 Clipper Mill Road, Baltimore MD 21211. Applicants may call (410) 333-1145 for more information about the BAC and its activities.

Soccer Assoc. Registration Is Saturday

Local youth soccer players and their parents are reminded that registration for the fall season of the Mountaintop Soccer Association Youth Recreation League will be held this Saturday, May 7, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Dennett Road School and Northern High School.

The fee to register a player is $15 before June 25 and $25 after that date. Shin guards and goalkeepers' gloves will be on sale at the registration sites.

For more information about the registration, persons in the northern area of the county may call Sandi Flockhart at 387-7585, and those in the southern area of the county may call Jan Finkel at 387-5488.

Soccer Coaching Clinic Scheduled

The Mountaintop Soccer Association will host a coaching clinic on May 21-22 at the Southern Middle School soccer fields. The clinic, which will be directed by Graham Ramsay, Maryland State Youth Soccer Association director of education and training, will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Participants completing the clinic will be earn the E license, which is geared toward coaching youth ages 9-12. The course will cover skills development, the introduction of simple tactical ideas, and basic management and preparation of a team. No prior soccer coaching experience is needed.

Individuals who are planning to coach in the MSA recreation league this fall are strongly urged by MSA officials to participate in this clinic. There is no enrollment fee.

"We are very fortunate to have Graham Ramsay return to Oakland to direct this clinic," stated MSA president, Carole Ann Lovett.

Ramsay, a former resident of Great Britain, was the first Maryland resident to become an A-licensed coach, which is the highest coaching certification recognized by the U.S. Soccer Federation. A-licensed coaches work mostly at the collegiate level or are involved in the Olympics Development Program.

"In addition to being a soccer 'guru', Ramsay is also a terrific human being," Lovett said. "Participants in his E-level course last year thoroughly enjoyed his company, his stories, and his teaching style."

Participants are asked to bring their own soccer balls, notebook and pens, soccer shoes or sneakers, towel, t-shirt, warm-up suit, and a packed lunch, as the group often watches a video tape during lunch.

To register for the course, persons should call Tom Peterson at 334-8367.

Somerset County Speedway

The fifth season of racing began at the Somerset County Speedway, in Meyersdale, Pa., on Friday night. Heavy showers were all around but the Meyersdale area was spared the downpours. Fifty eight cars began the season with 51 Strictly Stocks and seven Pure Stocks in the pits.

The first trophies awarded for the night went to the best looking cars. All three winners were from Maryland. First place honors went to Denny Rounds in car #57. Number 93, Rodney Youmans, took second while Gene Moats in Car #90 took home the third-place trophy.

Jim Kemp from Confluence, Pa., battled with Tom Humberson before taking the first heat of the evening. The second heat had Joe Donaldson, from Meyersdale, in pole position and he never looked back during the 10 lapper.

The third heat was action packed as Brad Dickey in car #10 and Rookie Vince Smith, from Confluence, battled it out before Smith took the checkered. Heat four went to Duane Horning, from Meyersdale, as he led from pole to pole. The consolation event went to Nelson Bailey, from Berlin, Pa., in the Strictly Stock Class.

A new class was added at the speedway this year and it is called the Pure Stocks. The drivers can do a little more to their engines and also run up to a 10½ inch tire. The winner of the Pure Stock heat went to #53 Robert Porter.

The "C" Main was won by Denny Rounds in car #57. He was followed by Len Livengood, Henry Bockes, Charlie Phillippi and Ben Ansell. The "B" Main was led by Kevin Sanner before Doug Barclay, from Somerset, took the lead in the 10th and went on to take the checkered. Barclay was followed by Joe Ruskey, Kevin Sanner, Ed Kemp, Eric Paugh, Roger McKenzie, Doug Shaffer, Greg Cornell, Terry Mitchell Jr., Kevin Bender, Roger Baughman, and Jack Dively.

In the "A" Main Jim Sayler, from Meyersdale, took the lead in the second lap and continued on to take the checkered. Jim Kemp in car #37 made a race out of it as he followed closely in Sayler's tracks. They were followed by Bob Smith, Tom Humberson, Brian Taylor, Joe Donaldson, Rodger Stephens, Roger Shaulis, Bob Davis, Dale A. Miller, Dale Wilt, Vince Smith, Brad Dickey, Duane Horning, Mike Barndt, Craig Breegle, and Nelson Bailey.

The Pure Stock Class is run under the caution. Before one lap was completed, the caution came out. Several other delays and accidents resulted in several cars being towed into the pits. Doug Shaffer from Somerset battled it out with Jeff Nicholson in second. Shaffer took the lead in the 13th and held that position until the race was concluded. He was followed by Jeff Nicholson and Gene Moats.

All feature winners were able to take home trophies sponsored by Maple City Tire in Meyersdale. The point fund which benefits the drivers was also boosted by a donation from Tressler Oil Company in Confluence. Racing will resume on Friday, May 6th. The green flag drops at 7:30 p.m.

Cumberland Raceway

Rain and lightening started at the Cumberland Raceway as the gates opened at 4:30 p.m. Promoter Ben Evans held out through several downpours, but had to cancel at 6:30 p.m. The stands were packed and there was a great field of cars in the pits with rain all around the area.

Saturday, May 7, will be the season opener for the Hamilton Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge and Jeep Eagle, of Keyser, W.Va., and A.R.C.H. Fan Club Night. Hamilton will give a bonus to the Late Models, Semilates and Pure Stock feature winners, and door prizes to the fans. One lucky patron will win a 19-inch color T.V. Hamilton is proud to be a sponsor of the Semilates each week. There will a $100 bonus for the Semilate winner and $25 bonus for the second and third place finisher. Normal payoff for the winner of the feature is $500, but with the bonus from Hamilton, the winner will receive $600 this week.

The Late Models this year are sponsored by Ponderosa, "America's Family Steakhouse," on Winchester Road, LaVale. A $100 bonus each week will go to the winner. "The Gang" and Lambert's Auto Service will also give a bonus each week. The Late Models could race for $1,000 for the win.

Cumberland is still looking for a weekly sponsor for the Pure Stocks. Even with rain there were 27 Pure Stocks in the pits. Cumberland runs a 15-lap Pure Stock feature each week with $200 to win. May 7 will be $300 with the Hamilton bonus.

Cumberland Raceway has a Jr. Fan Club Racing School held at the track each week. It is sponsored by Mitch and Brenda Buckley, of Buckley Towing, Cumberland. In the Jr. Fan Club's second year, each week a member's name is drawn and he/she receives a T-shirt, hat, trophy and a gift certificate from McDonald's and a ride around the track in the pace car. Members must be between the ages of 6 and 12 and be signed up at the track.

Cumberland Raceway bumper stickers are an sale for $1. All money goes to the Drivers' Point Fund. Each week a number is picked. Everyone in the car with that number on the bumper sticker will be admitted FREE.

Face fans can buy a 50-50 ticket and/or a chance to win a three-day round-trip to the Darlington Raceway. The trip is sponsored by Western Maryland Distributers and Bob Gornall.

Former Winston Cup champion Benny Parsons will be a guest at the Cumberland Raceway on July 30, sponsored by Miller Genuine Draft, Western Maryland Beer Distributers and When Pigs Fly.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Visiting victory land at the Interstate 79 Speedway on Friday night were Dave Groves, Jerry Haseleu, Hubie Hatfield, Jim Byers, and Hayward Baker as the rains held off until the last checkered flag was waving.

The 25-lap late model feature found Chuck Harper putting pressure on early leader Doug Horton. However, Dave Groves was sitting in the third position watching the battle and planning his move. On lap 15, Groves decided it was time to go and he took the lead and pulled away from the pack to win his first late model feature of the 1994 season. Harper held on for the second spot followed by Frank Wilson, Horton, and Denny Chamberlain. Rounding out the top 10 were Chub Frank, Henry Hornsby, Chuck Howdershelt, Rod Rovello, and Mike Hawkins. Heat winners were Wilson and Hornsby.

Jerry Haseleu made it two in a row as he seems to have command of the Semilate field. Scott Miles chased Haseleu to the line with Steve Booth in third. Haseleu and Danny Hamrick took the heat wins.

A very large UMP Modified class found Hubie Hatfield taking the checkered flag after he ran away from the remainder of the field. Donnie Garrett and Steve Cooke were the real race for the second and third finishing positions. Hatfield, Gary Dilley, and Rusty Jones picked up heat wins and Mark Looney won the consy.

The scariest moment of the night came during the Pure Stock feature when Jim Bendishaw seemed to have an engine expire as the smoke poured from the car. At that moment the whole car erupted into flames. Bendishaw steered the car into the infield where he escaped from the inferno through the right side window. He suffered minor burns on his hands and nose and was transported to a local hospital. Two Pennsylvanians had to battle for the win as Jim Byers, of McClellandtown, and Jimmy Shaffer, of Smithfield, finished in the top spots. Steve Tarnowski finished third. Prelims went to Dan Staggers, Shaffer, and Byers.

Mike Lewis won the 4-Cylinder Stock feature but was disqualified when he would not sell his engine after being claimed by another competitor. The win then went to Hayward Baker. Jim Hunt followed Baker across the line. Heat wins went to Lewis and John Groves.

Race fans will have an opportunity to meet their favorite drivers next week as I-79 will have Autograph and Picture Night. Drivers from all divisions will meet with the fans during intermission. Gates open at 6:00 p.m. with racing action at 8:00 p.m.

Elkins Motor Speedway

Racing scheduled for Saturday, April 30, and Sunday, May 1, was rained out. Trophy Night sponsored by Teter Motors in celebration of their 50th Anniversary has been rescheduled for Saturday, May 7. Gates open at 5:00 p.m. and racing starts at 7:00 p.m. All tickets purchased for the rained-out event will be honored.

Rams Still Number One; Roll Over Lions, Vikings

The Southern High Rams strengthened their grip on first place in area high school baseball rankings this week by crushing visiting Tucker County last Thursday afternoon, 18-4, and then recording a big 8-2 win over a strong Petersburg team on Monday, also in Oakland.

The victories give Coach Jim Bosley's team a 12-0 mark, which they were slated to put on the line yesterday against Bishop Walsh, but that game was postponed because of rain.

Freshman Seth Tressler paced the Rams over Tucker County last Thursday by firing a two-hitter and striking out 10 from the mound, and going three-for-three at the plate with a towering home run and two singles that yielded a pair of runs. Rich Warnick also homered and singled for three RBI.

The Rams' big innings were the third and the fifth when they scored six and 11 runs, respectively.

All four of the Mountain Lions' runs were unearned.

The Rams wasted no time putting runs on the board against the fourth-ranked Petersburg Vikings on Monday, as they recorded four in the first inning. Five of their eight runs on the day were unearned.

Matt Newcomb and Josh Woods opened the first with back-to-back singles and Jeremy Fitzwater reached on an error. Newcomb came home on a wild pitch to open the scoring and then Mark Dawson singled home Woods. Fitzwater and Dawson scored later in the inning on wild pitches to put the Rams up 4-0.

The Rams added two more runs in the bottom of the second and two in the fifth before the Vikings tried to rally in the final inning, but managed just two runs.

Mark Elliott went the distance for the Rams, holding the Vikes scoreless until the seventh, striking out 12 batters, and walking four. The win upped his personal mark to 3-0.

Courtney Cooper and Johnny Berg each singled twice for the Vikings (14-5), while Brian Mohr doubled home both of his team's runs in the seventh.

Dawson finished with two singles for two RBI to lead the Ram offense.

The Rams are scheduled to make up a game this Saturday at 11 a.m. at home against Allegany and then play Hampshire the same day at 2 p.m., after which the Southern jayvees will host the Hampshire junior varsity.

The varsity will play at Northern on Monday.

Southern Jayvees Sweep Fort Hill

The Southern High junior varsity baseball team improved its season mark to 8-1 Friday afternoon at home by topping Fort Hill in both ends of a doubleheader, 10-3 and 3-2.

Jamie Bernard rapped a solo homer, while Scott Shahan added a two-run single for the Rams in the first game. The Sentinels aided the Rams' cause by committing seven errors and giving up six walks.

Kris Upole went the distance on the mound for the Rams and allowed only four hits, including doubles by Darron Jones and Eddie Blizzard.

All three of the Rams' runs in the second game were unearned, as the first was recorded on a balk, the second on a bases-loaded walk, and the third on a wild pitch. Southern had only three hits in the game, with two of them being bunt singles.

Bizzy Tasker retired the last seven Fort Hill batters to preserve the win for starter Mike Welch.

Ryan Alam tripled and singled to account for two of the Sentinels' hits.

The Rams will host Beall on Friday at 4 p.m. and then entertain the Hampshire jayvees on Saturday following the varsity's 2 p.m. game.

NHS Jayvees Fall To Alco

The Northern High junior varsity baseball team saw its record fall to 2-5 Saturday afternoon in losing a doubleheader to host Allegany, 13-5 and 5-1.

Chad Ricker homered and singled for the Campers in the first game, while Steve Kline and Colby Ellsworth each singled twice.

The Huskies managed just one hit off Ellsworth in the first four innings before Kline relieved him. Umbel and Mitchell each doubled for Northern.

Brandon McFawn rapped a two-run double for Allegany (10-2) in the second game and Ricker allowed only two hits.

The Huskies were scheduled to play at Beall yesterday, but the game was postponed because of foul weather conditions.

Huskies Fall To Mt. Savage, But Rebound To Top Aggies

The Northern Huskies split a pair of baseball games this past week, losing to host Mount Savage last Thursday, 7-3, and then topping Flintstone on Monday, 8-1, on the Aggies' diamond.

The split left Coach Phil Carr's team with an 11-4 record. The Huskies were scheduled to play at Beall yesterday, but the game was postponed because of rain. They are slated to host Mt. Savage this afternoon, play at Flintstone this Friday, and then host Southern Monday.

The Huskies trailed 2-0 at the end of the first inning and were on top 3-2 after four and one-half innings, but the second-ranked Indians recorded five runs in the bottom of the fifth to put the game away.

Jim Goebel and Jody Mallow had back-to-back triples in the inning and Tim Burkett added a run-producing single. Mallow scored the fifth run of the inning on an overthrow.

The Huskies out-hit the Indians, 10-7, with Derek Mason finishing with a home run and a single. Chris Wright and Bob Fritz each singled twice.

Mark Jewell, who struck out seven batters in five innings, was credited with the win on the mound over Rob Speicher. Jeremy Kennell earned the save by pitching the final two innings for Mt. Savage. The win improved the Indians' record to 10-1.

Aaron Blocher upped his personal mark to 5-1 with his win over Flintstone on Monday. He gave up six hits in four scoreless innings before giving way to relievers Jeremy Brenneman and Danny Butler.

Meanwhile, the Northern offense scored two runs each in the first, second, and fourth innings to take a 6-0 lead. Brad Williams sent home a pair of runs with a double and a single. Brian Heslop had two run producing singles, and Ryan Folk doubled and singled.

Richard Haines recorded the only extra-base hit on the afternoon for Flintstone with a double.

Food For Thought

Chef Francesco Pisano
McClive's Restaurant

High starch baking potatoes turn into rich mashed potatoes (better than boiling potatoes, which may seem watery.) Even better are Yukon Gold potatoes that taste buttery even before you add butter.

What could be better than anchovy in Caesar salad? Try it with smoked salmon and decide.

Tomato paste not only concentrates the flavor of tomatoes, it concentrates their nutrients, too. Tomato paste has twice as much beta carotene as the tomato itself.

Marinate raw shrimp (shelled and deveined) in bottled Italian dressing plus chopped dill and hot red pepper to taste. Then simmer shrimp in the marinade about 3 minutes, turning once. Chill. Serve on picks.

Any kind of cookie is more special when its dipped into chocolate. Melt a cup of semi-sweet chocolate chips with 1 Tbs. shortening over low heat, stirring constantly. Dip half of each cookie, then place on cookie sheet lined with waxed paper. Chill until set.

Local Athletes At FSU Named To Honor Roll

Two local student athletes at Frostburg State University were recently named to the Maryland Association of College Directors of Athletics (MACDA) Honor Roll for the 1993 fall semester.

MACDA recognizes student athletes who have achieved a grade point average of at least 3.0 for the semester.

Garrett County athletes named to the roll were sophomore Nikki Brown, Mtn. Lake Park, and sophomore Dawn Scheffel, Oakland. Both are graduates of Southern High School.

Miss Brown, who is on the FSU women's tennis team, was one of only nine FSU athletes who earned perfect 4.0 averages.

Miss Scheffel is a member of the women's swim team.

One hundred and one, or 32 percent, of all the student athletes at Frostburg State, were named to the honor roll.

Lakers Conclude Regular Season, Lead Hawks In Playoff Game

The Garrett Community College Lakers concluded their regular season this past week with two wins in five games, and are presently leading Hagerstown Junior College in their first Region XX Tournament game, 4-2, but the contest was halted Tuesday after five innings because of rain and has yet to be resumed.

The Lakers were edged by Allegany Community College last Thursday, 11-10, in McHenry, defeated the Jaycees of West Virginia Wesleyan Friday, 10-6, also at GCC, fell to visiting Anne Arundel CC on Saturday, 8-2, and then split a doubleheader with nationally ranked Montgomery-Rockville Sunday, dropping the first game in extra innings, 4-3, but winning the nightcap, 8-6. The results left the Lakers with a 24-13 regular season under first-year coach Ed Wildesen.

The Lakers were set to defeat the powerful Trojans of ACC for the second time this season last Thursday, until Troy Englehart smacked a two-run homer in the top of the ninth to give ACC its 30th victory of the season.

The Lakers' big inning was the fifth when they recorded seven runs to take a 7-3 lead. The Lakers' outhit the Trojans, 14-10.

Shannon McKenzie set up ACC's ninth inning rally by reaching on a ball misplayed by the Lakers, after which Englehart hit his game-winning home run.

Shane Calaman, who took the mound in the sixth inning, was credited with the win over GCC reliever Mike Pertko.

Chris Swaney had a big day at the plate for the Lakers on Friday, as he drove in three runs with three singles and also scored three times.

Garrett put runs on the board in each of the first six innings and finished with 12 hits. Joe Pecarro singled twice to send home three runs, Jamethro Rogers rapped a double and a single and scored twice, and Deron Godby singled three times for one RBI.

Wesleyan finished with 10 hits off winner Jason Fitch, who went the distance for the Lakers, striking out 10. The visitors' best inning was the seventh when they scored four runs.

The rigorous schedule of late because of a number of postponed games seemed to begin taking its toll on the Lakers by Saturday, as they seemed flat against Anne Arundel.

The visitors scored all the runs they would need (three) in the first inning and led 5-0 until the bottom of the filth when Garrett finally put two runs on the board.

Lakers Conclude

Mark Spiegel paced Anne Arundel's offense with two doubles and two RBI, while Eric Duroches singled twice for a pair of runs. Tony Everett singled three times and Peter Scott added a double and single for two RBI.

Godby and John Colantuono each singled twice for the Lakers and Hakim Edwards hit a run-producing double.

Derrick Griffith, one of GCC's top pitchers, went the distance, but did not have a good day, as he yielded 13 hits.

The outing was intended to be a doubleheader, but the second game was cancelled because of rain.

On Sunday the Lakers nearly pulled off a sweep of powerful Montgomery-Rockville, a team they had beaten twice just the previous week.

Garrett led 3-1 going into the seventh inning of the first game, but the contest was forced into extra innings when Rockville's Johnny Casstevens tied the score with his two-run homer.

Bill Wilcox pitched all 10 innings for the Lakers without giving up a single walk, and three of the four runs scored against him were unearned, including the winning run in the 10th.

Justin Kreider also stayed on the mound for Rockville to record the win.

Aaron Cook and Sam Alvaro each had two hits for the Lakers, while Swaney added a double.

Matt Moore doubled and singled for Rockville, Casstevens had a single to go with his home run, and Jason Hartman was also two-for-four in the first game.

Cook also went two-for-four in the second game with a single and a triple for two RBI, while Godby also finished with two hits and two RBI.

The Lakers were down 6-5 going into the fourth inning, but took the lead for good in that frame with a three-run effort. Rogers drew a walk to lead off the inning and then came home on a triple by Cook. Then Cook came home on a single by Chadley Miller to give the Lakers the lead.

Miller gave the Lakers their insurance run when he came home on a single by Godby.

The Lakers had only one day of rest before beginning their bid for a Region XX title on Tuesday at home against the Hawks of Hagerstown Junior College.

The Lakers were up 4-2 before the game had to be called after five innings. Playoff regulations call for complete nine-inning games, so the contest is slated to resume at 4 p.m. this afternoon, weather permitting.

The second round of the Region XX tourney was tentatively slated to begin Friday.

Northern Girls Win First Three Softball Games

After dropping their first eight games, the Northern High School girls' softball team got on track this week by whipping a strong Preston County team in both ends of a doubleheader on Saturday, 12-8 and 15-6, at the Cove, and then crushing Salisbury on Tuesday, 11-1, also on the Huskies' diamond.

The Preston Knights came into Saturday's contest with a 10-2 record, but Kristin Heslop led the Northern offense with five hits on the day, while outfielders Michelle McCarty and Ruth Beachy provided strong defensive efforts.

Heslop doubled and singled twice in the first game, while Ellida Schofield, Kelly Durst, and Heidi Martin each singled twice.

In the second game, Amy Platter smacked a double and a pair of singles, while Heslop doubled and singled and Durst singled twice.

Durst improved her pitching record to 2-3 with her complete-game win over Salisbury on Tuesday. Offensively, she contributed a triple and a single to send home three runs.

The big inning for the Huskies was the fourth when they scored six runs behind two-run singles by April Hutchinson and Schofield, who also performed well defensively.

Platter also excelled defensively from her catcher's position, as she threw out three runners attempting to steal.

The Huskies were slated to host the Southern Rams yesterday in a doubleheader, but the contest had to be postponed because of rainy weather.

Northern Boys Edged By Beall, Blank Hyndman

The Northern High School boys' tennis team dropped a 4-3 decision to visiting Beall last Thursday, then rebounded for an easy 7-0 win over Hyndman on Monday, also on the Huskies' courts.

Sean and Shad Wachter and Eduardo Maggiolo all won in singles for the Huskies against Beall, while Rob Pusey and Jin Oh were singles winners for the Mountaineers. It was the Beall doubles teams of Bill Boyer and Richard Stanley, and Pusey and Oh that put the visiting team on top for good.

The win upped the Mountaineers' season mark to 3-4.

Pete Forno, the Wachters, Eric Lapp, and Andy Weimer all won in singles for the Huskies against Hyndman. The teams of Forno and Sean Wachter, and Weimer and Shane Campbell won in doubles to shut out the Yellow Jackets.

The split left the Huskies with a 6-7 record. They were slated to host Southern, but rainy weather forced postponement of the match.

Andrew Works Now On Display; Reception Slated

The Bausch & Lomb Gallery at Garrett Community College will display the works of Maryland Artist Dolores M. Andrew from May 7 through May 28.

The exhibit will feature Maryland scenes, with recent works from Garrett County in a variety of media, including pen and ink, watercolor and pastel. "Her work is basically that of a realist with a crisp, understated style," stated one critic. "It is detailed and accurate with an air of preciseness, but avoids being stilted or rigid. In a different mode, her loosely drawn line work shows her interest in the character and mood created by economy of line."

Ms. Andrew received a bachelor of fine arts degree from Syracuse University and a master of fine arts degree from Maryland Institute College of Art. She is an associate professor of art at Essex Community College in Baltimore County, teaches continuing education courses for Goucher College and, for many years, has been on the summer faculty at The Rehoboth Art League in Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Recent exhibits of her work have included a solo show at The Gibson Island Club in Gibson Island, and as part of a four person show at The Academy of the Arts in Easton. Her work has been accepted in juried art shows all over the country, including the National show of the Maryland Pastel Society, the Scenic River Days show in Reading, Pa., and the Miniature Society Show in Billings, Mont.

In addition to her work in watercolor and the drawing media, Ms. Andrew is a designer of needlework. She works in several embroidery media, but favors the surface techniques, especially crewel, pulled thread, and silk. Often her designs are translations of her fine art work to the stitchery medium.

She has been certified by the National Academy of Needlearts (NAN) as a teacher at the Honors level and as a judge in the needlework field. For the past six years she has served NAN as the director of judging certification. She is the author of two books in the needlework field -- Italian Renaissance Textile Designs, and Medieval Tapestry Designs.

A reception for the artist will be held this Saturday, May 7, from 8 to 10 p.m. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., evenings and weekends during special events. The public is welcome.

River Clean-Up

ville. Other volunteers with rafts or boats will clean from the I-68 bridge to Friendsville Town Park. The coordinators of the cleanup stress that the river only, and not the banks, will be cleaned, unless property owners contact them to request the banks be cleaned.

Dumpsters or containers will be located in the Mountain Surf parking lot and at Friendsville Town Park. Entertainment will be provided for the participants, following the cleanup, at the town park, and non-alcoholic beverages will be donated by Bob Lohr.

Goals of the 1994 National River Cleanup Week include removing tons of trash and debris from more than 15,000 miles of waterways. Encouraging public involvement in the stewardship of river resources and fostering better working relationships between local groups are other benefits of the effort. More than 40,000 volunteers are expected to participate nationwide.

"This is...a great community project where the benefits are immediately shared by all," said David Brown, coordinator of National River Cleanup Week. "Collecting trash along riverbanks is an excellent way for people to learn about sources of pollution and other threats to riparian environments, and it's a chance to focus public attention on these problems in individual communities."

Those interested in volunteering for the local cleanup, or property owners who would like their banks cleaned, are encouraged to call John or Bill at 746-5389 for more information.

Equip. Stolen

pans were damaged, as was the gas stove. An electric heater was left on and was destroyed. Several small items were missing, including various tools.

The loss in the case was initially set at $500. The sheriff's office detectives have linked the incident to a similar one in the area for which an arrest was made in March, according to the report.

An 150-foot custom-made rope was stolen last Friday from Edwin Evans, Aurora, W.Va. Evans had been hired by Victor Nazelrod, Oakland, to cut a tall pine tree in Nazelrod's yard. Evans had attached the rope to the top of the pine and it was hanging down approximately 45 feet. The rest of the rope was coiled in a plastic bag on the ground. It was left unattended from 9:30 a.m. until noon, and when Evans returned, he found that someone had cut the rope at about seven feet from the ground, leaving the remaining piece still hanging in the tree.

The rope had been specially-made for Evans. It had an orange filament running along the entire length. The loss was estimated to be $250.

James Taylor, Oakland, contacted the sheriff's office to report the theft of 11 Colorado blue spruce trees. Taylor operates a tree farm on Kempton Road, and recently discovered that the trees had been removed. He told officers that the theft must have occurred sometime between November 1993 and last week.

The trees, each about six to seven feet, had been dug up and removed. They are worth about $20 each, with the total loss being $220.

A case of breaking, entering, and theft was reported by a Mountain Lake Park woman. Bonnie S. Wiles contacted the sheriff's office on April 28. Sometime between 1 p.m. on April 26 and 10 a.m. on April 28, unknown suspects broke into Wiles's Oakland apartment, from which she is in the process of moving.

Items stolen included a cassette radio, lamp, nine video tapes, Christmas ornaments, various necklaces, and some medication. The suspects forcefully entered the apartment, according to the report. The loss was estimated at $130.

A Kitzmiller man reported a case of property damage last week. John W. Barnhouse told officers that about two weeks ago he noticed a scratch on the hood of his 1986 Pontiac Fiero. He suspected that the damage was done while his car was parked at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, where he is employed.

The cost to repair the vehicle has been estimated at $300, according to the report. There are no suspects in the case.

Letters

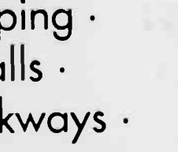
Mental illnesses have been grossly neglected and misunderstood for far too long. Costs of depression alone rank the disease among other major health concerns such as coronary heart disease ($43 billion) and AIDS ($66 billion).

The business community and others concerned about the costs of providing non-discriminatory, mental health coverage should take a closer look at the true cost to business for not covering mental health care. For example, of the $44 billion spent on clinical depression in this country, more than half is borne by employers. Recent studies show that employers are paying $3,000 per depressed employee through lost days on the job, low worker productivity, hospitalization and even suicide.



These are facts which cannot be ignored:

- of the 12 million Americans who have clinical depression, 72 percent are in the work place.
- depression strikes during a person's most productive years – between the ages of 25 and 44.
- depression ranks as one of the five top health problems seen by Employee Assistance Programs.

We should be looking at ways to reduce the costs of mental illnesses rather than debating about whether or not we can afford them. We're already paying the price for not covering mental health care for all Americans.

Respectfully,
Carol L. Cox

stet docket. The charge resulted from a Jan. 9 incident with Margaret M. Morgan.

Two Morgantown, W.Va., men were found guilty of possession of CDS and fined by Judge Burnett last week.

Harry J. McMahon, 19, and John P. Burns, 19, were each found guilty of that charge and sentenced to 30 days in jail, with all being suspended except 48 hours. McMahon was also found guilty of CDS paraphernalia possession with intent to use, and fined $150. An additional charge of petty theft against him was not prosecuted. Burns was not prosecuted on the CDS paraphernalia charge. Both men were placed on one year of unsupervised probation for the offenses.

Burns and McMahon were arrested Jan. 21 at the Wisp Resort after they were found to be in possession of a snow board belonging to Jessica Bolden. While being questioned about the snow board, state police officers observed a burned marijuana cigarette in Burns' vehicle. A subsequent search also revealed 3.5 grams of marijuana in the vehicle and two marijuana pipes, resulting in their arrests.

William S. Young, 20, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on one count of CDS possession; one count of CDS possession with intent to manufacture, distribute and dispense; one count of CDS paraphernalia use; one count of maintaining a common nuisance (on the White Rock Crosscut Road, Friendsville), for illegal manufacture and storage of CDS; and one count of conspiracy, in Judge Stakem's court.

Young had been charged with conspiring with Kathy J. Harding on the offenses after the MSP Drug Enforcement Division and other officers executed a search warrant, Nov. 3, 1993, at a residence on the White Rock Crosscut Road and at a residence in Friendsville. Court records indicate DEUTA, Allegany County Sheriff Department's drug detection dog found 27 marijuana stalks with roots in the attic, and officers found three gram scales, and 100 grams of marijuana in baggies.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Burnett for a Mtn. Lake Park woman who was found guilty on 10 worthless check charges that occurred over a several-month period. Three charges of petty theft, resulting from the worthless check offenses, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

DWI CASES

Several violation of probation cases were reviewed in recent district court proceedings. Included in the violation offenses were Geoffrey Roger Zurgable, 46, Oakland; Randy Warner Nazelrod, 29, Friendsville; Glenn Edward Cuppett, 27, Md.; Gordon Ernest Kisner, 28, Oakland; Larry L. Paugh, 41, Elk Garden, W.Va.; Terry Lynn Ford, 31, Oakland; Donald Elmer Friend, 29, Md., and William Michael Helbig, 45, Md.

Helbig was also found guilty on a separate DWI offense, stemming from a November 1991, arrest by MSP. He was fined $1,050, handed a one year jail sentence, with all suspended except two months, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Deborah Ann Countryman, 26, Md., had a violation of probation against her dismissed by the presiding judge. She had been arrested for DWI in December 1992, by Maryland State Police.

GCMH To Join Fire Department's Anniversary Event

In coordination with National Hospital Week, May 8-14 and National Emergency Medical Services Week, May 15-21, Garrett County Memorial Hospital will participate in the 100th anniversary of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

At the fire department's May 15 open house, Garrett Memorial, in cooperation with the Garrett County Sheriff's office, will provide "Kinderprints" to all children three years of age and up as a free community service.

"Kinderprints are simply fingerprints that are taken and used for the identification of children," explained detective Pat Kelly of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department. "Should a child become lost or missing, it is very helpful to our office to have this type of information readily available."

In addition to finger prints, a polaroid photograph and a data sheet containing information about physical characteristics will be provided for each child. Kelly emphasized that photographs of children need to be updated at least every two years.

While there will be no charge for this service, kinderprints will be limited to the first 150 children attending the event, which will be held from 1 - 4 p.m. in the former Shaffer Ford Sales building, located in downtown Oakland between the American Trust Bank drive-through and the fire hall.

According to Kelly, "over 1,000,000 children nationwide are annually reported as missing with approximately 50,000 remaining unaccounted for. Even though the county is rural and has a low crime rate, children can still be easily abducted by strangers."

Kelly offers the following precautions that parents should discuss with children to discourage being abducted by a stranger:

Parents and children should decide on a code word and keep it simple. If a stranger says he is a relative and does not use the code word, the child is absolutely not to go with him. Parents should not hesitate to change the code word if they think the child has revealed the word to someone else. Teach children to dial 911 in the event of an emergency and to not be afraid to use it. Children should be taught to run if they think a stranger is going to grab them. If children are carrying any items with them, such as a book bag or purse, they should drop them and run. When children are home alone and a stranger calls, parents should instruct children to say the parents can't come to the phone right now. Children should never tell the caller that their parents are not at home.

"Garrett Memorial is pleased to be able to work in conjunction with the sheriff's office to show our support for National Hospital Week, National Emergency Services Week and the fire department by providing kinderprints, a most valuable service that will allow parents to be prepared by maintaining accurate, up-to-date information about their children," said hospital president, Benjamin Rosenthal, hospital president.

Persons desiring more information about kinderprints may call (301) 334-2155, ext. 409.

Cumberland Man Charged By DNR

A Cumberland man was arrested for DWI (driving while intoxicated) by Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Ranger John Frank at New Germany State Park last week.

Milton R. Lease Jr., 42, was charged with the violation after Frank observed the defendant's vehicle parked in the southbound lane of Savage River Road with its high beams on. When the officer made contact with the driver, he reportedly detected a strong odor of alcohol. He also spotted a passenger outside the vehicle who was holding an alcoholic beverage. Frank also noticed a number of empty alcohol containers in the vehicle as well as an ice chest filled with beer.

Lease apparently failed the initial field sobriety test and was arrested. In addition to DWI, the defendant was cited for consumption of an alcoholic beverage while driving on a highway, and failure to dim headlights on a parked vehicle.

The defendant was released on his own recognizance, according to the DNR report.

Forestry Board Meets; Discusses Tree Planting

The Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board met recently to discuss the Arbor Day tree planting at the Blakeslee subdivision and the tour of the USDA Fernow Experimental Forest the group had sponsored.

A sugar maple, which is the Garrett County tree, was planted at the Blakeslee subdivision in recognition of its service to the 1993 Forestry, Conservation, and Natural Resources program held at Camp Hickory last year. The two Garrett County students who attended last year's program, Sarah Bosley, Friendsville, and Danny McKenzie, Finzel, took part in the planting, along with representatives from the Garrett County Commissioners, the Blakeslee developers, and members of the Garrett County Forestry Board.

The tour of the Fernow Experimental Forest, sponsored by the Garrett board for eight teachers and eight students in the county's secondary education was a great success. The students and teachers found the tour to be both informative and enjoyable. The board discussed the feasibility of sponsoring a similar tour next year.

The Garrett board members also reviewed the applications that had been received for the 1994 Forestry, Conservation, and Natural Resources week, scheduled to be held July 24-21, at Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center near Accident. The purpose of the program is to provide high school students interested in pursuing a career in a conservation-related field, some insights into the careers available. Two students from each county in Maryland will be selected by the local forestry boards to attend the program.

The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards is sponsoring a one-day seminar in Annapolis on May 11, titled "An Ecosystem Approach to Forest Management". Several Garrett County board members expressed interest in attending this seminar.

STUDENTS RAISE $6,000 - Nearly 190 students at Broad Ford Elementary School recently participated in the St. Jude Children's Hospital Math-A-Thon, an effort that raised over $6,000 that will be used by St. Jude's for research and treatment of childhood diseases. Students who raised at least $30 received a Math-A-Thon t-shirt, while those who raised at least $75 were also awarded a sports bag.

GCFT DONATES BOOKS - The Garrett County Federation of Teachers recently donated several copies of the booklet Helping Your Children Learn to Read to the Ruth Enlow Library. Shown here presenting the booklets is President Joe Heatherman and accepting is library Director Emily Ferren. Helping Your Child Learn to Read is co-published by the American Federation of Teachers and the U.S. Department of Education. It lists specific activities that parents can do with their children from infancy through age 10 and offers suggestions for evaluating a child's progress.

A SAMPLING OF WOODEN DOLLS AND POTTERY can also be seen at the current Ruth Enlow Library exhibit. ELEE Bookout operates Bear Creek Pottery in Accident and her work consists primarily of wheel-thrown functional porcelain containers that are fired to Cone 10 (2381°) in an oxidation atmosphere. She uses original slips in the decorating process and has developed a wide variety of her own glazes to enhance the forms. A professional potter who has worked in clay for 43 years, Bookout received her bachelor of arts degree in art education at the University of Maryland in 1954 and her master of fine arts in ceramics from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan in 1957. Her exhibition experience includes the Smithsonian International, the Chicago Art Institute, the Detroit Museum, and many galleries in the Washington, D.C., area. Charles and Donna Jennings Garman own and operate the Adonna Doll Company at No.7 Dolling Court in Deer Park, and their specialty items include Noah's arks, Kachinas, marionettes, artists' production editions, reproductions in porcelain, Peg woodens, cloth dolls, bears, doll furniture, wood toys, and hand-sculpted on wood originals. The couple also offers the services of dressing and musee-approved restoration. Donna Jennings Garman started making dolls before majoring in art at Youngstown State University. In 1976, she began to dress dolls from the 1870's in historically accurate clothes for an antique doll dealer. Eventually, porcelain doll-making began including original works as well as master mold-making. Charles Garman, Sr., has over 40 years building experience. At one time a master carpenter on ships in Baltimore and, more recently, as a stone mason in Garrett County where he moved in 1988 with his wife, Donna, and four of their seven children. At present, his talents have moved to creating wood dolls, Noah's arks, and doll furniture.

THROUGH HER COLLAGE WORK, Sonia Pratt defines the mountain agrarian and coal mining culture of Appalachia where her ancestors have lived for generations. Using an assemblage technique of indigenous and traditional feminine materials, she emphasizes the spiritual, mystical, and familial, rather than the stereotypical images of the culture. Pratt graduated from Fairmont State College with a bachelor of arts degree in art education, and is employed as an art teacher at Southern High School. She has also completed graduate work in painting at West Virginia University and the University of Arizona extension at Guadalajara, Mexico. She maintains her studio, No. 7 Herrington House on Herrington Manor Road, Oakland.

Summit Studios Art Guild Works On Display; Reception Scheduled

Shown is a sampling of the works now on display at the Ruth Enlow Library throughout the month of May by members of the Summit Studios fine art guild in Garrett County. A reception will be held there for the artists on Monday, May 16, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. The member artists also cordially invite the public to tour their home studios and show rooms to "enjoy the creative diversity and truly unique offerings of art available in Garrett County," said member Ken Bauer. Bauer also stated that Summit Studios is "not a place, but a concept. We are a group of six artists who each have our own studios open to the public so they may look at, buy, and talk about the art, the process we go through to create it, and to see work in progress. Hopefully, this will develop understanding of and appreciation for what our different art forms are about." He especially encourages local students to take advantage of the opportunity to visit the artists at work. Although each individual studio features the work of the resident artist, samples of the other artists' works are also on display at each studio.

HARDWOOD SCULPTURE is the specialty of Grantsville-based artist Dennis Ruane, who employs both traditional and contemporary design in his work. With ideas drawn from many sources, Ruane continually experiments with new techniques and different subjects. He was affiliated with Spruce Forest Artisan Village for five years, and has been actively working in wood sculpture for 12 years. He currently operates his own studio at the Fuller-Baker log house in Grantsville.

SOPHIA MCDONALD specializes in realistic oil paintings depicting the natural beauty of the county and its wildlife. McDonald has been a resident artist in Garrett County for the past 17 years. Currently, she has paintings exhibited in six states and in Canada. She holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Maryland Institute of Art, and is a member of the Garrett County Arts Council. McDonald operates her own studio in Oakland, called Candle Light Art Studio.

KEN BAUER works out of his Lake Ford Studio on the Cranesville Road in Garrett County near the Cranesville Swamp. Having studied art at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, Bauer has been drawing and producing art work since 1974. Since 1988, he has concentrated on pencil drawings of birds, wildflowers, landscapes, and other subjects from nature. Using a variety of graphite pencils, he composes his original drawings on 100 percent fiber, watercolor paper. One of his drawings was a Maryland Duck Stamp finalist, and several of his earlier works appeared in a cook-book published by the national Wildlife Federation. "Hidden Treasure" (red-winged blackbird) was purchased by the Ward Foundation Museum, which produced a limited edition of 700 signed and numbered prints. Bauer's work is also represented by galleries in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and North Carolina.

Board Approves

Ryscavage said the most significant increase in the budget is in the capital outlay category, where approximately $1,193,000 is allotted. This represents an almost $821,000 increase in funds for capital projects over the funds budgeted this current year. The three projects which most contribute to this need are classroom additions at Northern High School, a second locker room renovation at Southern High School, and architectural fees for the design of a new southern area elementary school.

In the case of the classroom additions at Northern High School, Ryscavage explained that the state will be contributing $127,000 to the local funds requested (approximately $625,000) in order to construct much needed classrooms to house mathematics, computer education, and applied science programs. The Southern High School locker room project will provide a renovated locker room for girls at the school to match the locker room renovated for boys this year.

In the case of the southern area elementary school, a local site selection committee is in the process of reviewing possible locations for this project, but funds are not being requested to purchase a site until the committee is closer to a final recommendation. Once the area is selected, an architect will have to begin design work if plans are to continue on track for a new school in September 1996.

The superintedent said that because of the requirements surrounding the use of state transportation and state basic aid APEX funds, the education board's request to the commissioners for this coming year will be largely for transportation and capital outlay projects. In the case of transportation, the board will ask local government to fund 30% ($742,500) of the pupil transportation budget. This action was brought about after the board members learning that Garrett County is the only jurisdiction in the state that does not request local government to support - at least partially - pupil transportation. In taking this action, the local board could free up a like amount of state APEX funds to help pay for increased instructional costs.

With the exception of the state funding for the Northern High School addition - which is not included in the $1,193,000 budget request for capital outlay - all increased capital outlay costs will have to come from local funds, Ryscavage said. This approximate $821,000 amount, coupled with the $742,500 amount for transportation, makes up the bulk of the new $1,697,835 to be requested of the Garrett County Commissioners. The remainder of the amount requested will be used to pay for the portion of nurse costs not paid for from categorical funds, maintenance projects, and other costs.

The proposed budget was approved by the board by a three-to-one vote, with board members Mikal McCartney, Beverly Murphy, and Hannah Sincell voting in favor and Charlotte Sebold against. Bryan Paugh was unable to attend the meeting.

The education board will meet in public session at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday, May 10, to discuss any final adjustments to the proposal. The board will then make its formal request to the commissioners at 1 p.m. in the commissioners' meeting room. This meeting will precede the regularly scheduled meeting for the board of education, which will begin later that afternoon.

Yoder Violates

conditions of his probation.

Yoder pleaded guilty to the probation violation charge, and he was remanded to the custody of the Maryland Department of Corrections following last Thursday's proceedings.

In a separate case, a jury could not reach a unanimous decision and a mistrial was declared in a case involving a 19-year-old Friendsville woman. Kathy Jo Harding was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana, two counts of conspiracy, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The defendant asked for acquittal, but the request was denied. The jury deliberated for several hours without reaching a verdict, and a mistrial was declared. Bail was continued for the defendant, and the prosecution now has the right to pursue a second trial.

The charges against Harding arose following the execution of a search and seizure warrant at a Friendsville residence where she was apparently residing. Found in the home was 100 grams of marijuana and three gram scales, according to the report. Other defendants were also involved in the case.

LEARNING TO SAVE LIVES - Garrett County Memorial Hospital took part in "CPR Across Maryland" on April 16, joining 3,771 people at 27 sites across the state where participants learned to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and first aid for choking. The event was sponsored by Prince George's County, University of Maryland Medical Center's R. Adams Cowley Shock Trauma Center, HealthPlus, Maryland Institute of Emergency Services, Laerdal, and the American Heart Association. The event was held locally at the hospital's Community Services Center. Instructors for the local session were Laurie Grant, Beth Newcomb, and Linda Nazelrod, all of the hospital, and Jarlath Fitzwater-Hight and Jeanne Thayer of the Garrett County Health Department. "People spend about 80% of their time around family, friends, and co-workers," said Steve Ager, state event coordinator. "Should any of these people require CPR, the person with proper training will be able to respond and help save a life, feeling at ease while rendering this service." Linda Nazelrod is pictured above as she demonstrates the proper CPR techniques, and Jarlath Fitzwater-Hight is shown at right (kneeling) as she teaches class members how to check for a pulse.

Landfill

ate the landfill. We will, however, play a major role and watch the operation closely for the first few years."

Perdikakis stressed that the operation of a landfill is "not an easy task -- a landfill is not just a dump anymore."

Also on hand for the press conference was Ron Nelson, deputy secretary of the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), who told the group, "It's hard to appreciate how complex these facilities are," and noted that MDE regulates the facility regardless of who operates it.

"Those regulations are stringent," he said. "They come from the federal, as well as the state, level and the whole concept of the regulations is based on protection of the groundwater from leachates. We understand that it is difficult for a county like this (where there is lots of open space) to wonder why you can't just dig a hole in the ground in some out-of-the-way place."

However, said Nelson, local jurisdictions are bound by "lots of prohibitions" on what may be deposited at the landfill.

"Controls will be placed on each and every person and on each and every load coming in or going out of the landfill area," he continued, noting also that everything would be weighed and checked for hazardous materials before being allowed into the facility. He also said that MDE would "continuously monitor" the level of groundwater contamination via a computer modem set up at the county landfill site.

Glotfelty will supervise the day-to-day operation of the facility. He has earned a master's degree in public health from Johns Hopkins University, with a major emphasis on environmental health and engineering. He has also been certified as a manager of landfill operations by the Solid Waste Association of North America.

Glotfelty reported that, according to an MES survey, anywhere from 20-30% of the waste going into the satellite sites located throughout the county comes from out-of-county sources.

"That's why we have to fence in the sites," he said, explaining that the county will save a significant amount of money by not accepting out-of-county or hazardous waste that then has to be hauled to another site miles away.

"Each cubic yard of waste is extremely valuable," he added.

Nelson then explained just how costly out-of-county waste can be for the local jurisdiction, noting that if 20-30% if the county's budget for operating the landfill facility is around $350,000, 25% of that total amounts to about $85,000. After all the other costs of disposal are factored in, "the cost soon becomes astronomical," he said.

Perdikakis reinforced that fact, saying that, because each acre of land used for the landfill and all of its ancillary facilities costs between $300,000 and $500,000 to operate annually, "this precious land needs to be protected."

Perdikakis then commended Glotfelty and the county commissioners for their involvement in the development of the "state-of-the-art" landfill facility that was designed to meet current, as well as future, regulations.

Glotfelty then thanked both Perdikakis and Nelson for their direction and assistance with the landfill project.

Referring to MES, he said, "They have been a great asset to the county, not only in obtaining the financial resources for the overall project, but also in permitting and engineering the new facility. They have also provided inspection services while the facility was undergoing construction. . . . The fact that the cost of MES's services will eventually be 50% less for the county as opposed to third party operation of the facility also factored into the commissioners' decision."

The $6 million project includes the closing out of the old Round Glade Landfill.

ROTARY THANKS LEGION AUXILIARY - The Oakland Rotary Club, which has been meeting for many years at Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, recently moved its meeting location to Cornish Manor, but not before recognizing the women of the American Legion Auxiliary who have been the hosts of the club members. Above, Rotary President Tom Browning presents a cash gift to Freda Austin, of the Auxiliary. Also pictured, from left, are Shirley Stem, Phyllis Pacheco, Ruth Teets, Lucille Marsh, and Jane Lawton. VICA WEEK OBSERVED - The Garrett County Commissioners have proclaimed that the week of May 1-7 be observed as Garrett County VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) Week. Organized by John Fitzwater in the late 1960's at Southern High School and by Tony Talerico in 1989 at Northern High School, the program is open to any student enrolled in any career and technology class. The purpose of the club is to "encourage young adults to become a member of a group that functions within a teamwork for preparing them for their chosen occupation after schooling is completed," according to the proclamation. A national and international program, students gather annually at a national convention for a conference and skills competition. The commissioners honored the many county students who brought home various place honors and awards. Shown above, in the first row, left to right, are George Thomas, Jason Savage, Tim Durst, Marlene Weimer, and Commissioners Brenda J. Butscher and John G. Braskey. Second row, same order, are Tom Upole, Randy Sharpless, Mike Purdy, Christy Stoner, Janet DeWitt, Maria Tasker, and Commissioner Elwood L. Groves. In the third row are Leslie Miller, Joyce Thomas, Nanette Stahl, Morgan Davis, and Tara Crossland, and in the fourth row are Larry Hardesty, Sonny Livengood, Jeremy Rohrbaugh, Heather Melton, and Terry Friend. Not present at the time the photo was taken was John Leuba.

MORE SMOKE SCREENS: After years of telling us cigarettes were not addictive (wrong!), and that they never added nicotine to cigarette tobacco (research indicates otherwise), and that secondhand or passive smoking can't hurt anyone (very, very wrong) tobacco companies are now facing two more disclosures that weaken their already battered "we ain't done nothin' wrong" image.

Under the law, although companies have to submit the list of their products' ingredients to the government, the government is required to keep those ingredients secret (in most cases) to protect the products' patents. Researchers have discovered that several of those ingredients listed by the tobacco companies are dangerous. Make that very, very dangerous.

In the second instance, researchers believe they have found the answer to why black Americans who smoke are more likely to suffer from lung cancer than any other group. Apparently, they lack the capability of detoxifying a substance in tobacco which is more easily handled by members of other groups. As if that weren't bad enough, the tobacco companies have been shown (although they deny it) to target blacks in their advertising.

Ethnic groups also show varied responses to medications, according to the Academy of General Dentistry. For example, giving Hispanic patients pain medication as per manufacturers' recommended dosages may cause unpleasant side effects, such as queasiness and sweating. People of Asian ancestry also tend to react differently from Caucasians to tranquilizers, so they, too, may need smaller doses. Allergies to antibiotics tend to show up more in red-haired youngsters. African-American patients must advise their dentists or physicians if they have the sickle-cell trait, which could cause toxic side effects to certain drugs.

The National Pharmaceutical Council advises that these findings have led pharmaceutical companies to include people of minority groups in more of their clinical trials to learn how the drugs affect them. However, while it's been established that women, regardless of background, react differently to pain medication from men, women are still not fully included in clinical trials.

Home Tips

GINGER TO THE RESCUE — I suffer from motion sickness and find that ginger helps. After all, ginger ale is famous for settling upset stomachs.

I keep an airtight container of candied ginger in my car to nibble on when things get rough. Just a little bit goes a long way! Barbara W., Minneapolis, Minn.

POTPOURRI — This is something I found out quite by accident. I broke the potpourri glass bowl in my bathroom. I swept it up and temporarily put it in my small bathroom wastebasket. Then I continued cleaning. When I went back to empty the wastebasket, the bathroom smelled great. Now I sprinkle some potpourri in the bottom of the wastebasket and put one of the plastic grocery bags in it. The fragrance lasts for quite a while. Marge H., Orlando, Fla.

PROPER SEQUENCE — The best cleaning tip I got from my mother was to do the dusting before I vacuumed. That way everything that was brushed off a surface was picked up by the vacuum cleaner. Patty K., New Ulm, Minn.

ANT-PROOF — I had a huge problem with ants getting into my bird feeders, which are mounted on an upright pole from my deck rail. I wrapped the poles with a few inches of fly paper. I no longer have the problem with ants.

POPPET POTTERY POPPING UP IN PRICE

Collectors are rediscovering American ceramics of the 1950s, '60s and '70s. One of the companies that has attracted interest is Metlox Potteries.

Willis Prouty had a company that made tiles from California clay. He sold it in 1926 and a year later, started Metlox, a factory to make outdoor ceramic signs using neon tubes. By 1932, the demand for signs was low, so the company began to make a colorful line of Metlox dishes called California Pottery. In 1936, Metlox began to use Poppytail as a trade name. The firm made many different types of kitchenware and dinnerware, vases, bookends, figurines and other giftware.

Metlox converted to defense work during World War II, but was back in business with dinnerware soon after the war ended. Dozens of different dinnerware patterns were made, including California Provincial, Red Rooster, Navajo, California Free Form and California Contempora, all popular with collectors today. The company continues to make distinctive vases and dinner sets.

In the 1960s, an unusual group of stoneware flower holders, figurines and planters was designed. These figures in earthtone colors pictured whimsical girls with head scarves and full-skirted dresses and chubby boys, modeled in the manner of '60s artists. Each is marked Poppet by Poppytail and has the name of the figurines — Louisa, Mike, Tina, Nelly or Sam. These and other potteries made in California since the 1930s are now going up in price as the collectors discover them.

Q. I have a Tom Mix ring that is about 55 years old. It has a small hole on one side, and if you hold the ring to the light and look in the hole, you can see a picture of Tom Mix and his horse, Tony. Is this a collectible? What is it worth?

A. Tom Mix was a cowboy hero who appeared in silent films from 1910 to 1929 and in sound movies from 1929 to 1935. The Tom Mix radio show, sponsored by Ralston Purma cereal, was on the air from 1933 to 1950. The original Tom Mix was not on the show, however.

Many special premiums were offered by the radio program. The Mystery Ring, which you have, was included in the 1939 premium catalog. It cost 10 cents and a Ralston Purina box top. The ad said, "See Tom and Tony magnified 100 times." The ring sells for about $50 today.

Senior Service Line
by Matilda Charles

CAN SENIORS SCARE POLITICIANS? To listen to the way some people talk, and read the things some people write, you'd think every politician, from Washington, D.C. down to Washington Township in New Jersey, quake at the thought of seniors rising up to wield their perceived political power.

That view of the America's elder citizenry may not be completely accurate at this time. However, as the population ages, senior power will definitely grow stronger.

But do older folks necessarily vote in a bloc, and will that tendency increase over time?

The answer is as simple as a comment often quoted by politicos, to wit: All politics is local. To which I might add another oft-quoted statement: All politics turns on the pocketbook.

In other words, expect seniors to vote on issues they feel makes an especially important impact on their lives. These include Social Security issues, Medicare, Medicaid, health care reform, Social Security pension changes (can seniors work while collecting benefits?), etc.

Seniors are also interested in the economy, generally. How the country fares depends on how well it can afford to deal with seniors' issues.

Professor Steve Peterson of Alfred University in New York, and Professor Albert Somit of Southern Illinois University have studied an important survey which reveals some interesting trends. Peterson says, "Over the next few decades, we predict that the political influence of the elderly will almost certainly grow substantially. But that growth will probably be based on a misperception of their actual political behavior."

Peterson explains: "Those who are 65 and older already constitute 12 percent of the U.S. population. By 2030, the 'elderly' will constitute 21 percent of the population."

Although he stresses that numbers alone don't tell the story, it's hard to escape the obvious fact that they do contribute a lot to the telling!
